The Authors
P R E F A C E
To the following
H Y M N S.

That this Kingdom hath abounded with those ingenious persons, which in the late notion are termed Wits, is too well known. Many of them having cast away all their fair portion of time, in no better employments, then a deliberate search, or excogitation of idle words, and a most vain, insatiable desire to be reputed Poets; leaving behinde them no other Monuments of those excellent abilities conferred upon them, but such as they may (with a Predecessor of theirs) term Parricides, and a soul-killing Issue; for that is the Βραβεῖον, and Laureate Crown, which idle
10 Poems will certainly bring to their unrelenting Authors.

And well it were for them, if those willingly-studied and wilfully-published vanities could defile no spirits, but their own; but the case is far worse. These Vipers survive their Parents, and for many ages after (like Epidemic diseases) infect whole Generations, corrupting always and unhallowing the best-gifted Souls, and the most capable Vessels: for whose sanctification and well-fare, the glorious Son of God laid down his life, and suffered the pretious blood of his blessed and innocent heart to be poured out. In the mean time it cannot be denyed, but these men are 20 had in remembrance, though we cannot say with any comfort, Their memorial is blessed; for, that I may speak no more then the truth (let their passionate worshippers say what they please) all the commendations that can be justly given them, will amount to no more, then what Prudentius the Christian-sacred Poet bestowed upon Symmachus;

*Os dignum æterno tinctum quod fulgeat auro
Si mallet laudare deum: cui sordida monstra
Prætulit, & liquidam temeravit crimine vocem;
Haud aliter, quàm cum rastris qui tentat eburnis
30 Cænosum versare solum, &c. —*

Preface and texts (page 393) only in 1655.

In English thus,

A wit most worthy in tryed Gold to shine,
Immortal Gold ! had he sung the divine
Praise of his Maker : to whom he preferr'd
Obscene, vile fancies, and prophanely marr'd
A rich, rare stile with sinful, lewd contents ;
No otherwise, then if with Instruments
Of polish'd Ivory, some drudge should stir
A dirty sink, &c. —

This comparison is nothing odious, and it is as true, as it is ¹⁰ apposite ; for a good wit in a bad subject, is (as Solomon said of the fair and foolish woman) Like a jewel of gold in a swines snowt, Prov. II. 22. Nay, the more acute the Author is, there is so much the more danger and death in the work. Where the Sun is busie upon a dung-hill, the issue is always some unclean vermine. Divers persons of eminent piety and learning (I meddle not with the seditious and Schismatical) have, long before my time, taken notice of this malady ; for the complaint against vitious verse, even by peaceful and obedient spirits, is of some antiquity in this Kingdom. And yet, as if the evil consequence ²⁰ attending this inveterate error, were but a small thing, there is sprung very lately another prosperous device to assist it in the subversion of souls. Those that want the Genius of verse, fall to translating ; and the people are (every term) plentifully furnished with various Foreign vanities ; so that the most lascivious compositions of France and Italy are here naturalized and made English : And this (as it is sadly observed) with so much favor and success, that nothing takes (as they rightly phrase it) like a Romance. And very frequently (if that Character be not an Ivy-bush) the buyer receives this lewd ware from persons of honor : ³⁰ who want not reason to forbear, much private misfortune having sprung from no other seed at first, then some infectious and dissolving Legend.

To continue (after years of discretion) in this vanity, is an inexcusable desertion of pious sobriety : and to persist so to the end, is a wilful despising of Gods sacred exhortations, by a constant, sensual volutation or wallowing in impure thoughts and scurrilous conceits, which both defile their Authors, and as many more, as they are communicated to. If every idle word shall be accounted for, and if no corrupt communication should proceed out of our ⁴⁰ mouths, how desperate (I beseech you) is their condition, who all their life time, and out of meer design, study lascivious fictions :

then carefully record and publish them, that instead of grace and life, they may minister sin and death unto their readers? It was wisely considered, and piously said by one, That he would read no idle books ; both in regard of love to his own soul, and pity unto his that made them, for (said he) if I be corrupted by them, their Composer is immediatly a cause of my ill: and at the day of reckoning (though now dead) must give an account for it, because I am corrupted by his bad example, which he left behinde him: I will write none, lest I hurt them that come after me ; I will read
 10 none, lest I augment his punishment that is gone before me. I will neither write, nor read, lest I prove a foe to my own soul: while I live, I sin too much; let me not continue longer in wickedness, then I do in life. It is a sentence of sacred authority, that he that is dead, is freed from sin; because he cannot in that state, which is without the body, sin any more; but he that writes idle books, makes for himself another body, in which he always lives, and sins (after death) as fast and as foul, as ever he did in his life; which very consideration, deserves to be a sufficient Antidote against this evil disease.

20 And here, because I would prevent a just censure by my free confession, I must remember, that I my self have for many years together, languished of this very sickness; and it is no long time since I have recovered. But (blessed be God for it!) I have by his saving assistance suppress my greatest follies, and those which escaped from me, are (I think) as innocuous, as most of that vein use to be; besides, they are interlined with many virtuous, and some pious mixtures. What I speak of them, is truth; but let no man mistake it for an extenuation of faults, as if I intended an Apology for them, or my self, who am conscious
 30 of so much guilt in both, as can never be expiated without special sorrows, and that cleansing and pretious effusion of my Almighty Redeemer: and if the world will be so charitable, as to grant my request, I do here most humbly and earnestly beg that none would read them.

But an idle or sensual subject is not all the poysen in these Pamphlets. Certain Authors have been so irreverently bold, as to dash Scriptures, and the sacred Relatives of God with their impious conceits; And (which I cannot speak without grief of heart) some of those desperate adventurers may (I think) be reckoned amongst 40 the principal or most learned Writers of English verse.

Others of a later date, being corrupted (it may be) by that evil Genius, which came in with the publique distractions, have stuffed their books with Oathes, horrid Excretions, and a most gross and studied filthiness. But the hurt that ensues by the publication of pieces so notoriously ill, lies heavily upon the Stationers account, who ought in conscience to refuse them, when they are put into his hands. No loss is so doleful as that gain, that will endamage the soul; he that prints lewdness and impieties, is that mad man in the Proverbs, who casteth firebrands, arrows and death.

The suppression of this pleasing and prevailing evil, lies not altogether in the power of the Magistrate; for it will flie abroad ¹⁰ in Manuscripts, when it fails of entertainment at the press. The true remedy lies wholly in their bosoms, who are the gifted persons, by a wise exchange of vain and vitious subjects, for divine Themes and Celestial praise. The performance is easie, and were it the most difficult in the world, the reward is so glorious, that it infinitely transcends it: for they that turn many to righteousness, shall shine like the stars for ever and ever: whence follows this undenyable inference, That the corrupting of many, being a contrary work, the recompense must be so too; and then I know nothing reserved for them, but the blackness of darkness for ever; ²⁰ from which (O God!) deliver all penitent and reformed Spirits!

The first, that with any effectual success attempted a diversion of this foul and overflowing stream, was the blessed man, Mr. George Herbert, whose holy life and verse gained many pious Converts, (of whom I am the least) and gave the first check to a most flourishing and admired wit of his time. After him followed diverse,—Sed non passibus æquis; they had more of fashion, then force: And the reason of their so vast distance from him, besides differing spirits and qualifications (for his measure was eminent) I suspect to be, because they aimed more at verse, ³⁰ then perfection; as may be easily gathered by their frequent impressions, and numerous pages: Hence sprang those wide, those weak, and lean conceptions, which in the most inclinable Reader will scarce give any nourishment or help to devotion; for not flowing from a true, practick piety, it was impossible they should effect those things abroad, which they never had acquaintance with at home; being onely the productions of a common spirit, and the obvious ebullitions of that light humor, which takes the pen in hand, out of no other consideration, then to be seen in print. It is true indeed, that to give up our thoughts to pious ⁴⁰ Themes and Contemplations (if it be done for pieties sake) is a great step towards perfection; because it will refine, and dispose to devotion and sanctity. And further, it will procure for us (so easily communicable is that loving spirit) some small prelibation of those heavenly refreshments, which descend but seldom, and then very sparingly, upon men of an ordinary or indifferent holyness; but he that desires to excel in this kinde of Hagiography, or holy writing, must strive (by all means) for perfection and true holyness, that a door may be opened to him in heaven, Rev. 4. 1. and then he will be able to write (with Hierotheus and holy Herbert) A true Hymn.

- 10 To effect this in some measure, I have begged leave to communicate this my poor Talent to the Church, under the protection and conduct of her glorious Head: who (if he will vouchsafe to own it, and go along with it) can make it as useful now in the publick, as it hath been to me in private. In the perusal of it, you will (peradventure) observe some passages, whose history or reason may seem something remote; but were they brought nearer, and plainly exposed to your view, (though that (perhaps) might quiet your curiosity) yet would it not conduce much to your greater advantage. And therefore I must desire you to
- 20 accept of them in that latitude, which is already allowed them. By the last Poems in the book (were not that mistake here prevented) you would judge all to be fatherless, and the Edition posthume; for (indeed) I was nigh unto death, and am still at no great distance from it; which was the necessary reason for that solemn and accomplished dress, you will now finde this impression in.

But the God of the spirits of all flesh, hath granted me a further use of mine, then I did look for in the body; and when I expected, and had (by his assistance) prepared for a message of death, then 30 did he answer me with life; I hope to his glory, and my great advantage: that I may flourish not with leafe onely, but with some fruit also; which hope and earnest desire of his poor Creature, I humbly beseech him to perfect and fulfil for his dear Sons sake, unto whom, with him and the most holy and loving Spirit, be ascribed by Angels, by Men, and by all his Works, All Glory, and Wisdom, and Dominion, in this the temporal and in the Eternal Being. Amen.

Newton by Usk, near
Sketh-rock, Septem. 30.

O Lord, the hope of Israel, all they that forsake thee shall be ashamed ; and they that depart from thee, shall be written in the earth, because they have forsaken the Lord, the fountain of living waters.

Heal me, O Lord, and I shall be healed ; save me, and I shall be saved, for thou art my health, and my great deliverer.

I said in the cutting off of my days, I shall go to the gates of the grave ; I have deprived my self of the residue of my years.

I said, I shall not see the Lord, even the Lord in the Land of the living : I shall behold man no more with the Inhabitants of the 10 world.

O Lord ! by thee doth man live, and from thee is the life of my spirit : therefore wilt thou recover me, and make me to live.

Thou hast in love to my soul delivered it from the pit of corruption ; for thou hast cast all my sins behinde thy back.

For thy names sake hast thou put off thine anger ; for thy praise hast thou refrained from me, that I should not be cut off.

For the grave cannot praise thee, death cannot celebrate thee : they that go down into the pit, cannot hope for thy truth.

The living, the living, he shall praise thee, as I do this day : the 20 Father to the children shall make known thy truth.

O Lord ! thou hast been merciful, thou hast brought back my life from corruption : thou hast redeemed me from my sin.

They that follow after lying vanities, forsake their own mercy.

Therefore shall thy songs be with me, and my prayer unto the God of my life.

I will go unto the altar of my God, unto God, the joy of my youth ; and in thy fear will I worship towards thy holy temple.

I will sacrifice unto thee with the voice of thanksgiving ; I will pay that which I have vowed : salvation is of the Lord.

To my most merciful, my most loving, and dearly loved Redeemer, the ever blessed, the onely Holy and

Virgin Mary.

I.

My God! thou that didst dye for me,
These thy deaths fruits I offer thee;
Death that to me was life and light,
But dark and deep pangs to thy sight.
Some drops of thy all-quickning blood
Fell on my heart; those made it bud
And put forth thus, though Lord, before
The ground was curst, and void of store.
Indeed I had some here to hire
Which long resisted thy desire,
That ston'd thy servants, and did move
To have the murthred for thy love;
But Lord, I have expell'd them, and so bent,
Beg, thou wouldst take thy Tenants Rent.

II.

Dear Lord, 'tis finished! and now he
That copyed it, presents it thee.
'Twas thine first, and to thee returns,
From thee it shin'd, though here it burns;

If the Sun rise on rocks, is't right,
 To call it their inherent light? 20
 No, nor can I say, this is mine,
 For, dearest Jesus, 'tis all thine.
 As thy cloaths, (when thou with cloaths wert clad)
 Both light from thee, and virtue had,
 And now (as then within this place)
 Thou to poor rags dost still give grace.
 This is the earnest thy love sheds,
 The Candle shining on some heads,
 Till at thy charges they shall be,
 Cloath'd all with immortality. 30

My dear Redeemer, the worlds light,
 And life too, and my hearts delight!
 For all thy mercies and thy truth
 Shew'd to me in my sinful youth,
 For my sad failings and my wilde
 Murmurings at thee, when most milde :
 For all my secret faults, and each
 Frequent relapse and wilful breach,
 For all designs meant against thee,
 And ev'ry publish'd vanity 40
 Which thou divinely hast forgiven,
 While thy blood wash'd me white as heaven :
 I nothing have to give to thee,
 But this thy own gift, given to me ;
 Refuse it not ! for now thy Token
 Can tell thee where a heart is broken.

Revel. cap. i. ver. 5, 6, 7.

Unto him that loved us, and washed us from our sins in his own blood.

And hath made us Kings and Priests unto God and his Father ; to him be glory and dominion, for ever and ever. Amen.

Behold, he cometh with clouds, and every eye shall see him, and they also which pierced him ; and all kinreds of the earth shall wail because of him : even so. Amen.

Vain Wits and eyes
Leave, and be wise :
Abuse not, shun not holy fire,
But with true tears wash off your mire.
Tears and these flames will soon grow kinde,
And mix an eye-salve for the blinde.
Tears cleanse and supple without fail,
And fire will purge your callous veyl.
Then comes the light ! which when you spy,
And see your nakedness thereby,
Praise him, who dealt his gifts so free
In tears to you, in fire to me.

Regeneration.

A Ward, and still in bonds, one day
I stole abroad,
It was high-spring, and all the way
Primros'd, and hung with shade ;
Yet, was it frost within,
And surly winds
Blasted my infant buds, and sinne
Like Clouds ecclips'd my mind.

Storm'd thus ; I straight perceiv'd my spring
Meere stage, and show, 10
My walke a monstrous, mountain'd thing
Rough-cast with Rocks, and snow ;
And as a Pilgrims Eye
Far from reliefe,
Measures the melancholy skye
Then drops, and rains for grieve,

3.

So sigh'd I upwards still, at last
'Twixt steps, and falls
I reach'd the pinnacle, where plac'd
I found a paire of scales, 20
I tooke them up and layd
In th'one late paines,
The other smoake, and pleasures weigh'd
But prov'd the heavier graines ;

With that, some cryed, Away ; straight I
Obey'd, and led
Full East, a faire, fresh field could spy
Some call'd it, Jacobs Bed ;

Prophets, and friends of God.

Here, I repos'd ; but scarce well set,
A grove descried
Of stately height, whose branches met
And mixt on every side ;
I entred, and once in (Amaz'd to see't,)
Found all was chang'd, and a new spring
Did all my senses greet ;

The unthrif Sunne shot vitall gold
A thousand peeces,
And heaven its azure did unfold
Checqu'd with snowie fleeces,
The aire was all in spice
And every bush
A garland wore ; Thus fed my Eyes
But all the Eare lay hush.

Only a little Fountain lent
Some 'use for Eares,
And on the dumbe shades language spent
The Musick of her teares ;
I drew her neere, and found
The Cisterne full
Of divers stones, some bright, and round
Others ill-shap'd, and dull.

My restless Eye that still desir'd
As strange an object brought ;

It was a banke of flowers, where I descried
 (Though 'twas mid-day,) Some fast asleepe, others broad-eyed
 And taking in the Ray,
 Here musing long, I heard
 A rushing wind
 Which still increas'd, but whence it stirr'd
 No where I could not find ;

10.

I turn'd me round, and to each shade
 Dispatch'd an Eye,
 To see, if any leafe had made
 Least motion, or Reply,
 But while I listning sought
 My mind to ease
 By knowing, where 'twas, or where not,
 It whisper'd ; Where I please.

80

Lord, then said I, *On me one breath,
 And let me dye before my death !*

Cant. Cap. 5. ver. 17.

Death.

A Dialogue.

Soule. 'Tis a sad Land, that in one day
 Hath dull'd thee thus, when death shall freeze
 Thy bloud to Ice, and thou must stay
 Tenant for Yeares, and Centuries,
 How wilt thou brook't? —

Body. I cannot tell, —

But if all sence wings not with thee,
 And something still be left the dead,
 I'le wish my Curtaines off to free
 Me from so darke, and sad a bed ;
 A neast of nights, a gloomie sphere,
 Where shadowes thicken, and the Cloud
 Sits on the Suns brow all the yeare,
 And nothing moves without a shrowd ;

Soule. 'Tis so : But as thou sawest that night
 Wee travell'd in, our first attempts
 Were dull, and blind, but Custome straight
 Our feares, and falls brought to contempt,

Then, when the gastly twelve was past
 We breath'd still for a blushing East,
 And bad the lazie Sunne make hast,
 And on sure hopes, though long, did feast ;

But when we saw the Clouds to crack
 And in those Cranies light appear'd,
 We thought the day then was not slack,
 And pleas'd our selves with what wee feard ;

Just so it is in death. But thou
 Shalt in thy mothers bosome sleepe
 Whilst I each minute grone to know
 How neere Redemption creepes.

Then shall wee meet to mixe again, and met,
 'Tis last good-night, our Sunne shall never set.

Job. Cap: 10. ver. 21. 22.

Before I goe whence I shall not returne, even to the land of darknesse, and the shadow of death ;

A Land of darknesse, as darknesse it selfe, and of the shadow of death, without any order, and where the light is as darknesse.

Resurrection and Immortality :

Heb. cap. 10. ve: 20.

By that new, and living way, which he hath prepared for us, through the veile, which is his flesh.

Body.

I.

Oft have I seen, when that renewing breath
 That binds, and loosens death
 Inspir'd a quickning power through the dead
 Creatures a bed,
 Some drowsie silk-worme creepe
 From that long sleepe

And in weake, infant hummings chime, and knell
 About her silent Cell
 Untill at last full with the vitall Ray
 She wing'd away, 10
 And proud with life, and sence,
 Heav'ns rich Expence,
 Esteem'd (vaine things !) of two whole Elements
 As meane, and span-extents.
 Shall I then thinke such providence will be
 Lesse friend to me ?
 Or that he can endure to be unjust
 Who keeps his Covenant even with our dust.

Soule.

Poore, querulous handfull ! was't for this
 I taught thee all that is ? 20
 Unbowel'd nature, shew'd thee her recruits,
 And Change of suits
 And how of death we make
 A meere mistake,
 For no thing can to Nothing fall, but still Incorporates by skill,
 And then returns, and from the wombe of things
 Such treasure brings
 As Phenix-like renew'th
 Both life, and youth ; 30
 For a preserving spirit doth still passe
 Untainted through this Masse,
 Which doth resolve, produce, and ripen all
 That to it fall ;
 Nor are those births which we
 Thus suffering see
 Destroy'd at all ; But when times restles wave
 Their substance doth deprave
 And the more noble Essence finds his house
 Sickly, and loose, 40
 He, ever young, doth wing
 Unto that spring,
 And source of spirits, where he takes his lot
 Till time no more shall rot

 Like some spruce Bride,

 Then I that here saw darkly in a glasse
 But mists, and shadows passe,
 And, by their owne weake Shine, did search the springs
 And Course of things

 Peirce all their wayes ;
 And as thou saw'st, I in a thought could goe
 To heav'n, or Earth below
 To reade some Starre, or Min'rall, and in State
 There often sate,
 So shalt thou then with me
 (Both wing'd, and free,)
 Rove in that mighty, and eternall light
 Where no rude shade, or night
 Shall dare approach us ; we shall there no more
 Watch stars, or pore
 Through melancholly clouds, and say
Would it were Day !
 One everlasting Saboth there shall runne
 Without Succession, and without a Sunne.

Day of Judgement.

When through the North a fire shall rush
 And rowle into the East,
 And like a fire torrent brush
 And sweepe up South, and West,
 When all shall streame, and lighten round
 And with surprizing flames
 Both stars, and Elements confound
 And quite blot out their names,

When thou shalt spend thy sacred store
 Of thunders in that heate 10
 And low as ere they lay before
 Thy six-dayes-buildings beate,
 When like a scrowle the heavens shal passe
 And vanish cleane away,
 And nought must stand of that vast space
 Which held up night, and day,
 When one lowd blast shall rend the deepe,
 And from the wombe of earth
 Summon up all that are asleepe 20
 Unto a second birth,
 When thou shalt make the Clouds thy seate,
 And in the open aire
 The Quick, and dead, both small and great
 Must to thy barre repaire ;
 O then it wilbe all too late
 To say, What shall I doe ?
Repentance there is out of date
 And so is mercy too ;
 Prepare, prepare me then, O God !
 And let me now begin 30
 To feele my loving fathers Rod
 Killing the man of sinne !
 Give me, O give me Crosses here,
 Still more afflictions lend,
 That pill, though bitter, is most deare
 That brings health in the end ;
 Lord, God ! I beg nor friends, nor wealth
 But pray against them both ;
 Three things I'de have, my soules chief health !
 And one of these seme loath, 40
 A living FAITH, a HEART of flesh,
 The WORLD an Enemie,
 This last will keepe the first two fresh,
 And bring me, where I'de be.

Religion.

My God, when I walke in those groves,
And leaves thy spirit doth still fan,
I see in each shade that there growes
An Angell talking with a man.

Under a Juniper, some house,
Or the coole Mirtles canopie,
Others beneath an Oakes greene boughs,
Or at some fountaines bubling Eye ;

Here Jacob dreames, and wrestles ; there
Elias by a Raven is fed,
Another time by th' Angell, where
He brings him water with his bread ;

In Abrhams Tent the winged guests
(O how familiar then was heaven !)
Eate, drinke, discourse, sit downe, and rest
Untill the Coole, and shady Even ;

Nay thou thy selfe, my God, in fire,
Whirle-winds, and Clouds, and the soft voice
Speak'st there so much, that I admire
We have no Confrence in these daies ;

Is the truce broke ? or 'cause we have
A mediatour now with thee,
Doeest thou therefore old Treaties wave
And by appeales from him decree ?

Or is't so, as some green heads say
That now all miracles must cease ?
Though thou hast promis'd they should stay
The tokens of the Church, and peace ;

No, no ; Religion is a Spring
That from some secret, golden Mine
Derives her birth, and thence doth bring Cordials in every drop, and Wine ;

30

But in her long, and hidden Course
Passing through the Earths darke veines,
Growes still from better unto worse,
And both her taste, and colour staines,

Then drilling on, learns to encrease
False Ecchoes, and Confused sounds,
And unawares doth often seize
On veines of Sulphur under ground ; 40
So poison'd, breaks forth in some Clime,
And at first sight doth many please,
But drunk, is puddle, or meere slime
And 'stead of Phisick, a disease ;
Just such a tainted sink we have
Like that Samaritans dead Well,
Nor must we for the Kernell crave
Because most voices like the shell.

Heale then these waters, Lord ; or bring thy flock,
Since these are troubled, to the springing rock, 50
Looke downe great Master of the feast ; O shine,
And turn once more our Water into Wine !

Cant. cap. 4. ver. 12.

My sister, my spouse is as a garden Inclosed, as a Spring shut up, and a fountain sealed up.

The Search.

'Tis now cleare day : I see a Rose
Bud in the bright East, and disclose
The Pilgrim-Sunne ; all night have I
Spent in a roving Extasie
To find my Saviour ; I have been
As far as Bethlem, and have seen
His Inne, and Cradle ; Being there
I met the Wise-men, askt them where
He might be found, or what starre can
Now point him out, grown up a Man ? 10
To Egypt hence I fled, ran o're
All her parcht bosome to Nile's shore
Her yearly nurse ; came back, enquir'd
Amongst the Doctors, and desir'd
To see the Temple, but was shown
A little dust, and for the Town
A heap of ashes, where some sed
A small bright sparkle was a bed,
Which would one day (beneath the pole,)
Awake, and then refine the whole. 20

Tyr'd here, I come to Sychar; thence
 To Jacobs wel, bequeathed since Unto his sonnes, (where often they
 In those calme, golden Evenings lay
 Watring their flocks, and having spent
 Those white dayes, drove home to the Tent
 Their well-fleec'd traine;) And here (O fate!)
 I sit, where once my Saviour sate;
 The angry Spring in bubbles swell'd
 Which broke in sighes still, as they fill'd,
 And whisper'd, Jesus had been there
 But Jacobs children would not heare.
 Loath hence to part, at last I rise
 But with the fountain in my Eyes,
 And here a fresh search is decreed
 He must be found, where he did bleed;
 I walke the garden, and there see
Idæa's of his Agonie,
 And moving anguishments that set
 His blest face in a bloody sweat;
 I climb'd the Hill, perus'd the Crosse
 Hung with my gaine, and his great losse,
 Never did tree beare fruit like this,
Balsam of Soules, the bodyes blisse;
 But, O his grave! where I saw lent
 (For he had none,) a Monument,
 An undefil'd, and new-heav'd one,
 But there was not the Corner-stone;
 Sure (then said I,) my Quest is vaine,
 Hee'le not be found, where he was slaine,
 So mild a Lamb can never be
 'Midst so much blood, and Crueltie;
 I'le to the Wilderness, and can
 Find beasts more mercifull then man,
 He liv'd there safe, 'twas his retreat
 From the fierce Jew, and Herods heat,
 And forty dayes withstood the fell,
 And high temptations of hell;
 With Seraphins there talked he
 His fathers flaming ministrie,
 He heav'nd their walks, and with his eyes
 Made those wild shades a Paradise,

Thus was the desert sanctified
To be the refuge of his bride ;
I'le thither then ; see, It is day,
The Sun's broke through to guide my way.

But as I urg'd thus, and writ down
What pleasures should my Journey crown,
What silent paths, what shades, and Cells,
Faire, virgin-flowers, and hallow'd Wells
I should rove in, and rest my head
Where my deare Lord did often tread,
Sugring all dangers with successe,
Me thought I heard one singing thus ;

Isaacs Marriage.

Gen. cap. 24. ver. 63.

And Isaac went out to pray in the field at the Even-tide, and he lift up his eyes, and saw, and behold, the Camels were coming.

Praying! and to be married? It was rare,
 But now 'tis monstrous; and that pious care
 Though of our selves, is so much out of date,
 That to renew't were to degenerate.
 But thou a Chosen sacrifice wert given,
 And offer'd up so early unto heaven
 Thy flames could not be out; Religion was
 Ray'd into thee, like beams into a glasse,
 Where, as thou grewst, it multipli'd and shin'd
 The sacred Constellation of thy mind. 10
 But being for a bride, prayer was such
 A decay'd course, sure it prevail'd not much.
 Had'st ne'r an oath, nor Complement? thou wert
 An odde dull sutor; Hadst thou but the art
 Of these our dayes, thou couldst have coyn'd thee twenty
 New sev'ral oathes, and Complements (too) plenty;
 O sad, and wilde excesse! and happy those
 White dayes, that durst no impious mirth expose!
 When Conscience by lew'd use had not lost sense,
 Nor bold-fac'd custome banish'd Innocence; 20
 Thou hadst no pompous train, nor Antick crowd
 Of young, gay swearers, with their needlesse, lowd
 Retinue; All was here smooth as thy bride
 And calm like her, or that mild Evening-tide;
 Yet, hadst thou nobler guests: Angels did wind
 And rove about thee, guardians of thy minde,
 These fetch'd thee home thy bride, and all the way
 Advis'd thy servant what to do, and say;
 These taught him at the well, and thither brought
 The Chast, and lovely object of thy thought; 30

But here was ne'r a Complement, not one
 Spruce, supple cringe, or study'd look put on,
 All was plain, modest truth : Nor did she come
 In rowles and Curles, mincing and stately dumb,
 But in a Virgins native blush and fears
 Fresh as those roses, which the day-spring wears.
 O sweet, divine simplicity ! O grace
 Beyond a Curled lock, or painted face !
 A Pitcher too she had, nor thought it much
 To carry that, which some would scorn to touch ;
 With which in mild, chaste language she did woo
 To draw him drink, and for his Camels too.

And now thou knewest her coming, It was time
 To get thee wings on, and devoutly climbe
 Unto thy God, for Marriage of all states
 Makes most unhappy, or most fortunates ;
 This brought thee forth, where now thou didst undress
 Thy soul, and with new pinions refresh
 Her wearied wings, which so restor'd did flye
 Above the stars, a track unknown, and high,
 And in her piercing flight perfum'd the ayer
 Scatt'ring the Myrrhe, and incense of thy pray'r.
 So from * Lahai-roi's Well some spicie cloud
 Woo'd by the Sun swels up to be his shrowd,
 And from his moist wombe weeps a fragrant showre,
 Which, scatter'd in a thousand pearls, each flowre
 And herb partakes, where having stood awhile
 And something coold the parch'd, and thirstie Isle,
 The thankful Earth unlocks her self, and blends,
 A thousand odours, which (all mixt,) she sends
 Up in one cloud, and so returns the skies
 That dew they lent, a breathing sacrifice.

 But still thou doest out-goe me, I can see
 Met in thy flames, all acts of piety ; 19
 Thy light, is Charity ; Thy heat, is Zeale ;
 And thy aspiring, active fires reveale
Devotion still on wing ; Then, thou dost weepe
 Still as thou burn'st, and the warme droppings creepe
 To measure out thy length, as if thou'dst know
 What stock, and how much time were left thee now ;
 Nor dost thou spend one teare in vain, for still
 As thou dissolv'st to them, and they distill,
 They're stor'd up in the socket, where they lye,
 When all is spent, thy last, and sure supply, 20
 And such is true repentance, ev'ry breath
 Wee spend in sighes, is treasure after death ;
 Only, one point escapes thee ; That thy Oile
 Is still out with thy flame, and so both faile ;
 But whensoever I'm out, both shalbe in,
 And where thou mad'st an end, there I'll begin.

Mark Cap. 13. ver. 35.

Watch you therefore, for you know not when the master of the house commeth, at Even, or at mid-night, or at the Cock-crowing, or in the morning.

Mans fall, and Recovery.

Farewell you Everlasting hills ! I'm Cast
 Here under Clouds, where stormes, and tempests blast
 This sully'd flowre
 Rob'd of your Calme, nor can I ever make Transplanted thus, one leafe of his t'awake,
 But ev'ry houre
 He sleepes, and droops, and in this drowsie state
 Leaves me a slave to passions, and my fate ;
 Besides I've lost
 A traine of lights, which in those Sun-shine dayes 10
 Were my sure guides, and only with me stayes
 (Unto my cost,)

One sullen beame, whose charge is to dispense
 More punishment, than knowledge to my sense ;
 Two thousand yeares
 I sojourn'd thus ; at last *Jeshurun*s king
 Those famous tables did from Sinai bring ;
 These swell'd my feares,
 Guilts, trespasses, and all this Inward Awe,
 For sinne tooke strength, and vigour from the Law. 20
 Yet have I found
 A plenteous way, (thanks to that holy one !)
 To cancell all that e're was writ in stone,
 His saving wound
 Wept bloud, that broke this Adamant, and gave
 To sinners Confidence, life to the grave ;
 This makes me span
 My fathers journeys, and in one faire step
 O're all their pilgrimage, and labours leap,
 For God (made man,) 30
 Reduc'd th'Extent of works of faith ; so made
 Of their Red Sea, a Spring ; I wash, they wade.

Rom. Cap. 18. ver. 19.

As by the offence of one, the fault came on all men to condemnation ; So by the Righteousness of one, the benefit abounded towards all men to the justification of life.

The Showre.

'Twas so, I saw thy birth : That drowsie Lake
 From her faint bosome breath'd thee, the disease
 Of her sick waters, and Infectious Ease.
 But, now at Even
 Too grosse for heaven,
 Thou fall'st in teares, and weep'st for thy mistake.

Ah ! it is so with me ; oft have I prest
 Heaven with a lazie breath, but fruitles this Peirc'd not ; Love only can with quick accesse
 Unlock the way, 10
 When all else stray
 The smoke, and Exhalations of the brest.

3.

Yet, if as thou doest melt, and with thy traine
Of drops make soft the Earth, my eyes could weep
O're my hard heart, that's bound up, and asleep,

Perhaps at last

(Some such showres past,)

My God would give a Sun-shine after raine.

Distraction.

O knit me, that am crumbled dust ! the heape

Is all dispers'd, and cheape ;

Give for a handfull, but a thought

And it is bought ;

Hadst thou

Made me a starre, a pearle, or a rain-bow,

The beames I then had shot

My light had lessend not,

But now

I find my selfe the lesse, the more I grow ;

10

Is full of voices ; Man is call'd, and hurl'd

By each, he answers all,

Knows ev'ry note, and call,

Hence, still

Fresh dotage tempts, or old usurps his will.

Yet, hadst thou clipt my wings, when Coffin'd in

This quicken'd masse of sinne,

And saved that light, which freely thou

Didst then bestow,

I feare

I should have spurn'd, and said thou didst forbear ;

Or that thy store was lesse,

But now since thou didst blesse

So much,

I grieve, my God ! that thou hast made me such.

I grieve ?

O, yes ! thou know'st I doe ; Come, and relieve

And tame, and keepe downe with thy light

Dust that would rise, and dimme my sight,

30

Lest left alone too long

Amidst the noise, and throng,

Oppressed I

Striving to save the whole, by parcells dye.

The Pursuite.

Lord ! what a busie, restles thing
 Hast thou made man ?
 Each day, and houre he is on wing,
 Rests not a span ;
 Then having lost the Sunne, and light
 By clouds surpriz'd
 He keepes a Commerce in the night
 With aire disguis'd ;
 Hadst thou given to this active dust
 A state untir'd,
 The lost Sonne had not left the huske
 Nor home desir'd ;
 That was thy secret, and it is
 Thy mercy too,
 For when all failes to bring to blisse,
 Then, this must doe.
 Ah ! Lord ! and what a Purchase will that be
 To take us sick, that sound would not take thee ?

Mount of Olives.

Sweete, sacred hill ! on whose fair brow
 My Saviour sate, shall I allow
 Language to love
 And Idolize some shade, or grove,
 Neglecting thee ? such ill-plac'd wit,
 Conceit, or call it what you please
 Is the braines fit,
 And meere disease ;

2.

Cotswold, and Coopers both have met
 With learned swaines, and Eccho yet
 Their pipes, and wit ;
 But thou sleep'st in a deepe neglect
 Untouch'd by any ; And what need
 The sheep bleat thee a silly Lay
 That heard'st both reed
 And sheepward play ?

3.

Yet, if Poets mind thee well
They shall find thou art their hill,
And fountaine too,
Their Lord with thee had most to doe ; 20
He wept once, walkt whole nights on thee,
And from thence (his suff'rings ended,)
Unto glorie
Was attended ;

4.

Being there, this spacious ball
Is but his narrow footstoole all,
And what we thinke
Unsearchable, now with one winke
He doth comprise ; But in this aire
When he did stay to beare our Ill 30
And sinne, this Hill
Was then his Chaire.

The Incarnation, and Passion.

Lord ! when thou didst thy selfe undresse
Laying by thy robes of glory,
To make us more, thou wouldst be lesse,
And becam'st a wofull story.
To put on Clouds instead of light,
And cloath the morning-starre with dust,
Was a translation of such height
As, but in thee, was ne'r exprest ;
Brave wormes, and Earth ! that thus could have
A God Enclos'd within your Cell, 10
Your maker pent up in a grave,
Life lockt in death, heav'n in a shell ;
Ah, my deare Lord ! what couldst thou spye
In this impure, rebellious clay,
That made thee thus resolve to dye
For those that kill thee every day ?
O what strange wonders could thee move
To slight thy precious bloud, and breath !
Sure it was Love, my Lord ; for Love
Is only stronger far than death. 20

The Call.

Come my heart ! come my head
 In sighes, and teares !
 'Tis now, since you have laine thus dead
 Some twenty years ;
 Awake, awake,
 Some pittie take
 Upon your selves——
 Who never wake to grone, nor weepe,
 Shall be sentenc'd for their sleepe.

Doe but see your sad estate,
 How many sands
 Have left us, while we careles sate
 With folded hands ;
 What stock of nights,
 Of dayes, and yeares
 In silent flights
 Stole by our eares,
 How ill have we our selves bestow'd
 Whose suns are all set in a Cloud ?

Yet, come, and let's peruse them all ;
 And as we passe,
 What sins on every minute fall
 Score on the glasse ;
 Then weigh, and rate
 Their heavy State
 Untill
 The glasse with teares you fill ;
 That done, we shalbe safe, and good,
 Those beasts were cleane, that chew'd the Cud.

Thou that know'st for whom I mourne,
 And why these teares appeare,
 That keep'st account, till he returne
 Of all his dust left here ;

As easily thou mightst prevent
 As now produce these teares,
 And adde unto that day he went
 A faire supply of yeares.
 But 'twas my sinne that forc'd thy hand
 To cull this Prim-rose out, 10
 That by thy early choice forewarn'd
 My soule might looke about.
 O what a vanity is man !
 How like the Eyes quick winke
 His Cottage failes ; whose narrow span
 Begins even at the brink !
 Nine months thy hands are fashioning us,
 And many yeares (alas !)
 E're we can lisp, or ought discusse
 Concerning thee, must passe ; 20
 Yet have I knowne thy slightest things
 A feather, or a shell,
 A stick, or Rod which some Chance brings
 The best of us excell,
 Yea, I have knowne these shreds out last
 A faire-compacted frame
 And for one Twenty we have past
 Almost outlive our name.
 Thus hast thou plac'd in mans outside
 Death to the Common Eye, 30
 That heaven within him might abide,
 And close eternitie ;
 Hence, youth, and folly (mans first shame,)
 Are put unto the slaughter,
 And serious thoughts begin to tame
 The wise-mans-madnes Laughter ;
 Dull, wretched wormes ! that would not keepe
 Within our first faire bed,
 But out of Paradise must creepe
 For ev'ry foote to tread ; 40
 Yet, had our Pilgrimage bin free,
 And smooth without a thorne,
 Pleasures had foil'd Eternitie,
 And tares had choakt the Corne.
 Thus by the Crosse Salvation runnes,
 Affliction is a mother,

Whose painfull throws yield many sons,
 Each fairer than the other ;
 A silent teare can peirce thy throne,
 When lowd Joyes want a wing,
 And sweeter aires streame from a grone,
 Than any arted string ;
 Thus, Lord, I see my gaine is great,
 My losse but little to it,
 Yet something more I must intreate
 And only thou canst doe it.
 O let me (like him,) know my End !
 And be as glad to find it,
 And whatsoe'r thou shalt Commend,
 Still let thy Servant mind it !
 Then make my soule white as his owne,
 My faith as pure, and steddy,
 And deck me, Lord, with the same Crowne
 Thou hast crownd him already !

60

Vanity of Spirit.

Quite spent with thoughts I left my Cell, and lay
 Where a shrill spring tun'd to the early day.
 I beg'd here long, and gron'd to know
 Who gave the Clouds so brave a bow,
 Who bent the spheres, and circled in
 Corruption with this glorious Ring,
 What is his name, and how I might
 Descry some part of his great light.
 I summon'd nature : peirc'd through all her store,
 Broke up some seales, which none had touch'd before,
 Her wombe, her bosome, and her head
 Where all her secrets lay a bed
 I rifled quite, and having past
 Through all the Creatures, came at last
 To search my selfe, where I did find
 Traces, and sounds of a strange kind.
 Here of this mighty spring, I found some drills,
 With Ecchoes beaten from th' eternall hills ;
 Weake beames, and fires flash'd to my sight,
 Like a young East, or Moone-shine light,
 Which shew'd me in a nook cast by

A peece of much antiquity,
 With Hyeroglyphicks quite dismembred,
 And broken letters scarce remembred.
 I tooke them up, and (much Joy'd,) went about
 T' unite those peeces, hoping to find out
 The mystery ; but this neer done,
 That little light I had was gone :
 It griev'd me much. At last, said I,
Since in these veyls my Ecclips'd Eye
May not approach thee, (for at night
Who can have commerce with the light ?)
Ile disapparell, and to buy
But one half giaunce, most gladly dye.

The Retreat.

Happy those early dayes ! when I
 Shin'd in my Angell-infancy.
 Before I understood this place
 Appointed for my second race,
 Or taught my soul to fancy ought
 But a white, Celestiall thought,
 When yet I had not walkt above
 A mile, or two, from my first love,
 And looking back (at that short space,)
 Could see a glimpse of his bright-face ;
 When on some gilded Cloud, or flowre
 My gazing soul would dwell an houre,
 And in those weaker glories spy
 Some shadows of eternity ;
 Before I taught my tongue to wound
 My Conscience with a sinfull sound,
 Or had the black art to dispence
 A sev'rall sinne to ev'ry sence,
 But felt through all this fleshly dresse
 Bright shootes of everlastingnesse.

O how I long to travell back
 And tread again that ancient track !
 That I might once more reach that plaine,
 Where first I left my glorious traine,
 From whence th' Inlightned spirit sees
 That shady City of Palme trees ;

10 see 1650 : see B. M. copy of 1655 (?)

But (ah !) my soul with too much stay
 Is drunk, and staggers in the way.
 Some men a forward motion love,
 But I by backward steps would move,
 And when this dust falls to the urn
 In that state I came return.

Come, come, what doe I here ?
 Since he is gone
 Each day is grown a dozen year,
 And each houre, one ;
 Come, come !
 Cut off the sum,
 By these soil'd teares !
 (Which only thou Know'st to be true,)
 Dayes are my feares.

Ther's not a wind can stir,
 Or beam passe by,
 But strait I think (though far,)
 Thy hand is nigh ;
 Come, come !
 Strike these lips dumb :
 This restles breath
 That soiles thy name,
 Will ne'r be tame
 Untill in death.

3.

Perhaps some think a tombe
 No house of store,
 But a dark, and seal'd up wombe,
 Which ne'r breeds more.
 Come, come !
 Such thoughts benum ;
 But I would be
 With him I weep
 A bed, and sleep
 To wake in thee.

30

¶ Midnight.

When to my Eyes
 (Whilst deep sleep others catches,) 10
 Thine hoast of spyes
 The starres shine in their watches,
 I doe survey
 Each busie Ray,
 And how they work, and wind,
 And wish each beame
 My soul doth streame,
 With the like ardour shin'd ;
 What Emanations,
 Quick vibrations
 And bright stirs are there ?
 What thin Ejections,
 Cold Affections,
 And slow motions here ?

Thy heav'ns (some say,)
 Are a fire-liquid light,
 Which mingling aye
 Streames, and flames thus to the sight. 20
 Come then, my god !
 Shine on this bloud,
 And water in one beame,
 And thou shalt see
 Kindled by thee
 Both liquors burne, and streame.
 O what bright quicknes,
 Active brightnes,
 And celestiall flowes
 Will follow after 30
 On that water,
 Which thy spirit blowes !

Math. Cap. 3. ver. xi.

I indeed baptize you with water unto repentance, but he that cometh after me, is mightier than I, whose shooes I am not worthy to beare, he shall baptize you with the holy Ghost, and with fire.

Title Midnight] Mid-night catchword 1655

¶ Content.

Peace, peace ! I know 'twas brave,
 But this corse fleece
 I shelter in, is slave
 To no such peece.
 When I am gone,
 I shall no ward-ropes leave
 To friend, or sonne
 But what their own homes weave,

2.

Such, though not proud, nor full,
 May make them weep,
 And mourn to see the wooll
 Outlast the sheep ;
 Poore, Pious weare !
 Hadst thou bin rich, or fine
 Perhaps that teare
 Had mourn'd thy losse, not mine.

3.

Why then these curl'd, puff'd points,
 Or a laced story ?
 Death sets all out of Joint
 And scornes their glory ;
 Some Love a Rose
 In hand, some in the skin ;
 But crosse to those,
 I would have mine within.

20

Joy of my life ! while left me here,
 And still my Love !
 How in thy absence thou dost steere
 Me from above !
 A life well lead
 This truth commends,
 With quick, or dead
 It never ends.

2.

Stars are of mighty use : The night
 Is dark, and long ; 10
 The Rode foul, and where one goes right,
 Six may go wrong.
 One twinkling ray
 Shot o'r some cloud,
 May clear much way
 And guide a croud.

3.

Gods Saints are shining lights : who stays
 Here long must passe
 O're dark hills, swift streames, and steep ways
 As smooth as glasse ; 20
 But these all night
 Like Candles, shed
 Their beams, and light
 Us into Bed.

They are (indeed,) our Pillar-fires
 Seen as we go,
 They are that Cities shining spires
 We travell too ;
 A swordlike gleame
 Kept man for sin 30
 First Out ; This beame
 Will guide him In.

The Storm.

I see the use : and know my bloud
 Is not a Sea,
 But a shallow, bounded froud
 Though red as he ;
 Yet have I flows, as strong as his,
 And boyling stremes that rave
 With the same curling force, and hisse,
 As doth the mountain'd wave.

But when his waters billow thus,
 Dark storms, and wind 10
 Incite them to that fierce discusse,
 Else not Inclī'd,
 Thus the Enlarg'd, enraged air
 Uncalmes these to a floud,
 But still the weather that's most fair
 Breeds tempests in my bloud ;

3.

Lord, then round me with weeping Clouds,
 And let my mind
 In quick blasts sigh beneath those shrouds
 A spirit-wind, 20
 So shall that storme purge this Recluse
 Which sinfull ease made foul,
 And wind, and water to thy use
 Both wash, and wing my soul.

The Morning-watch.

O Joyes ! Infinite sweetnes ! with what flowres,
 And shoots of glory, my soul breakes, and buds !
 All the long houres
 Of night, and Rest
 Through the still shrouds
 Of sleep, and Clouds,
 This Dew fell on my Breast ;
 O how it Blouds,
 And Spirits all my Earth ! heark ! In what Rings,
 And Hymning Circulations the quick world 10
 Awakes, and sings ;
 The rising winds,
 And falling springs,
 Birds, beasts, all things
 Adore him in their kinds.
 Thus all is hurl'd
 In sacred Hymnes, and Order, The great Chime
 And Symphony of nature. Prayer is
 The world in tune,
 A spirit-voyce, 20
 And vocall joyes

Whose Eccho is heav'ns blisse.

O let me climbe

When I lye down ! The Pious soul by night
Is like a clouded starre, whose beames though sed

To shed their light

Under some Cloud

Yet are above,

And shine, and move

30

Beyond that mistie shrowd.

So in my Bed

That Curtain'd grave, though sleep, like ashes, hide
My lamp, and life, both shall in thee abide.

The Evening-watch.

A Dialogue.

Farewell ! I goe to sleep ; but when
The day-star springs, I'll wake agen.

Body.

Goe, sleep in peace ; and when thou lye'st
Unnumber'd in thy dust, when all this frame
Is but one dramme, and what thou now descriest

Soul.

In sev'rall parts shall want a name,
Then may his peace be with thee, and each dust
Writ in his book, who ne'r betray'd mans trust !

Amen ! but hark, e'r we two stray,

Body.

How many hours do'st think 'till day ?

10

Ah ! go ; th'art weak, and sleepe. Heav'n

Soul.

Is a plain watch, and without figures winds
All ages up ; who drew this Circle even

He fills it ; Dayes, and hours are Blinds.

Yet, this take with thee ; The last gasp of time
Is thy first breath, and mans eternall Prime.

Silence, and stealth of dayes ! 'tis now

Since thou art gone,

Twelve hundred houres, and not a brow

But Clouds hang on.

As he that in some Caves thick damp

Lockt from the light,

Fixeth a solitary lamp,

To brave the night

And walking from his Sun, when past
 That glim'ring Ray 10
 Cuts through the heavy mists in haste
 Back to his day,
 So o'r fled minutes I retreat
 Unto that hour
 Which shew'd thee last, but did defeat
 Thy light, and pow'r,
 I search, and rack my soul to see
 Those beams again,
 But nothing but the snuff to me
 Appeareth plain ; 20
 That dark, and dead sleeps in its known,
 And common urn,
 But those fled to their Makers throne,
 There shine, and burn ;
 O could I track them ! but souls must
 Track one the other,
 And now the spirit, not the dust
 Must be thy brother.
 Yet I have one Pearle by whose light
 All things I see, 30
 And in the heart of Earth, and night
 Find Heaven, and thee.

Church-Service.

Blest be the God of Harmony, and Love !
 The God above !
 And holy dove !
 Whose Interceding, spirituall grones
 Make restless mones
 For dust, and stones,
 For dust in every part,
 But a hard, stonie heart.

2.

O how in this thy Quire of Souls I stand
 (Propt by thy hand) 10
 A heap of sand !
 Which busie thoughts (like winds) would scatter quite

And put to flight,
But for thy might ;
Thy hand alone doth tame
Those blasts, and knit my frame,

3.

So that both stones, and dust, and all of me
Joyn'tly agree
To cry to thee,
And in this Musick by thy Martyrs bloud
Seal'd, and made good
Present, O God !
The Eccho of these stones
— My sighes, and grones.

20

Buriall.

O thou ! the first fruits of the dead
And their dark bed,
When I am cast into that deep
And senseless sleep
The wages of my sinne,
O then,
Thou great Preserver of all men !
Watch o're that loose
And empty house,
Which I sometimes liv'd in.

It is (in truth !) a ruin'd peece
Not worth thy Eyes,
And scarce a room but wind, and rain
Beat through, and stain
The seats, and Cells within ;
Yet thou
Led by thy Love wouldst stoop thus low,
And in this Cott
All filth, and spott,
Didst with thy servant Inne.

3.

And nothing can, I hourly see,
 Drive thee from me,
 Thou art the same, faithfull, and just
 In life, or Dust ;
 Though then (thus crumm'd) I stray
 In blasts,
 Or Exhalations, and wasts
 Beyond all Eyes
 Yet thy love spies
 That Change, and knows thy Clay. 30

4.

The world's thy boxe : how then (there tost,)
 Can I be lost ?
 But the delay is all ; Tyme now
 Is old, and slow,
 His wings are dull, and sickly ;
 Yet he
 Thy servant is, and waits on thee,
 Cutt then the summe,
 Lord haste, Lord come,
 O come Lord Jesus quickly ! 40

Rom. Cap. 8. ver. 23.

And not only they, but our selves also, which have the first fruits of the spirit, even wee our selves grone within our selves, waiting for the adoption, to wit, the redemption of our body.

Chearfulness.

Lord, with what courage, and delight
 I doe each thing
 When thy least breath sustaines my wing !
 I shine, and move
 Like those above,
 And (with much gladnesse
 Quitting sadnesse,)
 Make me faire dayes of every night.

2.

Affliction thus, meere pleasure is,
 And hap what will,
 If thou be in't, 'tis welcome still ; 10

But since thy rayes
In Sunnie dayes
Thou dost thus lend
And freely spend,
Ah ! what shall I return for this ?

3.

O that I were all Soul ! that thou
Wouldst make each part
Of this poor, sinfull frame pure heart !
Then would I drown
My single one,
And to thy praise
A Consort raise
Of Hallelujahs here below.

20

Sure, there's a tye of Bodyes ! and as they
Dissolve (with it,) to Clay,
Love languisheth, and memory doth rust
O'r-cast with that cold dust ;
For things thus Center'd, without Beames, or Action
Nor give, nor take *Contacti*on,
And man is such a Marygold, these fled,
That shuts, and hangs the head.

Absents within the Line Conspire, and Sense
Things distant doth unite,
Herbs sleep unto the East, and some fowles thence
Watch the Returns of light ;
But hearts are not so kind : false, short delights
Tell us the world is brave,
And wrap us in Imaginary flights
Wide of a faithfull grave ;
Thus Lazarus was carried out of town ;
For 'tis our foes chief art
By distance all good objects first to drown,
And then besiege the heart.
But I will be my own Deaths-head ; and though
The flatt'rer say, I live,
Because Incertainties we cannot know
Be sure, not to believe.

Peace.

My Soul, there is a Countrie
 Far beyond the stars,
 Where stands a winged Centrie
 All skilfull in the wars,
 There above noise, and danger
 Sweet peace sits crown'd with smiles,
 And one born in a Manger
 Commands the Beauteous files,
 He is thy gracious friend,
 And (O my Soul awake !)
 Did in pure love descend
 To die here for thy sake,
 If thou canst get but thither,
 There growes the flowre of peace,
 The Rose that cannot wither,
 Thy fortresse, and thy ease ;
 Leave then thy foolish ranges ;
 For none can thee secure,
 But one, who never changes,
 Thy God, thy life, thy Cure.

10

20

The Passion.

 O my chief good !
 My dear, dear God !
 When thy blest bloud
 Did Issue forth forc'd by the Rod,
 What pain didst thou
 Feel in each blow !
 How didst thou weep,
 And thy self steep
 In thy own precious, saving teares !
 What cruell smart
 Did teare thy heart !
 How didst thou grone it
 In the spirit,
 O thou, whom my soul Loves, and feares !

Most blessed Vine !
 Whose juice so good
 I feel as Wine,
 But thy faire branches felt as bloud,
 How wert thou prest
 To be my feast ! 20
 In what deep anguish
 Didst thou languish,
 What springs of Sweat, and bloud did drown thee !
 How in one path
 Did the full wrath
 Of thy great Father
 Crowd, and gather,
 Doubling thy griefs, when none would own thee !

3.

How did the weight
 Of all our sinnes, 30
 And death unite
 To wrench, and Rack thy blessed limbes !
 How pale, and bloudie
 Lookt thy Body !
 How bruis'd, and broke
 With every stroke !
 How meek, and patient was thy spirit !
 How didst thou cry,
 And grone on high
Father forgive, 40
 And let them live,
 I dye to make my foes inherit !

4.

O blessed Lamb !
 That took'st my sinne,
 That took'st my shame
 How shall thy dust thy praises sing !
 I would I were
 One hearty tear !
 One constant spring !
 Then would I bring 50
 Thee two small mites, and be at strife

Which should most vie,
 My heart, or eye,
 Teaching my years
 In smiles, and tears
 To weep, to sing, thy Death, my Life.

Rom. Cap. 8. ver. 19.

Etenim res Creatæ exerto Capite observantes expectant revelationem Filiorum Dei.

And do they so? have they a Sense
 Of ought but Influence?
 Can they their heads lift, and expect,
 And grone too? why th'Elect
 Can do no more: my volumes sed
 They were all dull, and dead,
 They judg'd them senslesse, and their state
 Wholly Inanimate.
 Go, go; Seal up thy looks,
 And burn thy books.

I would I were a stone, or tree,
 Or flowre by pedegree,
 Or some poor high-way herb, or Spring
 To flow, or bird to sing!
 Then should I (tyed to one sure state,)
 All day expect my date;
 But I am sadly loose, and stray
 A giddy blast each way;
 O let me not thus range!
 Thou canst not change.

Sometimes I sit with thee, and tarry
 An hour, or so, then vary.
 Thy other Creatures in this Scene
 Thee only aym, and mean;
 Some rise to seek thee, and with heads
 Erect peep from their beds;
 Others, whose birth is in the tomb,
 And cannot quit the womb,
 Sigh there, and grone for thee,
 Their liberty.

4.

O let not me do lesse ! shall they
 Watch, while I sleep, or play ?
 Shall I thy mercies still abuse
 With fancies, friends, or newes ?
 O brook it not ! thy bloud is mine,
 And my soul should be thine ;
 O brook it not ! why wilt thou stop
 After whole showres one drop ?
 Sure, thou wilt joy to see
 Thy sheep with thee.

40

The Relapse.

My God, how gracious art thou ! I had slipt
 Almost to hell,
 And on the verge of that dark, dreadful pit
 Did hear them yell,
 But O thy love ! thy rich, almighty love
 That sav'd my soul,
 And checkt their furie, when I saw them move,
 And heard them howl ;
 O my sole Comfort, take no more these wayes,
 This hideous path,
 And I wil mend my own without delays,
 Cease thou thy wrath !
 I have deserv'd a thick, Egyptian damp,
 Dark as my deeds,
 Should mist within me, and put out that lamp
 Thy spirit feeds ;
 A darting Conscience full of stabs, and fears ;
 No shade but Yewgh,
 Sullen, and sad Ecclipses, Cloudie spheres,
 These are my due.
 But he that with his bloud, (a price too deere,)
 My scores did pay,
 Bid me, by vertue from him, chalenge here
 The brightest day ;
 Sweet, downie thoughts ; soft Lilly-shades ; Calm streams ;
 Joyes full, and true ;
 Fresh, spicie mornings ; and eternal beams
 These are his due.

10

The Resolve.

I have consider'd it ; and find
 A longer stay
 Is but excus'd neglect. To mind
 One path, and stray
 Into another, or to none,
 Cannot be love ;
 When shal that traveller come home,
 That will not move ?
 If thou wouldst thither, linger not,
 Catch at the place, 10
 Tell youth, and beauty they must rot,
 They'r but a Case ;
 Loose, parcell'd hearts wil freeze : The Sun
 With scatter'd locks
 Scarce warms, but by contraction
 Can heat rocks ;
 Call in thy Powers ; run, and reach
 Home with the light,
 Be there, before the shadows stretch,
 And Span up night ; 20
 Follow the Cry no more : there is
 An ancient way
 All strewed with flowres, and happiness
 And fresh as May ;
 There turn, and turn no more ; Let wits,
 Smile at fair eies,
 Or lips ; But who there weeping sits,
 Hath got the Prize.

The Match.

Dear friend ! whose holy, ever-living lines
 Have done much good
 To many, and have checkt my blood,
 My fierce, wild blood that still heaves, and inclines,
 But is still tam'd
 By those bright fires which thee inflam'd ;

11 beauty] beautie, WR (1650) 16 heat rocks] heat the rocks LG
 17 run] run on, L 18 light,] light ; WR (all editions) 20 night ;]
 night : WR (1667) 25 wits,] wits WR (1663, 1667) 27 lips ;] lips
WR (1667)

Here I joyn hands, and thrust my stubborn heart
 Into thy Deed,
 There from no Duties to be freed,
 And if hereafter youth, or folly thwart
 And claim their share,
 Here I renounce the pois'nous ware.

10

ii

Accept, dread Lord, the poor Oblation,
 It is but poore,
 Yet through thy Mercies may be more.
 O thou ! that canst not wish my souls damnation,
 Afford me life,
 And save me from all inward strife !
 Two Lives I hold from thee, my gracious Lord,
 Both cost thee deer,
 For one, I am thy Tenant here ;
 The other, the true life, in the next world
 And endless is,

10

O let me still mind that in this !
 To thee therefore my Thoughts, Words, Actions
 I do resign,
 Thy will in all be done, not mine.
 Settle my house, and shut out all distractions
 That may unknit
 My heart, and thee planted in it ;
 Lord Jesu ! thou didst bow thy blessed head
 Upon a tree,

20

O do as much, now unto me !
 O hear, and heal thy servant ! Lord, strike dead
 All lusts in me,
 Who onely wish life to serve thee ?
 Suffer no more this dust to overflow
 And drown my eies,
 But seal, or pin them to thy skies.
 And let this grain which here in tears I sow
 Though dead, and sick,
 Through thy Increase grow new, and quick.

30

Rules and Lessons.

When first thy Eies unveil, give thy Soul leave
To do the like ; our Bodies but forerun
The spirits duty ; True hearts spread, and heave
Unto their God, as flow'rs do to the Sun.

Give him thy first thoughts then ; so shalt thou keep Him company all day, and in him sleep.

Yet, never sleep the Sun up ; Prayer shou'd
Dawn with the day ; There are set, awful hours
'Twixt heaven, and us ; The Manna was not good
After Sun-rising, far-day sullies flowres.

10

Rise to prevent the Sun ; sleep doth sins glut,
And heav'ns gate opens, when this world's is shut.

Walk with thy fellow-creatures : note the hush
And whispers amongst them. There's not a Spring,
Or Leafe but hath his Morning-hymn ; Each Bus
And Oak doth know I AM ; canst thou not sing ?

O leave thy Cares, and follies ! go this way
And thou art sure to prosper all the day.

Serve God before the world ; let him not go
Until thou hast a blessing, then resigne
The whole unto him ; and remember who
Prevail'd by wrestling ere the Sun did shine.

20

Poure Oyle upon the stones, weep for thy sin,
Then journey on, and have an eie to heav'n.

Mornings are Mysteries ; the first worlds Youth,
Mans Resurrection, and the futures Bud
Shroud in their births : The Crown of life, light, truth
Is stil'd their starre, the stone, and hidden food.

Three blessings wait upon them, two of which Should move ; They make us holy, happy, rich.

30

When the world's up, and ev'ry swarm abroad,
Keep thou thy temper, mix not with each Clay ;
Dispatch necessities, life hath a load
Which must be carri'd on, and safely may.

Yet keep those cares without thee, let the heart
Be Gods alone, and choose the better part.

Through all thy Actions, Counsels, and Discourse,
 Let Mildness, and Religion guide thee out,
 If truth be thine, what needs a brutish force?
 But what's not good, and just ne'r go about. 40
 Wrong not thy Conscience for a rotten stick,
 That gain is dreadful, which makes spirits sick.

To God, thy Countrie, and thy friend be true,
 If Priest, and People change, keep thou thy ground.
 Who sels Religion, is a Judas Jew,
 And, oathes once broke, the soul cannot be sound.
 The perjurer's a devil let loose: what can
 Tie up his hands, that dares mock God, and man?

Seek not the same steps with the Crowd; stick thou
 To thy sure trot; a Constant, humble mind 50
 Is both his own Joy, and his Makers too;
 Let folly dust it on, or lag behind.
 A sweet self-privacy in a right soul
 Out-runs the Earth, and lines the utmost pole.

To all that seek thee, bear an open heart;
 Make not thy breast a Labyrinth, or Trap;
 If tryals come, this wil make good thy part,
 For honesty is safe, come what can hap;
 It is the good mans feast; The prince of flowres
 Which thrives in storms, and smels best after showres. 60

Seal not thy Eyes up from the poor, but give Proportion to their Merits, and thy Purse;
 Thou mai'st in Rags a mighty Prince relieve
 Who, when thy sins call for't, can fence a Curse.
 Thou shalt not lose one mite. Though waters stray,
 The Bread we cast returns in fraughts one day.

Spend not an hour so, as to weep another,
 For tears are not thine own; If thou giv'st words
 Dash not thy friend, nor Heav'n; O smother
 A vip'rous thought; some Syllables are Swords. 70
 Unbitted tongues are in their penance double,
 They shame their owners, and the hearers trouble.

63 Prince] Prlnce 1655 69 not thy friend] not with them thy friend L: not thyself, thy friend G

Injure not modest blood, whose spirits rise
 In judgement against Lewdness; that's base wit
 That voyds but filth, and stench. Hast thou no prize
 But sickness, or Infection? stifle it.

Who makes his jests of sins, must be at least
 If not a very devill, worse than a Beast.

Yet, fly no friend, if he be such indeed,
 But meet to quench his Longings, and thy Thirst;
 Allow your Joyes Religion; That done, speed
 And bring the same man back, thou wert at first.

80

Who so returns not, cannot pray aright,
 But shuts his door, and leaves God out all night.

To highten thy Devotions, and keep low
 All mutinous thoughts, what busines e'r thou hast
 Observe God in his works; here fountains flow,
Birds sing, Beasts feed, Fish leap, and th'Earth stands fast;

Above are restles motions, running Lights,
 Vast Circling Azure, giddy Clouds, days, nights.

90

When Seasons change, then lay before thine Eys
 His wondrous Method; mark the various Scenes
 In heav'n; Hail, Thunder, Rain-bows, Snow, and Ice,
Calmes, Tempests, Light, and darknes by his means;
 Thou canst not misse his Praise; Each tree, herb, flowre
 Are shadows of his wisedome, and his Pow'r.

To meales when thou doest come, give him the praise
 Whose Arm supply'd thee; Take what may suffice,
 And then be thankful; O admire his ways
 Who fills the worlds unempty'd granaries!

100

A thankles feeder is a Theif, his feast
 A very Robbery, and himself no guest.

High-noon thus past, thy time decays; provide
 Thee other thoughts; Away with friends, and mirth;
 The Sun now stoops, and hasts his beams to hide
 Under the dark, and melancholy Earth.

All but preludes thy End. Thou art the man
 Whose Rise, hight, and Descent is but a span.

Yet, set as he doth, and 'tis well. Have all
Thy Beams home with thee: trim thy Lamp, buy Oyl, 110
And then set forth; who is thus drest, The Fall
Further his glory, and gives death the foyl.
Man is a Summers day; whose youth, and fire
Cool to a glorious Evening, and Expire.

When night comes, list thy deeds; make plain the way
'Twixt Heaven, and thee; block it not with delays,
But perfect all before thou sleep'st; Then say
Ther's one Sun more strung on my Bead of days.
What's good score up for Joy; The bad wel scann'd
Wash off with tears, and get thy Masters hand. 120

Thy Accounts thus made, spend in the grave one houre
Before thy time; Be not a stranger there
Where thou may'st sleep whole ages; Lifes poor flowr
Lasts not a night sometimes. Bad spirits fear
This Conversation; But the good man lyes
Intombed many days before he dyes.

Being laid, and drest for sleep, Close not thy Eys
Up with thy Curtains; Give thy soul the wing
In some good thoughts; So when the day shall rise
And thou unrak'st thy fire, those sparks will bring 130
New flames; Besides where these lodge vain heats mourn
And die; That Bush where God is, shall not burn.

When thy Nap's over, stir thy fire, unrake
In that dead age; one beam i'th' dark outvies
Two in the day; Then from the Damps, and Ake
Of night shut up thy leaves, be Chast; God prys
Through thickest nights; Though then the Sun be far
Do thou the works of Day, and rise a Star.

Briefly, Doe as thou would'st be done unto,
Love God, and Love thy Neighbour; Watch, and Pray. 140
These are the Words, and Works of life; This do,
And live; who doth not thus, hath lost Heav'ns way.
O lose it not! look up, wilt Change those Lights
For Chains of Darknes, and Eternal Nights?

Corruption.

Sure, It was so. Man in those early days
 Was not all stone, and Earth,
 He shin'd a little, and by those weak Rays
 Had some glimpse of his birth.
 He saw Heaven o'r his head, and knew from whence
 He came (condemned,) hither,
 And, as first Love draws strongest, so from hence
 His mind sure progress'd thither.
 Things here were strange unto him : Swet, and till
 All was a thorn, or weed, 10
 Nor did those last, but (like himself,) dyed still
 As soon as they did Seed,
 They seem'd to quarrel with him ; for that Act
 That fel him, foyl'd them all,
 He drew the Curse upon the world, and Crackt
 The whole frame with his fall.
 This made him long for home, as loath to stay
 With murmurers, and foes ;
 He sigh'd for Eden, and would often say
 Ah! what bright days were those ? 20
 Nor was Heav'n cold unto him ; for each day
 The vally, or the Mountain
 Afforded visits, and still Paradise lay
 In some green shade, or fountain.
 Angels lay Leiger here ; Each Bush, and Cel,
 Each Oke, and high-way knew them,
 Walk but the fields, or sit down at some wel,
 And he was sure to view them.
 Almighty Love ! where art thou now ? mad man
 Sits down, and freezeth on, 30
 He raves, and swears to stir nor fire, nor fan,
 But bids the thread be spun.
 I see, thy Curtains are Close-drawn ; Thy bow
 Looks dim too in the Cloud,
 Sin triumphs still, and man is sunk below
 The Center, and his shrowd ;
 All's in deep sleep, and night ; Thick darknes lyes
 And hatcheth o'r thy people ;
 But hark ! what trumpets that ? what Angel cries
 Arise ! Thrust in thy sickle. 40

H. Scriptures.

Welcome dear book, souls Joy, and food ! The feast
Of Spirits, Heav'n extracted lyes in thee ;
Thou art lifes Charter, The Doves spotless neast
Where souls are hatch'd unto Eternitie.

In thee the hidden stone, the Manna lies,
Thou art the great Elixir, rare, and Choice ;
The Key that opens to all Mysteries,
The Word in Characters, God in the Voice.

O that I had deep Cut in my hard heart
Each line in thee ! Then would I plead in groans 10
Of my Lords penning, and by sweetest Art
Return upon himself the Law, and Stones.
Read here, my faults are thine. This Book, and I
Will tell thee so ; Sweet Saviour thou didst dye !

Unprofitablenes.

How rich, O Lord ! how fresh thy visits are !
'Twas but Just now my bleak leaves hopeles hung
Sullyed with dust and mud ;
Each snarling blast shot through me, and did share
Their Youth, and beauty, Cold showres nipt, and wrung
Their spiciness, and bloud ;
But since thou didst in one sweet glance survey
Their sad decays, I flourish, and once more
Breath all perfumes, and spice ;
I smell a dew like Myrrh, and all the day 10
Wear in my bosome a full Sun ; such store
Hath one beame from thy Eys.
But, ah, my God ! what fruit hast thou of this ?
What one poor leaf did ever I yet fall
To wait upon thy wreath ?
Thus thou all day a thankless weed doest dress,
And when th' hast done, a stench, or fog is all
The odour I bequeath.

CHRISTS Nativity.

Awake, glad heart ! get up, and Sing,
 It is the Birth-day of thy King,
 Awake ! awake !
 The Sun doth shake
 Light from his locks, and all the way
 Breathing Perfumes, doth spice the day.

2.

Awak, awak ! heark, how th' wood rings,
Winds whisper, and the busie springs
 A Consort make ;
 Awake, awake !
 Man is their high-priest, and should rise
 To offer up the sacrifice.

10

3.

I would I were some Bird, or Star,
 Flutt'ring in woods, or lifted far
 Above this Inne
 And Rode of sin !
 Then either Star, or Bird, should be
 Shining, or singing still to thee.

I would I had in my best part
 Fit Roomes for thee ! or that my heart
 Were so clean as
 Thy manger was !
 But I am all filth, and obscene,
 Yet, if thou wilt, thou canst make clean.

20

Sweet Jesu ! will then ; Let no more
 This Leper haunt, and soyl thy door,
 Cure him, Ease him
 O release him !
 And let once more by mystick birth
 The Lord of life be borne in Earth.

30

I I.

How kind is heav'n to man ! If here
 One sinner doth amend
Strait there is Joy, and ev'ry sphere
 In musick doth Contend ;
And shall we then no voices lift ?
 Are mercy, and salvation
Not worth our thanks ? Is life a gift
 Of no more acceptation ?
Shal he that did come down from thence,
 And here for us was slain,
Shal he be now cast off ? no sense
 Of all his woes remain ?
Can neither Love, nor suffrings bind ?
 Are we all stone, and Earth ?
Neither his bloody passions mind,
 Nor one day blesse his birth ?
Alas, my God ! Thy birth now here
Must not be numbred in the year.

10

The Check.

Peace, peace ! I blush to hear thee ; when thou art
 A dusty story
A speechlesse heap, and in the midst my heart
 In the same livery drest
Lyes tame as all the rest ;
When six years thence digg'd up, some youthfull Eie
 Seeks there for Symmetry
But finding none, shal leave thee to the wind,
 Or the next foot to Crush,
 Scatt'ring thy kind
And humble dust, tell then dear flesh
 Where is thy glory ?

As he that in the midst of day Expects
 The hideous night,
Sleeps not, but shaking off sloth, and neglects,
 Works with the Sun, and sets
Paying the day its debts ;

That (for Repose, and darknes bound,) he might Rest from the fears i'th' night ;
 So should we too. All things teach us to die 20
 And point us out the way
 While we passe by
 And mind it not ; play not away
 Thy glimpse of light.

3.

View thy fore-runners : Creatures giv'n to be Thy youths Companions,
 Take their leave, and die ; Birds, beasts, each tree
 All that have growth, or breath
 Have one large language, Death.
 O then play not ! but strive to him, who Can 30
 Make these sad shades pure Sun,
 Turning their mists to beams, their damps to day,
 Whose pow'r doth so excell
 As to make Clay
 A spirit, and true glory dwell
 In dust, and stones.

4.

Heark, how he doth Invite thee ! with what voice
 Of Love, and sorrow
 He begs, and Calls ; O that in these thy days
 Thou knew'st but thy own good ! 40
 Shall not the Crys of bloud,
 Of Gods own bloud awake thee ? He bids beware
 Of drunknes, surfeits, Care,
 But thou sleep'st on ; wher's now thy protestation,
 Thy Lines, thy Love ? Away,
 Redeem the day,
 The day that gives no observation,
 Perhaps to morrow.

Disorder and frailty.

When first thou didst even from the grave
 And womb of darknes becken out
 My brutish soul, and to thy slave
 Becam'st thy self, both guide, and Scout ;

Even from that hour
 Thou gotst my heart ; And though here tost
 By winds, and bit with frost
 I pine, and shrink
 Breaking the link
 'Twixt thee, and me ; And oftimes creep 10
 Into th' old silence, and dead sleep,
 Quitting thy way
 All the long day,
 Yet, sure, my God ! I love thee most.
Alas, thy love !

I threaten heaven, and from my Cell
 Of Clay, and frailty break, and bud
 Touch'd by thy fire, and breath ; Thy bloud
 Too, is my Dew, and springing wel.
 But while I grow 20
 And stretch to thee, ayming at all
 Thy stars, and spangled hall,
 Each fly doth tast,
 Poyson, and blast
 My yielding leaves ; sometimes a shower
 Beats them quite off, and in an hour
 Not one poor shoot
 But the bare root
 Hid under ground survives the fall.
Alas, frail weed ! 30

3.

Thus like some sleeping Exhalation
 (Which wak'd by heat, and beams, makes up
 Unto that Comforter, the Sun,
 And soars, and shines ; But e'r we sup
 And walk two steps
 Cool'd by the damps of night, descends,
 And, whence it sprung, there ends,)
 Doth my weak fire
 Pine, and retire,
 And (after all my hight of flames,) 40
 In sickly Expirations tames

Leaving me dead
 On my first bed
 Untill thy Sun again ascends.
Poor, falling Star !

4.

O, is ! but give wings to my fire,
 And hatch my soul, untill it fly
 Up where thou art, amongst thy tire
 Of Stars, above Infirmary ;

50

Let not perverse,
 And foolish thoughts adde to my Bil
 Of forward sins, and Kil
 That seed, which thou
 In me didst sow,

But dresse, and water with thy grace
 Together with the seed, the place ;
 And for his sake
 Who died to stake
 His life for mine, tune to thy will
 My heart, my verse.

60

Hosea Cap. 6. ver. 4.

O Ephraim what shall I do unto thee ? O Judah how shall I intreat thee ? for thy goodness is as a morning Cloud, and as the early Dew it goeth away.

Idle Verse.

Go, go, quaint folies, sugred sin,
 Shadow no more my door ;
 I will no longer Cobwebs spin,
 I'm too much on the score.

For since amidst my youth, and night,
 My great preserver smiles,
 Wee'l make a Match, my only light,
 And Joyn against their wiles ;

Blind, desp'rate fits, that study how
 To dresse, and trim our shame,
 That gild rank poyson, and allow
 Vice in a fairer name ;

10

The Purles of youthfull bloud, and bowles,
 Lust in the Robes of Love,
 The idle talk of feav'rish souls
 Sick with a scarf, or glove ;

Let it suffice my warmer days
 Simper'd, and shin'd on you,
 Twist not my Cypresse with your Bays,
 Or Roses with my Yewgh ;

20

Go, go, seek out some greener thing,
 It snows, and freezeth here ;
 Let Nightingales attend the spring,
 Winter is all my year.

Son-dayes.

Bright shadows of true Rest ! some shoots of blisse,
 Heaven once a week ;
 The next worlds gladnes prepossest in this ;
 A day to seek

Eternity in time ; the steps by which
 We Climb above all ages ; Lamps that light
 Man through his heap of dark days ; and the rich,
 And full redemption of the whole weeks flight.

The Pulleys unto headlong man ; times bower ;
 The narrow way ;
 Transplanted Paradise ; Gods walking houre ;
 The Cool o'th' day ;

10

The Creatures Jubile ; Gods parle with dust ;
 Heaven here ; Man on those hills of Myrrh, and flowres ;
 Angels descending ; the Returns of Trust ;
 A Gleam of glory, after six-days-showres.

3.

The Churches love-feasts ; Times Prerogative,
 And Interest
 Deducted from the whole ; The Combs, and hive,
 And home of rest.

Title Son-dayes] Sundays

The milky way Chalkt out with Suns ; a Clue
 That guides through erring hours ; and in full story
 A taste of Heav'n on earth ; the pledge, and Cue
 Of a full feast ; And the Out Courts of glory.

Repentance.

Lord, since thou didst in this vile Clay
 That sacred Ray

Thy spirit plant, quickning the whole
 With that one grains Infused wealth,
 My forward flesh creep on, and subtly stole
 Both growth, and power ; Checking the health
 And heat of thine : That little gate
 And narrow way, by which to thee
 The Passage is, He term'd a grate
 And Entrance to Captivitie ;

10

Thy laws but nets, where some small birds
 (And those but seldome too) were caught,
 Thy Promises but empty words
 Which none but Children heard, or taught.
 This I believed : And though a friend
 Came oft from far, and whisper'd, No ;
 Yet that not sorting to my end
 I wholly listen'd to my foe.

Wherefore, pierc'd through with grief, my sad
 Seduced soul sighs up to thee,
 To thee who with true light art Clad
 And seest all things just as they be.
 Look from thy throne upon this Rowl
 Of heavy sins, my high transgressions,
 Which I Confesse withall my soul,
 My God, Accept of my Confession.

20

It was last day
 (Touch'd with the guilt of my own way)
 I sate alone, and taking up

The bitter Cup,
 Through all thy fair, and various store
 Sought out what might outvie my score.

30

The blades of grasse, thy Creatures feeding,
 The trees, their leafs ; the flowres, their seeding ;

The Dust, of which I am a part,
 The Stones much softer than my heart,
 The drops of rain, the sighs of wind,
 The Stars to which I am stark blind,
 The Dew thy herbs drink up by night,
 The beams they warm them at i'th' light,
 All that have signature or life,
 I summon'd to decide this strife,
 And lest I should lack for Arrears,
 A spring ran by, I told her tears,
 But when these came unto the scale,
 My sins alone outweigh'd them all.

40

O my dear God ! my life, my love !
 Most blessed lamb ! and mildest dove !

Forgive your penitent Offender,
 And no more his sins remember,

50

Scatter these shades of death, and give

Light to my soul, that it may live ;

Cut me not off for my transgressions,

Wilful rebellions, and suppressions,

But give them in those streams a part

Whose spring is in my Saviours heart.

Lord, I confesse the heynous score,

And pray, I may do so no more,

Though then all sinners I exceed

O think on this ; Thy Son did bleed ;

60

O call to mind his wounds, his woes,

His Agony, and bloody throws ;

Then look on all that thou hast made,

And mark how they do fail, and fade,

The heavens themselves, though fair and bright

Are dark, and unclean in thy sight,

How then, with thee, Can man be holy

Who doest thine Angels charge with folly ?

O what am I, that I should breed

Figs on a thorne, flowres on a weed !

70

I am the gourd of sin, and sorrow

Growing o'r night, and gone to morrow,

In all this Round of life and death

Nothing's more vile than is my breath,

Profanenes on my tongue doth rest,

Defects, and darknes in my brest,

Pollutions all my body wed,
 And even my soul to thee is dead,
 Only in him, on whom I feast,
 Both soul, and body are well drest,
 His pure perfection quits all score,
 And fills the Boxes of his poor ;
 He is the Center of long life, and light,
 I am but finite, He is Infinite.
 O let thy Justice then in him Confine,
 And through his merits, make thy mercy mine !

80

THE BURIAL

Of an Infant.

Blest Infant Bud, whose Blossome-life
 Did only look about, and fal,
 Wearyed out in a harmles strife
 Of tears, and milk, the food of all ;
 Sweetly didst thou expire : Thy soul
 Flew home unstain'd by his new kin,
 For ere thou knew'st how to be foul,
 Death wean'd thee from the world, and sin.
 Softly rest all thy Virgin-Crums !
Lapt in the sweets of thy young breath,
 Expecting till thy Saviour Comes
 To dresse them, and unswadle death.

10

Faith.

Bright, and blest beame ! whose strong projection
 Equall to all,
 Reacheth as well things of dejection
 As th' high, and tall ;
 How hath my God by raying thee
 Inlarg'd his spouse,
 And of a private familie
 Made open house ?
 All may be now Co-heirs ; no noise
 Of Bond, or Free
 Can Interdict us from those Joys
 That wait on thee,

10

The Law, and Ceremonies made
 A glorious night,
 Where Stars, and Clouds, both light, and shade
 Had equal right ;
 But, as in nature, when the day
 Breaks, night adjourns,
 Stars shut up shop, mists pack away,
 And the Moon mourns ;
 So when the Sun of righteousness
 Did once appear,
 That Scene was chang'd, and a new dresse
 Left for us here ;
 Veiles became useles, Altars fel,
 Fires smoking die ;
 And all that sacred pomp, and shel
 Of things did flie ;
 Then did he shine forth, whose sad fall,
 And bitter fights
 Were figur'd in those mystical,
 And Cloudie Rites ;
 And as i'th' natural Sun, these three,
 Light, motion, heat,
 So are now Faith, Hope, Charity
 Through him Compleat ;
 Faith spans up blisse ; what sin, and death
 Put us quite from,
 Lest we should run for't out of breath,
 Faith brings us home ;
 So that I need no more, but say
 I do believe,
 And my most loving Lord straitway
 Doth answer, Live.

The Dawning.

Ah ! what time wilt thou come ? when shall that crie
 The Bridegroome's Comming ! fil the sky ?
 Shall it in the Evening run
 When our words and works are done ?
 Or wil thy all-surprizing light
 Break at midnight ?

When either sleep, or some dark pleasure
 Possesseth mad man without measure ;
 Or shal these early, fragrant hours
 Unlock thy bowres ?

10

And with their blush of light descry
 Thy locks crown'd with eternitie ;
 Indeed, it is the only time
 That with thy glory doth best chime,
 All now are stirring, ev'ry field
 Ful hymns doth yield,

The whole Creation shakes off night,
 And for thy shadow looks the light,
 Stars now vanish without number,
 Sleepie Planets set, and slumber,
 The pursie Clouds disband, and scatter,
 All expect some sudden matter,
 Not one beam triumphs, but from far
 That morning-star ;

20

O at what time soever thou
 (Unknown to us,) the heavens wilt bow,
 And, with thy Angels in the Van,
 Descend to Judge poor careless man,
 Grant, I may not like puddle lie
 In a Corrupt securitie,

30

Where, if a traveller water crave,
 He finds it dead, and in a grave ;
 But as this restless, vocall Spring
 All day, and night doth run, and sing,
 And though here born, yet is acquainted
 Elsewhere, and flowing keeps untainted ;
 So let me all my busie age

In thy free services ingage,
 And though (while here) of force I must
 Have Commerce somtimes with poor dust,
 And in my flesh, though vile, and low,
 As this doth in her Channel, flow,
 Yet let my Course, my aym, my Love,
 And chief acquaintance be above ;
 So when that day, and hour shal come
 In which thy self will be the Sun,
 Thou'lt find me drest and on my way,
 Watching the Break of thy great day.

40

Admission.

How shril are silent tears ? when sin got head
And all my Bowels turn'd
To brasse, and iron ; when my stock lay dead,
And all my powers mourn'd ;
Then did these drops (for Marble sweats,
And Rocks have tears,)
As rain here at our windows beats,
Chide in thine Ears ;

2.

No quiet couldst thou have : nor didst thou wink,
And let thy Begger lie, 10
But e'r my eies could overflow their brink
Didst to each drop reply ;
Bowels of Love ! at what low rate,
And slight a price
Dost thou relieve us at thy gate,
And stil our Cries ?

3.

Wee are thy Infants, and suck thee ; If thou
But hide, or turn thy face,
Because where thou art, yet, we cannot go,
We send tears to the place, 20
These find thee out, and though our sins
Drove thee away,
Yet with thy love that absence wins
Us double pay.

4.

O give me then a thankful heart ! a heart
After thy own, not mine ;
So after thine, that all, and ev'ry part
Of mine, may wait on thine ;
O hear ! yet not my tears alone,
Hear now a fload, 30
A fload that drowns both tears, and grones,
My Saviours bloud.

Praise.

King of Comforts ! King of life !
 Thou hast cheer'd me,
 And when fears, and doubts were rife,
 Thou hast cleer'd me !

Not a nook in all my Breast
 But thou fill'st it,
 Not a thought, that breaks my rest,
 But thou kill'st it ;

Wherefore with my utmost strength
 I will praise thee,
 And as thou giv'st line, and length,
 I will raise thee ;

10

Day, and night, not once a day
 I will blesse thee,
 And my soul in new array
 I will dresse thee ;

Not one minute in the year
 But I'll mind thee,
 As my seal, and bracelet here
 I will bind thee ;

20

In thy word, as if in heaven
 I will rest me,
 And thy promise 'til made even
 There shall feast me.

Then, thy sayings all my life
 They shal please me,
 And thy bloody wounds, and strife
 They wil ease me ;

With thy grones my daily breath
 I will measure,
 And my life hid in thy death
 I will treasure.

30

Though then thou art
 Past thought of heart
 All perfect fulness,
 And canst no whit
 Accesse admit
 From dust and dulness ;

Yet to thy name
 (As not the same
 With thy bright Essence,) 40
 Our foul, Clay hands
 At thy Commands
 Bring praise, and Incense ;
 If then, dread Lord,
 When to thy board
 Thy wretch comes begging,
 He hath a flowre
 Or (to his pow'r,) 50
 Some such poor Off'ring ;
 When thou hast made
 Thy begger glad,
 And fill'd his bosome,
 Let him (though poor,)
 Strow at thy door
 That one poor Blossome.

Dressing.

O thou that lovest a pure, and whitend soul !
 That feedst among the Lillies, 'till the day
 Break, and the shadows flee ; touch with one Coal
 My frozen heart ; and with thy secret key
 Open my desolate rooms ; my gloomie Brest
 With thy cleer fire refine, burning to dust
 These dark Confusions, that within me nest,
 And soyl thy Temple with a sinful rust.
 Thou holy, harmless, undefil'd high-priest !
 The perfect, ful oblation for all sin, 10
 Whose glorious conquest nothing can resist,
 But even in babes doest triumph still and win ;
 Give to thy wretched one
 Thy mysticall Communion,
 That, absent, he may see,
 Live, die, and rise with thee ;
 Let him so follow here, that in the end
 He may take thee, as thou doest him intend.

Give him thy private seal,
 Earnest, and sign ; Thy gifts so deal 20
 That these forerunners here
 May make the future cleer ;
 Whatever thou dost bid, let faith make good,
 Bread for thy body, and Wine for thy blood.
 Give him (with pitty) love,
 Two flowres that grew with thee above ;
 Love that shal not admit
 Anger for one short fit,
 And pitty of such a divine extent
 That may thy members, more than mine, resent. 30

Give me, my God ! thy grace,
 The beams, and brightnes of thy face,
 That never like a beast
 I take thy sacred feast,
 Or the dread mysteries of thy blest bloud
 Use, with like Custome, as my Kitchin food.
 Some sit to thee, and eat
 Thy body as their Common meat,
 O let not me do so !
 Poor dust should ly still low, 40
 Then kneel my soul, and body ; kneel, and bow ;
 If Saints, and Angels fal down, much more thou.

Easter-day.

Thou, whose sad heart, and weeping head lyes low,
 Whose Cloudy brest cold damp invade,
 Who never feel'st the Sun, nor smooth'st thy brow,
 But sitt'st oppressed in the shade,
 Awake, awake,
 And in his Resurrection partake,
 Who on this day (that thou might'st rise as he,)
 Rose up, and cancell'd two deaths due to thee.
 Awake, awake ; and, like the Sun, disperse
 All mists that would usurp this day ; 10
 Where are thy Palmes, thy branches, and thy verse ?
Hosanna ! heark ; why doest thou stay ?
 Arise, arise,
 And with his healing bloud anoint thine Eys,
 Thy inward Eys ; his bloud will cure thy mind,
 Whose spittle only could restore the blind.

Easter Hymn.

Death, and darkness get you packing,
 Nothing now to man is lacking,
 All your triumphs now are ended,
 And what Adam marr'd, is mended ;
 Graves are beds now for the weary,
 Death a nap, to wake more merry ;
 Youth now, full of pious duty,
 Seeks in thee for perfect beauty,
 The weak, and aged tir'd, with length
 Of daies, from thee look for new strength,
 And Infants with thy pangs Contest
 As pleasant, as if with the brest ;

10

Then, unto him, who thus hath thrown
 Even to Contempt thy kingdome down,
 And by his blood did us advance
 Unto his own Inheritance,
 To him be glory, power, praise,
 From this, unto the last of daies.

The Holy Communion.

Welcome sweet, and sacred feast ; welcome life !

Dead I was, and deep in trouble ;
 But grace, and blessings came with thee so rife,
 That they have quicken'd even drie stubble ;
 Thus soules their bodies animate,
 And thus, at first, when things were rude,
 Dark, void, and Crude
 They, by thy Word, their beauty had, and date ;

All were by thee,
 And stil must be,
 Nothing that is, or lives,
 But hath his Quicknings, and reprieves
 As thy hand opes, or shuts ;
 Healings, and Cuts,
 Darkness, and day-light, life, and death
 Are but meer leaves turn'd by thy breath.

10

Spirits without thee die,
 And blackness sits
 On the divinest wits,
 As on the Sun Ecclipses lie.

20

Title (1) Easter] Easter- catchword 1655

But that great darkness at thy death
 When the veyl broke with thy last breath,
 Did make us see
 The way to thee ;
 And now by these sure, sacred ties,
 After thy blood
 (Our sov'rain good,)
 Had clear'd our eies,
 And given us sight ;
 Thou dost unto thy self betroth
 Our souls, and bodies both
 In everlasting light.

30

Was't not enough that thou hadst payd the price
 And given us eies
 When we had none, but thou must also take Us by the hand
 And keep us still awake,
 When we would sleep,
 Or from thee creep,
 Who without thee cannot stand ?

40

Was't not enough to lose thy breath
 And blood by an accursed death,
 But thou must also leave
 To us that did bereave
 Thee of them both, these seals the means
 That should both cleanse
 And keep us so,
 Who wrought thy wo ?
 O rose of Sharon ! O the Lilly
 Of the valley !
 How art thou now, thy flock to keep,
 Become both food, and Shepherd to thy sheep

50

Psalm 121.

Up to those bright, and gladsome hils
 Whence flowes my weal, and mirth,
 I look, and sigh for him, who fils
 (Unseen,) both heaven, and earth.

He is alone my help, and hope,
That I shall not be moved,
His watchful Eye is ever ope,
And guardeth his beloved ;

The glorious God is my sole stay,
He is my Sun, and shade,
The cold by night, the heat by day,
Neither shall me invade.

10

He keeps me from the spite of foes,
Doth all their plots controul,
And is a shield (not reckoning those,)
Unto my very soul.

Whether abroad, amidst the Crowd,
Or els within my door,
He is my Pillar, and my Cloud,
Now, and for evermore.

20

Affliction.

Peace, peace ; It is not so. Thou doest miscall
Thy Physick ; Pils that change
Thy sick Accessions into settled health,
This is the great Elixir that turns gall
To wine, and sweetness ; Poverty to wealth,
And brings man home, when he doth range.
Did not he, who ordain'd the day,
Ordain night too ?

And in the greater world display
What in the lesser he would do ?
All flesh is Clay, thou know'st ; and but that God
Doth use his rod,

10

And by a fruitfull Change of frosts, and showres
Cherish, and bind thy pow'rs,
Thou wouldst to weeds, and thistles quite disperse,
And be more wild than is thy verse ;
Sickness is wholesome, and Crosses are but curbs
To check the mule, unruly man,
They are heavens husbandry, the famous fan
Purging the floor which Chaff disturbs.

20

Were all the year one constant Sun-shine, wee
 Should have no flowres,
 All would be drought, and leanness ; not a tree
 Would make us bowres ;
 Beauty consists in colours ; and that's best
 Which is not fixt, but flies, and flowes ;
 The settled Red is dull, and whites that rest
 Something of sickness would disclose.
 Vicissitude plaies all the game,
 Nothing that stirrs,
 Or hath a name,
 But waits upon this wheel,
 Kingdomes too have their Physick, and for steel,
 Exchange their peace, and furs.
 Thus doth God Key disorder'd man
 (Which none else can,)
 Tuning his brest to rise, or fall ;
 And by a sacred, needfull art
 Like strings, stretch ev'ry part
 Making the whole most Musicall.

30

40

The Tempest.

How is man parcell'd out ? how ev'ry hour
 Shews him himself, or somthing he should see ?
 This late, long heat may his Instruction be,
 And tempests have more in them than a showr.

*When nature on her bosome saw
 Her Infants die,
 And all her flowres wither'd to straw,
 Her breasts grown dry ;
 She made the Earth their nurse, & tomb,
 Sigh to the sky,
 'Til to those sighes fetch'd from her womb
 Rain did reply,
 So in the midst of all her fears
 And faint requests
 Her Earnest sighes procur'd her tears
 And fill'd her breasts.*

10

O that man could do so ! that he would hear
 The world read to him ! all the vast expanse
 In the Creation shed, and slav'd to sense
 Makes up but lectures for his eie, and ear.

20

Sure, mighty love foreseeing the descent
 Of this poor Creature, by a gracious art
 Hid in these low things snares to gain his heart,
 And layd surprizes in each Element.

All things here shew him heaven ; Waters that fall
 Chide, and fly up ; Mists of corruptest fume
 Quit their first beds & mount ; trees, herbs, flowres, all
 Strive upwards stil, and point him the way home.

How do they cast off grossness ? only Earth,
 And Man (like Issachar) in lodes delight,
 Water's refin'd to Motion, Aire to Light,
 Fire to all * three, but man hath no such mirth.

30
 * Light, Motion,
heat.

Plants in the root with Earth do most Comply,
 Their Leafs with water, and humiditie,
 The Flowres to air draw neer, and subtiltie,
 And seeds a kinred fire have with the sky.

All have their keyes, and set ascents ; but man
 Though he knows these, and hath more of his own,
 Sleeps at the ladders foot ; alas ! what can
 These new discoveries do, except they drown ?

40

Thus groveling in the shade, and darkness, he Sinks to a dead oblivion ; and though all
 He sees, (like Pyramids,) shoot from this ball
 And less'ning still grow up invisibly,

Yet hugs he stil his durt ; The stuffe he wears
 And painted trimming takes down both his eies,
 Heaven hath less beauty than the dust he spies,
 And money better musick than the Spheres.

Life's but a blast, he knows it ; what ? shal straw,
 And bul-rush-fetters temper his short hour ?
 Must he nor sip, nor sing ? grows ne'r a flower
 To crown his temples ? shal dreams be his law ?

50

O foolish man ! how hast thou lost thy sight ?
 How is it that the Sun to thee alone
 Is grown thick darkness, and thy bread, a stone ?
 Hath flesh no softness now ? mid-day no light ?

Lord ! thou didst put a soul here ; If I must
 Be broke again, for flints will give no fire
 Without a steel, O let thy power cleer
 Thy gift once more, and grind this flint to dust !

60

Retirement.

Who on yon throne of Azure sits,
 Keeping close house
 Above the morning-starre,
 Whose meaner showes,
 And outward utensils these glories are
 That shine and share
 Part of his mansion ; He one day
 When I went quite astray
 Out of meer love
 By his mild Dove
 Did shew me home, and put me in the way.

10

Let it suffice at length thy fits
 And lusts (said he,)
 Have had their wish, and way ;
 Presse not to be
 Still thy own foe, and mine ; for to this day
 I did delay,
 And would not see, but chose to wink,
 Nay, at the very brink
 And edge of all
 When thou wouldst fall
 My love-twist held thee up, my unseen link.

20

I know thee well ; for I have fram'd
 And hate thee not,
 Thy spirit too is mine ;
 I know thy lot,

Extent, and end, for my hands drew the line
Assigned thine ;

If then thou would'st unto my seat,
'Tis not th'appause, and feat
Of dust, and clay

30

Leads to that way,

But from those follies a resolv'd Retreat.

4.

Now here below where yet untam'd
Thou doest thus rove

I have a house as well
As there above,

In it my Name, and honour both do dwell
And shall untill

I make all new ; there nothing gay
In perfumes, or Array,
Dust lies with dust
And hath but just 40

The same Respect, and room, with ev'ry clay.

5.

A faithful school where thou maist see
In Heraldrie
Of stones, and speechless Earth
Thy true descent ;

Where dead men preach, who can turn feasts, and mirth
To funerals, and Lent.

50

There dust that out of doors might fill
Thy eies, and blind thee still,
Is fast asleep ;

Up then, and keep

Within those doors, (my doors) dost hear? I will.

Love, and Discipline.

Since in a land not barren stil
(Because thou dost thy grace distil,
My lott is faln, Blest be thy will !

And since these biting frosts but kil
Some tares in me which choke, or spil
That seed thou sow'st, Blest be thy skil !

Blest be thy Dew, and blest thy frost,
 And happy I to be so crost,
 And cur'd by Crosses at thy cost.

The Dew doth Cheer what is distrest,
 The frosts ill weeds nip, and molest,
 In both thou work'st unto the best.

Thus while thy sev'ral mercies plot,
 And work on me now cold, now hot,
 The work goes on, and slacketh not,
 For as thy hand the weather steers,
 So thrive I best, 'twixt joyes, and tears,
 And all the year have some grean Ears.

The Pilgrimage.

As travellours when the twilight's come,
 And in the sky the stars appear,
 The past daies accidents do summe
 With, Thus wee saw there, and thus here.

Then Jacob-like lodge in a place
 (A place, and no more, is set down,)
 Where till the day restore the race
 They rest and dream homes of their own.

So for this night I linger here,
 And full of tossings too and fro,
 Expect stil when thou wilt appear
 That I may get me up, and go.

I long, and grone, and grieve for thee,
 For thee my words, my tears do gush,
O that I were but where I see!
 Is all the note within my Bush.

As Birds rob'd of their native wood,
 Although their Diet may be fine,
 Yet neither sing, nor like their food,
 But with the thought of home do pine;

So do I mourn, and hang my head,
 And though thou dost me fullnes give,
 Yet look I for far better bread
 Because by this man cannot live.

10

20

O feed me then ! and since I may
Have yet more days, more nights to Count,
So strengthen me, Lord, all the way,
That I may travel to thy Mount.

Heb. Cap. xi. ver. 13.

And they Confessed, that they were strangers, and Pilgrims on the earth.

The Law, and the Gospel.

Lord, when thou didst on Sinai pitch
And shine from Paran, when a firie Law
Pronounc'd with thunder, and thy threats did thaw
Thy Peoples hearts, when all thy weeds were rich
And Inaccessible for light,
Terroure, and might,
How did poor flesh (which after thou didst weare,)
Then faint, and fear !
Thy Chosen flock, like leafs in a high wind,
Whisper'd obedience, and their heads Inclind.

10

But now since we to Sion came,
And through thy bloud thy glory see,
With filial Confidence we touch ev'n thee ;
And where the other mount all clad in flame,
And threatning Clouds would not so much
As 'bide the touch,
We Climb up this, and have too all the way
Thy hand our stay,
Nay, thou tak'st ours, and (which ful Comfort brings)
Thy Dove too bears us on her sacred wings.

20

Yet since man is a very brute
And after all thy Acts of grace doth kick,
Slighting that health thou gav'st, when he was sick,
Be not displeas'd, If I, who have a sute
To thee each houre, beg at thy door
For this one more ;
O plant in me thy Gospel, and thy Law,
Both Faith, and Awe ;
So twist them in my heart, that ever there
I may as wel as Love, find too thy fear !

30

4.

Let me not spil, but drink thy bloud,
 Not break thy fence, and by a black Excess
 Force down a Just Curse, when thy hands would bless ;
 Let me not scatter, and despise my food,
 Or nail those blessed limbs again
 Which bore my pain ;
 So Shall thy mercies flow : for while I fear,
 I know, thou'lt bear,
 But should thy mild Injunction nothing move me,
 I would both think, and Judge I did not love thee.

40

John Cap. 14. ver. 15.

If ye love me, keep my Commandements.

The World.

I saw Eternity the other night
 Like a great Ring of pure and endless light,
 All calm, as it was bright,
 And round beneath it, Time in hours, days, years
 Driv'n by the spheres
 Like a vast shadow mov'd, In which the world
 And all her train were hurl'd ;
 The doting Lover in his quaintest strain
 Did their Complain,
 Neer him, his Lute, his fancy, and his flights,
 Wits sour delights,
 With gloves, and knots the silly snares of pleasure
 Yet his dear Treasure
 All scatter'd lay, while he his eys did pour
 Upon a flowr.

2.

The darksome States-man hung with weights and woe
 Like a thick midnight-fog mov'd there so slow
 He did nor stay, nor go ;
 Condemning thoughts (like sad Ecclipses) scowl
 Upon his soul,
 And Clouds of crying witnesses without
 Pursued him with one shout.
 Yet dig'd the Mole, and lest his ways be found
 Workt under ground,

20

11 sour] so our 1655

Where he did Clutch his prey, but one did see
 That policie,
 Churches and altars fed him, Perjuries
 Were gnats and flies,
 It rain'd about him bloud and tears, but he Drank them as free.

30

3.

The fearfull miser on a heap of rust
 Sate pining all his life there, did scarce trust
 His own hands with the dust,
 Yet would not place one peece above, but lives
 In feare of theeves.
 Thousands there were as frantick as himself
 And hug'd each one his pelf,
 The down-right Epicure plac'd heav'n in sense
 And scornd pretence
 While others slipt into a wide Excesse
 Said little lesse ;
 The weaker sort slight, triviall wares Inslave
 Who think them brave,
 And poor, despised truth sate Counting by
 Their victory.

4.

Yet some, who all this while did weep and sing,
 And sing, and weep, soar'd up into the Ring,
 But most would use no wing.
 O fools (said I,) thus to prefer dark night
 Before true light,
 To live in grots, and caves, and hate the day
 Because it shews the way,
 The way which from this dead and dark abode
 Leads up to God,
 A way where you might tread the Sun, and be
 More bright than he.
 But as I did their madnes so discusse
 One whisper'd thus,
This Ring the Bride-groome did for none provide
But for his bride.

John Cap. 2. ver. 16, 17.

All that is in the world, the lust of the flesh, the lust of the Eys, and the pride of life, is not of the father, but is of the world.

And the world passeth away, and the lusts thereof, but he that doth the will of God abideth for ever.

The Mutinie.

Weary of this same Clay, and straw, I laid
 Me down to breath, and casting in my heart
 The after-burthens, and griefs yet to come,
 The heavy sum
 So shook my brest, that (sick and sore dismai'd)
 My thoughts, like water which some stone doth start
 Did quit their troubled Channel, and retire
 Unto the banks, where, storming at those bounds,
 They murmur'd sore; But I, who felt them boyl
 And knew their Coyl,
 Turning to him, who made poor sand to tire
 And tame proud waves, If yet these barren grounds
 And thirstie brick must be (said I)
 My taske, and Destinie,

10

Let me so strive and struggle with thy foes
 (Not thine alone, but mine too,) that when all
 Their Arts and force are built unto the height
 That Babel-weight
 May prove thy glory, and their shame; so Close
 And knit me to thee, That though in this vale
 Of sin, and death I sojourn, yet one Eie
 May look to thee, To thee the finisher
 And Author of my faith; so shew me home
 That all this fome
 And frothie noise which up and down doth flie
 May find no lodging in mine Eie, or Eare,
 O seal them up! that these may flie
 Like other tempests by.

20

Not but I know thou hast a shorter Cut
 To bring me home, than through a wildernes,
 A Sea, or Sands and Serpents; Yet since thou
 (As thy words show)
 Though in this desert I were wholly shut,
 Canst light and lead me there with such redress
 That no decay shal touch me; O be pleas'd
 To fix my steps, and whatsoever path
 Thy sacred and eternal wil decreed
 For thy bruis'd reed

30

O give it ful obedience, that so seiz'd
Of all I have, I may nor move thy wrath
Nor grieve thy Dove, but soft and mild
Both live and die thy Child.

40

Revel. Cap. 2. ver. 17.

To him that overcometh wil I give to eate of the hidden Manna, and I wil give him a white stone, and in the stone a new name written, which no man knoweth, saving he that receiveth it.

The Constellation.

Fair, order'd lights (whose motion without noise
Resembles those true Joys
Whose spring is on that hil where you do grow
And we here tast sometimes below,)

With what exact obedience do you move
Now beneath, and now above,
And in your vast progressions overlook
The darkest night, and closest nook !

Some nights I see you in the gladsome East,
Some others neer the West,
And when I cannot see, yet do you shine
And beat about your endles line.

10

Silence, and light, and watchfulnes with you
Attend and wind the Clue,
No sleep, nor sloth assailes you, but poor man
Still either sleeps, or slips his span.

He grops beneath here, and with restless Care
First makes, then hugs a snare,
Adores dead dust, sets heart on Corne and grass
But seldom doth make heav'n his glass.

20

Musick and mirth (if there be musick here)
Take up, and tune his year,

These things are Kin to him, and must be had,
Who kneels, or sighs a life is mad.

Perhaps some nights hee'l watch with you, and peep
When it were best to sleep,

Dares know Effects, and Judge them long before,
When th' herb he treads knows much, much more.

But seeks he your Obedience, Order, Light,
 Your calm and wel-train'd flight,
 Where, though the glory differ in each star,
 Yet is there peace still, and no war?

30

Since plac'd by him who calls you by your names
 And fixt there all your flames,
 Without Command you never acted ought
 And then you in your Courses fought.

But here Commission'd by a black self-wil
 The sons the father kil,
 The Children Chase the mother, and would heal
 The wounds they give, by crying, zeale.

40

Then Cast her bloud, and tears upon thy book
 Where they for fashion look,
 And like that Lamb which had the Dragons voice
 Seem mild, but are known by their noise.

Thus by our lusts disorder'd into wars
 Our guides prove wandering stars,
 Which for these mists, and black days were reserv'd,
 What time we from our first love swerv'd.

Yet O for his sake who sits now by thee
 All crown'd with victory,

50

So guide us through this Darknes, that we may
 Be more and more in love with day;

Settle, and fix our hearts, that we may move
 In order, peace, and love,
 And taught obedience by thy whole Creation,
 Become an humble, holy nation.

Give to thy spouse her perfect, and pure dress,
Beauty and holiness,

And so repair these Rents, that men may see
 And say, Where God is, all agree.

60

The Shepherds.

Sweet, harmles livers ! (on whose holy leisure
 Waits Innocence and pleasure,)
 Whose leaders to those pastures, and cleer springs,
 Were Patriarchs, Saints, and Kings,

I livers L 1858 C : lives 1655

How happend it that in the dead of night
 You only saw true light,
 While Palestine was fast a sleep, and lay
 Without one thought of Day?
 Was it because those first and blessed swains
 Were pilgrims on those plains 10
 When they receiv'd the promise, for which now
 'Twas there first shown to you?
 'Tis true, he loves that Dust whereon they go
 That serve him here below,
 And therefore might for memory of those
 His love there first disclose ;
 But wretched Salem once his love, must now
 No voice, nor vision know,
 Her stately Piles with all their height and pride
 Now languished and died, 20
 And Bethlems humble Cotts above them stept
 While all her Seers slept ;
 Her Cedar, firr, hew'd stones and gold were all
 Polluted through their fall,
 And those once sacred mansions were now
 Meer emptiness and show,
 This made the Angel call at reeds and thatch,
 Yet where the shepherds watch,
 And Gods own lodging (though he could not lack,)
 To be a common Rack ; 30
 No costly pride, no soft-cloath'd luxurie
 In those thin Cels could lie,
 Each stirring wind and storm blew through their Cots
 Which never harbour'd plots,
 Only Content, and love, and humble joys
 Lived there without all noise,
 Perhaps some harmless Cares for the next day
 Did in their bosomes play,
 As where to lead their sheep, what silent nook,
 What springs or shades to look, 40
 But that was all ; And now with gladsome care
 They for the town prepare,
 They leave their flock, and in a busie talk
 All towards Bethlem walk
 To see their souls great shepherd, who was come
 To bring all straglers home,
 12 'Twas] 'Iwas 1655

Where now they find him out, and taught before
 That Lamb of God adore,
 That Lamb whose daies great Kings and Prophets wish'd
 And long'd to see, but miss'd. 50
 The first light they beheld was bright and gay
 And turn'd their night to day,
 But to this later light they saw in him,
 Their day was dark, and dim.

Misery.

Lord, bind me up, and let me lye
 A Pris'ner to my libertie,
 If such a state at all can be
 As an Impris'ment serving thee ;
 The wind, though gather'd in thy fist,
 Yet doth it blow stil where it list,
 And yet shouldst thou let go thy hold
 Those gusts might quarrel and grow bold.
 As waters here, headlong and loose
 The lower grounds stil chase, and choose, 10
 Where spreading all the way they seek
 And search out ev'ry hole, and Creek ;
 So my spilt thoughts winding from thee
 Take the down-rode to vanitie,
 Where they all stray and strive, which shal
 Find out the first and steepest fal ;
 I cheer their flow, giving supply
 To what's already grown too high,
 And having thus perform'd that part
 Feed on those vomits of my heart. 20
 I break the fence my own hands made
 Then lay that trespass in the shade,
 Some fig-leafs stil I do devise
 As if thou hadst nor ears, nor Eyes.
 Excesse of friends, of words, and wine
 Take up my day, while thou dost shine
 All unregarded, and thy book
 Hath not so much as one poor look.
 If thou steal in amidst the mirth
 And kindly tel me, I am Earth,
 I shut thee out, and let that slip,
 Such Musick spoils good fellowship. 30

Thus wretched I, and most unkind,
 Exclude my dear God from my mind,
 Exclude him thence, who of that Cel
 Would make a Court, should he there dwel.
 He goes, he yields ; And troubled sore
 His holy spirit grieves therefore,
 The mighty God, th' eternal King
 Doth grieve for Dust, and Dust doth sing.
 But I go on, haste to Devest
 My self of reason, till opprest
 And buried in my surfeits I
 Prove my own shame and miserie.
 Next day I call and cry for thee
 Who shouldst not then come neer to me,
 But now it is thy servants pleasure
 Thou must (and dost) give him his measure.
 Thou dost, thou com'st, and in a showr
 Of healing sweets thy self dost powr
 Into my wounds, and now thy grace
 (I know it wel,) fills all the place ;
 I sit with thee by this new light,
 And for that hour th'art my delight,
 No man can more the world despise
 Or thy great mercies better prize.
 I School my Eys, and strictly dwel
 Within the Circle of my Cel,
 That Calm and silence are my Joys
 Which to thy peace are but meer noise.
 At length I feel my head to ake,
 My fingers Itch, and burn to take
 Some new Imployment, I begin
 To swel and fome and fret within.

*" The Age, the present times are not
 " To snudge in, and embrace a Cot,
 " Action and bloud now get the game,
 " Disdein treads on the peaceful name,
 " Who sits at home too bears a load
 " Greater than those that gad abroad.*

70

Thus do I make thy gifts giv'n me
 The only quarrellers with thee,

I'd loose those knots thy hands did tie,
 Then would go travel, fight or die.
 Thousands of wild and waste Infusions
 Like waves beat on my resolutions,
 As flames about their fuel run
 And work, and wind til all be done,
 So my fierce soul bustles about
 And never rests til all be out.
 Thus wilded by a peevish heart
 Which in thy musick bears no part
 I storm at thee, calling my peace
 A Lethargy, and meer disease,
 Nay, those bright beams shot from thy eys
 To calm me in these mutinies
 I stile meer tempers, which take place
 At some set times, but are thy grace.

80

Such is mans life, and such is mine
 The worst of men, and yet stil thine,
 Stil thine thou know'st, and if not so
 Then give me over to my foe.
 Yet since as easie 'tis for thee
 To make man good, as bid him be,
 And with one glaunce (could he that gain,)
 To look him out of all his pain,
 O send me from thy holy hil
 So much of strength, as may fulfil
 All thy delight (what e'r they be)
 And sacred Institutes in me ;
 Open my rockie heart, and fil
 It with obedience to thy wil,
 Then seal it up, that as none see,
 So none may enter there but thee.

90

100

O hear my God ! hear him, whose bloud
 Speaks more and better for my good !
 O let my Crie come to thy throne !
 My crie not pour'd with tears alone,
 (For tears alone are often foul)
 But with the bloud of all my soul,
 With spirit-sighs, and earnest grones,
 Faithful and most repenting mones,
 With these I crie, and crying pine
 Till thou both mend and make me thine.

110

The Sap.

Come sapless Blossom, creep not stil on Earth
 Forgetting thy first birth ;
 'Tis not from dust, or if so, why dost thou
 Thus cal and thirst for dew ?
 It tends not thither, if it doth, why then
 This growth and stretch for heav'n ?
 Thy root sucks but diseases, worms there seat
 And claim it for their meat.
 Who plac'd thee here, did something then Infuse
 Which now can tel thee news. 10
 There is beyond the Stars an hil of myrrh
 From which some drops fal here,
 On it the Prince of Salem sits, who deals
 To thee thy secret meals,
 There is thy Country, and he is the way
 And hath withal the key.
 Yet liv'd he here sometimes, and bore for thee
 A world of miserie,
 For thee, who in the first mans loyns didst fal
 From that hil to this vale, 20
 And had not he so done, it is most true
 Two deaths had bin thy due ;
 But going hence, and knowing wel what woes
 Might his friends discompose,
 To shew what strange love he had to our good
 He gave his sacred bloud
 By wil our sap, and Cordial ; now in this
 Lies such a heav'n of bliss,
 That, who but truly tasts it, no decay
 Can touch him any way, 30
 Such secret life, and vertue in it lies
 It wil exalt and rise
 And actuate such spirits as are shed
 Or ready to be dead,
 And bring new too. Get then this sap, and get Good store of it, but let
 The vessel where you put it be for sure
 To all your pow'r most pure ;
 There is at all times (though shut up) in you
 A powerful, rare dew, 40

Which only grief and love extract ; with this
 Be sure, and never miss,
 To wash your vessel wel : Then humbly take
 This balm for souls that ake,
 And one who drank it thus, assures that you
 Shal find a Joy so true,
 Such perfect Ease, and such a lively sense
 Of grace against all sins,
 That you'l Confess the Comfort such, as even Brings to, and comes from Heaven.

50

Mount of Olives.

When first I saw true beauty, and thy Joys
 Active as light, and calm without all noise
 Shin'd on my soul, I felt through all my powr's
 Such a rich air of sweets, as Evening shows
 Fand by a gentle gale Convey and breath
 On some parch'd bank, crown'd with a flowrie wreath ;
 Odors, and Myrrh, and balm in one rich floud
 O'r-ran my heart, and spirited my bloud,
 My thoughts did swim in Comforts, and mine eie
 Confest, The world did only paint and lie.
 And where before I did no safe Course steer
 But wander'd under tempests all the year,
 Went bleak and bare in body as in mind,
 And was blow'n through by ev'ry storm and wind,
 I am so warm'd now by this glance on me,
 That, midst all storms I feel a Ray of thee ;
 So have I known some beauteous Paisage rise
 In suddain flowres and arbours to my Eies,
 And in the depth and dead of winter bring
 To my Cold thoughts a lively sense of spring.

10

Thus fed by thee, who dost all beings nourish,
 My wither'd leafs again look green and flourish,
 I shine and shelter underneath thy wing
 Where sick with love I strive thy name to sing,
 Thy glorious name ! which grant I may so do
 That these may be thy Praise, and my Joy too.

Man.

Weighing the stedfastness and state
Of some mean things which here below reside,
Where birds like watchful Clocks the noiseless date
And Intercourse of times divide,
Where Bees at night get home and hive, and flows
Early, aswel as late,
Rise with the Sun, and set in the same bowrs ;

2.

I would (said I) my God would give
The staidness of these things to man ! for these
To his divine appointments ever cleave,
And no new business breaks their peace ;
The birds nor sow, nor reap, yet sup and dine,
The flowres without clothes live,
Yet Solomon was never drest so fine.

10

Man hath stil either toyes, or Care,
He hath no root, nor to one place is ty'd,
But ever restless and Irregular
About this Earth doth run and ride,
He knows he hath a home, but scarce knows where,
He sayes it is so far
That he hath quite forgot how to go there.

20

He knocks at all doors, strays and roams,
Nay hath not so much wit as some stones have
Which in the darkest nights point to their homes,
By some hid sense their Maker gave ;
Man is the shuttle, to whose winding quest
And passage through these looms
God order'd motion, but ordain'd no rest.

7 bowrs] howrs G

I walkt the other day (to spend my hour,)
 Into a field
 Where I sometimes had seen the soil to yield
 A gallant flowre,
 But Winter now had ruffled all the bowre
 And curious store
 I knew there heretofore.

2.

Yet I whose search lov'd not to peep and peer
 I'th' face of things
 Thought with my self, there might be other springs 10
 Besides this here
 Which, like cold friends, sees us but once a year,
 And so the flowre
 Might have some other bowre.

3.

Then taking up what I could neereſt ſpie
 I digg'd about
 That place where I had ſeen him to grow out,
 And by and by
 I ſaw the warm Recluse alone to lie
 Where freſh and green 20
 He lived of uſ unſeen.

4.

Many a queſtion Intricate and rare
 Did I there ſtrow,
 But all I could extort was, that he now
 Did there repair
 Such loſſes as befel him in this air
 And would e'r long
 Come forth moſt fair and young.

5.

This paſt, I threw the Clothes quite o'r his head,
 And ſtung with fear 30
 Of my own frailty dropt down many a tear
 Upon his bed,
 Then ſighing whiſper'd, Happy are the dead!
What peace doth now
Rock him aſleep below?

6.

And yet, how few believe such doctrine springs
 From a poor root
 Which all the Winter sleeps here under foot
 And hath no wings
 To raise it to the truth and light of things, 40
 But is stil trod
 By ev'ry wandring clod.

7.

O thou! whose spirit did at first inflame
 And warm the dead,
 And by a sacred Incubation fed
 With life this frame
 Which once had neither being, forme, nor name,
 Grant I may so
 Thy steps track here below,

That in these Masques and shadows I may see 50
 Thy sacred way,
 And by those hid ascents climb to that day
 Which breaks from thee
 Who art in all things, though invisibly ;
 Shew me thy peace,
 Thy mercy, love, and ease,

9.

And from this Care, where dreams and sorrows reign
 Lead me above
 Where Light, Joy, Leisure, and true Comforts move
 Without all pain, 60
 There, hid in thee, shew me his life again
 At whose dumbe urn
 Thus all the year I mourn.

Begging.

King of Mercy, King of Love,
 In whom I live, in whom I move,
 Perfect what thou hast begun,
 Let no night put out this Sun ;
 Grant I may, my chief desire !
 Long for thee, to thee aspire,
 Let my youth, my bloom of dayes
 Be my Comfort, and thy praise,
 That hereafter, when I look
 O'r the sullyed, sinful book, 10
 I may find thy hand therein
 Wiping out my shame, and sin.
 O it is thy only Art
 To reduce a stubborn heart,
 And since thine is victorie,
 Strong holds should belong to thee ;
 Lord then take it, leave it not
 Unto my dispose or lot,
 But since I would not have it mine,
 O my God, let it be thine ! 20

Jude ver. 24, 25.

*Now unto him that is able to keep us from falling, and to present us
 faultless before the presence of his glory with exceeding joy,
 To the only wise God, our Saviour, be glory, and majesty, Dominion and power, now and ever, Amen.*

Ascension-day.

Lord Jesus ! with what sweetness and delights,
Sure, holy hopes, high joys and quickning flights
Dost thou feed thine ! O thou ! the hand that lifts
To him, who gives all good and perfect gifts.
Thy glorious, bright Ascension (though remov'd
So many Ages from me) is so prov'd
And by thy Spirit seal'd to me, that I
Feel me a sharer in thy victory.

I soar and rise
Up to the skies, 10
Leaving the world their day,
And in my flight,
For the true light

Go seeking all the way ;
I greet thy Sepulchre, salute thy Grave,
That blest inclosure, where the Angels gave
The first glad tidings of thy early light,
And resurrection from the earth and night.
I see that morning in thy *Converts tears,
Fresh as the dew, which but this dawning wears ? 20
I smell her spices, and her ointment yields,
As rich a scent as the now Primros'd-fields :
The Day-star smiles, and light with the deceast,
Now shines in all the Chambers of the East.
What stirs, what posting intercourse and mirth
Of Saints and Angels glorifie the earth ?
What sighs, what whispers, busie stops and stays ;
Private and holy talk fill all the ways ?
They pass as at the last great day, and run
In their white robes to seek the risen Sun ; 30
I see them, hear them, mark their haste, and move
Amongst them, with them, wing'd with faith and love.

* St. Mary Magdalene.

deceased B 30 risen] tisen 1655

Thy forty days more secret commerce here,
 After thy death and Funeral, so clear
 And indisputable, shews to my sight
 As the Sun doth, which to those days gave light.
 I walk the fields of Bethani which shine
 All now as fresh as Eden, and as fine.
 Such was the bright world, on the first seventh day,
 Before man brought forth sin, and sin decay ; 40
 When like a Virgin clad in Flowers and green
 The pure earth sat, and the fair woods had seen
 No frost, but flourish'd in that youthful vest,
 With which their great Creator had them drest :
 When Heav'n above them shin'd like molten glass,
 While all the Planets did unclouded pass ;
 And Springs, like dissolv'd Pearls their Streams did pour
 Ne'r marr'd with floods, nor anger'd with a showre.
 With these fair thoughts I move in this fair place,
 And the last steps of my milde Master trace ; 50
 I see him leading out his chosen Train,
 All sad with tears, which like warm Summer-rain
 In silent drops steal from their holy eyes,
 Fix'd lately on the Cross, now on the skies.
 And now (eternal Jesus !) thou dost heave
 Thy blessed hands to bless, these thou dost leave ;
 The cloud doth now receive thee, and their sight
 Having lost thee, behold two men in white !
 Two and no more : what two attest, is true,
 Was thine own answer to the stubborn Jew. 60
 Come then thou faithful witness ! come dear Lord
 Upon the Clouds again to judge this world !

Ascension-Hymn.

Dust and clay
 Mans antient wear !
 Here you must stay,
 But I elsewhere ;
 Souls sojourn here, but may not rest ;
 Who will ascend, must be undrest.

And yet some
 That know to die

Before death come,
Walk to the skie 10
Even in this life ; but all such can
Leave behinde them the old Man.

If a star
Should leave the Sphære,
She must first mar
Her flaming wear,
And after fall, for in her dress
Of glory, she cannot transgress.

Man of old
Within the line 20
Of Eden could
Like the Sun shine
All naked, innocent and bright,
And intimate with Heav'n, as light ;

But since he
That brightness soil'd,
His garments be
All dark and spoil'd,
And here are left as nothing worth,
Till the Refiners fire breaks forth. 30

Then comes he !
Whose mighty light
Made his cloathes be
Like Heav'n, all bright ;
The Fuller, whose pure blood did flow
To make stain'd man more white then snow.

Hee alone
And none else can Bring bone to bone
And rebuild man, 40
And by his all subduing might
Make clay ascend more quick then light.

They are all gone into the world of light !
And I alone sit lingring here ;
Their very memory is fair and bright,
And my sad thoughts doth clear.

It glows and glitters in my cloudy brest
 Like stars upon some gloomy grove,
 Or those faint beams in which this hill is drest,
 After the Sun's remove.

I see them walking in an Air of glory,
 Whose light doth trample on my days : 10
 My days, which are at best but dull and hoary,
 Meer glimring and decays.

O holy hope ! and high humility,
 High as the Heavens above !
 These are your walks, and you have shew'd them me
 To kindle my cold love,

Dear, beauteous death ! the Jewel of the Just,
 Shining no where, but in the dark ;
 What mysteries do lie beyond thy dust ;
 Could man outlook that mark ! 20

He that hath found some fledg'd birds nest, may know
 At first sight, if the bird be flown ;
 But what fair Well, or Grove he sings in now,
 That is to him unknown.

And yet, as Angels in some brighter dreams
 Call to the soul, when man doth sleep :
 So some strange thoughts transcend our wonted theams,
 And into glory peep.

If a star were confin'd into a Tomb
 Her captive flames must needs burn there ; 30
 But when the hand that lockt her up, gives room,
 She'l shine through all the sphære.

O Father of eternal life, and all
 Created glories under thee !
 Resume thy spirit from this world of thrall
 Into true liberty.

Either disperse these mists, which blot and fill
 My perspective (still) as they pass,
 Or else remove me hence unto that hill,
 Where I shall need no glass. 40

White Sunday.

Wellcome white day ! a thousand Suns,
Though seen at once, were black to thee ;
For after their light, darkness comes,
But thine shines to eternity.

Those flames which on the Apostles rush'd
At this great feast, and in a tyre
Of cloven Tongues their heads all brush'd,
And crown'd them with Prophetic fire :

Can these new lights be like to those,
These lights of Serpents like the Dove ?
Thou hadst no gall, ev'n for thy foes,
And thy two wings were Grief and Love.

10

Though then some boast that fire each day,
And on Christs coat pin all their shreds ;
Not sparing openly to say,
His candle shines upon their heads :

Yet while some rays of that great light
Shine here below within thy Book,
They never shall so blinde my sight
But I will know which way to look.

20

For though thou doest that great light lock,
And by this lesser commerce keep :
Yet by these glances of the flock
I can discern Wolves from the Sheep.

Not, but that I have wishes too,
And pray, These last may be as first,
Or better ; but thou long ago
Hast said, These last should be the worst.

Besides, thy method with thy own,
Thy own dear people pens our times,
Our stories are in theirs set down
And penalties spread to our Crimes.

30

Again, if worst and worst implies
A State, that no redress admits,
Then from thy Cross unto these days
The rule without Exception fits.

And yet, as in nights gloomy page
 One silent star may interline ;
 So in this last and lewdest age,
 Thy antient love on some may shine.

40

For, though we hourly breath decays,
 And our best note and highest ease
 Is but meer changing of the keys,
 And a Consumption that doth please ;

Yet thou the great eternal Rock
 Whose height above all ages shines,
 Art still the same, and canst unlock
 Thy waters to a soul that pines.

Since then thou art the same this day
 And ever, as thou wert of old,
 And nothing doth thy love allay
 But our hearts dead and sinful cold :

50

As thou long since wert pleas'd to buy
 Our drown'd estate, taking the Curse
 Upon thy self, so to destroy
 The knots we tyed upon thy purse,

So let thy grace now make the way
 Even for thy love ; for by that means
 We, who are nothing but foul clay,
 Shal be fine gold, which thou didst cleanse.

60

O come ! refine us with thy fire !
 Refine us ! we are at a loss.
 Let not thy stars for Balaams hire
 Dissolve into the common dross !

The Proffer.

Be still black Parasites,
 Flutter nò more ;
 Were it still winter, as it was before,
 You'd make no flights ;
 But now the dew and Sun have warm'd my bowres,
 You flie and flock to suck the flowers.

But you would honey make :
 These buds will wither,
And what you now extract, in harder weather
 Will serve to take ;
Wise husbands will (you say) there wants prevent,
 Who do not so, too late repent.

10

 O poys'nous, subtile fowls !
 The flies of hell
That buz in every ear, and blow on souls
 Until they smell
And rot, descend not here, nor think to stay,
 I've read, who 'twas, drove you away.

 Think you these longing eyes,
 Though sick and spent,
And almost famish'd, ever will consent
 To leave those skies,
That glass of souls and spirits, where well drest
 They shine in white (like stars) and rest.

20

 Shall my short hour, my inch,
 My one poor sand,
And crum of life, now ready to disband
 Revolt and flinch,
And having born the burthen all the day,
 Now cast at night my Crown away ?

30

 No, No ; I am not he,
 Go seek elsewhere.
I skill not your fine tinsel, and false hair,
 Your Sorcery
And smooth seducements : I'll not stuff my story
 With your Commonwealth and glory.

 There are, that will sow tares
 And scatter death
Amongst the quick, selling their souls and breath
 For any wares ;
But when thy Master comes, they'll finde and see
 There's a reward for them and thee.

40

Then keep the antient way !
 Spit out their phlegm
 And fill thy brest with home ; think on thy dream :
 A calm, bright day !
 A Land of flowers and spices ! the word given,
If these be fair, O what is Heaven !

Cock-crowing.

Father of lights ! what Sunnie seed,
 What glance of day hast thou confin'd
 Into this bird ? To all the breed
 This busie Ray thou hast assign'd ;
 Their magnetisme works all night,
 And dreams of Paradise and light.
 Their eyes watch for the morning-hue,
 Their little grain expelling night
 So shines and sings, as if it knew
 The path unto the house of light. 10
 It seems their candle, howe'r done,
 Was tinn'd and lighted at the sunne.

If such a tincture, such a touch,
 So firm a longing can impowre
 Shall thy own image think it much
 To watch for thy appearing hour ?
 If a meer blast so fill the sail,
 Shall not the breath of God prevail ?

O thou immortall light and heat !
 Whose hand so shines through all this frame, 20
 That by the beauty of the seat,
 We plainly see, who made the same.
 Seeing thy seed abides in me,
 Dwell thou in it, and I in thee.

To sleep without thee, is to die ;
 Yea, 'tis a death partakes of hell :
 For where thou dost not close the eye
 It never opens, I can tell.

In such a dark, Ægyptian border,
 The shades of death dwell and disorder.

Title Cock-growing] Cock crowing catchword 1655 (?) 30

If joyes, and hopes, and earnest throws,
And hearts, whose Pulse beats still for light
Are given to birds ; who, but thee, knows
A love-sick souls exalted flight ?

Can souls be track'd by any eye
But his, who gave them wings to flie ?

Onely this Veyle which thou hast broke,
And must be broken yet in me,
This veyle, I say, is all the cloke
And cloud which shadows thee from me.

40

This veyle thy full-ey'd love denies,
And onely gleams and fractions spies.

O take it off ! make no delay,
But brush me with thy light, that I
May shine unto a perfect day,
And warme me at thy glorious Eye !

O take it off ! or till it flee,
Though with no Lilie, stay with me !

The Starre.

What ever 'tis, whose beauty here below
Attracts thee thus & makes thee stream & flow,
And wind and curle, and wink and smile,
Shifting thy gate and guile :

Though thy close commerce nought at all imbarrs
My present search, for Eagles eye not starrs,
And still the lesser by the best
And highest good is blest :

Yet, seeing all things that subsist and be,
Have their Commissions from Divinitie,
And teach us duty, I will see
What man may learn from thee.

10

First, I am sure, the Subject so respected
Is well disposed, for bodies once infected,
Deprav'd or dead, can have with thee
No hold, nor sympathie.

Next, there's in it a restless, pure desire
And longing for thy bright and vitall fire,
Desire that never will be quench'd,
Nor can be with'd, nor wrench'd.

20

These are the Magnets which so strongly move
 And work all night upon thy light and love,
 As beauteous shapes, we know not why,
 Command and guide the eye.

For where desire, celestial, pure desire
 Hath taken root, and grows, and doth not tire,
 There God a Commerce states, and sheds
 His Secret on their heads.

This is the Heart he craves ; and who so will
 But give it him, and grudge not ; he shall feel
 That God is true, as herbs unseen
 Put on their youth and green.

30

The Palm-tree.

Deare friend sit down, and bear awhile this shade
 As I have yours long since ; This Plant, you see
 So prest and bow'd, before sin did degrade
 Both you and it, had equall liberty

With other trees : but now shut from the breath
 And air of Eden, like a male-content
 It thrives no where. This makes these weights (like death
 And sin) hang at him ; for the more he's bent

The more he grows. Celestial natures still Aspire for home ; This Solomon of old
 By flowers and carvings and mysterious skill
 Of Wings, and Cherubims, and Palms foretold.

10

This is the life which hid above with Christ
 In God, doth always (hidden) multiply,
 And spring, and grow, a tree ne'r to be pric'd,
 A Tree, whose fruit is immortality.

Here Spirits that have run their race and fought
 And won the fight, and have not fear'd the frowns
 Nor lov'd the smiles of greatness, but have wrought
 Their masters will, meet to receive their Crowns.

20

Here is the patience of the Saints : this Tree
Is water'd by their tears, as flowers are fed
With dew by night ; but One you cannot see
Sits here and numbers all the tears they shed.

Here is their faith too, which if you will keep
When we two part, I will a journey make
To pluck a Garland hence, while you do sleep
And weave it for your head against you wake.

Joy.

Be dumb course measures, jar no more ; to me
There is no discord, but your harmony.
False, juggling sounds ; a grone well drest, where care
Moves in disguise, and sighs afflict the air :
Sorrows in white ; griefs tun'd ; a sugerd Dosis
Of Wormwood, and a Deaths-head crown'd with Roses.
He weighs not your forc'd accents, who can have
A lesson plaid him by a winde or wave.
Such numbers tell their days, whose spirits be Lull'd by those Charmers to a Lethargy.

10

But as for thee, whose faults long since require
More eyes then stars ; whose breath could it aspire
To equal winds : would prove too short : Thou hast
Another mirth, a mirth though overcast
With clouds and rain, yet full as calm and fine
As those clear heights which above tempests shine.

Therefore while the various showers
Kill and cure the tender flowers,
While the winds refresh the year
Now with clouds, now making clear,
Be sure under pains of death
To ply both thine eyes and breath.

20

As leafs in Bowers
Whisper their hours,
And Hermit-wells
Drop in their Cells :

So in sighs and unseen tears
Pass thy solitary years,

And going hence, leave written on some Tree,
Sighs make joy sure, and shaking fastens thee.

30

The Favour.

O thy bright looks ! thy glance of love
 Shown, & but shown me from above !
 Rare looks ! that can dispense such joy
 As without wooing wins the coy.
 And makes him mourn, and pine and dye
 Like a starv'd Eaglet, for thine eye.
 Some kinde herbs here, though low & far,
 Watch for, and know their loving star.
 O let no star compare with thee !
 Nor any herb out-duty me !
 So shall my nights and mornings be
 Thy time to shine, and mine to see.

10

The Garland.

Thou, who dost flow and flourish here below,
 To whom a falling star and nine dayes glory,
 Or some frail beauty makes the bravest shew,
 Hark, and make use of this ensuing story.

When first my youthfull, sinfull age
 Grew master of my wayes,
 Appointing errour for my Page,
 And darknesse for my dayes ;
 I flung away, and with full crie
 Of wild affections, rid
 In post for pleasures, bent to trie
 All gamesters that would bid.
 I played with fire, did counsell spurn,
 Made life my common stake ;
 But never thought that fire would burn,
 Or that a soul could ake.
 Glorious deceptions, gilded mists,
 False joyes, phantastick flights,
 Peeces of sackcloth with silk-lists,
 These were my prime delights.
 I sought choice bowres, haunted the spring,
 Cull'd flowres and made me posies :
 Gave my fond humours their full wing,
 And crown'd my head with Roses.

But at the height of this Careire
 I met with a dead man,
 Who noting well my vain Abear,
 Thus unto me began :
 Desist fond fool, be not undone,
 What thou hast cut to day
 Will fade at night, and with this Sun
 Quite vanish and decay.

30

*Flowres gather'd in this world, die here ; if thou
 Wouldst have a wreath that fades not, let them grow,
 And grow for thee ; who spares them here, shall find
 A Garland, where comes neither rain, nor wind.*

Love-sick.

Iesus, my life ! how shall I truly love thee ?
 O that thy Spirit would so strongly move me,
 That thou wert pleas'd to shed thy grace so farr
 As to make man all pure love, flesh a star !
 A star that would ne'r set, but ever rise,
 So rise and run, as to out-run these skies,
 These narrow skies (narrow to me) that barre,
 So barre me in, that I am still at warre,
 At constant warre with them. O come and rend,
 Or bow the heavens ! Lord bow them and descend,
 And at thy presence make these mountains flow,
 These mountains of cold Ice in me ! Thou art
 Refining fire, O then refine my heart,
 My foul, foul heart ! Thou art immortall heat,
 Heat motion gives ; Then warm it, till it beat,
 So beat for thee, till thou in mercy hear,
 So hear that thou must open : open to
 A sinfull wretch, A wretch that caus'd thy woe,
 Thy woe, who caus'd his weal ; so far his weal
 That thou forgott'st thine own, for thou didst seal
 Mine with thy blood, thy blood which makes thee mine,
 Mine ever, ever ; And me ever thine.

Trinity-Sunday.

O holy, blessed, glorious three,
 Eternall witnesses that be
 In heaven, One God in trinitie !

31 Will catchword : Whll text 1655

As here on earth (when men with-stood,)
 The Spirit, Water, and the Blood,
 Made my Lords Incarnation good :

So let the Anty-types in me
 Elected, bought and seal'd for free,
 Be own'd, sav'd, Sainted by you three !

Psalm 104.

Up, O my soul, and blesse the Lord. O God,
 My God, how great, how very great art thou !
 Honour and majesty have their abode
 With thee, and crown thy brow.

Thou cloath'st thy self with light, as with a robe,
 And the high, glorious heav'ns thy mighty hand
 Doth spread like curtains round about this globe
 Of Air, and Sea, and Land.

The beams of thy bright Chambers thou dost lay
 In the deep waters, which no eye can find ; 10
 The clouds thy chariots are, and thy path-way
 The wings of the swift wind.

In thy celestiall, gladsome messages
 Dispatch'd to holy souls, sick with desire
 And love of thee, each willing Angel is Thy minister in fire.

Thy arm unmoveable for ever laid
 And founded the firm earth ; then with the deep
 As with a vail thou hidst it, thy floods plaid
 Above the mountains steep. 20

At thy rebuke they fled, at the known voice
 Of their Lords thunder they retir'd apace :
 Some up the mountains past by secret ways,
 Some downwards to their place.

For thou to them a bound hast set, a bound
 Which (though but sand) keeps in and curbs whole seas :
 There all their fury, fume and hideous sound
 Must languish and decrease.

And as thy care bounds these, so thy rich love
 Doth broach the earth, and lesser brooks lets forth, 30
 Which run from hills to valleys, and improve
 Their pleasure and their worth.

These to the beasts of every field give drink ;
 There the wilde asses swallow the cool spring :
 And birds amongst the branches on their brink
 Their dwellings have and sing.
 Thou from thy upper Springs above, from those
 Chambers of rain, where Heav'ns large bottles lie,
 Doest water the parch'd hills, whose breaches close
 Heal'd by the showers from high. 40
 Grass for the cattel, and herbs for mans use
 Thou mak'st to grow ; these (blest by thee) the earth
 Brings forth, with wine, oyl, bread : All which infuse
 To mans heart strength and mirth.
 Thou giv'st the trees their greenness, ev'n to those Cedars in Lebanon, in whose thick boughs
 The birds their nests build ; though the Stork doth choose
 The fir-trees for her house.
 To the wilde goats the high hills serve for folds,
 The rocks give Conies a retyring place : 50
 Above them the cool Moon her known course holds,
 And the Sun runs his race.
 Thou makest darkness, and then comes the night ;
 In whose thick shades and silence each wilde beast
 Creeps forth, and pinch'd for food, with scent and sight
 Hunts in an eager quest.
 The Lyons whelps impatient of delay
 Roar in the covert of the woods, and seek
 Their meat from thee, who doest appoint the prey
 And feed'st them all the week. 60
 This past, the Sun shines on the earth, and they Retire into their dens ; Man goes abroad
 Unto his work, and at the close of day
 Returns home with his load.
 O Lord my God, how many and how rare
 Are thy great works ! In wisdom hast thou made
 Them all, and this the earth, and every blade
 Of grass, we tread, declare.
 So doth the deep and wide sea, wherein are Innumerable, creeping things both small 70
 And great : there ships go, and the shipmens fear
 The comely spacious Whale.

These all upon thee wait, that thou maist feed
 Them in due season : what thou giv'st, they take ;
 Thy bounteous open hand helps them at need,
 And plenteous meals they make.

When thou doest hide thy face (thy face which keeps
 All things in being) they consume and mourn :
 When thou with-draw'st their breath, their vigour sleeps,
 And they to dust return.

80

Thou send'st thy spirit forth, and they revive,
 The frozen earths dead face thou dost renew.
 Thus thou thy glory through the world dost drive,
 And to thy works art true.

Thine eyes behold the earth, and the whole stage
 Is mov'd and trembles, the hills melt & smoke
 With thy least touch : lightnings and winds that rage
 At thy rebuke are broke.

Therefore as long as thou wilt give me breath
 I will in songs to thy great name employ
 That gift of thine, and to my day of death
 Thou shalt be all my joy.

90

Ile spice my thoughts with thee, and from thy word
 Gather true comforts ; but the wicked liver
 Shall be consum'd. O my soul, bless thy Lord !
 Yea, blesse thou him for ever !

The Bird.

Hither thou com'st : the busie wind all night
 Blew through thy lodging, where thy own warm wing
 Thy pillow was. Many a sullen storm
 (For which course man seems much the fitter born,)
 Rain'd on thy bed
 And harmless head.

And now as fresh and chearful as the light
 Thy little heart in early hymns doth sing
 Unto that Providence, whose unseen arm
 Curb'd them, and cloath'd thee well and warm.
 All things that be, praise him ; and had
 Their lesson taught them, when first made.

10

So hills and valleys into singing break,
And though poor stones have neither speech nor tongue,
While active winds and streams both run and speak,
Yet stones are deep in admiration.

Thus Praise and Prayer here beneath the Sun
Make lesser mornings, when the great are done.

For each inclosed Spirit is a star

Inlightning his own little sphære,

20

Whose light, though fetcht and borrowed from far,

Both mornings makes, and evenings there.

But as these Birds of light make a land glad,
Chirping their solemn Matins on each tree :
So in the shades of night some dark fowls be,
Whose heavy notes make all that hear them, sad.

The Turtle then in Palm-trees mourns,

While Owls and Satyrs howl ;

The pleasant Land to brimstone turns

And all her streams grow foul.

30

Brightness and mirth, and love and faith, all flye,
Till the Day-spring breaks forth again from high.

The Timber.

Sure thou didst flourish once ! and many Springs,
Many bright mornings, much dew, many showers
Past ore thy head : many light Hearts and Wings
Which now are dead, lodg'd in thy living bowers.

And still a new succession sings and flies ;
Fresh Groves grow up, and their green branches shoot
Towards the old and still enduring skies,
While the low Violet thrives at their root.

But thou beneath the sad and heavy Line
Of death, dost waste all senseless, cold and dark ;
Where not so much as dreams of light may shine,
Nor any thought of greenness, leaf or bark.

10

And yet (as if some deep hate and dissent,
Bred in thy growth betwixt high winds and thee,
Were still alive) thou dost great storms resent
Before they come, and know'st how near they be.

14 tongue] tongu 1655 13 if] is 1655

K k

Else all at rest thou lyest, and the fierce breath
 Of tempests can no more disturb thy ease ;
 But this thy strange resentment after death
 Means onely those, who broke (in life) thy peace.

20

So murdered man, when lovely life is done,
 And his blood freez'd, keeps in the Center still
 Some secret sense, which makes the dead blood run
 At his approach, that did the body kill.

And is there any murth'rer worse then sin ?
 Or any storms more foul then a lewd life ?
 Or what Resentient can work more within,
 Then true remorse, when with past sins at strife ?

He that hath left lifes vain joys and vain care,
 And truly hates to be detain'd on earth,
 Hath got an house where many mansions are,
 And keeps his soul unto eternal mirth.

30

But though thus dead unto the world, and ceas'd
 From sin, he walks a narrow, private way ;
 Yet grief and old wounds make him sore displeas'd,
 And all his life a rainy, weeping day.

For though he should forsake the world, and live
 As meer a stranger, as men long since dead ;
 Yet joy it self will make a right soul grieve
 To think, he should be so long vainly lead.

40

But as shades set off light, so tears and grief
 (Though of themselves but a sad blubber'd story)
 By shewing the sin great, shew the relief
 Far greater, and so speak my Saviors glory.

If my way lies through deserts and wilde woods ;
 Where all the Land with scorching heat is curst ;
 Better, the pools should flow with rain and floods
 To fill my bottle, then I die with thirst.

Blest showers they are, and streams sent from above
 Begetting Virgins where they use to flow ;
 And trees of life no other waters love,
 These upper springs and none else make them grow.

50

But these chaste fountains flow not till we dye ;
Some drops may fall before, but a clear spring
And ever running, till we leave to fling
Dirt in her way, will keep above the skie.

Rom. Cap. 6. ver. 7.
He that is dead, is freed from sin.

The Jews.

When the fair year
Of your deliverer comes,
And that long frost which now benums
Your hearts shall thaw ; when Angels here
Shall yet to man appear,
And familiarly confer
Beneath the Oke and Juniper :
When the bright Dove
Which now these many, many Springs
Hath kept above,
Shall with spread wings
Descend, and living waters flow
To make drie dust, and dead trees grow ;

10

O then that I
Might live, and see the Olive bear
Her proper branches ! which now lie
Scattered each where,
And without root and sap decay
Cast by the husband-man away.
And sure it is not far !
For as your fast and foul decays
Forerunning the bright morning-star,
Did sadly note his healing rayes
Would shine elsewhere, since you were blind,
And would be cross, when God was kinde :

20

So by all signs
Our fulness too is now come in,
And the same Sun which here declines
And sets, will few hours hence begin
To rise on you again, and look
Towards old Mamre and Eshcols brook.

30

For surely he
 Who lov'd the world so, as to give
 His onely Son to make it free,
 Whose spirit too doth mourn and grieve
 To see man lost, will for old love
 From your dark hearts this veil remove.

Faith sojourn'd first on earth in you,
 You were the dear and chosen stock :
 The Arm of God, glorious and true,
 Was first reveal'd to be your rock.

40

You were the eldest childe, and when
 Your stony hearts despised love,
 The youngest, ev'n the Gentiles then
 Were chear'd, your jealousy to move.

Thus, Righteous Father ! doest thou deal
 With Brutish men ; Thy gifts go round
 By turns, and timely, and so heal
 The lost Son by the newly found.

Begging.

I, do not go ! thou know'st, I'll dye !
 My Spring and Fall are in thy book !
 Or, if thou goest, do not deny
 To lend me, though from far, one look !

My sins long since have made thee strange,
 A very stranger unto me ;
 No morning-meetings since this change,
 Nor evening-walks have I with thee.

Why is my God thus slow and cold,
 When I am most, most sick and sad ?
 Well fare those blessed days of old
 When thou didst hear the weeping Lad !

10

O do not thou do as I did,
 Do not despise a Love-sick heart !
 What though some clouds defiance bid
 Thy Sun must shine in every part.

Though I have spoil'd, O spoil not thou !
Hate not thine own dear gift and token !
Poor birds sing best, and prettiest show,
When their nest is faln and broken.

20

Dear Lord ! restore thy ancient peace,
Thy quikning friendship, mans bright wealth !
And if thou wilt not give me ease
From sicknesse, give my spirit health !

Palm-Sunday.

Come, drop your branches, strow the way
Plants of the day !
Whom sufferings make most green and gay.

The King of grief, the man of sorrow
Weeping still, like the wet morrow,
Your shades and freshness comes to borrow.

Put on, put on your best array ;
Let the joy'd rode make holy-day,
And flowers that into fields do stray,
Or secret groves, keep the high-way.

10

Trees, flowers & herbs ; birds, beasts & stones,
That since man fell, expect with groans
To see the lamb, which all at once,
Lift up your heads and leave your moans !

For here comes he
Whose death will be
Mans life, and your full liberty.

Hark ! how the children shril and high

Hosanna cry,

Their joys provoke the distant skie,
Where thrones and Seraphins reply,
And their own Angels shine and sing

Dear feast of Palms, of Flowers and Dew !
 Whose fruitful dawn sheds hopes and lights ;
 Thy bright solemnities did shew,
 The third glad day through two sad nights.

I'll get me up before the Sun,
 I'll cut me boughs off many a tree,
 And all alone full early run
 To gather flowers to wellcome thee.

Then like the Palm, though wrong, I'll bear,
 I will be still a childe, still meek
 As the poor Ass, which the proud jear,
 And onely my dear Jesus seek.

If I lose all, and must endure
 The proverb'd griefs of holy Job,
 I care not, so I may secure
 But one green Branch and a white robe.

Jesus weeping.

S. Luke 19. ver. 41.

Blessed, unhappy City ? dearly lov'd
 But still unkinde ! art this day nothing mov'd !
 Art senseless still ? O can'st thou sleep
 When God himself for thee doth weep !
 Stiff-necked Jews ! your fathers breed
 That serv'd the calf, not Abrams seed,
 Had not the Babes Hosanna cryed,
 The stones had spoke, what you denyed.

Dear Jesus weep on ! pour this latter
 Soul-quickning rain, this living water
 On their dead hearts ; but (O my fears !)
 They will drink blood, that despise tears.

My dear, bright Lord ! my Morning-star !
 Shed this live-dew on fields which far
 From hence long for it ! shed it there,
 Where the starv'd earth groans for one tear !
 This land, though with thy hearts blest extract fed,
 Will nothing yield but thorns to wound thy head.

The Daughter of Herodias.

St. Matth. chap. 14. ver. 6. &c.

Vain, sinful Art ! who first did fit
 Thy lewd loath'd Motions unto sounds,
 And made grave Musique like wilde wit
 Erre in loose airs beyond her bounds ?

What fires hath he heap'd on his head ?
 Since to his sins (as needs it must,)
 His Art adds still (though he be dead,)
 New fresh accounts of blood and lust.

Leave then * yong Sorceress ; the Ice
 Will those coy spirits cast asleep,
 Which teach thee now to please * his eyes
 Who doth thy lothsome mother keep.

But thou hast pleas'd so well, he swears,
 And gratifies thy sin with vows :
 His shameless lust in publick wears,
 And to thy soft arts strongly bows.

Skilful Inchantress and true bred !
 Who out of evil can bring forth good ?
 Thy mothers nets in thee were spread,
 She tempts to Incest, thou to blood.

Jesus weeping.

St. John chap. 11. ver. 35.

My dear, Almighty Lord ! why dost thou weep ?
 Why dost thou groan and groan again,
 And with such deep,
 Repeated sighs thy kinde heart pain,

Since the same sacred breath which thus
 Doth Mourn for us,
 Can make mans dead and scatter'd bones
 Unite, and raise up all that dyed, at once?

O holy groans ! Groans of the Dove !
 O healing tears ! the tears of love !
 Dew of the dead ! which makes dust move
 And spring, how is't that you so sadly grieve,
 Who can relieve ?

10

Should not thy sighs refrain thy store
 Of tears, and not provoke to more ?
 Since two afflictions may not reign
 In one at one time, as some feign.
 Those blasts, which o'r our heads here stray,
 If showers then fall, will showers allay,
 As those poor Pilgrims oft have tryed,
 Who in this windy world abide.

20

Dear Lord ! thou art all grief and love,
 But which thou art most, none can prove.
 Thou griev'st, man should himself undo,
 And lov'st him, though he works thy wo.

'Twas not that vast, almighty measure
 Which is requir'd to make up life,
 (Though purchas'd with thy hearts dear treasure,)

Did breed this strife
 Of grief and pity in thy brest,
 The throne where peace and power rest :
 But 'twas thy love that (without leave,)
 Made thine eyes melt, and thy heart heave ;
 For though death cannot so undo
 What thou hast done, (but though man too
 Should help to spoil) thou canst restore
 All better far then 'twas before ;
 Yet, thou so full of pity art
 (Pity which overflows thy heart !)
 That, though the Cure of all mans harm
 Is nothing to thy glorious arm,
 Yet canst not thou that free Cure do,
 But thou must sorrow for him too.

30

40

Then farewell joys ! for while I live,
 My business here shall be to grieve :
 A grief that shall outshine all joys
 For mirth and life, yet without noise.
 A grief, whose silent dew shall breed
 Lilies and Myrrhe, where the curs'd seed
 Did sometimes rule. A grief so bright
 'Twill make the Land of darkness light ;
 And while too many sadly roam,
 Shall send me (Swan-like) singing home.

50

Psal. 73. ver. 25.

Whom have I in heaven but thee ? and there is none upon earth, that I desire besides thee.

Providence.

Sacred and secret hand !
 By whose assisting, swift command
 The Angel shewd that holy Well,
 Which freed poor Hagar from her fears,
 And turn'd to smiles the begging tears
 Of yong, distressed Ishmael.

How in a mystick Cloud
 (Which doth thy strange sure mercies shroud)
 Doest thou convey man food and money
 Unseen by him, till they arrive
 Just at his mouth, that thankless hive
 Which kills thy Bees, and eats thy honey !

10

If I thy servant be
 (Whose service makes ev'n captives free,)
 A fish shall all my tribute pay,
 The swift-wing'd Raven shall bring me meat,
 And I, like Flowers shall still go neat,
 As if I knew no moneth but May.

I will not fear what man,
 With all his plots and power can ;
 Bags that wax old may plundered be,
 But none can sequester or let
 A state that with the Sun doth set
 And comes next morning fresh as he.

20

Poor birds this doctrine sing,
 And herbs which on dry hills do spring
 Or in the howling wilderness
 Do know thy dewy morning-hours,
 And watch all night for mists or showers,
 Then drink and praise thy bounteousness

30

May he for ever dye
 Who trusts not thee ! but wretchedly
 Hunts gold and wealth, and will not lend
 Thy service, nor his soul one day :
 May his Crown, like his hopes, be clay,
 And what he saves, may his foes spend !

If all my portion here,
 The measure given by thee each year
 Were by my causless enemies
 Usurp'd ; it never should me grieve
 Who know, how well thou canst relieve,
 Whose hands are open as thine eyes.

40

Great King of love and truth !
 Who would'st not hate my froward youth,
 And wilt not leave me, when grown old ;
 Gladly will I, like Pontick sheep,
 Unto their wormwood-diet keep
 Since thou hast made thy Arm my fold.

The Knot.

Bright Queen of Heaven ! Gods Virgin Spouse
 The glad worlds blessed maid !
 Whose beauty tyed life to thy house,
 And brought us saving ayd.

Thou art the true Loves-knot ; by thee
 God is made our Allie,
 And mans inferior Essence he
 With his did dignifie.

For Coalescent by that Band
 We are his body grown,
 Nourished with favors from his hand
 Whom for our head we own.

10

And such a Knot, what arm dares loose,
 What life, what death can sever?
 Which us in him, and him in us
 United keeps for ever.

The Ornament.

The lucky world shewd me one day
 Her gorgeous Mart and glittering store,
 Where with proud haste the rich made way
 To buy, the poor came to adore.

Serious they seem'd and bought up all
 The latest Modes of pride and lust,
 Although the first must surely fall,
 And the last is most loathsome dust.

But while each gay, alluring wear
 With idle hearts and busie looks 10
 They viewd, (for idleness hath there
 Laid up all her Archives and books.)

Quite through their proud and pompous file
 Blushing, and in meek weeds array'd
 With native looks, which knew no guile,
 Came the sheep-keeping Syrian Maid.

Whom strait the shining Row all fac'd
 Forc'd by her artless looks and dress,
 While one cryed out, We are disgrac'd
 For she is bravest, you confess. 20

St. Mary Magdalen.

Dear, beauteous Saint! more white then day,
 When in his naked, pure array;
 Fresher then morning-flowers which shew
 As thou in tears dost, best in dew.
 How art thou chang'd! how lively-fair,
 Pleasing and innocent an air,
 Not tutor'd by thy glass, but free,
 Native and pure shines now in thee!
 But since thy beauty doth still keep
 Bloomy and fresh, why dost thou weep? 10

This dusky state of sighs and tears
 Durst not look on those smiling years,
 When Magdal-castle was thy seat,
 Where all was sumptuous, rare and neat.
 Why lies this Hair despised now
 Which once thy care and art did show?
 Who then did dress the much lov'd toy,
 In Spires, Globes, angry Curls and coy,
 Which with skill'd negligence seem'd shed
 About thy curious, wilde, yong head? 20
 Why is this rich, this Pistic Nard
 Spilt, and the box quite broke and marr'd?
 What pretty sullenness did hast
 Thy easie hands to do this waste?
 Why art thou humbled thus, and low
 As earth, thy lovely head dost bow?
 Dear Soul! thou knew'st, flowers here on earth
 At their Lords foot-stool have their birth;
 Therefore thy wither'd self in haste
 Beneath his blest feet thou didst cast, 30
 That at the root of this green tree
 Thy great decays restor'd might be.
 Thy curious vanities and rare;
 Odorous ointments kept with care,
 And dearly bought, (when thou didst see
 They could not cure, nor comfort thee,)
 Like a wise, early Penitent
 Thou sadly didst to him present,
 Whose interceding, meek and calm
 Blood, is the worlds all-healing Balm. 40
 This, this Divine Restorative
 Call'd forth thy tears, which ran in live
 And hasty drops, as if they had (Their Lord so near) sense to be glad.
 Learn, Ladies, here the faithful cure
 Makes beauty lasting, fresh and pure;
 Learn Marys art of tears, and then
 Say, You have got the day from men.
 Cheap, mighty Art! her Art of love,
 Who lov'd much and much more could move; 50

Her Art ! whose memory must last
 Till truth through all the world be past,
 Till his abus'd, despised flame
 Return to Heaven, from whence it came,
 And send a fire down, that shall bring
 Destruction on his ruddy wing.

Her Art ! whose pensive, weeping eyes,
 Were once sins loose and tempting spies,
 But now are fixed stars, whose light
 Helps such dark straglers to their sight.

60

Self-boasting Pharisee ! how blinde
 A Judge wert thou, and how unkinde?
 It was impossible, that thou
 Who wert all false, should'st true grief know ;
 Is't just to judge her faithful tears
 By that foul rheum thy false eye wears ?

This Woman (say'st thou) is a sinner :
 And sate there none such at thy dinner ?
 Go Leper, go ; wash till thy flesh
 Comes like a childes, spotless and fresh ;
 He is still leprous, that still paints :
 Who Saint themselves, they are no Saints.

70

The Rain-bow.

Still yong and fine ! but what is still in view
 We slight as old and soil'd, though fresh and new.
 How bright wert thou, when Shems admiring eye
 Thy burnisht, flaming Arch did first descry !
 When Terah, Nahor, Haran, Abram, Lot,
 The youthful worlds gray fathers in one knot,
 Did with intentive looks watch every hour
 For thy new light, and trembled at each shower !
 When thou dost shine darkness looks white and fair,
 Storms turn to Musick, clouds to smiles and air :
 Rain gently spends his honey-drops, and pours
 Balm on the cleft earth, milk on grass and flowers.
 Bright pledge of peace and Sun-shine ! the sure ye
 Of thy Lords hand, the * object of his eye.

* Gen. chap. 9. ver. 16.

When I behold thee, though my light be dim,
 Distant and low, I can in thine see him,
 Who looks upon thee from his glorious throne
 And mindes the Covenant 'twixt All and One.
 O foul, deceitful men ! my God doth keep
 His promise still, but we break ours and sleep. 20
 After the Fall, the first sin was in Blood,
 And Drunkenness quickly did succeed the flood ;
 But since Christ dyed, (as if we did devise
 To lose him too, as well as Paradise,)
 These two grand sins we joyn and act together,
 Though blood & drunkenness make but foul, foul weather.
Water (though both Heavens windows and the deep,
 Full forty days o'r the drown'd world did weep,)
 Could not reform us, and blood (in despite)
 Yea Gods own blood we tread upon and slight. 30
 So those bad daughters, which God sav'd from fire,
 While Sodom yet did smoke, lay with their sire.

 Then peaceful, signal bow, but in a cloud
 Still lodged, where all thy unseen arrows shrowd,
 I will on thee, as on a Comet look,
 A Comet, the sad worlds ill-boding book ;
 Thy light as luctual and stain'd with woes
 I'll judge, where penal flames sit mixt and close.
 For though some think, thou shin'st but to restrain
 Bold storms, and simply dost attend on rain, 40
 Yet I know well, and so our sins require,
 Thou dost but Court cold rain, till Rain turns Fire.

The Seed growing secretly.

S. Mark 4. 26.

If this worlds friends might see but once
 What some poor man may often feel,
 Glory, and gold, and Crowns and Thrones
 They would soon quit and learn to kneel.

 My dew, my dew ! my early love,
 My souls bright food, thy absence kills !
 Hover not long, eternal Dove !
 Life without thee is loose and spills.

Something I had, which long ago
 Did learn to suck, and sip, and taste, 10
 But now grown sickly, sad and slow,
 Doth fret and wrangle, pine and waste.
 O spread thy sacred wings and shake
 One living drop ! one drop life keeps !
 If pious griefs Heavens joys awake,
 O fill his bottle ! thy childe weeps !
 Slowly and sadly doth he grow,
 And soon as left, shrinks back to ill ;
 O feed that life, which makes him blow
 And spread and open to thy will ! 20
 For thy eternal, living wells
 None stain'd or wither'd shall come near :
 A fresh, immortal green there dwells,
 And spotless white is all the wear.
 Dear, secret Greenness ! nurst below
 Tempests and windes, and winter-nights,
 Vex not, that but one sees thee grow,
 That One made all these lesser lights.
 If those bright joys he singly sheds
 On thee, were all met in one Crown, 30
 Both Sun and Stars would hide their heads ;
 And Moons, though full, would get them down.
 Let glory be their bait, whose mindes
 Are all too high for a low Cell :
 Though Hawks can prey through storms and winds,
 The poor Bee in her hive must dwell.
 Glory, the Clouds cheap tinsel still
 To what most takes them, is a drudge ;
 And they too oft take good for ill,
 And thriving vice for vertue judge. 40
 What needs a Conscience calm and bright
 Within it self an outward test ?
 Who breaks his glass to take more light,
 Makes way for storms into his rest.
 Then bless thy secret growth, nor catch
 At noise, but thrive unseen and dumb ;
 Keep clean, bear fruit, earn life and watch
 Till the white winged Reapers come !

As time one day by me did pass
 Through a large dusky glasse
 He held, I chanc'd to look
 And spyed his curious book
 Of past days, where sad Heav'n did shed
 A mourning light upon the dead.

Many disordered lives I saw
 And foul records which thaw
 My kinde eyes still, but in
 A fair, white page of thin
 And ev'n, smooth lines, like the Suns rays,
 Thy name was writ, and all thy days.

O bright and happy Kalendar!
 Where youth shines like a star
 All pearl'd with tears, and may
 Teach age, The Holy way;
 Where through thick pangs, high agonies
 Faith into life breaks, and death dies.

As some meek night-piece which day quails,
 To candle-light unveils:
 So by one beamy line
 From thy bright lamp did shine,
 In the same page thy humble grave
 Set with green herbs, glad hopes and brave.

Here slept my thoughts dear mark! which dus
 Seem'd to devour, like rust;
 But dust (I did observe)
 By hiding doth preserve,
 As we for long and sure recruits,
 Candy with sugar our choice fruits.

O calm and sacred bed where lies
 In deaths dark mysteries
 A beauty far more bright
 Then the noons cloudless light
 For whose dry dust green branches bud
 And robes are bleach'd in the Lambs blood.

Sleep happy ashes ! (blessed sleep !)
 While haplesse I still weep ;
 Weep that I have out-liv'd
 My life, and unreliev'd
 Must (soul-lesse shadow !) so live on,
 Though life be dead, and my joys gone.

40

Fair and yong light ! my guide to holy
 Grief and soul-curing melancholy ;
 Whom living here I did still shun
 As sullen night-ravens do the Sun,
 And lead by my own foolish fire
 Wandred through darkness, dens and mire.
 How am I now in love with all
 That I term'd then meer bonds and thrall,
 And to thy name, which still I keep,
 Like the surviving turtle, weep !
 O bitter curs'd delights of men !
 Our souls diseases first, and then
 Our bodies ; poysons that intreat
 With fatal sweetness, till we eat ;
 How artfully do you destroy,
 That kill with smiles and seeming joy ?
 If all the subtilties of vice
 Stood bare before unpractic'd eyes,
 And every act she doth commence
 Had writ down its sad consequence,
 Yet would not men grant, their ill fate
 Lodged in those false looks, till too late.
 O holy, happy, healthy heaven,
 Where all is pure, where all is even,
 Plain, harmless, faithful, fair and bright,
 But what Earth breaths against thy light !
 How blest had men been, had their Sire
 Liv'd still in league with thy chaste fire,

10

20

5-8, the last four lines on the original page 43, are repeated on page 44 as follows :

And led by my own foolish fire,
 Wandred through darkness dens and mire.
 How am I now in love withal
 That I term'd then mere bonds and thrall,

Nor made life through her long descents,
A slave to lustful Elements !

30

I did once read in an old book
Soil'd with many a weeping look,
*That the seeds of foul sorrows be
The finest things that are, to see.*

So that fam'd fruit which made all dye
Seem'd fair unto the womans eye.

If these supplanters in the shade
Of Paradise, could make man fade,
How in this world should they deter
This world, their fellow-murderer !

40

And why then grieve we to be sent
Home by our first fair punishment,
Without addition to our woes
And lingring wounds from weaker foes ?
Since that doth quickly freedom win,
For he that's dead, is freed from sin.

O that I were winged and free
And quite undrest just now with thee,
Where freed souls dwel by living fountains
On everlasting, spicy mountains !

50

Alas ! my God ! take home thy sheep ;
This world but laughs at those that weep.

The Stone.

Josh. chap. 24. ver. 27.

I have it now :

But where to act, that none shall know,
Where I shall have no cause to fear

An eye or ear,

What man will show ?

If nights, and shades, and secret rooms,
Silent as tombs,

Will nor conceal nor assent to
My dark designs, what shall I do ?
Man I can bribe, and woman will 10

Consent to any gainful ill,
But these dumb creatures are so true,
No gold nor gifts can them subdue.

Hedges have ears, said the old sooth,
And ev'ry bush is somethings booth ;
 'This cautious fools mistake, and fear
 Nothing but man, when ambush'd there.

But I (Alas !)

Was shown one day in a strange glass
 That busie commerce kept between
 God and his Creatures, though unseen.

20

They hear, see, speak,
 And into loud discoveries break,
 As loud as blood. Not that God needs
 Intelligence, whose spirit feeds
 All things with life, before whose eyes,
 Hell and all hearts stark naked lyes.
 But * he that judgeth as he hears,
 He that accuseth none, so steers
 His righteous course, that though he knows
 All that man doth, conceals or shows,
 Yet will not he by his own light
 (Though both all-seeing and all right,)
 Condemn men ; but will try them by
 A process, which ev'n mans own eye
 Must needs acknowledge to be just.

30

Hence sand and dust
 Are shak'd for witnesses, and stones
 Which some think dead, shall all at once
 With one attesting voice detect
 Those secret sins we least suspect.
 For know, wilde men, that when you erre
 Each thing turns Scribe and Register,
 And in obedience to his Lord,
 Doth your most private sins record.

40

The Law delivered to the Jews,
 Who promis'd much, but did refuse
 Performance, will for that same deed
 Against them by a stone proceed ;
 Whose substance, though 'tis hard enough,
 Will prove their hearts more stiff and tuff.

50

* John chap. 5. ver. 30. 45.

But now, since God on himself took
 What all mankinde could never brook,
 If any (for he all invites)
 His easie yoke rejects or slights,
 The Gospel then (for 'tis his word
 And not himself * shall judge the world)
 Will by loose Dust that man arraign,
 As one then dust more vile and vain.

* St. John, chap. 12. ver. 47, 48.

The dwelling-place.

S. John, chap. 1. ver. 38, 39.

What happy, secret fountain,
 Fair shade, or mountain,
 Whose undiscover'd virgin glory
 Boasts it this day, though not in story,
 Was then thy dwelling? did some cloud
 Fix'd to a Tent, descend and shrowd
 My distrest Lord? or did a star
 Becken'd by thee, though high and far,
 In sparkling smiles haste gladly down
 To lodge light, and increase her own?
 My dear, dear God! I do not know
 What lodgd thee then, nor where, nor how;
 But I am sure, thou dost now come
 Oft to a narrow, homely room,
 Where thou too hast but the least part,
 My God, I mean my sinful heart.

10

The Men of War.

S. Luke, chap. 23. ver. 11.

If any have an ear
 Saith holy * John, then let him hear.
He that into Captivity
Leads others, shall a Captive be.
Who with the sword doth others kill,
A sword shall his blood likewise spill.
Here is the patience of the Saints,
And the true faith, which never faints.

* Revel. cap. 13. ver. 10.

Were not thy word (dear Lord !) my light,
 How would I run to endless night, 10
 And persecuting thee and thine,
 Enact for Saints my self and mine.
 But now enlighten'd thus by thee,
 I dare not think such villany ;
 Nor for a temporal self-end
 Successful wickedness commend.
 For in this bright, instructing verse
 Thy Saints are not the Conquerers ;
 But patient, meek, and overcome
 Like thee, when set at naught and dumb. 20
 Armies thou hast in Heaven, which fight,
 And follow thee all cloath'd in white,
 But here on earth (though thou hast need)
 Thou wouldst no legions, but wouldst bleed.
 The sword wherewith thou dost command
 Is in thy mouth, not in thy hand,
 And all thy Saints do overcome
 By thy blood, and their Martyrdom.
 But seeing Soldiers long ago
 Did spit on thee, and smote thee too ; 30
 Crown'd thee with thorns, and bow'd the knee,
 But in contempt, as still we see,
 I'll marvel not at ought they do,
 Because they us'd my Savior so ;
 Since of my Lord they had their will,
 The servant must not take it ill.

Dear Jesus give me patience here,
 And faith to see my Crown as near
 And almost reach'd, because 'tis sure
 If I hold fast and slight the Lure. 40
 Give me humility and peace,
 Contented thoughts, innoxious ease,
 A sweet, revengeless, quiet minde,
 And to my greatest haters kinde.
 Give me, my God ! a heart as milde
 And plain, as when I was a childe ;
 That when thy Throne is set, and all
 These Conquerors before it fall,

I may be found (preserv'd by thee)
 Amongst that chosen company,
 Who by no blood (here) overcame
 But the blood of the blessed Lamb.

50

The Ass.

St. Matt. 21.

Thou ! who didst place me in this busie street
 Of flesh and blood, where two ways meet :
 The One of goodness, peace and life,
 The other of death, sin and strife ;
 Where frail visibles rule the minde,
 And present things finde men most kinde :
 Where obscure cares the mean defeat,
 And splendid vice destroys the great ;
 As thou didst set no law for me,
 But that of perfect liberty,
 Which neither tyres, nor doth corrode,
 But is a Pillow, not a Load :
 So give me grace ever to rest,
 And build on it, because the best ;
 Teach both mine eyes and feet to move
 Within those bounds set by thy love ;
 Grant I may soft and lowly be,
 And minde those things I cannot see ;
 Tye me to faith, though above reason,
 Who question power, they speak treason :
 Let me thy Ass be onely wise
 To carry, not search mysteries ;
 Who carries thee, is by thee lead,
 Who argues, follows his own head.
 To check bad motions, keep me still
 Amongst the dead, where thriving ill
 Without his brags and conquests lies,
 And truth (opprest here) gets the prize.
 At all times, whatsoe'r I do,
 Let me not fail to question, who
 Shares in the act, and puts me to't ?
 And if not thou, let not me do't.
 Above all, make me love the poor,
 Those burthens to the rich mans door,

10

20

30

Let me admire those, and be kinde
To low estates, and a low minde.
If the world offers to me ought,
That by thy book must not be sought,
Or though it should be lawful, may
Prove not expedient for thy way ;
To shun that peril, let thy grace
Prevail with me to shun the place.
Let me be wise to please thee still,
And let men call me what they will.

40

When thus thy milde, instructing hand
Findes thy poor foal at thy command,
When he from wilde is become wise,
And slights that most, which men most prize ;
When all things here to thistles turn
Pricking his lips, till he doth mourn
And hang the head, sighing for those
Pastures of life, where the Lamb goes :
O then, just then ! break or untye
These bonds, this sad captivity,
This leaden state, which men miscal
Being and life, but is dead thrall.
And when (O God !) the Ass is free,
In a state known to none but thee ;
O let him by his Lord be led,
To living springs, and there be fed
Where light, joy, health and perfect peace
Shut out all pain and each disease ;
Where death and frailty are forgotten,
And bones rejoyce, which once were broken !

50

60

The hidden Treasure.

S. Matt. 13. 44.

*What can the man do that succeeds the * King?
Even what was done before, and no new thing.
Who shews me but one grain of sincere light?
False stars and fire-drakes, the deceits of night*

* Ecclesiastes, chap. 2. 12.

Set forth to fool and foil thee, do not boast ;
 Such Coal-flames shew but Kitchin-rooms at most.
 And those I saw search'd through ; yea those and all
 That these three thousand years time did let fall
 To blinde the eyes of lookers-back, and I
 Now all is done, finde all is vanity.

10

Those secret searches, which afflict the wise,
 Paths that are hidden from the Vulturs eyes
 I saw at distance, and where grows that fruit
 Which others onely grope for and dispute.

The worlds lov'd wisdom (for the worlds friends think
 There is none else) did not the dreadful brink
 And precipice it leads to, bid me flie
 None could with more advantage use, then I.

Mans favorite sins, those tainting appetites
 Which nature breeds, and some fine clay invites,
 With all their soft, kinde arts and easie strains
 Which strongly operate, though without pains,
 Did not a greater beauty rule mine eyes,
 None would more dote on, nor so soon entice.

20

But since these sweets are sowre, and poyson'd here
 Where the impure seeds flourish all the year,
 And private Tapers will but help to stray
 Ev'n those, who by them would finde out the day,
 I'll seal my eyes up, and to thy commands
 Submit my wilde heart, and restrain my hands ;
 I will do nothing, nothing know, nor see
 But what thou bidst, and shew'st, and teachest me.
 Look what thou gav'st ; all that I do restore
 But for one thing, though purchas'd once before.

30

Childe-hood.

I cannot reach it ; and my striving eye
 Dazles at it, as at eternity.

Were now that Chronicle alive,
 Those white designs which children drive,
 And the thoughts of each harmless hour,
 With their content too in my pow'r,
 Quickly would I make my path even,
 And by meer playing go to Heaven.

Why should men love
 A Wolf, more then a Lamb or Dove? 10
 Or choose hell-fire and brimstone streams
 Before bright stars, and Gods own beams?
 Who kisseth thorns, will hurt his face,
 But flowers do both refresh and grace,
 And sweetly living (fie on men!)
 Are when dead, medicinal then.
 If seeing much should make staid eyes,
 And long experience should make wise;
 Since all that age doth teach, is ill,
 Why should I not love childe-hood still? 20
 Why if I see a rock or shelf,
 Shall I from thence cast down my self,
 Or by complying with the world,
 From the same precipice be hurl'd?
 Those observations are but foul
 Which make me wise to lose my soul.

And yet the Practice worldlings call
 Business and weighty action all,
 Checking the poor childe for his play,
 But gravely cast themselves away. 30

Dear, harmless age! the short, swift span,
 Where weeping virtue parts with man;
 Where love without lust dwells, and bends
 What way we please, without self-ends.

An age of mysteries! which he Must live twice, that would Gods face see;
 Which Angels guard, and with it play,
 Angels! which foul men drive away.

How do I study now, and scan
 Thee, more then ere I studyed man, 40
 And onely see through a long night
 Thy edges, and thy bordering light!
 O for thy Center and mid-day!
 For sure that is the narrow way.

The Night.

John 2. 3.

Through that pure Virgin-shrine,
 That sacred vail drawn o'r thy glorious noon
 That men might look and live as Glo-worms shine,
 And face the Moon :
 Wise Nicodemus saw such light
 As made him know his God by night.

Most blest believer he !
 Who in that land of darkness and blinde eyes
 Thy long expected healing wings could see,
 When thou didst rise,
 And what can never more be done,
 Did at mid-night speak with the Sun !

10

O who will tell me, where
 He found thee at that dead and silent hour !
 What hallow'd solitary ground did bear
 So rare a flower,
 Within whose sacred leafs did lie
 The fulness of the Deity.

No mercy-seat of gold,
 No dead and dusty Cherub, nor carv'd stone,
 But his own living works did my Lord hold
 And lodge alone ;

20

Where trees and herbs did watch and peep
 And wonder, while the Jews did sleep.

Dear night ! this worlds defeat ;
 The stop to busie fools ; cares check and curb ;
 The day of Spirits ; my souls calm retreat
 Which none disturb !

Christs * progress, and his prayer time ;
 The hours to which high Heaven doth chime.

30

Gods silent, searching flight :
 When my Lords head is fill'd with dew, and all
 His locks are wet with the clear drops of night ;
 His still, soft call ;

* Mark, chap. 1. 35. S. Luke, chap. 21. 37.

His knocking time ; The souls dumb watch,
When Spirits their fair kinred catch.

Were all my loud, evil days
Calm and unhaunted as is thy dark Tent,
Whose peace but by some Angels wing or voice
Is seldom rent ;

40

Then I in Heaven all the long year
Would keep, and never wander here.

But living where the Sun
Doth all things wake, and where all mix and tyre
Themselves and others, I consent and run

To ev'ry myre,
And by this worlds ill-guiding light,
Erre more then I can do by night.

There is in God (some say)
A deep, but dazling darkness ; As men here
Say it is late and dusky, because they 50

See not all clear ;
O for that night ! where I in him
Might live invisible and dim.

Abels blood.

Sad, purple well ! whose bubbling eye
Did first against a Murth'rer cry ;
Whose streams still vocal, still complain

Of bloody Cain,
And now at evening are as red
As in the morning when first shed.

If single thou
(Though single voices are but low,)
Could'st such a shrill and long cry rear
As speaks still in thy makers ear,
What thunders shall those men arraign
Who cannot count those they have slain,
Who bath not in a shallow flood,
But in a deep, wide sea of blood ?
A sea, whose lowd waves cannot sleep,
But Deep still calleth upon deep :
Whose urgent sound like unto that
Of many waters, beateth at 10

The everlasting doors above,
Where souls behinde the altar move,
And with one strong, incessant cry
Inquire How long? of the most high.

20

Almighty Judge!

At whose just laws no just men grudge;
Whose blessed, sweet commands do pour
Comforts and joys, and hopes each hour
On those that keep them; O accept
Of his vow'd heart, whom thou hast kept
From bloody men! and grant, I may
That sworn memorial duly pay
To thy bright arm, which was my light
And leader through thick death and night!

30

I, may that flood,
That proudly spilt and despis'd blood,
Speechless and calm, as Infants sleep!
Or if it watch, forgive and weep
For those that spilt it! May no cries
From the low earth to high Heaven rise,
But what (like his, whose blood peace brings)
Shall (when they rise) speake better things,
Then Abels doth! may Abel be Still single heard, while these agree
With his milde blood in voice and will,
Who pray'd for those that did him kill!

40

Righteousness.

Fair, solitary path! Whose blessed shades
The old, white Prophets planted first and drest:
Leaving for us (whose goodness quickly fades,)
A shelter all the way, and bowers to rest.
Who is the man that walks in thee? who loves
Heav'ns secret solitude, those fair abodes
Where turtles build, and carelesse sparrows move
Without to morrows evils and future loads?
Who hath the upright heart, the single eye,
The clean, pure hand, which never medled pitch?
Who sees Invisibles, and doth comply
With hidden treasures that make truly rich?

6 Heav'ns]

He that doth seek and love
 The things above,
 Whose spirit ever poor, is meek and low ;
 Who simple still and wise,
 Still homewards flies,
 Quick to advance, and to retreat most slow.

Whose acts, words and pretence
 Have all one sense, 20
 One aim and end ; who walks not by his sight :
 Whose eyes are both put out,
 And goes about
 Guided by faith, not by exterior light.

Who spills no blood, nor spreads
 Thorns in the beds
 Of the distrest, hasting their overthrow ;
 Making the time they had
 Bitter and sad
 Like Chronic pains, which surely kill, though slow. 30

Who knows earth nothing hath Worth love or wrath,
 But in his hope and Rock is ever glad.
 Who seeks and follows peace,
 When with the ease
 And health of conscience it is to be had.

Who bears his cross with joy
 And doth imploy
 His heart and tongue in prayers for his foes ;
 Who lends, not to be paid, 40
 And gives full aid
 Without that bribe which Usurers impose.

Who never looks on man
 Fearful and wan,
 But firmly trusts in God ; the great mans measure
 Though high and haughty must
 Be ta'en in dust,
 But the good man is Gods peculiar treasure.

Who doth thus, and doth not
 These good deeds blot
 With bad, or with neglect ; and heaps not wrath
 By secret filth, nor feeds
 Some snake, or weeds,
 Cheating himself ; That man walks in this path.

50

Anguish.

My God and King ! to thee
 I bow my knee,
 I bow my troubled soul, and greet
 With my foul heart thy holy feet.
 Cast it, or tread it ! It shall do
 Even what thou wilt, and praise thee too.

My God, could I weep blood,
 Gladly I would ;
 Or if thou wilt give me that Art,
 Which through the eyes pours out the hart,
 I will exhaust it all, and make
 My self all tears, a weeping lake.

10

O ! 'tis an easie thing
 To write and sing ;
 But to write true, unfeigned verse
 Is very hard ! O God, disperse
 These weights, and give my spirit leave
 To act as well as to conceive !

O my God, hear my cry ;
 Or let me dye ! ——

20

Tears.

O when my God, my glory brings
 His white and holy train,
 Unto those clear and living Springs,
 Where comes no stain !
 Where all is light, and flowers, and fruit,
 And joy, and rest,
 Make me amongst them ('tis my suit !)
 The last one, and the least.

And when they all are fed, and have
 Drunk of thy living stream, 10
 Bid thy poor Ass (with tears I crave !)
 Drink after them.

Thy love claims highest thanks, my sin
 The lowest pitch :
 But if he pays, who loves much, then
 Thou hast made beggers rich.

Jacobs Pillow, and Pillar.

I see the Temple in thy Pillar rear'd,
 And that dread glory, which thy children fear'd,
 In milde, clear visions, without a frown,
 Unto thy solitary self is shown.
 'Tis number makes a Schism : throngs are rude,
 And God himself dyed by the multitude.
 This made him put on clouds, and fire and smoke,
 Hence he in thunder to thy Off-spring spoke ;
 The small, still voice, at some low Cottage knocks,
 But a strong wind must break thy lofty rocks. 10

The first true worship of the worlds great King
 From private and selected hearts did spring,
 But he most willing to save all mankinde,
 Inlarg'd that light, and to the bad was kinde.
 Hence Catholick or Universal came
 A most fair notion, but a very name.
 For this rich Pearl, like some more common stone,
 When once made publique, is esteem'd by none.
 Man slights his Maker, when familiar grown,
 And sets up laws, to pull his honor down. 20
 This God foresaw : And when slain by the crowd
 (Under that stately and mysterious cloud
 Which his death scatter'd) he foretold the place,
 And form to serve him in, should be true grace
 And the meek heart, not in a Mount, nor at
Jerusalem, with blood of beasts, and fat.
 A heart is that dread place, that awful Cell,
 That secret Ark, where the milde Dove doth dwell
 When the proud waters rage : when Heathens rule
 By Gods permission, and man turns a Mule. 30

This litle Goshen, in the midst of night,
 And Satans seat, in all her Coasts hath light,
 Yea Bethel shall have Tithes (saith Israels stone)
 And vows and visions, though her foes crye, None.
 Thus is the solemn temple sunk agen
 Into a Pillar, and conceal'd from men.
 And glory be to his eternal Name!
 Who is contented, that this holy flame
 Shall lodge in such a narrow pit, till he
 With his strong arm turns our captivity.

40

But blessed Jacob, though thy sad distress
 Was just the same with ours, and nothing less;
 For thou a brother, and blood-thirsty too
 Didst flye, * whose children wrought thy childrens wo:
 Yet thou in all thy solitude and grief,
 On stones didst sleep and found'st but cold relief;
 Thou from the Day-star a long way didst stand
 And all that distance was Law and command.
 But we a healing Sun by day and night,
 Have our sure Guardian, and our leading light;
 What thou didst hope for and believe, we finde
 And feel a friend most ready, sure and kinde.
 Thy pillow was but type and shade at best,
 But we the substance have, and on him rest.

50

The Agreement.

I wrote it down. But one that saw
 And envyed that Record, did since
 Such a mist over my minde draw,
 It quite forgot that purpos'd glimpse.
 I read it sadly oft, but still
 Simply believ'd, 'twas not my Quill;
 At length, my lifes kinde Angel came,
 And with his bright and busie wing
 Scatt'ring that cloud, shewd me the flame
 Which strait, like Morning-stars did sing,
 And shine, and point me to a place,
 Which all the year sees the Suns face.

10

O beamy book ! O my mid-day
Exterminating fears and night !
The mount, whose white Ascendents may
Be in conjunction with true light !
My thoughts, when towards thee they move,
Glitter and kindle with thy love.

Thou art the oyl and the wine-house :
Thine are the present healing leaves,
Blown from the tree of life to us
By his breath whom my dead heart heaves.
Each page of thine hath true life in't,
And Gods bright minde exprest in print.

Most modern books are blots on thee,
Their doctrine chaff and windy fits :
Darken'd along, as their scribes be,
With those foul storms, when they were writ ;
While the mans zeal lays out and blends
Onely self-worship and self-ends.

Thou art the faithful, pearly rock,
The Hive of beamy, living lights,
Ever the same, whose diffus'd stock
Entire still, wears out blackest nights.
Thy lines are rays, the true Sun sheds ;
Thy leaves are healing wings he spreads.

For until thou didst comfort me,
I had not one poor word to say :
Thick busie clouds did multiply,
And said, I was no childe of day ;
They said, my own hands did remove
That candle given me from above.

O God ! I know and do confess
My sins are great and still prevail,
Most heynous sins and numberless !
But thy Compassions cannot fail.
If thy sure mercies can be broken,
Then all is true, my foes have spoken.

But while time runs, and after it
Eternity, which never ends, 50

Quite through them both, still infinite
 Thy Covenant by Christ extends ;
 No sins of frailty, nor of youth
 Can foil his merits, and thy truth.

And this I hourly finde, for thou
 Dost still renew, and purge and heal :
 Thy care and love, which joyntly flow
 New Cordials, new Cathartics deal.
 But were I once cast off by thee
 I know (my God !) this would not be.

60

Wherefore with tears (tears by thee sent)
 I beg, my faith may never fail !
 And when in death my speech is spent,
 O let that silence then prevail !
 O chase in that cold calm my foes,
 And hear my hearts last private throws !

So thou, who didst the work begin
 (For I till drawn came not to thee*)
 Wilt finish it, and by no sin
 Will thy free mercies hindred be.
 For which, O God, I onely can
 Bless thee, and blame unthankful man.

* St. John, chap. 6. ver. 44. 65.

The day of Judgement.

O day of life, of light, of love !
 The onely day dealt from above !
 A day so fresh, so bright, so brave
 Twill shew us each forgotten grave,
 And make the dead, like flowers, arise
 Youthful and fair to see new skies.
 All other days, compar'd to thee,
 Are but lights weak minority,
 They are but veils, and Cypers drawn
 Like Clouds, before thy glorious dawn.
 O come, arise, shine, do not stay
 Dearly lov'd day !

10

The fields are long since white, and I
 With earnest groans for freedom cry,

My fellow-creatures too say, Come!
And stones, though speechless, are not dumb.
When shall we hear that glorious voice
Of life and joys?

That voice, which to each secret bed
Of my Lords dead,
Shall bring true day, and make dust see,
The way to immortality.
When shall those first white Pilgrims rise,
Whose holy, happy Histories
(Because they sleep so long) some men
Count but the blots of a vain pen?

20

Dear Lord! make haste,
Sin every day commits more waste,
And thy old enemy, which knows
His time is short, more raging grows.
Nor moan I onely (though profuse)
Thy Creatures bondage and abuse;
But what is highest sin and shame,
The vile despight done to thy name;
The forgeries, which impious wit
And power force on Holy Writ,
With all detestable designs
That may dishonor those pure lines.

30

O God! though mercy be in thee
The greatest attribute we see,
And the most needful for our sins;
Yet, when thy mercy nothing wins
But meer disdain, let not man say
Thy arm doth sleep; but write this day
Thy judging one: Descend, descend!
Make all things new! and without end!

40

Psalm 65.

Sions true, glorious God! on thee
Praise waits in all humility.
All flesh shall unto thee repair,
To thee, O thou that hearest prayer!
But sinful words and works still spread
And over-run my heart and head;
Transgressions make me foul each day,
O purge them, purge them all away!

Happy is he ! whom thou wilt choose
 To serve thee in thy blessed house ! 10
 Who in thy holy Temple dwells,
 And fill'd with joy, thy goodness tells !
 King of Salvation ! by strange things
 And terrible, Thy Justice brings
 Man to his duty. Thou alone
 Art the worlds hope, and but thee, none.
 Sailers that flote on flowing seas
 Stand firm by thee, and have sure peace.
 Thou still'st the loud waves, when most wild
 And mak'st the raging people mild. 20
 Thy arm did first the mountains lay
 And girds their rocky heads this day.
 The most remote, who know not thee,
 At thy great works astonish'd be.

The outgoings of the Even and Dawn,
 In Antiphones sing to thy Name.
 Thou visit'st the low earth, and then
 Water'st it for the sons of men,
 Thy upper river, which abounds
 With fertil streams, makes rich all grounds, 30
 And by thy mercies still supplied
 The sower doth his bread provide.
 Thou water'st every ridge of land
 And settlest with thy secret hand
 The furrows of it ; then thy warm
 And opening showers (restrain'd from harm)
 Soften the mould, while all unseen
 The blade grows up alive and green.
 The year is with thy goodness crown'd,
 And all thy paths drop fatness round, 40
 They drop upon the wilderness,
 For thou dost even the desarts bless,
 And hills full of springing pride,
 Wear fresh adornments on each side.
 The fruitful flocks fill every Dale,
 And purling Corn doth cloath the Vale ;
 They shout for joy, and joyntly sing,
Glory to the eternal King !

The Throne.

Revel. chap. 20. ver. 11.

When with these eyes clos'd now by thee,
 But then restor'd,
 The great and white throne I shall see
 Of my dread Lord :
 And lowly kneeling (for the most Stiff then must kneel)
 Shall look on him, at whose high cost
 (Unseen) such joys I feel.

What ever arguments, or skill
 Wise heads shall use,
 Tears onely and my blushes still
 I will produce.
 And should those speechless beggars fail,
 Which oft have won ;
 Then taught by thee, I will prevail,
 And say, Thy will be done !

10

Death.

Though since thy first sad entrance by Just Abels blood,
 'Tis now six thousand years well nigh,
 And still thy sov'rainty holds good :
 Yet by none art thou understood.

We talk and name thee with much ease
 As a tryed thing,
 And every one can slight his lease
 As if it ended in a Spring,
 Which shades & bowers doth rent-free bring.

10

To thy dark land these heedless go :
 But there was One,
 Who search'd it quite through to and fro,
 And then returning, like the Sun,
 Discover'd all, that there is done.

When the spilt dew,
Like tears doth shew
The sad world wept to be releast.

Spring up, O wine,
And springing shine
With some glad message from his heart,
Who did, when slain,
These means ordain
For me to have in him a part.

30

Such a sure part
In his blest heart,
The well, where living waters spring,
That with it fed
Poor dust though dead
Shall rise again, and live and sing.

O drink and bread
Which strikes death dead,
The food of mans immortal being !
Under veyls here
Thou art my chear,
Present and sure without my seeing.

40

How dost thou flye
And search and pry
Through all my parts, and like a quick
And knowing lamp
Hunt out each damp,
Whose shadow makes me sad or sick ?

O what high joys
The Turtles voice
And songs I hear ! O quickning showers
Of my Lords blood
You make rocks bud
And crown dry hils with wells & flowers !

50

For this true ease
This healing peace,
For this taste of living glory,
My soul and all,
Kneel down and fall
And sing his sad victorious story.

60

O thorny crown
 More soft then down !
 O painful Cross, my bed of rest !
 O spear, the key
 Opening the way !
 O thy worst state, my onely best !

Oh ! all thy griefs
 Are my reliefs,
 And all my sins, thy sorrows were !
 And what can I,
 To this reply ;
 What (O God !) but a silent tear ?

Some toil and sow,
 That wealth may flow,
 And dress this earth for next years meat :
 But let me heed,
 Why thou didst bleed,
 And what in the next world to eat.

Revel. chap. 19. ver. 9.

Blessed are they, which are called unto the marriage Supper of the Lamb !

The Obsequies.

Since dying for me, thou didst crave no more
 Then common pay,
 Some few true tears, and those shed for
 My own ill way ;
 With a cheap, plain remembrance still
 Of thy sad death,
 Because forgetfulness would kill
 Even lifes own breath :
 I were most foolish and unkinde
 In my own sense,
 Should I not ever bear in minde
 If not thy mighty love, my own defense.
 Therefore, those loose delights and lusts, which here
 Men call good chear,
 I will close girt and tyed
 For mourning sack-cloth wear, all mortified.

Not but that mourners too, can have
 Rich weeds and shrouds ;
 For some wore White ev'n in thy grave,
 And Joy, like light, shines oft in clouds : 20
 But thou, who didst mans whole life earn,
 Doest so invite, and woo me still,
 That to be merry I want skill,
 And time to learn.
 Besides, those Kerchiefs sometimes shed
 To make me brave,
 I cannot finde, but where thy head
 Was once laid for me in thy grave.
 Thy grave ! To which my thoughts shal move
 Like Bees in storms unto their Hive, 30
 That from the murd'ring worlds false love
 Thy death may keep my soul alive.

The Water-fall.

With what deep murmurs through times silent stealth
 Doth thy transparent, cool and watry wealth
 Here flowing fall,
 And chide, and call,
 As if his liquid, loose Retinue staid
 Lingring, and were of this steep place afraid,
 The common pass
 Where, clear as glass,
 All must descend
 Not to an end : 10
 But quickned by this deep and rocky grave,
 Rise to a longer course more bright and brave.

Dear stream ! dear bank, where often I
 Have sate, and pleas'd my pensive eye,
 Why, since each drop of thy quick store
 Runs thither, whence it flow'd before,
 Should poor souls fear a shade or night,
 Who came (sure) from a sea of light ?
 Or since those drops are all sent back
 So sure to thee, that none doth lack, 20
 Why should frail flesh doubt any more
 That what God takes, hee'l not restore ?

The Wreath.

Since I in storms us'd most to be
 And seldom yielded flowers,
 How shall I get a wreath for thee
 From those rude, barren hours?

The softer dressings of the Spring,
 Or Summers later store
 I will not for thy temples bring,
 Which Thorns, not Roses wore.

But a twin'd wreath of grief and praise,
 Praise soil'd with tears, and tears again
 Shining with joy, like dewy days,
 This day I bring for all thy pain,
 Thy causless pain! and sad as death;
 Which sadness breeds in the most vain,
 (O not in vain!) now beg thy breath;
 Thy quickning breath, which gladly bears
 Through saddest clouds to that glad place,
 Where cloudless Quires sing without tears,
 Sing thy just praise, and see thy face.

10

The Queer.

O tell me whence that joy doth spring
 Whose diet is divine and fair,
 Which wears heaven, like a bridal ring,
 And tramples on doubts and despair?

Whose Eastern traffique deals in bright
 And boundless Empyrean themes,
 Mountains of spice, Day-stars and light,
 Green trees of life, and living streams?

Tell me, O tell who did thee bring
 And here, without my knowledge, plac'd,
 Till thou didst grow and get a wing,
 A wing with eyes, and eyes that taste?

10

Sure, holyness the Magnet is,
 And Love the Lure, that woos thee down;
 Which makes the high transcendent bliss
 Of knowing thee, so rarely known.

The Book.

Eternal God ! maker of all
 That have liv'd here, since the mans fall ;
 The Rock of ages ! in whose shade
 They live unseen, when here they fade.

Thou knew'st this papyr, when it was
 Meer seed, and after that but grass ;
 Before 'twas drest or spun, and when
 Made linen, who did wear it then :
 What were their lives, their thoughts & deeds
 Whither good corn, or fruitless weeds.

10

Thou knew'st this Tree, when a green shade
 Cover'd it, since a Cover made,
 And where it flourish'd, grew and spread,
 As if it never should be dead.

Thou knew'st this harmless beast, when he Did live and feed by thy decree
 On each green thing ; then slept (well fed)
 Cloath'd with this skin, which now lies spread
 A Covering o're this aged book,
 Which makes me wisely weep and look
 On my own dust ; meer dust it is,
 But not so dry and clean as this.
 Thou knew'st and saw'st them all and though
 Now scatter'd thus, dost know them so.

20

O knowing, glorious spirit ! when
 Thou shalt restore trees, beasts and men,
 When thou shalt make all new again,
 Destroying onely death and pain,
 Give him amongst thy works a place,
 Who in them lov'd and sought thy face !

30

To the Holy Bible.

O book ! lifes guide ! how shall we part,
 And thou so long seiz'd of my heart !
 Take this last kiss, and let me weep
 True thanks to thee, before I sleep.

Thou wert the first put in my hand,
 When yet I could not understand,
 And daily didst my yong eyes lead
 To letters, till I learnt to read.
 But as rash youths, when once grown strong
 Flye from their Nurses to the throng, 10
 Where they new Consorts choose, & stick
 To those, till either hurt or sick :
 So with that first light gain'd from thee
 Ran I in chase of vanity,
 Cryed dross for gold, and never thought
 My first cheap Book had all I sought.
 Long reign'd this vogue ; and thou cast by
 With meek, dumb looks didst woo mine eye,
 And oft left open would'st convey
 A sudden and most searching ray 20
 Into my soul, with whose quick touch
 Refining still, I struggled much.
 By this milde art of love at length
 Thou overcam'st my sinful strength,
 And having brought me home, didst there
 Shew me that pearl I sought elsewhere.
 Gladness, and peace, and hope, and love,
 The secret favors of the Dove,
 Her quickning kindness, smiles and kisses,
 Exalted pleasures, crowning blisses, 30
 Fruition, union, glory, life
 Thou didst lead to, and still all strife.
 Living, thou wert my souls sure ease,
 And dying mak'st me go in peace :
 Thy next Effects no tongue can tell ;
 Farewel O book of God ! farewel !

S Luke chap. 2. ver. 14.

Glory be to God in the highest, and on Earth peace, good will towards men.

L'Envoy.

O the new worlds new, quickning Sun !
 Ever the same, and never done !
 The seers of whose sacred light
 Shall all be drest in shining white,

And made conformable to his
Immortal shape, who wrought their bliss,
Arise, arise !

And like old cloaths fold up these skies,
This long worn veyl : then shine and spread
Thy own bright self over each head,
And through thy creatures pierce and pass
Till all becomes thy cloudless glass,
Transparent as the purest day
And without blemish or decay,
Fixt by thy spirit to a state
For evermore immaculate.

A state fit for the sight of thy
Immediate, pure and unveil'd eye,
A state agreeing with thy minde,
A state thy birth, and death design'd :
A state for which thy creatures all
Travel and groan, and look and call.

O seeing thou hast paid our score,
Why should the curse reign any more ?
But since thy number is as yet
Unfinish'd, we shall gladly sit
Till all be ready, that the train
May fully fit thy glorious reign.
Onely, let not our haters brag,
Thy seamless coat is grown a rag,
Or that thy truth was not here known,
Because we forc'd thy judgements down.
Dry up their arms, who vex thy spouse,
And take the glory of thy house
To deck their own ; then give thy saints
That faithful zeal, which neither faints
Nor wildly burns, but meekly still
Dares own the truth, and shew the ill.

Frustrate those cancerous, close arts
Which cause solution in all parts,
And strike them dumb, who for meer words
Wound thy beloved, more then swords.
Dear Lord, do this ! and then let grace
Descend, and hallow all the place.
Incline each hard heart to do good,
And cement us with thy sons blood,

10

20

30

40

That like true sheep, all in one fold
 We may be fed, and one minde hold.
 Give watchful spirits to our guides !
 For sin (like water) hourly glides
 By each mans door, and quickly will Turn in, if not obstructed still.
 Therefore write in their hearts thy law,
 And let these long, sharp judgements aw
 Their very thoughts, that by their clear
 And holy lives, mercy may here
 Sit regent yet, and blessings flow
 As fast, as persecutions now.
 So shall we know in war and peace
 Thy service to be our sole ease,
 With prostrate souls adoring thee,
 Who turn'd our sad captivity !

HERMETICAL
PHYSICK:

O R,

The right way to preserve, and to restore

HEALTH.

BY

That famous and faith-
full Chymist,

HENRY NOLLIVS.

Englified by HENRY VAUGHAN, Gent.

L O N D O N.

Printed for Humphrey Moseley, and are to be sold at his shop, at the Princes Armes in St. Pauls Church-
Yard, 1655.

THE TRANSLATOR
To the ingenious
READER.

If any will be offended with this Hermeticall Theorie, I shall but smile at his frettings, and pitty his ignorance. Those are bad Spirits, that have the light; and such are all malicious despisers of true knowledge, who out of meere envie, scribble and rail at all endeavours; but such as submit to, and Deifie their rigid superstition, and twice sodden Colworts. For my owne part, I honour the truth where ever I find it, whether in an old, or a new Booke, in Galen, or in Paracelsus; and Antiquity, (where I find it gray with errors) shall have as little reverence from me, as Novelisme.

10 Veritatem tempus manu-ducit. There is no reason (if they bind not their owne hands) but the discoveries of Survivers and Posterity, may and should be more perfect, then the superficiall searches, and first attempts, or aims rather of their predecessors. I wish we were all unbiassed and impartiall learners, not the implicate, groundlesse Proselyts of Authors and opinions, but the loyall friends and followers of truth. It would not then be impossible, but that we might in a short time attain to that perfection, which while it is envied in some, will never bee found in all. As men are killed by fighting, so truth is lost by disputing; for while

20 we study the figments and subtilties of Sophisters, wee cannot search into the operations and virtues of nature. As many as wil consider this, it is not improbable, but they may do well. But despisers, and such as hate to be quietly instructed, must be punished with silence, lest by seeking their peace, we lose our owne.

Plautus.

Qui mali sunt, habeant mala; qui boni, bona; bonos quod oderint mali, sunt mali; malos, quod oderint boni, bonos esse oportet.

HERMETICALL PHYSICK &c.

CHAP. I.

Medicine or Physick is an Art, laying down in certain Rules or Precepts, the right way of preserving and restoring the health of Man-kind.

The word Medicine, hath a manifold sense. First, It is taken for some receipt or medicament. So the Philosophicall Stone is termed a Medicine. The Lord hath created Medicines out of the Earth, and the wise man will not abhor them. Secondly, It is taken for the habit, or profession of the Physitian, and then it signifies the faculty of curing existent in some learned and expert Professor. This habit or faculty is delineated, or methodically described and laid down in the Dogmaticall Books of Physicians, that others may learne and practise thereby. Thirdly, It is taken for, and signifies a Physicall System or Treatise, and in this latter sence it is to be understood in this place.

The Object of Medicine or Physick in this latter sence is, Man, not in general, but that man onely who desires to learn the Art of Physick, and is to be informed or instructed by this present Treatise: but the Object of Physick, as it is an habit in the mind of the Physician, is man in general, either for the preserving, or the restoring of his health. The operation, use, and end of Physick, is health; as the work and end of Physical books, is a rightly principled and instructed Physitian; so far as instruction goes: It is termed Hermetical Physicke, because it is grounded upon Principles of true Philosophy, as the Physick of Hermes was. And for this very reason the true Philosophers applyed themselves wholly to the Hermetic science, that they might thereby lay a true foundation of Physick, for the Hermetic Phylosophy layes open the most private and abstruse closets of nature, it doth most exquisitely search and find out the natures of health and sickness, it provides most elaborate and effectuall Medicines, teacheth the just Dose of them, and surpasseth by many degrees the vulgar Philosophy, and that faculty which is grounded upon the principles of the common, supposititious knowledge, that is to say, it doth much exceed and outdo the Galenical Physick. This appears most evidently, because the Hermetical Physicians both can and frequently doe cure those diseases, which the Galenists adjudge to be incurable, as the Leprosie, the falling sickness, the Gout, &c. That the Principles of the Hermetists, are more certain then those of Galen, is sufficiently verified by their performances ; besides, it is a truth which cannot be denied, that the Certainty and proof of the principles of all Arts, can by no other meanes, be known and tryed but by practise, as Paracelsus doth rightly urge In Præfat. Defensionum, page 252.

10 Now all the knowledge of the Hermetists, proceeds from a laborious manual disquisition and search into nature, but the Galenists insist wholly upon a bare received Theorie and prescribed Receipts, giving all at adventure, and will not be perswaded to inquire further then the mouth of their leader. I call not those Hermetists, who know onely to distil a little water from this or that Herb ; nor those, who seeke to extract from other things by their sophistical operations a great treasure of Gold, which onely nature can supply us with : for the most ignorant amongst the people, may make a very useful Distiller, and the other attempt is

20 most commonly the task of Sophisters and Impostors : but I call them Hermetists, who observe nature in her workes, who imitate her, and use the same method that she doth, that out of nature, by the mediation of nature, and the assistance of their owne judgements, they may produce and bring to light such rare effectual medicines, as will safely, speedily, and pleasantly cure, and utterly expell the most deplorable diseases. These are the true Hermetists : As therefore I doe not approve of all those that would be called Hermetists, So neither doe I condemn all those, who diligently and conscientiously practise the Galenicall Physick : for some of them are precise and

30 petulant, others are sober & modest : and these latter sort acknowledge the imperfection of their medicines, and therefore they endeavour and take delight to adorne, inlarge, and accomplish their profession with the secrets of Hermetical Physick : but the other sort ascribe supreme perfection to that Ethnic, Antichristian writer, and his medicines, and will not for meer envy, or out of a childish depraved ignorance, looke upon the eminency of Hermetic Philosophy, nor inquire into the secrets of it, but seek rather by reprehending and carping those things they doe not understand, to magnifie their own way, and with peevish and virulent language,

40 raile at the Hermetic professors. Now as I preferre the Hermetical science to the medicines of these men : so (their Errours being first laid aside,) I unite it with the Physick of the more sober Galenists, that theirs by consociation with ours, may become perfect and irreprehensible :

This Joseph Quercetan, a most expert Physician, and a learned Philosopher, whom as my master in this science I worthily honour, (for I must confess, that by his instructions (God assisting me,) I benefited very much,) did most happily performe. And many learned men even in this Age design the same thing, especially the professors of Physick in Marburg, who by an express and memorable decree of the most illustrious and mighty Prince William Lantgrave of Hassia, proceed in that very course. And who then can justly blame me, for walking in the same path with such eminent men? I shall conclude, and give my judgement with learned Crollius (a man who for the advancement of the true Physick, was most worthy of a longer life) that whosoever desires to be eminent in the Art of Physick, (and none can be so, that will study onely the Placets of one man) must (above all things) be unbiassed and addicted to no Sect, nor any one Author whatsoever, but passe through them all in pursuit of the sincere truth, and subscribe only unto that, being mindful ever to preserve the same freedome for himself, which Horace did.

*Quo me cunq; rapit tempestas, deferor hospes,
Nullius addictus jurare in verba Magistri.*

Where-e'r my fancy calls, there I goe still,
Not sworne a slave to any Masters will.

II.

Health is an incorrupt integrity, and soundnesse of the body preserved by, and depending upon the strength and virtue of the radical Balsame.

Whence followes this Consequence, that the more strong and virtual the Balsame is, so much the more vegetous and healthful is the body.

III.

The strength and virtue of the Balsame, depends upon the equal and mutual conspiracy of the Hypostatical Principles, that by their even and peaceful consistency, the Balsame also may legitimately perform his functions, by which he may advantage and strengthen himself with the received aliment or food which is taken in, and may also (when separation is performed by the stomach.) cast out through his proper Emunctories what is not nutritive, and may further provide that the seeds of diseases (if any lurk in the flesh, or in the blood, in the disguise of that tincture,) break not out, and bring suddain destruction to the body, or else may cause that those ill seeds may by the balsames strength and vigour, be cast out of the body as superfluous impurities, which cannot consist with the health of man.

It is truth therefore which the most noble and learned Crollius speaks in his preface to his Basilica Chymica: In what body
 10 soever (saith he) the Hypostatical principles consist by union, that body may be judged to be truly sound.

IV.

Medicine or Physick, treats either of the preservation, or of the restoration of health.

CHAP. 2.

Of the preservation of Health.

That part of Physick which treates of the preserving of health, is an Art, which by certaine cautionary Rules, or Precepts, teacheth and prescribeth a certain way and meanes to defend and 20 save people from diseases.

It is by the Græcians termed προφυλακτικὴ: To effect what this Art promiseth, I give these following Precepts.

I.

Lead a pious and an holy life.

For Piety (as the Apostle teacheth) is profitable for all things, having the promise of this present life, and of that which is to come. Now all piety consists in this, that we love God with all our souls, and our Neighbours as our selves. Wonder not therefore, that so many in this age perish so suddainly and so soon.
 30 Impiety now bears the sway: true and unfeigned charity hath no place to abide in; Perjury, Treachery, Tyranny, Usury and Avarice, or (where these are not,) a vicious, lascivious, and loose life, are every where in request. The soul, which God made and ordained to be the nobler essence, and the mistress, is now the bond-woman, and the servile drudge to the vile body. We daily see, that one Groom will serve to dresse and look to many Horses, one sheeheard will keep a thousand sheep, one Herdsman as many Kine or Oxen: but to dresse and feed one voluptuous body

*There's need (betwixt his clothes, his bed and bord,)
Of all that Earth and Sea, and Air afford.*

And I would to God that all these would suffice! A most unhappy truth was that of the Stoic, He is a servant to many, that serves but one body: for doe but imagine thy selfe placed in the Clouds, or neare the Starres, and from thence to looke down and observe our actions upon earth, thou shalt not see one man quiet, they runne all as busie as Ants over Sea and Land, through 10 Citty and Country, by right and wrong, to become Lordly and rich.

*With restless cares they wast the night and day,
To compasse great Estates, and get the sway.*

What wouldst thou say at such a sight as this? wouldst not thou cry out with Seneca, Oh the faith of Go and men! how many persons doth one ambitious stomach imploy? If brutes and wild beasts devour or eat one another (unless they be compelled unto it by extream famine) we presently cry out, it is a prodigie: but what thing (I beseech thee) amongst mankind, is more frequent 20 then such prodigies? The Satyrist asks the question,

—————*When ever did (I pray,)
One Lyon take anothers life away?
Or in what Forrest did a wild Bore by
The tusks of his owne fellow wounded, die?
Tygers with Tygers never have debate,
And Beares amongst themselves abstain from hate.*

—————*Quando Leoni,
Fortior eripuit vitam leo? quo nemore unquam,
Expiravit Aper, &c.*

30

But men, whom God adorned with rationall soules, kill one another, and those to whom nature, reason, and the faculty of speech, did (above any other creatures) commend love and unity, do by troopes (as it were for spectacle and ostentation,) murder and butcher themselves. Add to this, that (as Seneca saith) a Dogge will bark before he bites; stormes will threaten us before they dissolve upon our heads; buildings will crack before they fall, and smoke will give us warning that fire is at hand: but the destruction of man by man is suddain, and without the least notice: nay, the nearer it is, it is by so much the more diligently 40

36 bark before he bites G: bite before he barks 1655

concealed. And what then is one man to another? who smiles, when he hates, salutes and embraceth, when he intends destruction, who under a serene smooth countenance hides poyson, violence and blood-shed. Certainly thou wilt erre, and erre grievously, if thou wilt trust to those faces, that meet thee civilly, and salute thee fairly: they have (indeed) the complexions of men, but the conditions of Devils. Nay, thou wilt meet with some, who (as the same Satyrist hath observed,)

10 *Esteem it no point of revenge to kill,
Unless they may drinke up the blood they spill;
Who do believe that hands, & hearts, and heads,
Are but a kind of meat, &c.*

— *Quorum non sufficit ira,
Occidisse aliquem, sed pectora, brachia, vultus
Crediderint genus esse cibi, &c.*

But thou wilt reply, that Salvages, Barbarians, and Canibals, may (perhaps) commit such villanies. Art thou no better acquainted with our Saints of Europe? that humane society and commerce, that godlinesse and sanctity, which we so much celebrate and commend our selves for, is nothing else but meere monopolizing, meere deceit, and a mutuall imposture. And amongst us Saints, who (in our owne opinion) are mighty righteous, tender-hearted and brotherly, there is nothing more usuall, then to have store of Anthrophophagi, or Men-eaters: for the rich, and the great amongst us, not onely feed upon and live by the sweat, the slaughter, and the blood of the poor and opprest, but esteem them (of all others) their choicest dainties, for they are swallowed without much chewing, and there is none to deliver them: Insomuch that those shepheards, who were said to flay 20 their sheep, robbing them of their Wool, their skins, and their flesh, and leaving them onely their bare bones, may be truly said to be more merciful then those men. So that man to man, is no more a God, but a WoOLF and a Devil. Wonder not then (as I said before,) that so many amongst us dye so suddainly, and so soon for they had rather die sooner, yea and die for ever, then become sober, charitable, and truly pious.

II.

Follow after Sobriety.

For as drunkenness and immoderate feeding oppress and weaken
40 the virtue of the radical balsame: so sobriety preserves from sick-

nesse, and diseases. Sober above most Kings was Massinissa the Numidian, who standing alwaies, and at his Tent-doore, would in the open field eat his meat without sauce, being contented with dry bread, and military Commons. For which very reason he was so vegetous in old age, that at the years of fourscore and six, he begat a Sonne, and after ninety two, did in a pitched field overthrow the Carthaginians, who had broken their league made with him; in which battel he did not onely supply the place of an active, and expert Leader, but performed all the duties of a common Souldier. By the benefit of this virtue of temperance, ¹⁰ did M. Valerius Corvinus live to be an hundred years old, and retain'd at that age a sound mind in a sound body. And Socrates continued all his life long in a perfect undisturbed health: yea, sobriety (if we should fall sick,) will restore us to health. There are some who think, that Cæsar used no other remedy to cure his falling sicknesse, which tooke him first at Corduba in Spaine, so that by a meere spare dyet, hard labours, and tedious watchings, he escaped, and overcame that dangerous and most commonly fatall indisposition.

III.

Eat not greedily, and drink not immoderately.

Nature in Vegetables, doth not swallow down her nutriment, nor take it in ravenously, and all at a time. She doth all things leasurly, and by degrees, that her motion may be convenient and useful, or assisting to her Preservation. It is thy concernment to imitate Nature, and to do as she doth, when thou dost eat, and when thou dost drink. It is a most foul blemish upon the memory of Alexander, that after most of his Victories, he used to riot it with his Officers, inviting them to delicious and sumptuous feasts, in which he used alwaies to drink Prizes, and he that could ³⁰ tun in more then all the rest, was rewarded with a Talent: But this intemperate eating and 'drinking, did cast him into such a violent, suddaine disease, that within three dayes he dyed of it.

IV.

Let thy meat be simple and unarted.

For such victuals (saith the most industrious Pliny), are the most wholesome and agreeable: Nature is but one, therefore she doth most delight in one kinde of meate and drink. Whence followes this consequence,

Thou shouldest never at one meal feed upon divers sorts of meats & drinks.

For they are of an Heterogeneous nature, and the fire of Nature, which is but one and the same, cannot work equally upon them all, and prepare (legitimately) a nutriment for his own body, out of divers and differing cibations. Every thing the nearer it is to unitie, is by so much the more perfect and durable. There are 10 infinite sorts of Trees which live very long, but they use all of them (without change) onely one kind of nutriment : But if it be so, that thou canst not abstaine from variety of meats, yet be sure (if possibly thou canst) that they have some agreement and correlation amongst themselves : For Contraries, (as Hippocrates affirmes) will move sedition and differences, while some of them are sooner, some latter digested and communicated to the body. Octavius Augustus, would never have above three dishes of meat to his supper : Imitate him, and use not too much indulgence towards thy selfe, so shalt thou live the longer and the better.

V.

Accustome not thy selfe suddainly to meats and drinks, which formerly thou hast not been used to feed upon, unlesse they be prescribed thee by some expert and learned Physician for thy healths sake.

For every Change is dangerous. Nature is simple and always the same : and her manner of operation is simple too, and without change, and she delights altogether in constancy, and simple nutriments : but if thou dost change, she also will suffer the like change. We see daily, that those birds which are taken, and put 30 into Cages, by changing their naturall dyet, fall into divers diseases, and dye frequently. A Lamb that is nourished with the milk of a Cow, seldome comes to any improvement, but most commonly dyes.

VI.

Use Antidotes frequently, to preserve thee from poysons, and private or accidental mischiefes.

Lest thou perish by venemous meats or drinks, or by the aire thou livest in, which may be poysoned as well as thy food.

Mithridates by the frequent use of an Antidote, which from him is still called Mithridate, did so strengthen nature, that no poyson could hurt him : And when he tooke a venemous, deadly confection of purpose to kill himselfe, it could not so much as make him sick : So that being overthrown in battel by his Enemies, and not being able to poyson himselfe, he was forced to command his Armour-bearer to thrust him through, and so dyed. There be divers kinds of Antidotes. I shall onely mention the most effectuall. The first is Quercetanus, his confection of Juniper and Vipers, described by him in his private dispensatory, page 349. ¹⁰ The second is his blessed Theriac: the third, his celestiall Theriac, called so by way of Eminency, and described both in the same Book. The fourth is Crollius his Theriac of Mummie, with another very soveraigne, one described by him in his Basilica Chymica. Use these Antidotes according to the Philosophers prescriptions, and (God assisting) no poyson shall be able to hurt thee.

VII.

Fly contagious airs, and if the aire thou livest in, be infected, change thy habitation.

20

VIII.

Take Physick in the spring-time, and in the Autumne.

Let us consider the nature of Serpents and Vipers : these in our stated seasons of Spring & Fall, cast off their old skins, and are clothed with new. That Medicine or course of Physick, which in all its circumstances answers to the great world, will work the more easily, the more prosperously, and will have the greatest effect. Seeing therefore that Trees, and all Roots, which in the Winter time seem dead, doe about the entrance of the Spring break forth and bud, putting on greenness, and a renew'd youth-³⁰ fulnesse and fresh vivacity as it were, therefore the wise Ancients did at the very same time (by observing them) take their purging and restorative Physick, and by that meanes (God cooperating with them) did mightily strengthen nature, and multiply their dayes upon earth. Such Physick as this, is the starre of man impregnated with the Physicall tincture. Others use onely the Philosophicall stone. These glorious medicines (whomsoever God shall reveale them to,) may in their just Dose be taken once in every week to the singular comfort, and incredible improvement of nature: So the Philosophers tell me. The dose of the universall medicine, is the weight of one graine.

IX.

Vse not too frequently, the permissions of Marriage.

Man for procreations sake, should not abhorre the Concessions and Priviledges of lawfull love, but let him eschew all wantonnesse, and confine his desires to naturall and legitimate, and that too within the bounds of Wedlock: But in this also there must be moderation. Solons Law was thrice in the moneth. Emission 10 of seed weakens all bodies: This experience tells us, for men that are addicted to this intemperance, have the most nice and tender constitutions, easily offended, and seldome fruitfull: like Trees, which bearing too much in one year, yeeld nothing but leaves in the next. You are to understand from this Paragraph, that seed is two-fold, Radical, and Prolific. The Radical seed, is the innate balsame of the body, which if it be advantaged with perfect digestion, will yeeld effusion, and a balsame of the same nature as it selfe. In this balsame the body lives as in his proper seed. Hence Anonymus Leschus, Tract. 7. instructs us, that so 20 long as there is seed in the body, it lives; but the seed being consumed, the body dies. It is no wonder then, that so many have perished by this intemperance, who * going to bed in a vegetous, perfect health, were found dead next morning. If you excite a Tree to bear fruit by violent and unnatural means, or by artificiall, as by kindling fire under his branches in an unseasonable time, you will but kill the Tree, and manifest your own indiscretion.

* It was not long before the publishing of this peece, that I was told by a very noble Gentleman, that in his late travailes in France, he was acquainted with a young French Physician, who for a long time had bene suiter to a very handsome Lady, and having at length gained her consent, 30 was married to her, but his Nuptial bed proved his Grave, for on the next morning he was found dead. It was the Gentlemans opinion, that this sad accident might be caused by an excessive joy, and for my part I subscribe to it; for a violent joy hath oftentimes done the worke of death: this comes to passe by an extreame attenuation, and diffusion of the animal spirits, which passing all into the exterior parts, leave the heart destitute, whence followes suffocation and death. Scaliger Exercit. 310. gives the reason of this violent effusion and dissipation of the Spirits: Quia similia maxime cupiunt inter se uniri, ideo spiritus veluti exire conantur ad objectum illud externum gratum ac jucundum, ut videlicet cum eo uniantur, Illudq; sibi maxime simile reddant. If any will
 40 suspect, that together with this excessive joy, there was a concurrency of the other excess mentioned by my Author, I permit him his liberty, but certainly I thinke he will be deceived.

CHAP. 3.

Of Diseases in Generall.

Hitherto we have spoken onely of that part of Physick, which teacheth us to preserve health ; It remaines now, that we consider the other part, which treats of the restitution of health.

I.

That part of Physick which teacheth us the restoration of health, is an Art laying down in certaine precepts or rules, a sure & safe way to redeem or free sick persons from diseases. It is termed by the Grecians θεραπευτική.

10

II.

In this we are to consider, first, the disease, and all its circumstances : secondly, the cure of it.

For the true method consists in knowing, first the disease, and afterwards the cure. The Doctrine of diseases, is termed by the Grecians, νοσολογία.

III.

Disease or sicknesse, is a privation, or the loss of health.

IV.

Therefore ; because health depends upon the strength and vigour of the radical balsame, sicknesse must needs proceed from the weaknesse and indisposition of it.

20

V.

But when the strength of the Balsame followes the conspiracy of the Hypostatical principles, as his proper πάθος or inclination, then or in that cause the infirmity of the balsame proceeds from the indisposition of the principles.

Whence followes this consequence.

That those bodies, whose principles agree not amongst themselves, may be truly judged to be sickly and ill disposed.

30

VI.

Touching the disease, there are two things to be considered. First, The conjoyn'd and apparent cause of the disease, which we shall terme Extrarious. Secondly, the cause of that Extrarious or conjoyn'd cause.

27 indisposition] ind sposition 1655 (?)

CHAP. 4.

Of the Extrarious or conjoynd and apparent Cause of the Disease.

I.

The conjoynd apparent cause of the disease, I terme by reason it is a Cause most remote from, and altogether a stranger to, our nature.*

* Extrarious signifies such a substance, that is quite another thing, and of another disposition than ours is.

II.

10 This Extrarious Cause is twofold, Substantial and Accidental.

The substantial is so termed, because it is the substantiall Essence, or matter of the disease. The other is termed accidental, by reason that the conjoynd cause signified by it, is an accident, not a substance.

III.

The substantial extrarious Cause, is either an impure tincture, or a Meteor.

IV.

20 An impure tincture, is an impure spiritual nature, so exactly mixt with the most inward parts of our substance, that at the time of its commixtion, it doth not presently and manifestly hinder nor prejudice the functions of the Balsame, but remaining quiet and inoffensive at first, and for a time, doth afterwards by degrees, discover its enmity and force, and so infects the body.

To this place must be referred ; first, those impure seminal tinctures, by which the prolific seed is tainted, and the child that is borne of it, comes to be Hereditarily infected with the Diseases of his parents.

Secondly, the impurity of the body, that proceeds from the 30 bloud, with which the child is fed and nourished in the wombe : from which last impurity, if the substance of the Childe were not vindicated, and free'd by frequent breakings out, by the Measels, and divers other extrusions, and petty indispositions, besides the daily discharge of it through the proper Emunctories of the body, it were not absurd to conclude, that his whole nature must needs be depraved and overcome by it. Purgations of this kind happen sometimes sooner, sometimes later, according to the strength of the Radicall balsame, which in some is slower, in others quicker and more vigorous ; as we see it exemplified in our very fields, of which some are more barren, some more fruitfull, according to their scituation, and the aspect of the Sun-beames, shining directly and favourably upon some, upon others glancingly, and for a short time, which makes some places more forward, some more back-ward, and their productions, whether flowers, or Hey, or 10 Corne, to differ accordingly, some being very good, some very bad.

V.

A Meteor is either volatile or coagulated, both kindes are Extrarious.

I call it a Meteor, because I would have the Reader to inquire, how the * Meteors of the greater world are generated, and by their Generation, to learn and find out the true Doctrine of the Microcosmical Meteors.  I promise my English Reader, that (if God will blesse me with health, and his performing assistance) I will shortly communicate to him, (according to the Hermetic principles) a most accurate Treatise of 20 Meteors, their Generation, Causes, qualities, peculiar Regions and Forms: what spirits governe them, and what they signifie or fore-shew.*

VI.

The volatile Meteor, is commonly called an Exhalation, and that is either dry or moist.

The dry Exhalation is termed a Fume, and the humid a Vapour: the fumid Exhalation, because it is a fume arising from a dry body or Principle, is hot, dry, light and subtile, alwayes tending upwards, and is near to a sulphureous fiery nature, which will easily inflame and kindle, and so is set on fire and burns. Contrarily, a vapour 30 is an humid flux, which if it be deprived by any exterior heat of its owne cold quality and so carried up into the Region of the Air, and there condensed by cold, is presently (because of its thin, Mercurial and aqueous nature,) forced to resume its former state, and is turned againe into the nature of water. For as we see in the greater world, that those Vapors and Exhalations, which by the heat of the Sun, the influence of the Stars, and by their owne proper internall calidity, are excited and stirred up, doe afterwards afford matter for various, miraculous Meteors, and bodies imperfectly mixt both in the Region of the Air, and in the bowels of 40 the Earth ; and that those which are of a Mercurial, cold, moist,

29 nature] nature 1655

and watry nature, doe alwayes produce Clouds, Raine, Hail-stones, Snow, Frost and winds; but those which are sulphureous, hot and dry generate Coruscations, Lightnings, Fire-drakes, Thunder-bolts, and other burning Meteors: so in the lesser world, that is in the body of man, the like, and the very same vapours and Exhalations, afford matter for the generation of many and different kinds of Meteors. Hence it is, that so many and such various sorts of Diseases afflict man-kind. Some of them being Mercurial, cold and moist; others sulphureous, hot and dry: Nor are they so in 10 meer forme and accident, but in substance, that is to say, they are such in their essentiall virtue, and are generated as wel in the inferiour Region, the breast, the stomack, and the belly; as in the superiour, the head and the braine, which parts do exactly quadrate and correspond with the airy Region, and the subterraneous Concavities of the earth. See Quercetanus, Tetr. page 45. 46.

VII.

The Coagulated Meteor, is termed Tartar, of which we shall treat in the following Chapter.

20

CHAP. 5.

Of Tartar.

I.

Tartar is an acrimonious, pricking and corroding, or an aluminous, acid and styptic mucilage, which is bred in the body, and being separated from its proper juyce, is by the supervenient spirit of Salt, according to the various inclination of nature, at a set time, and in those places which are most apt to receive it, collected together, and coagulated; or if that juyce be not separated from it, it putrifies: from whence come worms and other innumerable 30 symptoms.

Quercetanus in his advice against the Joynt-gout, and the Stone, describes it thus. Salsuginous substances, because they have alwayes mixt in them some portion of earth (though the predominant part in them be Liquefactive,) are in the body of man termed Tartar; a most apt (in truth) and most significant terme, which was first given them from the Analogy, or similitude that was found betwixt the humours in mans body, yea betwixt his very blood and the substance of wine: which of all the fruits of vegetables, doth most abound with Tartar. I doe not meane by Tartar in this place that substance which is dissolved, and flows in new Wines, while they are thick and turbid, which being afterwards separated, or (as the common phrase is) settled, doth as the grosser, earthy, and more impure part subside into a feculent substance, found alwayes in the bottome, and called Dregs. Neither doe I mean that Tartar onely, whose separation is performed by a long Tract of time, and sticks to the Dregs or Lees of old Wine-pipes. But I meane that Tartar also, which is in perpetual liquefaction and commixture with the most refined wines, and which gives them their tincture either red, or any other. ¹⁰ This true Tartar, either by Evaporation, or simple distillation, or a Balneum Maris, is easily discerned to be moderately hot, for the more liquid part of the humour (which was the Vehiculum, in which the Tartar in its dissolution was contained) being separated from it, the Tartar alone remains in the bottom. This liquid humour, though of red wine, distills all bright and limpid, but the heavier red substance, which I call Tartar, stayes all behind: a solid substance, and the more you fetch out of the substantial humour, it becomes by so much the more hard and the dryer. Nor is this Tartar onely in red, or white Wines, but in any other ²⁰ though decocted, and also in the humours of mans body. Nor is it there onely in the Chylus, or nutriment, which answers in proportion to wine newly made (for from the Chylus, as from new wine, divers impure and tartareous dregs are separated,) but also in the very blood, yea in the most pure, and after the very same manner, as we described it to be in wine. And as the Art of distilling (even that which is performed by the most gentle fire) discovers and manifests unto us this kind of Tartar: so nature also by her naturall fury both canne and daily doth performe such separations of Tartar, by a consumption of the humoural parts ³⁰ of our bodies, out of which the Dogmatical Writers of Physick, suppose the stone to be generated. And it is wonderfull to consider, how many sorts of Diseases by the intervening of obstructions or oppilations, arise out of this meere separation, particularly the joynt-gout, and the stone: which diseases according to the sentiment of these Dogmatists themselves, happen most frequently to those, who have the hottest Livers, and consequently the coldest stomacks: Who ingenerate much crudities and mucous matters, which for want of a through-digestion, may be compared to raw fruits, that failing of their due and perfect maturity, (which ⁴⁰ is performed by a contemperate heat, that is all concocting and digesting,) remaine acid, bitter, sowre and green. These being mixt with, and in the whole Masse of blood, are there by the natural heate againe concocted, and a separation is made of the more crude and tartareous portion, which sticks afterwards to the inward parts, and causing divers obstructions, is at length forcibly carried into the joynts, where it stayes and lodgeth. For every part of the body of man doth naturally delight in, and attract to it, that which is most like to it selfe : the fleshie parts are nourished by that portion of the blood, which is most thinly moist, and 10 mercuriall : the fat and marrowish parts, by that which is most oily, or sulphureous, but the joynts which are parts that be naturally glutinous and mucilaginous, love that portion which hath most likenesse and affinity with their nature ; whence it comes to passe, that this Salsuginous and Tartareous matter is taken in by them. Now, when it happens that these parts in some bodyes, either for their weakness, or an innate hereditary disposition, or some such cause cannot by a proper and particular digestion, inoffensively digest, nor expell this crude and indigested Tartareous matter, then is this matter, being of a saltish, viscous nature

 20 coagulated in them, and the ligaments of the joynts come to be stuffed up and stiffened with it, whence proceed those acute intolerable paines which attend this Disease. And this is the true and genuine conjoyn'd cause of the paines and knottines of the Joynt-gout. The same cause is sometimes lesse acute, sometimes more, according to the nature and condition of the Tartar. For as we see that there is in the greater world, a great diversity of Salts, for the Earth yeelds first Salt-gemme, which answers in proportion to Sea-salt, that is onely saltish in tast ; then Salt-nitre which is bitter in tast, and Salt-alum which is austere and Astrin-
 30 gent : afterwards Salt of Vitriol, and Salt Armoniac which are acid and hot : and lastly, those corrosive sharp Salts which are termed Alkali, with others that are sweet and pleasant as Sugar : so in the lesser world, that is in the body of man, there is generated a Tartar or Salt, which being dissolved, causeth onely a saltish humour, which the Dogmatical Physicians term saltish phlegme, in plaine termes, a salt water or humour. There is also generated, a nitrous or bitter Salt, which mixeth with the Urine, and causeth bitter Choler ; and a vitriolated acid salt which predominates in acid phlegme and melancholy. In like manner there be also alumi-
 40 nous and austere kinds of Tartar, and other sorts which resemble the acrimonie of Salt, as it is manifestly seen by the various affections of contractures and astrictions of the sinews, and the many perilous troubles of acrimonious humours in Dysenteries, and divers Ulcers as well inward as outward, all which are caused by the many and different kindes of Salts, which are generated in the body. For why should not this be done by those things which are most like to doe it, and most significant, and which do most properly and fully expresse the natures and diversities of Causes, having their derivation and appositenes from the very fountains of nature, who is the best Interpretress of her own concernsments. These Salts (believe me) doe better expresse and discover unto us ¹⁰ the essences and distinctions of Tartareous or saltish diseases, then those four humours which are commonly termed the Sanguine, the Phlegmatic, the Biliou, and the Melancholy, both because that these latter termes, signifie nothing unto us of the essence or matter of the Disease, and also because that those Dogmatists themselves, Hallucinate and stagger very much both in the formation or aptnesse, and in the application of their said termes.

II.

Tartar is two-fold, Adventitious and Innate.

III.

20

Adventitious Tartar, proceeds from meat and drinke, and the Impressions of the Firmament.

Every thing that we eat and drinke, hath in it a Mucilaginous, reddish and sandy Tartar, very noxious to the health of man. Nature receives nothing for her own use, but what is pure. The stomach, which is an instrument of the Archæus of man, or an internall, innate Chymist, and implanted there by God, presently upon the reception of that which is chew'd and swallowed down, separates the impure, Tartareous part from the pure nutriment: If the stomach be vigorous, especially in its faculty of separation, ³⁰ the pure portion passeth presently into all the members to nourish and preserve the body, and the impure goes forth into the Draught: if the stomach be weake, the impure portion is through the Misaraic veines conveyd to the Liver, where a second digestion or separation is made. Here the Liver separates againe the pure from the impure, the Rubie from the Chrystall, that is to say, the Red from the White: The Red is the nutriment of all the members the heart, the brain, &c. The white, or that which is no nutriment, is driven by the Liver to the Reys and it is Urine, which is nothing else but Salt, which being exprest from the Mercuriall portions, by the violence of the separation, is forced to a dissolution: It is dissolved into water by the Liver & so cast forth. If the Liver, by reason of its debility, makes no perfect separation, it casts that Mucilaginous and Calculous impurity upon the Reys, where for want of a right and through separation, it is (according to the concurrency and Method of nature) by the mediation of the spirit of Salt coagulated into Sand, or Tartar, either Massie and Solid, or Mucilaginous. This Tartar therefore 10 is the Excretion of meat and drinke, which is coagulated in all mens bodies by the spirit of Salt, unless the expulsive faculty by its owne peculiar vigour or virtue, can command it into the Excrements, and so cast it out by dejection.

IV.

There are four kinds of this Adventitious Tartar, which proceed originally from the four distinct fruits or Cibations which we receive from the four Elements.

The first kind proceeds from the use of those things that grow out of the Earth, as from all sorts of Pulse, Grains, Fruits, Herbs
 20 and Roots, upon which we feed.

The second proceeds from those nutriments which we take out of the Element of Water, as from fish, shel-fish, &c.

The third is from the flesh of Birds and beasts, &c.

The fourth comes from the Firmament, which the spirit of Wine, in respect of its subtilty, doth most resemble. This kind of Tartar is of a most forcible impression, while the Air being primarily infected with the vapours of the Earth, the water and the firmament doth afterwards annoy us: as wee frequently see in those acute and pernicious Astral Diseases, the Pleurisie, the 30 Plague, the Prunella, &c.

V.

Tartar innate, is that which is cogenerated with man in his mothers wombe.

VI.

Besides these impure Tinctures and Meteors, there is another substantial Extrarious cause, which cannot be reduced to a certaine kind.

To this must be referred, those Insecta's or quick Creatures which sometimes (though rarely) are generated in the body, as 40 Snakes, divers worms, &c.

Secondly, those things must be referred hither, which by enchantment and the mediation of evill spirits, are invisibly and insensibly conveyed into the bodies of men and Women.

Thirdly, We are to reduce to this Aphorisme or Canon all Splinters, Bullets, or other weapons, which being violently thrust or shot into the body, lie deeply in the flesh, or under the skin.

VII.

We have now done with the Substantial Extrarious Cause. To the Accidental, I shall referre all disproportions of Limbs, Gibbosities, Luxations, Wounds, and fractures of bones. 10

CHAP. 6.

Of God, the first and supreme Cause of the Extrarious Cause.

Having now done with the Extrarious or conjoynd and apparent cause of the disease, I shall consider the cause of that Extrarious Cause.

I.

This Cause I shall divide into six heads or branches. The first of which is God. 2. Excesse and defect of Necessaries. 3. Fire. 4. Hereditary impurity. 5. Imagination. 6. Violent Illation. Of these I shall treat in their order; and first of GOD. 20

Man, because he is made in the Image of God, is bound also to live according to his Will. I mean his will revealed and laid down in the Ten Commandements, and the holy Scriptures, namely in those Bookes onely which were left unto us, and which (without scruple) we have received from the holy Prophets, and the Apostles of the Lord and Saviour: but when we transgresse and violate this Law and will of our maker, then doth God send upon us condigne punishments, amongst which Diseases are numbred in the very Booke of the Law. For thus saith the Lord: If ye shall despise my statutes, or if your soules abhor my judgements, 30 so that ye will not do my Commandements, but that ye break my Covenants: I also will do this unto you, I will even appoint over you terrour, consumption and the burning ague, that shall consume the eyes, and cause sorrow of heart. I will also smite thee in the knees and the legges with a sore botch, that cannot be healed, from the sole of thy foot unto the top of the Head. I will make the Pestilence cleave unto thee, untill it hath consumed

- thee from off the Land which thou possessest. And in another place, The Lord shall smite thee with a Consumption, with a Feavour, and with an inflammation and extream burning, and with the Sword, and with Blasting, and with Mildew: and they shall pursue thee untill thou perish. And the Heaven that is over thy head, shall be brass, and the Earth that is under thee shall be Iron. The Lord shall make the Raine of thy Land powder and dust, from heaven shall it come down upon thee, untill thou be destroyed. Levitic. Cap. 29. 16. Deuteron. 28.
- 10 And in the new Testament, that everlasting and blessed Physitian, the Holy JESUS, who came not to destroy, but to save the world; after he had healed the impotent man, who had beene sick of his infirmity eight and thirty years, he dismissed him not without this loving and gracious caution: Behold, thou art made whole, sinne no more, lest a worse thing come unto thee. S. John Chap. 5. 14. and S. Paul also in his first Epistle to the Corinthians, rebuking that new and sinfull custome (which had crept then into that Church) of prophaning the Lords holy Supper, with their own intemperate feasts, objects to them, that sharp visitation by
- 20 Diseases, which (for that very abuse) God had punished them with: For this cause (saith he) many are weak and sickly among you, and many sleep: for some of them had beene punished with death. Thus is the just and all-seeing God, the first and supreme cause of the Extrarious cause.

CHAP. 7.

Of the excesse and the defect of necessities, which is the second cause of the Extrarious cause.

- Excess of Necessaries, is to be considered, first in Victuals, where the offence is threefold. 1. In superfluosness. 2. In
- 30 variety. 3. In our manner of receiving them. We offend in superfluosness, when that which is to nourish us is taken in too great a quantity: whence follow frequent and unwholsome evaporations and belchings, which so fill and oppresse the vessels and Organs of the spirits, that they are hindered in their functions; or the meat with its weight and quantity so indisposeth us, that the inordinate operation and digestion is retarded. Innumerable are the Diseases and molestations which proceed from this particular intemperance.

1 thou] thon 1655 15 whole,] whole 1655 28 Excess] Fxcess 1655
30 variety] vairety 1655

We offend in variety, when at one dinner or supper, we eate many and divers kinds of Meats and Drinkes, for these having a great dissimilitude and enmity amongst themselves, cause divers inconveniences by their various dissents and unequall digestion.

We offend in the manner of receiving, when we eate hastily, or swallow our meat before it be well chew'd and devour our Drinke like Whales, as those are accustomed who drink healths (as they term them) at Meales, taking off whole Bowles and Tankards ἀπνευστί, without so much as breathing time, and thinke the excess very fashionable & praiseworthy.

Another Excess in Necessaries, happens about taking of rest and watching: When the Animal spirits by too much sleep, are by degrees habituated into a certaine dulness, so that they perform their functions sluggishly, remitting still something of their due vigour, until at length they lose all their activity, and are naturalized (as it were) into an incurable stupidity. Contrarywise by too much watching they are easily inflamed, so that oftentimes they cause Maniacal fits and phrensies, with divers others most desperate consequences.

A third excess of Necessaries, happens from cold and heat. 20 Excess of heat happens, either when the body is over exercised, or when any other Extraneous heat hath too free an access to it, and the innate fire of nature is beyond measure excited thereby, so that inordinate exhalations are caused in the body, which produce an excessive and dangerous resolution and weakness of parts. Excess of cold happens either by a suddaine Refrigeration, or cooling after Exercise, or when we expose our selves too much to cold weather, which hinders the evaporation of Excrementitious Exhalations by stopping the Pores, and beating them back into the body, where they lodge and remaine: Whence it comes to 30 pass, that being of an Extrarious malignant disposition, they afford matter and foment for many and severall kinds of diseases.

A like excess to this, proceeds frequently from the hardness and thick Callousness of some peoples skins, by which fault (because little or no perspiration is performed) the secret, and the Ambient Aire of their bodies is intercepted, so that there is no liberty for inspiration or expiration.

Defect of Necessaries is first, the want of meat and drink in their due time and proportion. This is either famine or thirst. Secondly, The want of naturall rest, according to the Verse,

Quod caret alterna requie, durabile non est.

*The strongest body, and the best
Cannot subsist, without due rest.*

Thirdly, The want of Refrigeration or coolness of aire, which by its needfull community and permeation, allayes and tempers the inward heat of the heart.

10 Fourthly, and lastly, the want of due and requisite heat, by which the Excrementitious Exhalations of the body are vented forth, and the animall spirits incited to their peculiar functions.

CHAP. 8.

Of Fire, the third Cause of the Extrarious Cause.

By Fire in this place, I understand not onely Kitchin-fire, or any other fire that burns, but also the celestially fire of the Sun, and the native implanted fire of all the parts of mans body.

I.

20 Externall fire is the producent of Extrarious Causes by its separative power or faculty, by which it separates & extracts them from other bodies, & communicates them afterwards to our nature.

II.

The Internal, innate fire, produceth Extrarious causes, when by digestion it separates the impure part, from that food or matter in which it first resided, whence our natural substance comes to be infected.

So the naturall heat digests our meat, and by the assistance of the innate Salt dissolves it, that man may retain or keep in his body, that which is agreeable to his nature, and joyne it to his 30 essence: but that which is contrariant, he segregates from the other, and casts forth at his proper Emunctories. This Segregated matter, or Excrement, doth oftentimes mightily afflict the body, and that it doth two manner of waies. The first by being retained in the body, or for want of evacuation. The second, by a noysome

fetid Exhalation, and sent ascending from it to the nobler parts, when it is so retained. It offends by retention first, when it is carried (indeed) to the naturall Emunctories, or deijcient parts; but the weakness of the expulsive faculty is so great, that it cannot drive it out. Secondly, When it is left in the very stomach without farther Exclusion. Thirdly, when some subtil poyson, in and together with the nutritive portion or Chylus, doth convey and insinuate it self into the most inward parts of the body: which poyson was first taken in with meat and drink. It happens often (saith the most learned and expert Quercetanus) that when 10 the naturall Balsame is tainted by some impurity proceeding from food or nutriment, it doth afterwards give way and occasion for many dangerous symptomes and diseases. This Paracelsus, the great Father and leader of the German Philosophers, in his Treatise of the Being, and nature of poyson, doth most learnedly expound. The Stars also doe frequently powre down into the Aire, and upon the Earth, certaine Astral Emunctions, and Arsenical vapours, with other noxious Excretions and Exudations. See his Treatise of the Being, and the power of the Stars over inferiour Bodies. Hence proceed Distraction, Phrensies, Plurisies, the Plague, and 20 frequent, suddaine Dysenteries. Putrified things grow to be noysome and hurtfull, by the meanes of those corrosive Salts and fuliginous Exhalations, which partly by an externall, partly by their own internall heat, are excited out of them and dispersed. Moreover the Excrements of man, when they happen to be retained in the body, are subject to a Re-putrification, and frequently doe so, and Wormes are generated out of them: In this Case, the fuliginous, malignant spirits of that foul Masse, ascend to the braine, whence proceed suddaine madnesse, the Vertigo, the Falling-sickness, and divers other lamentable diseases. 30 There are also certaine living Creatures, which (if they be applyed to man) will by their naturall heat, suddainly indispose him, by emission of that which is most remote from, and inconsistent with his nature. Cantharides are so full of this virulency, that being onely externally applyed, they prove oftentimes pernicious. Bartholomew Montagnana reports, that a certain Citizen of Padua, applying them onely to one of his knees, did bleed at the Urinary passage, five quarts of blood. He affirms also, that the like inconvenience happened to another, who applyed them to his great Toe, to take off the Leprous scurfe of his Nayls. The 40

Basilisk hath such a subtil and violent poyson in his eyes, that his very looks infect and kill. How hurtfull Minerals are, when elevated into Mercuriall vapours, may be read at large in Paracelsus his books, Von den Bergkranckheiten.

III.

That Extrarious Causes, and divers indispositions, are introduced by common fire, none is ignorant.

Alchymists, Goldsmiths, and Colliers, can sufficiently prove this point, who are oftentimes so offended with vehement searching, 10 Sulphureous, Arsenical and Mercurial smoaks, that they fall into desperate and most painfull Diseases. The smoake of Galbanum, and Hartshorne, will induce the Lethargy.

CHAP. 9.

Of Hereditary impurity, which is the fourth Cause of the Extrarious Cause.

I.

Hereditary infection, is a transplantation of extrarious Causes, performed by impressing a fixt tincture, springing from another fixt salt into the prolific seed, which Parents contribute to the Genera- 20 tion of Children.

Salt alone and onely, is of all the three Principles fixt and firme. Therefore those Diseases which proceed from the indisposition of the Salt, are radically fixt, and for the most part Hereditary, as the Leprosie, the Stone, the Joynt-gout, and the like. But those Diseases which spring from any infirmity of the fluxible and volatile principles, that is to say, from Mercury and Sulphur (as all manner of Cathars and Feavers do,) cannot so easily infect posterity: for these Diseases neither fix their seeds firmly, nor deeply, because they have not their tinctures so tenaciously imprest. The nature of this 30 kind of fixed Salt or Sulphur, may be perfectly discern'd in the seeds and the roots of Plants: for if you take but some particles of them, and transplant them, those very peeces will take root and grow, and bear fruit: But neither the leaves, nor the flowers in which the volatile Mercury & Sulphur have their seat, will do so. Now the fixed Salt is alwaies conserved in the root, and in some pithy stalks & Siens, or Graffes: but the fixed Sulphur is in the seed. And this is the reason that the transplantation of all Vegetals, is performed by these onely : but by the Mercuriall parts, which easily fade and wither, it cannot be done ; nor by those parts, which have onely in them a volatile Sulphur, as the flowers, and the leaves of some Vegetables. See Quercetan, in his advice against the joynt-gout, and the stone.

Therefore (saith the same Quercetanus) whatever lodgeth in the body of the parents, that with a firm, spiritual, impure, and malignant tincture can affect or infect the radical Balsame, the vital seed, and the very root or fundamentall of humane nature : 10 that same impurity (whatever it be) doth by an Hereditary transplantation pass into, and infect the Children. But if these impure seeds of Diseases, have not taken such a deep root, nor so far corrupted the radicall Balsame : or if by the helpe of nature, and her internall Balsame, there is a separation made of them ; or if by the ministry of Art, and externall, specificall Balsames of Physick, they are effectually allayed and weakned, or are come to their proper terme and utmost duration, so that their virulency and force is quite spent and broken : in any of these Causes, Gouty and Leprous persons, doe not alwaies beget Gouty and 20 Leprous Children. For by these means, the roots of Diseases, even the most fixt and malignant are eradicated, impure seeds are purified, and the morbid tincture by long traduction becomes quite extinct. This Eradication of hereditary Diseases, and Purification of diseased seed comes to passe by the benefit and assistance of good Seed-plots, that is, by the excellent, wholesome temperament of the Matrix, in vegetous and healthy women : whence it happens, that the Fathers seed, though tainted with some morbific indisposition, is by the laudable vigour of the mothers radical Balsame amended, so that Arthritical and Calcu- 30 lous Fathers beget Children, which all their life-time continue healthy and unattempted by such Diseases. Yea, they beget such Children, as are not obnoxious or liable to such indispositions. In like manner also it happens, that a vegetous, healthy Father, contributing good seed, may have a sickly, impure issue, troubled with hereditary infirmities, the Fathers seed attracting to it the malignant propriety of those Diseases which possessed the Mother. Thus good Corne, if it be cast into a bad soile, will degenerate into Tares, or yeeld a very bad and a thin Crop : but sow it againe in good ground, and it will recover its former goodnesse 40 and perfection.

CHAP. IO.

Of Imagination, the fifth Cause of the Extrarious Cause.

I.

Imagination is a Star, excited in the firmament of man, by some externall Object.

II.

When the Imagination is inflamed, or at the height, then strange passions and defections follow.

III.

It is inflamed first, when it feigns some object to it selfe, and longs for it, but cannot enjoy it.

Hence it comes to passe, that pregnant or breeding women (whose imagination is most vehement, because of the Starre of the Child, which upon some singular longing, doth most powerfully move them,) doe by the force of an inflamed or exalted imagination (when they faile to come by that Object they long for) impresse into the very child, the perfect forme or figure of it; yea, it oftentimes causeth miscarriage, and the death of the Child, as 20 may be seen in this following History. A certaine woman great with child, seeing a Baker carrying Bread into the Oven with his Doublet off, longed for a peece of the Bakers shoulder, and when any other meat was offered unto her, or brought in to her sight, she would presently fall to vomit. Her Husband distrest betwixt love and pittie, offered such a large summe of money to the Baker, that he consented, & suffered her to bite off two morsels of his flesh, but being not able to endure the pain the third time, the woman presently fell in Labour, and was delivered of three boyes, whereof two were alive, and the third dead. Mizaldus in his first 30 Century, relates it out of Langius. To this first Division, must be referred those unfortunate Aspirers, who affecting some great knowledge or science, and missing to attain to it, by reason of a blockish stupidity, or imbecillity of apprehension, come to be distracted and stark mad.

IV.

Secondly, The Imagination comes to be inflamed, when by some unexpected Object or Accident, a man or woman is suddainly frightened.

Such Accidents prove oftentimes very pernicious. A causeless,
40 imaginary fear in times of infection, hath cast many into the Plague, and the Plague hath beene their death. There lives at Gueilburg, a certaine Bakers wife, who being young with Child, went into the adjoyning Woods or Forrest, to gather sticks, and being very intent in gathering with her face towards the ground, a Citizen of that place comming suddainly at her, did so fright her, that (not knowing well what to doe,) she struck one hand into the other, and continued rubbing them together with a very strong compression for a good while. This woman was shortly after delivered of a Son with one hand onely, which Childe I my selfe saw, and taught there in the publick free-Schoole. In the like 10 manner, some men that have been frighted by Phantasms, and spiritual Apparitions in the night time, have instantly fallen into grievous diseases, and some have dyed. Others by the excesse and violence of the horroure, had the hairs of their heads changed from the native colour, into a quite contrary, especially that part which they chanced to touch at the time they were so frighted. I my self have known two, who affirmed, that such a change did happen to them upon the like occasion: the one had halfe his Beard turned gray, the other had part of the haire of his head turned perfect white, the rest retaining still their first colour. 20

V.

Thirdly, The imagination is inflamed, when the stomach is offended by some object of sence.

Such perturbations happen often, and men are frequently inclined to vomit, when they looke earnestly upon those Ejectments which another hath cast up.

VI.

Fourthly, The imagination is inflamed, when any person imagines or fancies, that paine or trouble he is in, to be intolerable for him, and incurable. 30

Hence it comes to passe, that men despairing of their health or redemption, contrive their owne death, and make themselves away.

CHAP. II.

Of violent Illation, which is the sixth and last cause of the extrarious Cause.

Violent Illation is performed two wayes, Corporally, and Spiritually.

I.

Corporally, when a man or woman is wounded, thrust, or shot, or fallen, or their bones broken.

II.

Spiritually, when by the meanes and ministry of evill spirits, a man or woman is either blinded, or maimed, or any extraneous visible matter, is invisibly and without manifest violence, conveyed into, and lodged in their bodies, or when they are by any other preternatural wayes and meanes set upon and afflicted.

- 10 That such things may and have been done, we shall prove by the truth of this following relation. In the year of our Lord, 1539. there lived in the village of Fugesta, within the Bishoprick of Eisteter, a certaine Husbandman, named Ulrich Neussesser, who was grievously pained in the Hypochondriacal Region, with most violent and sharp stitches; whose fury and persistance made him send for a Chirurgion, and (incision being made) there was found, and taken out of his side, an Iron Naile, which lay under the skin, without the least external symptome, or discoloration of the part. This notwithstanding, the pain ceased not, but was dayly
 20 exasperated, and did more and more increase: whereupon this miserable man resolving with himselfe, that there could be no cure for him but death, snatched a knife out of the hand of his attendant, and did therewith cut his own throat. Upon the third day after, when his body was to be drest for buriall, there were present, Eucherius, Rosenbader of Weisenburg, and John of Ettenstet, (a Town in the Dukedome of Bavaria,) both Chirurgions, who in the presence of as many persons as came to the Funeral, did cut up the Body, and in the fore-part of his belly, betwixt the Cartilages and the Navill, towards the side-region there were
 30 found, and taken out, and seen by them all (a prodigious and wonderfull sight!) a round and long peece of wood, foure knives of steel made partly with edges, and partly with teeth like a saw, and two peeces of sharp and rough Iron, each of them being more then a span in length, and underneath all these, a great lock of haire wrapt close together and made up in the forme of a Ball. Mizaldus in his sixth Century, relates this sad History out of Langius.

CHAP. 12.

Of the cure of Diseases.

Hitherto we have known the Disease by his Causes : It remains now that we teach the Cure of it ; and this we shall doe onely by certain generall Rules or Precepts. But lest we should proceed without method, we shall divide this Chapter concerning the Cure, into seven Sections.

We shall teach, 1. What, and how manifold the Cure is. 2. How a Physician ought to be qualified. 3. Of what sort, kind or quality, the medicines or meanes of the Cure ought to be. 4. Out 10 of what things those Remedies must be sought and taken. 5. Why Medicines sometimes cannot restore and introduce health. 6. How the Remedies or Medicaments ought to be administred. 7. How the sick man must carry or dispose of himselfe, while he is in a course of Physick.

Section 1.

What, and how manifold the Cure is.

I.

The cure of Diseases, is an operation by which a sick person is restored to his former health, and his sicknesse (what ever it be) 20 quite expelled, and radically extirpated.

II.

The cure or healing of all Diseases, (that I may in this place make use of the most apposite, significant termes of Severinus, out of Crollius) is twofold.

1. Universal, which is an absolute Extirpation of every radical morbid impurity, whether hereditary, or from the sinister use of food, or by the force of externall impression.

This universall Cure is performed by a naturall medicinall Balsame, consentaneous to the nature of man, which resolves, 30 discusseth and consumes the Seminary tinctures of all impurities and diseases : but corroborates, confirms, and conserves the innate humane Balsame ; for (as Paracelsus teacheth) so long as the radicall humour keeps in its due quantity and proportion, no Disease or indisposition can be perceived. And in this way of

3 Disease] Diseases 1655

5 generall] generall 1655

Cure, the pluralities, particularities, and orderly Rules of Symptoms and Prognosticks, have no place, for all Diseases (what ever they be) are universally & perfectly cured by this one universall medicine. It is not without reason then, that Raymund Lullie affirms, that this onely one, supreme, universall medicine (to which, and in which the virtues of all other particular and specificall medicines are reduced and included) may be safely administred unto all sick persons, without inquiring what Disease they are sick of. For wise nature, by an instinct from her selfe, hath given unto this her favourite-medicine, the prerogative and power to cure, and absolutely to exterminate all naturall infirmities whatsoever; yea, and to rectifie and restore her own selfe, when disordered and weakned. There be four chief kinds of Diseases, which if once confirmed, or inveterate, can be expelled by no medicine, but the universall, namely the Falling-sickness, the Gout, the Dropsie, and the Leprosie. To these Paramount Diseases, all other inferiour sicknesses, as to their proper fountaines and originalls, have relation and affinity. This universall medicine, is a Jewel much to be wished for and worthy the looking after; but few are they whom God blesseth with his favourite-secret. Lullius adviseth all Physicians, that diligently and faithfully labour for to search and looke after it: because it is the infallible remedy against all infirmities, and the greatest and most proper restorative and comforter of the spirits in their functions: For in this medicine (as in their onely and proper subject) there is a reall and universall collection and conjunction of all the operative, effectuall virtues of generall Physick, coacted and united together by a natural method, consent and design: which virtues are otherwise, (according to the ordinary course and dispensation of nature) confusedly dispersed and distributed amongst and through 30 * Animalls, Vegetals, and Minerals. her * three great Families; and he that hath such an Antidote against all bodily Diseases, hath the gift of God, which is an incorrupt, incomparable, and invaluable treasure in this life: What ever infirmity cannot be healed by this competent, natural medicine, we may boldly and safely conclude, that the finger of the great God of nature is in the Cause. But the paine (when we find it to proceed from his righteous hand,) is by much the more tolerable, and we ought to beare it patiently, and thankfully, until the Almighty Physician
 40 himselfe will be pleased to heal us, by those wayes and means which his divine and unerring wisdom shall judge the best.

3 perfectly] perfectly 1655 8 Disease] Disase 1655 (?) 26 universall] universal catchword 1655

III.

2. Next to the universall, is the particular cure, by which the roots of diseases, and the Seminal tinctures themselves, are not alwayes taken away ; but the bitter fruits of them, the Symptoms, Paroxismes, and paines, are oftentimes prevented, mitigated, and so suppress, that they cannot come to their exaltation, or the worst passe, as the common phrase is. By this Cure, the Physicall evacuation of Excrements is instituted, and some considerable succours are communicated to opprest nature by the friendly, consentaneous spirits of those medicines that are administred ; 10 which spirits can onely rightly know, and penetrate into the secret lodges and topicall residencies of the radicall morbific impurity.

Now, though this particular Cure performs no more, than we have told you in the definition of it, yet is it not therefore to be slighted, nor rejected ; for it doth oftentimes in the most desperate diseases, doe the work of the universal, because the most mercifull  God hath discovered unto us certain secret-natural universals, of which some containe in them the nature of the whole Heaven, others of the whole Air, and some againe of the whole earth, by whose help most Diseases are easily known and cured. 20 Moreover specifical, appropriate medicines, when they are rightly refined and spiritualized, will emulate the virtue of the universal, by consuming radical impurities & strengthening the virtue of the innate humane Balsame. Seeing then that we want the universal, it will be happy for us, if we may attaine to the true knowledge of (at least) the particular, subordinate, specifical and individual kinds and means of cures.

Section 2.

How a Physician ought to be qualified.

I.

30

Every Physician that desires to cure sick persons well and happily, must be a sound Christian, and truly religious and holy.

For true and perfect medicines, and the knowledge of them, can no where be had, but from God, whom we can serve by no other means in this life, but onely by piety, and piety hath included in it fervent and incessant supplications unto God, hearty and frequent thanksgivings for his gracious and free benefits, with sincere and actuall love towards our Neighbours. God is so infinitely good and kind, that he doth dayly give, and offer both to the good and to the bad, all those things which are necessary both for their sustenance and their health: but that we use those gifts to the glory of God, and the good of our Neighbours, piety alone is the onely cause. Therefore, if thou desirest to select, and extract convenient and effectuall Medicines out of those Myriads of Creatures, which by the secret power of their Creator, dayly flow upon thee, & appear about thee, Fear God, and love thy Neighbour as thy selfe. This being done, I affirm it to thee, thou shalt find those things which will fill thee with joy. Thou 10 maist easily apprehend by what I say, that he is unworthily permitted to be a Physician, whose practise hath no other aim then Covetousness and Usury, and abuseth the gifts of God (I mean his medicinal favours and discoveries,) to hoord up for himselfe the riches of this world. They are all impostors, and faithlesse Mountebanks, who professe Physick, and its great ornament Chymistry, out of such a sordid, uncharitable, and unjust design.

II.

He must be the servant, not the Master of nature, and according to 20 the sentiment of Hippocrates and Galen, he must be a profound Philosopher, and expert, or well vers'd in the Art of healing.

He must be throughly seen in Philosophy, because there be two sorts of Philosophers. The one (who are in truth but Philosophers by name,) after the common Doctrine of the Schooles, inquire onely into the Elementary qualities of sublunary bodies: but the other sort (who are the true Philosophers indeed) search into the most secret operations, proprieties, and performances of nature: her most private Closets, and Sanctuaries, are ever open unto these; whence it comes to passe, that they have a perfect
 30 experimentall knowledge by the light of Nature, and are indeed true Physicians: For the innate naturall faculty of all productions of the earth, is, by the Chymical dexterity of these latter sort of Philosophers, vindicated from the drossie adherencies of the matter, and united with the firmamentall virtue, or occult quality, which is caused and communicated to them, by the influence of the Stars. This Art of refining, and uniting inferiours to their superiours, makes a compleat and a successeful Physician.

III.

He must be an Alchymist skilfull in all spagirical operations, to 40 separate the pure from the impure, the drossie and venomous parts of his medicinall Ingredients, from the usefull and sanative, and one that knowes exactly how to prepare, and when to administer Chymical medicines for the restoration of his Patients.

For as Gold is seven times purified, so a Physician ought to try and refine all his Physicall Materials by the ministry of fire, which separates the good from the bad. Also he ought to have in some things, a certain and confirmed knowledge acquired by long experience, and a diligent daily inspection into the works of nature; for true Philosophy is nothing else, but a Physicall practise or triall, communicating daily to industrious and learned operators, most usefull and various conclusions and medicines. And after all the coyl of Academical licenciated Doctors, he onely is the true Physician, created so by the light of Nature, to whom Nature her selfe hath taught and manifested her proper and genuine operations by Experience.

Section 3.

Of Medicines, what their qualities should be,
and how prepared.

I.

Physicall Remedies or Medicines, should both expell the disease, and strengthen nature.

Hence came that infallible Rule of Physicians, Contraries are cured by their Contraries. For Contraries, by the consent of all Philosophers, expell and drive out one another, therefore it is necessary, that those Medicines which take away the Disease, be repugnant and contrary to the Disease: and for the same reason, they must be auxiliaries and consentaneous to our nature. Upon which very consideration, that famous principle of the Hermetists is grounded: Every like is cured by its like. Therefore Medicines, as they respect, or look to the Hypostatical principles, ought also to have some correspondence with the nature of the disease, but in their Energie and effect, they must be adversant and quite opposite. Thus the stone which proceeds from Tartar, or coagulated Salt, is cured by Salt, but it must be Analytical or resolvent salt. The Joynt-gout also which proceeds from Tartareous, sharp and corrosive Salts, is cured by lenitive and consolidating Salts. In like manner, sulphureous Diseases must be cured by their proper and specificall sulphurs: but to inflammatory sulphur, that causeth Feavers, we must oppose acid, Vitriolated sulphur, which is a most effectuall cooler, and will coagulate and allay those incensed sulphureous spirits. Whence follows this Consequence.

That some Medicines may be corrosive, without any danger or prejudice.

But with this Caution, that they be so qualified, as not to work upon the innate, radical Balsame, but only upon that Extrarious malignant matter, which is the conjoyn'd and apparent cause of the Disease.

10

II.

It is requisite, that of Medicines, some be Spagyrically prepared, and some otherwise.

For Chymical remedies must not be used at all times, nor in all Causes, but onely then, when our internal natural Alchymist is insufficient of himselfe to separate the pure from the impure, and perfectly to extract out of compound Medicines, that noble Essence in which the force and virtue, or spirit of the medication, is chiefly resident : or when there is a necessity in fixed and rooted Diseases, to use minerall remedies, that confirmed and 20 obstinate Maladies may be set upon, and brought under by such powerfull and active Medicines that will not be baffled. It is otherwise a foolish and needlesse employment, to separate that by Chymistry, which nature her selfe will performe with more ease and dexterity. And Nature knowes better what is most convenient for her, then any Physician : for she makes use of her own proper fire, and Magnet, which attracts both from Physick and food, that which is congeneous, and most like to her selfe : whereas an Artist on the contrary, doth not at all times use the like fire, nor exactly in the same degree to perform his operations.
 30 For which cause, the true Hermetical Physicians, do not at all times administer Minerals ; but most commonly when they exhibite Minerals, they make use also of Medicines extracted out of Vegetables, or to quicken the operation of these latter, they give a competent and safe quantity of the former.

III.

All Medicines must be specificall and appropriated to the Disease.

That is to say, they must have in them by the gift of God, such a virtue, that is peculiarly proper, and designed (as it were) to remove those diseases against which they are administred. Whether they be universally so gifted, or particularly for some one sort of disease. That body, or subject in nature, which will be easily corrupted, cannot be medicinall for all diseases : and this is the reason, that out of such bodies, the true Philosophers extract onely specifical Antidotes, whose power or virtue is effectual onely against some particular kind of disease. That thou maist have some knowledge of those materials or ingredients which are requisite and proper to make such specifical Medicaments, thou must diligently read the Bookes of the Hermetists,¹⁰ De signaturis rerum, That is to say, Of those impressions and Characters, which God hath communicated to, and marked (as I may say) all his Creatures with. These Bookes thou must carefully peruse, and all others which teach us the true and solid practise of Physick. But if it would please God to blesse thee with the universal Medicine, these studies, and all other cures whatsoever, might be safely pretermitted. This glorious universal Medicine (without all doubt) is to be extracted out of such a subject, whose innate Balsame preserves both it Selfe, and the Body in which it exists from all corruption. This body is so²⁰ adequate, and tempered with such a just and even proportion of all the foure Elements, that the qualities of no one of them, can ever possibly corrupt it. If thou conceivest it may be had in another kind of subject, thou dost but play the fool and deceive thy selfe. What ever Nature hath, that she can give us; what she hath not, she neither will, nor can afford. To the wise man one word is enough. I speake out of the true light of nature : My Studies also hitherto cannot find any other Fundamental of an universal Medicine.

Section 4.

30

Out of what things Medicines must be sought.

I.

They must be sought. 1. Out of the Word of God. 2. Out of Nature: and in nature, out of Vegetals, Animals, and Minerals.

In this search, we must first pray for Gods assistance ; and in the next place, we must attend to the instructions of the wise Ancients. If thou couldst finde out such a thing as would purge and rectifie nature in the great world so effectually that ever after she would remaine sound and unimpaired, so that nothing of her Homogeneous essence and perfection, could be saved from her by any Extraneous fire, then (without doubt) both the way to, and the miraculous Energie of this onely true and undeceiving medicine were in thy hands.

Section 5.

Why Medicines cannot alwayes restore sick Persons to their former health.

Oswaldus Crollius, a truly learned and expert Physician, in his 10 Preface to his Basilica Chymica, doth most fully and judiciously handle this point. His words are these. It is observed sometimes, that sick persons by the most convenient and effectual Medicines, cannot be healed for some one or more of these eight subsequent reasons.

The first is, because their appointed time or terme of life is come, which by no humane wit or Medicine can be prolonged. For there is no remedy upon earth, by which our corruptible bodies can be freed from death, the decreed penalty, and the wages of our sinnes: But there is one thing, which (if we add 20 holinesse to it,) will keep back and restrain corruption, renew youth, and lengthen our short life, as heretofore in the Patriarchs.

 The terme of life is moveable, not fixed: conditionall, not positive, as appears by that commandement, which S. Paul observed to be the first with a promise; and by many other reasons, which cannot be inserted in this place.*

Now though our life may be shortned and * prolonged; yet because of the punishment for sinne, we must by the immutable decree of the eternal Law, unavoydably die: for a conjunction of different Natures, and things (suppose a Spirit and a Body) must necessarily induce a dissolution, else we should state a Pythagorical Metempsuchosis, or a revertyency in 30 ages as Plato did. And in this Case the use of our universall and supreme Medicine, will prove as vaine and ineffectuall, as an old womans Recipe, because the Marriage of souls and bodyes, ordained by an inevitable necessity for divorcement and separation, can by no industry of Artists, nor Ayds of nature be rendred perpetuall; for the statute Lawes of the present things, and their great Law-giver, are inviolable. It is impious therefore to seeke, and impossible to find out such a Medicine, that will carry us alive beyond those bounds, which the very Father of life will not have us to transpasse.

The second reason is, Because that sick persons are too often brought to such a lamentable passe by the ignorance of unlearned Physicians, and their pernicious Recipe's, that the best and most virtual medicines can doe them no good, their bodies being utterly poysoned, and made immedicable by those fatal Tormentors and Executioners of mankind. In this desperate Case (most commonly) is the Chymicall Physician called upon; but then would I have him to call to mind, that saying of Trophilus in Plutarch, which affirms that man onely to be the compleat Physician, τὰ δυνατὰ, ἔφη καὶ τὰ μὴ δυνατὰ, δυνάμενος ἀναγινω- 10 σκειν: and not to cast away (out of vaine-glory,) their soveraigne and undeserved medicines, to salve the credit of such detestable villaines, whose infamy is past cure: οὐ γὰρ μετανεῖν, ἀλλὰ προνεῖν χρὴ τὸν ἄνδρα τὸν σοφόν: Let them beware also, that they suffer not their Medicaments to be mingled with the sluttish and venomous compositions of others, lest the ill consequence of such doings be laid to their charge, and the success or good event (if any comes to passe,) be arrogated by, and ascribed unto those impudent and clamorous impostors; for such a perverse and execrable envy possesseth these Medicasters, that to disgrace those that are more 20 learned and expert than themselves, and to keep up their owne decaying repute, they will (if they can have that opportunity) cast those Patients which are curable and towards recovery, into an incurable and hopelesse condition. Hence it comes to pass, that amongst the common sort of people, (who suffer most by them) they are publicly saluted by the most apposite Title of Profest Poysoners.

The third reason is, Because the Physician is called upon too late, when nature is quite mastred or orecome, and the disease hath got his full sway; otherwise if convenient or proper medicines 30 were seasonably, (that is to say, in a time of prevention, by resisting the beginnings and first attempts of diseases) administred, no doubt but (with Gods blessing and assent) the consequence and effect would be happinesse and health.

The fourth reason is, because the sick person will not punctually observe the Physicians prescriptions: for it happens too often, that Diseased people charge the Physician or his Medicines, with those ill events which by some omission or irregularity (contrary to that golden Law of the Locrenses in Ælianus,) they have drawne upon themselves.

40

10 ἀναγινωσκειν] ἀνὰ γινασκειν 1655

30 medicines] medines 1655

The fifth reason is, because the nature or peculiar propriety of some persons, are not inclinable or adapted to health, as we see some timber to be so tough and knotty, and out of a certaine natural defect, to degenerate into such an untowardnesse, that by no force or Art it can be cleft or wrought: And it happens very frequently, that the time chosen for healing, together with the indisposition of the Stars, oppose the Cure: for what ever Disease is unseasonably, that is to say, immaturrely heal'd, the party will be ever after subject to a relapse, because it is the seasonableness
 10 or fulnesse of time, that (like harvest) gives a firme and a fixed health. A ripe Pear will fall off the Tree spontaneously, but if we seeke to have it off, while it is green, we must either bruise the tree by shaking it, or with more violence break off the bough. Therefore, if these considerations be neglected, especially in the Cure of Astral diseases, we shall but lose our labour, and come off with prejudice. Physicians also must religiously provide, that the remedies they give, prove not worse then the Disease, therefore let them never advise their Patients to any impious course, nor consent to doe those things, which by salving the sore, destroy the 20 soule and the body too: let it be their chiefe care not to hurt, if they cannot help. By doing so, they will keep a good conscience, which is a continuall feast, but for a bad one there is no medicine.

The sixth reason is, because the disease is come to that pitch or confirmation, from whence there can be no regress by the Laws of nature, as in perfect, absolute, and confirmed bituminous, massie, sandy, and stony coagulations: for in such consummated Diseases, no medicines can availe: nor in a native deafnesse or blindness: for what nature her selfe hath once deprived us off, that cannot be restored by any Artists, no more then corporall dispro-
 30 portions and birth-maimes, or transpositions can be amended.

The seventh Cause or Reason is, the sordid, tenacious parcimonie of some rich Patients, which makes the Physician (for no Money is better disbursed, nor more honestly gotten) discontented and carelesse: sometimes also the diffidence, incredulity, and suspicion of Patients, (though the Physician be never so faithful and diligent,) hinders the operation of the Medicine, and is a great impediment to the Physician himself.

The eighth and last reason is, the wisdom and the goodnesse of God, who (without further toleration) takes away the Patient, 40 lest being recovered, he should commit more, and more heynous offences against his Maker, his Neighbour, and himself, to the utter misery and perdition of his soul. For every disease is an expiatory penance, and by this divine affliction, correction and rod of judgement is the patient called upon, and required to amend his life : or else by this fatherly visitation and imposition of the Crosse, which every child of God (in imitation of his blessed Sonne) must patiently bear, he is purposely exercised to be an example of piety, submission, and perfection unto others ; for God doth oftentimes permit some particular persons to be afflicted with many and grievous Diseases, whom the cheerefulness and health of the flesh, with their dayly continuation in sins (if left without rebuke,) had cast at length into some desperate spirituall malady, to the manifest hazard of their eternal welfare : for health, without holinesse, and a penitent resentment of our frequent infirmities, is no token of Gods mercy, but rather of damnation, and the portion of this life. Moreover, sinnes by weakning the forces and activities of the soule, make her impotent and unfit to govern the body ; so that the principall part being sick and unapt to rule, the bodily faculties are profusely wasted and abused, and so death is hastned on, and with it a total and a finall destruction. At least by this yoke and bridle of sicknesse, as by a wholesome kind of purgatory, men will be retained in the ordinary offices of piety, and (though they be but few, who are effectually reclaimed or converted by it,) yet this detainment of their health, (which if still left to them, they had still abused,) will in some measure restrain and cut off from them, both the liberty and the power of sinning. Hitherto the most learned Crollius.

Thou wilt now (perhaps) object, that seeing all Diseases are not curable, it is consequently absurd, to terme any Medicine universal. I answer, That it is termed universall, not becaus it takes away all diseases at all times & in all Causes, for that it cannot do ; but because it being but one, can expell and cure all those diseases, which by all other particular or specifical Medicines whatsoever can, or have been healed and eradicated ; yea, and some diseases which by no appropriated particular medicine can be healed, as the Gout, the Falling-sicknesse, the Dropsie, the Leprosie, &c. Therefore it is termed universal, because it hath in it really and effectually, all the manifest and occult virtues of all other specifical medicines, & that eminently, or by way of transcendency, so that all other medicines are subordinate and accomptable unto this.

Section 6.

How Medicines ought to be administered to the sick, and after what manner the Physician must behave himself in their administration, and generally in his practise.

I.

Every professor of Physick, when he is furnished with convenient, effectuall, and rightly prepared medicines, before he enters into practise, must be conversant with, and acquire the friendship of some learned and well experienced Physician, whose advise and assistance in his first attempts, he must make use of, not omitting his own observations.

For in the multitude of Counsellours there is safety, and a more exact judgement is given of the Patients present condition, and the wayes and meanes to restore him are better and surer laid. By this Course, that opprobrious German Proverb, which sticks too fast to some young Adventurers, (Ein neuer Arzt, Ein neuer Kirch-hoff: A new Physician must have a new Church-yard,) would be easily refuted and quite abolished. This very Course (after serious and needful considerations) I did heretofore propose to my selfe, and to effect it throughly, I procured and entred into mutuall and friendly Covenants with a certaine Doctor of Physick, who was not unlearned: and that I might by this meanes proceed farther in my Chymical discoveries, I conversed with him by frequent Letters, and other more familiar wayes: And this I did, because I supposed him (at that time) to be a true Philosopher, but I could never receive one line from him, that was not wholly dictated by the spirit of pride and arrogancy. At length, when it fortun'd, that (after a most loving invitation, I could not for very moving, and extraordinary reasons, attend upon him) he rail'd at me (though altogether innocent,) with most horrid imprecations, and virulent language, terming me an unsanctified villaine, and laboured by all meanes to vilifie my studies and person, that by such clamorous and publique discouragements, he might force me to desist, and give over my profession. But none of these things shall move me: for God will yet give me such friends, with whom I may freely deliberate, and advise about Physical operations, and the healing of the sick: too much knowledge is oftentimes foolishness. True Philosophers walk wholly in the plaine path of nature. What profits learning, where pride beares the sway, and blinds the owner? I have ever judged, the modest knowledge to be the most divine. It is true indeed, we are not all equalls: but let him that hath more of the light, walke in that shining path with modesty. I confesse indeed, and it is true, that he was my superiour by many degrees, but had he beene moved to this harsh-dealing, by a meer conceit of his superiority in learning, perhaps he would not have cast me off so as he hath done. God resisteth the proud, and gives grace even to the humble. Yea, the most wise, and the blessed JESUS, did humble himselfe in 10 the very forme of a servant, that he might familiarly live and converse with the most obscure and inferiour sort of people: and he was not ashamed, nor disdained to teach those poore spirits, not a sublunary, transient knowledge, but the glorious and permanent mysteries of the Kingdome of heaven. I love still the learning of so eminent a person because others whom I love, commend it unto me: But that great knowledge, which he abuseth to an injurious scorn and undervaluing of me, I heartily hate. God Almighty (it may be) for some secret respects, which his all-discerning spirit onely knowes, would not suffer me to impart any 20 longer, (as we were mutually bound,) my private affaires unto him. Therefore from henceforth let him live to himselfe, onely I would have him understand by this which is published, that his vehement and bitter Letters made me very sad. But to returne to what we have proposed in the Contents of this Section; A Physician that would practise successfully, must

First and before all things find out the disease, and what the cause of it is.

For in vain wilt thou either seek or apply remedies, if the cause of the disease be not perfectly knowne unto thee: the beginning 30 of the Cure, is a right knowledge of the Disease: but the disease cannot be known, without knowing the cause: For then are we confident, that we know the matter and effect, when we have discovered the cause or efficient of it.

II.

He must apply and appropriate his remedies to the root and originall apparent cause of the disease, and not otherwise.

III.

He must administer no Medicines, whose forces or operative virtues in taking away the disease, he is not thoroughly acquainted with, 40 acquainted] acquainted 1655

unlesse he be well assured that they cannot indanger nor prejudice a person that is in health: by such trials he may safely and profitably discern what his Medicines can, and what they cannot effect.

IV.

He must administer nothing that hath in it a manifest poyson, unlesse the venome be first wholly and actually separated or taken out.

V.

10 He must before the administration of his Medicines, remove all impediments that are likely to oppose or weaken their virtues; and this must be done either by himself, or by another, viz. by a Surgeon.

He must let blood, take away all luxations, set broken bones, &c. And afterwards apply his Medicines inwardly or outwardly, or both wayes, as need requires.

VI.

20 He must prescribe such a Dyet both of Meat and Drinke, as will be agreeable to his Patients present exigencie, and for the furtherance or assistance of nature, and the restoration of health.

VII.

He must carefully observe a just Dose in all his Medicines, with respect had to their operations, and to the strength of the Patient.

VIII.

He must never administer any of his Medicines, without sanctifying them in, and with the blessed name of JESUS CHRIST. Whatsoever ye doe (saith the Apostle of the Gentiles) in word or deed, doe all in the name of the Lord JESUS, giving thanks to God and the Father by him. Colos. 3. 17.

30

Section. 7.

How the sick man should behave himself, while he is in a course of Physick.

I.

Let the sick person acknowledge, that he hath deserved, and drawn upon himselfe, the just anger of God by his frequent sinnes: and that it is by his righteous permission, that he is visited with sickness.

II.

40 Let him by an unfeigned penitence, and a godly sorrow reconcile himselfe unto God through the merits of his Saviour, putting on an holy resolution to become a new man; and afterwards let him draw near to the throne of Grace, and intreat God for mercy, and his healing assistance.

III.

After reconciliation and invocation of the divine Aide, let him send for the Physician, and Physick being taken, let him not doubt of Gods mercy, and his own recovery.

That is to say, let him certainly believe that there is communicated and infused (by the gift of God) into the medicine which he hath taken, such an innate vertue, as is effectual and proper to expell ¹⁰ his Disease. If he doth this, the event will be answerable to his faith, and the Medicine will in all circumstances work successfully. A firm credulity, chearfull hope and true love and confidence towards the Physician, and the Medicine, (saith that great Philosopher Oswaldus Crollius,) conduce as much to the health of the Patient, yea sometimes more, then either the remedy, or the Physician. Naturall faith (I meane not the faith of Grace which is from Christ, but the imaginative faith, which in the day that the first man was created, was then infused and planted in him by God the Father, and is still communicated to his posterity,) is ²⁰ so powerfull, that it can both expell and introduce Diseases: as it manifestly appeares in times of infection, when man by his owne private imagination, out of meere feare and horreur, generates a Basiliscum Cæli, which infects the Microcosmical Firmament by means of the Imaginants superstition, according as the Patients faith assists, or resists. To the faithfull all things are possible, for faith ascertaines all those things which are uncertaine: God can by no meanes be reach'd and enjoy'd of us, but onely by faith: whosoever therefore believes in God, he operates by the power of God, and to God all things are possible. But how this ³⁰ is performed, no humane wit can find out: This onely we can say, that faith is an operation or work not of the Believer but of him in whom he believes. Cogitations or thoughts, surpasse the operations of all Elements and Stars: for while we imagine and believe, such a thing shall come to passe, that faith brings the worke about, and without it is nothing done. Our faith that it will be so, makes us imagine so: imagination excites a Star, that Star (by conjunction with Imagination) gives the effect or perfect operation. To believe that there is a medicine which can cure us, gives the spirit of Medicine: that spirit gives the knowledge ⁴⁰ of it and the Medicine being known, gives health. Hence it appeares, that a true Physician, whose operations are natural, is born of this faith, and the spirit (I meane this spirit of nature, or star of medicine,) furthers and assists him, according to his faith. It happens oftentimes, that an illiterate man performs those cures by this imaginative faith, which the best Physicians cannot doe with the most soveraigne medicines. Sometimes also, this bare perswasion or imaginative faith heales more, and more effectually, then any virtue in the exhibited Medicine, as it was manifestly found of late years, in that famous Panacea, or All-heal

 10 of Amwaldus, and since his time, in that new medicinall spring, which broke out this present yeare in the Confines of Misnia and Bohemia, to which an incredible number of sick persons doe daily resort. No other cause can be rendred of these Magnalia, or rare Physical operations, then the firme and excessive affection of the Patient ; for the power, which worketh thus, is in the Spirit of the receiver, when taking the medicine without any fear or hesitation, he is wholly possessed and inspired (as it were) with an actual desire and beliefe of health : for the rationall soule, when stirred up, and enkindled by a vehement imagination, overcomes nature, and by 20 her own effectuall affections, renewes many things in her own body or mansion, causing either health or sicknesse, and that not onely in her own body, but Extraneously, or in other bodies. The efficacy of this naturall faith, manifested it selfe in that woman with the bloody Issue, and in the Centurion. Hitherto are the words of Crollius.

IV.

When the Patient is delivered from his disease, and restored to his former health, let him heartily and solemnly give all the glory to the Supreme, All-mighty Physician : let him offer the sacrifice of 30 Thankes-giving, and acknowledge the goodness and the tender mercies of the Lord. And let not the Physitian forget to performe his duty, by a thankful and solemn acknowledgement of Gods gracious concessions, by choosing and enabling him to be his unworthy instrument to restore the sick. And this he must do, not onely because it is his duty, and a most deserved and obliged gratitude, but also out of a wise Christian caution, to avoid those judgements which are poured upon the negligent and ungratefull, by the most just jealousie of the irresistible and everlasting GOD ; unto whom alone be rendred by Angels and Men, and by all his creatures, All Praise and Glory, and 40 perpetual thanks in this the Temporall, and in the eternall Being. Amen.

TO THE
Most Honourable and truly Noble
HENRY
Lord Marquis and Earl of WORCESTER, &c.

My Lord,

Though Dedications are now become a kind of Tyranny over the Peace and Repose of great Men ; yet I have confidence I shall so manage the present Address as to entertain your Lordship without much disturbance ; and because my purposes are govern'd by deep Respect and Veneration, I hope to find your Lordship more facile and accessible. And I am already absolv'd from a great part of that fulsome and designing guilt, being sufficiently remov'd from the causes of it : for I consider, my Lord ! that you
10 are already so well known to the World in your several Characters, and advantages of Honour ; it was yours by traduction, and the adjunct of your Nativity, you were swaddl'd and rock'd in't, bred up and grew in't to your now wonderful height and eminence : that for me under pretence of the inscription to give you the heraldry of your family, or to carry your person through the fam'd Topicks of Mind Body, or Estate, were all one as to perswade the World that Fire and Light were very bright Bodies, or that the Luminaries themselves had Glory. In point of Protection I beg to fall in with the common wont, and to be satisfied by the reason-
20 ableness of the thing, and abundant worthy precedents ; and although I should have secret prophecy and assurance that the ensuing Verse would live eternally, yet would I, as I now do, humbly crave it might be fortifi'd with your Patronage ; for so the Sextile Aspects and Influences are watch'd for, and applied to the actions of Life, thereby to make the Scheme and good Auguries of the Birth pass into Fate, and a success infallible.

My Lord! By a happy obliging Intercession, and your own consequent Indulgence, I have now recourse to your Lordship ; hoping, I shall not much displease by putting these Twin 30 Poets into your Hands. The Minion and Vertical Planet of the Roman Lustre and Bravery was never better pleased, than when he had a whole Constellation about him : not his finishing Five several Wars to the promoting of his own Interest, nor particularly the prodigious success at Actium, where he held in chase the Wealth, Beauty and Prowess of the East ; not the Triumphs and absolute Dominions which followed, all this gave him not half that serene Pride and Satisfaction of Spirit as when he retir'd himself to umpire the different Excellencies of his insipid Friends, and to distribute Lawrels among his Poetick Heroes : If now upon the Authority of this, and several such Examples I had the Ability and Opportunity of drawing the Value and strange Worth ¹⁰ of a Poet, and withall of applying some of the Lineaments to the following pieces ; I should then do my self a real Service, and attone in a great measure for the present insolence. But best of all will it serve my Defence and Interest to appeal to your Lordships own conceptions and image of Genuine Verse ; with which so just, so regular Original, if these Copies shall hold proportion and resemblance, then am I advanced very far in your Lordships pardon : the rest will entirely be supplied me by your Lordships Goodness, and my own awful Zeal of being,

My Lord !

To the Reader.

The Nation of Poets above all Writers has ever challeng'd perpetuity of Name, or as they please by their Charter of Liberty to call it, Immortality. Nor has the World much disputed their claim, either easily resigning a Patrimony in it self not very substantial ; or, it may be, out of despair to controule the authority of Inspiration and Oracle. Howsoever the price as now quarrell'd for among the Poets themselves is no such rich bargain: 'tis only a vanishing interest in the Lees and Dreggs of Time, in the Rear of those Fathers and Worthies in the Art, who if they know anything of the heats 10 and fury of their Successors must extreamly pity them.

I am to assure, that the Author has no portion of that airy happiness to lose by any injury or unkindness which may be done to his Verse: his Reputation is better built in the sentiment of several judicious Persons, who know him very well able to give himself a lasting Monument, by undertaking any Argument of note in the whole Circle of Learning.

But even these his Diversions have been valuable with the matchless Orinda, and since they deserv'd her esteem and commendations ; who so thinks them not worth the publishing, will put himself in the 20 opposite Scale, where his own arrogance will blow him up.

To Mr. Henry Vaughan the Silurist : upon these and his former Poems.

Had I ador'd the Multitude, and thence
Got an Antipathy to wit and sence,
And hugg'd that Fate, in hope the World would grant
'Twas good Affection to be Ignorant :
Yet the least Ray of thy bright fancy seen
I had converted, or excuseless been.
For each Birth of thy Muse to after-times
Shall expiate for all this Ages Crimes.
First shines thy Amoret, twice crown'd by thee :
Once by thy Love, next by thy Poetrie, 10
Where thou the best of Unions dost dispense
Truth cloath'd in Wit, and Love in Innocence.
So that the muddie Lover may learn here,
No Fountains can be sweet, that are not clear.
There Juvenal, by thee reviv'd declares
How flat man's Joys are, and how mean his Cares ;
And wisely doth upbraid the World, that they Should such a value for their ruine pay.

But when thy sacred Muse diverts her Quill
The Landskip to design of Sions Hill, 20
As nothing else was worthy her, or thee :
So we admire almost t' Idolatrie.
What savage Breast would not be rap'd to find
Such Jewels in such Cabinets enshrin'd ?
Thou fill'd with joys (too great to see or count :)
Descend'st from thence, like Moses from the Mount,

And with a candid, yet unquestion'd awe
 Restor'st the Golden Age, when Verse was Law.
 Instructing us, thou so secur'st thy Fame,
 That nothing can disturb it, but my name.
 Nay I have hopes, that standing so near thine
 'Twill loose its dross, and by degrees refine.
 Live ! till the disabused World consent
 All Truths of Use, of Strength or Ornament
 Are with such Harmony by thee display'd
 As the whole World was first by number made ;
 And from the charming rigour thy Muse brings
 Learn, there's no pleasure but in serious things !

Orinda

Upon the Ingenious Poems of his Learned Friend, Mr. Henry Vaughan the Silurist.

Fairly design'd ! to charm our Civil Rage
 With Verse, and plant Bayes in an Iron Age.
 But hath steel'd Mars so ductible a Soul,
 That Love and Poesie may it controule ?
 Yes : brave Tyrtaeus, as we read of old,
 The Grecian Armies, as he pleas'd cou'd mold ;
 They march'd to his high Numbers, and did fight
 With that instinct and rage, which he did write.
 When he fell lower, they would strait retreat,
 Grow soft and calm : and temper their bold heat.
 Such Magick is in Vertue ! See hear a young
Tyrtaeus too, whose sweet persuasive Song
 Can lead our Spirits any way, and move
 To all Adventures : either War or Love.

10

Then veil the bright Etesia, that choice She,
 Lest Mars, (Timander's Friend) his Rival be.
 So fair a Nymph, drest by a Muse so neat,
 Might warm the North, and thaw the frozen Gete.

Tho. Powel, D.D.

To the ingenious Author of Thalia
Rediviva.

Ode I.

Where Reverend Bards of old have sate
 And sung the pleasant enterludes of Fate,
 Thou takest the hereditary shade
 Which Natures homely Art had made,
 And thence thou giv'st thy Muse her swing, and she Advances to the Galaxie ;
 There with the sparkling Cowley she above
 Does hand in hand in graceful Measures move.
 We groveling Mortals gaze below,
 And long in vain to know
 Her wondrous paths, her wondrous flight
 In vaine ; alas ! we grope,
 In vain we use our earthly Telescope,
 We'r blinded by an intermedial night :
 Thine Eagle-Muse can only face
 The fiery Coursers in their race,
 While with unequal paces we do try
 To bear her train aloft, and keep her company.

10

II.

The loud harmonious Mantuan
 Once charm'd the world, and here's the Uscan Swan
 In his declining years does chime,
 And challenges the last remains of Time.
 Ages run on, and soon give o're,
 They have their Graves as well as we,
 Time swallows all that's past and more,
 Yet time is swallow'd in eternity :
 This is the only profits Poets see.
 There thy triumphant Muse shall ride in state
 And lead in Chains devouring Fate ;
Claudian's bright Phoenix she shall bring
 Thee an immortal offering ;
 Nor shall my humble tributary Muse
 Her homage and attendance too refuse,
 She thrusts her self among the Crowd
 And joyning in th' applause she strives to clap aloud.

III.

Tell me no more that Nature is severe
 Thou great Philosopher !
 Lo she has laid her vast Exchequer here.
 Tell me no more that she has sent
 So much already she is spent ; 40
 Here is a vast America behind
 Which none but the great Silurist could find.
 Nature her last edition was the best,
 As big, as rich as all the rest
 So will we here admit
 Another world of Wit.
 No rude or savage fancy here shall stay
 The travailing Reader in his way,
 But every coast is clear : go where he will Vertu's the road Thalia leads him still : 50
 Long may she live, and wreath thy sacred head
 For this her happy resurrection from the dead.

N. W. Jes. Coll. Oxon.

To my worthy Friend, Mr. Henry Vaughan the Silurist.

See what thou wert ! by what Platonick round
 Art thou in thy first youth and Glories found !
 Or from thy Muse does this Retrieve accrue,
 Do's she which once inspir'd thee, now renew !
 Bringing thee back those Golden years which time
 Smooth'd to thy Lays, and polisht with thy Rhyme.
 Nor is't to thee alone she do's convey
 Such happy change, but bountiful as day
 On whatsoever Reader she do's shine
 She makes him like thee, and for ever thine. 10
 And first thy manual op'ning gives to see
 Eclipse and suff'rings burnish Majesty,
 Where thou so artfully the draught hast made
 That we best read the lustre in the shade,
 And find our Sov'raign greater in that shroud :
 So Lightning dazzles from its night and cloud ;
 So the first Light himself has for his Throne
 Blackness, and Darkness his Pavilion.

Who can refuse thee company, or stay,
 By thy next charming summons forc'd away, 20
 If that be force which we can so resent
 That only in its joys 'tis violent :
 Upward thy Eagle bears us e're aware
 Till above Storms and all tempestuous Air
 We radiant Worlds with their bright people meet,
 Leaving this little All beneath our feet.
 But now the pleasure is too great to tell,
 Nor have we other bus'ness than to dwell
 As on the hallow'd Mount th' Apostles meant
 To build and fix their glorious banishment. 30
 Yet we must know and find thy skilful Vein
 Shall gently bear us to our homes again ;
 By which descent thy former flight's impli'd
 To be thy extasie and not thy pride.
 And here how well do's the wise Muse demean
 Her self, and fit her song to ev'ry Scene !
 Riot of Courts, the bloody wreaths of War,
 Cheats of the Mart, and clamours of the Bar,
 Nay, life it self thou dost so well express
 Its hollow Joyes, and real Emptiness, 40
 That Dorian Minstrel never did excite,
 Or raise for dying so much appetite.

Nor does thy other softer Magick move
 Us less thy fam'd Etesia to love ;
 Where such a Character thou giv'st that shame
 Nor envy dare approach the Vestal Dame :
 So at bright Prime Idea's none repine,
 They safely in th' Eternal Poet shine.

Gladly th' Assyrian Phoenix now resumes
 From thee this last reprizal of his Plumes ; 50
 He seems another more miraculous thing
 Brighter of Crest, and stronger of his Wing ;
 Proof against Fate in spicy Urns to come,
 Immortal past all risque of Martyrdome.

Nor be concern'd, nor fancy thou art rude
 T' adventure from thy Cambrian solitude,
 Best from those lofty Cliffs thy Muse does spring
 Upwards, and boldly spreads her Cherub-wing.

So when the Sage of Memphis would converse
With boding Skies, and th' Azure Universe,
He climbs his starry Pyramid, and thence
Freely sucks clean prophetique influence,
And all Serene, and rap't and gây he pries
Through the Æthereal volum's Mysteries,
Loth to come down, or ever to know more
The Nile's luxurious, but dull foggy shore.

Choice P O E M S on several occasions.

To his Learned Friend and Loyal Fellow-Prisoner, Thomas Powel of Cant. Doctor of Divinity.

If sever'd Friends by Sympathy can joyn,
And absent Kings be honour'd in their coin ;
May they do both, who are so curb'd ! but we Whom no such Abstracts torture, that can see
And pay each other a full self-return,
May laugh, though all such Metaphysics burn.

'Tis a kind Soul in Magnets, that attones
Such two hard things as Iron are and Stones,
And in their dumb compliance we learn more
Of Love, than ever Books could speak before. 10
For though attraction hath got all the name,
As if that power but from one side came,
Which both unites ; yet, where there is no sence,
There is no Passion, nor Intelligence :
And so by consequence we cannot state
A Commerce, unless both we animate.
For senseless things, though ne'r so call'd upon,
Are deaf, and feel no Invitation ;
But such as at the last day shall be shed
By the great Lord of Life into the Dead. 20

'Tis then no Heresie to end the strife
With such rare Doctrine as gives Iron life.

For were it otherwise (which cannot be,
And do thou judge my bold Philosophie :)
Then it would follow that if I were dead,
Thy love, as now in life, would in that Bed
Of Earth and darkness warm me, and dispense,
Effectual informing Influence.
Since then 'tis clear, that Friendship is nought else
But a Joint, kind propension : and excess 30

The pagination of 1678 begins with the next poem

In none, but such whose equal easie hearts
Comply and meet both in their whole and parts :
And when they cannot meet, do not forget
To mingle Souls, but secretly reflect
And some third place their Center make, where they Silently mix, and make an unseen stay :
Let me not say (though Poets may be bold,)
Thou art more hard than Steel, than Stones more cold,
But as the Mary-gold in Feasts of Dew
And early Sun-beams, though but thin and few
Unfolds its self, then from the Earths cold breast
Heaves gently, and salutes the hopeful East :
So from thy quiet Cell, the retir'd Throne
Of thy fair thoughts, which silently bemoan
Our sad distractions, come : and richly drest
With reverend mirth and manners, check the rest
Of loose, loath'd men ! why should I longer be Rack't 'twixt two Ev'ls ? I see and cannot see.

Thalia Rediviva.

The King Disguis'd.

Written about the same time that Mr. John Cleveland wrote his.

A King and no King ! Is he gone from us,
And stoln alive into his Coffin thus ?
This was to ravish Death, and so prevent
The Rebels treason and their punishment.
He would not have them damn'd, and therefore he Himself deposed his own Majesty.
Wolves did pursue him, and to fly the Ill
He wanders (Royal Saint !) in sheep-skin still.
Poor, obscure shelter ! if that shelter be
Obscure, which harbours so much Majesty.
Hence prophane Eyes ! the mysterie's so deep,
Like Esdras books, the vulgar must not see't.

10

Thou flying Roll, written with tears and woe,
Not for thy Royal self, but for thy Foe :
Thy grief is prophecy, and doth portend,
Like sad Ezekiel's sighs, the Rebels end.
Thy robes forc'd off, like Samuel's when rent,
Do figure out anothers Punishment.
Nor grieve thou hast put off thy self a while,
To serve as Prophet to this sinful Isle ;
These are our days of Purim, which oppress
The Church, and force thee to the Wilderness.
But all these Clouds cannot thy light confine,
The Sun in storms and after them, will shine.
Thy day of life cannot be yet compleat,
'Tis early sure ; thy shadow is so great.

20

But I am vex'd, that we at all can guess
This change, and trust great Charles to such a dress.
When he was first obscur'd with this coarse thing,
He grac'd Plebeians, but prophan'd the King.
Like some fair Church, which Zeal to Charcoals burn'd,
Or his own Court now to an Ale-house turn'd.

30

But full as well may we blame Night, and chide
 His wisdom, who doth light with darkness hide :
 Or deny Curtains to thy Royal Bed,
 As take this sacred cov'ring from thy Head.
 Secrets of State are points we must not know ;
 This vizard is thy privy Council now,

Thou Royal Riddle, and in every thing
 The true white Prince, our Hieroglyphic King !
 Ride safely in his shade, who gives thee Light :
 And can with blindness thy pursuers smite.
 O may they wander all from thee as farr
 As they from peace are, and thy self from Warr !
 And wheresoe're thou do'st design to be
 With thy (now spotted) spottles Majestie,
 Be sure to look no Sanctuary there,
 Nor hope for safety in a temple, where Buyers and Sellers trade : O strengthen not
 With too much trust the Treason of a Scot !

The Eagle

'Tis madness sure ; And I am in the Fitt,
 To dare an Eagle with my unfledg'd witt.
 For what did ever Rome or Athens sing
 In all their Lines, as loftie as his wing ?
 He that an Eagles Powers would rehearse
 Should with his plumes first feather all his Verse.

I know not, when into thee I would prie,
 Which to admire, thy Wing first : or thine Eye ;
 Or whether Nature at thy birth design'd
 More of her Fire for thee, or of her Wind.
 When thou in the clear Heights and upmost Air
 Do'st face the Sun, and his dispersed Hair,
 Ev'n from that distance thou the Sea do'st spie
 And sporting in its deep, wide Lap the Frie.
 Not the least Minoe there, but thou can'st see ;
 Whole Seas are narrow spectacles to thee.

10

Nor is this Element of water here
 Below, of all thy miracles the sphere.

If Poets ought may add unto thy store,
 Thou hast in Heav'n of wonders many more. 20
 For when just Jove to Earth his thunder bends
 And from that bright, eternal Fortress sends
 His louder volleys : strait this Bird doth fly
 To Ætna, where his Magazine doth lye :
 And in his active Talons brings him more
 Of ammunition, and recruits his store.
 Nor is't a low, or easie Lift. He soars
 'Bove Wind and Fire ; gets to the Moon, and pores
 With scorn upon her duller face ; for she Gives him but shadows and obscurity. 30
 Here much displeas'd, that any thing like night
 Should meet him in his proud and loftie flight,
 That such dull Tinctures should advance so farr,
 And rival in the glories of a star :
 Resolv'd he is a nobler Course to try
 And measures out his voyage with his Eye.
 Then with such furie he begins his flight,
 As if his Wings contended with his sight.
 Leaving the Moon, whose humble light doth trade
 With Spotts, and deals most in the dark and shade : 40
 To the day's Royal Planet he doth pass
 With daring Eyes, and makes the Sun his glass.
 Here doth he plume and dress himself, the Beams
 Rushing upon him, like so many Streams ;
 While with direct looks he doth entertain
 The thronging flames, and shoots them back again.
 And thus from star to star he doth repaire
 And wantons in that pure and peaceful air.
 Sometimes he frights the starrie Swan, and now
Orion's fearful Hare and then the Crow. 50
 Then with the Orbe it self he moves, to see
 Which is more swift th' Intelligence or He.
 Thus with his wings his body he hath brought
 Where man can travell only in a thought.
 I will not seek, rare bird, what Spirit 'tis
 That mounts thee thus ; I'll be content with this ;
 To think, that Nature made thee to express
 Our souls bold Heights in a material dress.

To Mr. M. L. upon his reduction of the Psalms into Method.

SIR,

You have oblig'd the Patriarch. And tis known
He is your Debtor now, though for his own.
What he wrote, is a Medley. We can see
Confusion trespass on his Piety.
Misfortunes did not only Strike at him ;
They charged further, and oppress'd his pen.
For he wrote as his Crosses came, and went
By no safe Rule, but by his Punishment.
His quill mov'd by the Rod ; his witts and he Did know no Method, but their Misery.

10

You brought his Psalms now into Tune. Nay, all
His measures thus are more than musical.
Your Method and his Aires are justly sweet,
And (what's Church-musick right) like Anthems meet.
You did so much in this, that I believe
He gave the Matter, you the form did give.
And yet I wish you were not understood,
For now 'tis a misfortune to be good !

Why then, you'l say, all I would have, is this ;
None must be good, because the time's amiss.
For since wise Nature did ordain the Night,
I would not have the Sun to give us Light.
Whereas this doth not take the Use away :
But urgeth the Necessity of day.

20

Proceed to make your pious work as free,
Stop not your seasonable charity.
Good works despis'd, or censur'd by bad times,
Should be sent out to aggravate their Crimes.
They should first Share and then Reject our store :
Abuse our Good, to make their Guilt the more.
'Tis Warr strikes at our Sins, but it must be
A Persecution wounds our Pietie.

30

To the pious memorie of C. W. Esquire who finished his Course here, and made his Entrance into Immortality upon the 13 of September, in the year of Redemption 1653.

Now, that the publick Sorrow doth subside,
And those slight tears which Custom Springs, are dried ;
While all the rich & out-side-Mourners pass
Home from thy Dust to empty their own Glass :
I (who the throng affect not, nor their state :)
Steal to thy grave undress'd, to meditate
On our sad loss, accompanied by none,
An obscure mourner that would weep alone.

So when the world's great Luminary setts,
Some scarce known Star into the Zenith gets, 10
Twinkles and curls a weak but willing spark :
As Glowworms here do glitter in the dark.
Yet, since the dimmest flame that kindles there,
An humble love unto the light doth bear,
And true devotion from an Hermits Cell
Will Heav'ns kind King as soon reach and as well
As that which from rich Shrines and Altars flies
Lead by ascending Incense to the Skies :
'Tis no malicious rudeness, if the might
Of love makes dark things wait upon the bright, 20
And from my sad retirements calls me forth
The Just Recorder of thy death and worth.

Long did'st thou live (if length be measured by The tedious Reign of our Calamity :)
And Counter to all storms and changes still Kept'st the same temper, and the self same will.
Though trials came as duly as the day,
And in such mists, that none could see his way :
Yet thee I found still virtuous, and saw
The Sun give Clouds : and Charles give both the Law. 30
When private Interest did all hearts bend
And wild dissents the public peace did rend :
Thou neither won, nor worn wer't still thy self ;
Not aw'd by force, nor basely brib'd with pelf.

What the insuperable stream of times
Did dash thee with, those Suff'rings were, not Crimes.

So the bright Sun Ecclipses bears ; and we Because then passive, blame him not, should he
 For inforc'd shades, and the Moon's ruder veile
 Much nearer us, than him ; be Judg'd to fail ? 40
 Who traduce thee, so erre. As poisons by Correction are made Antidotes, so thy
 Just Soul did turn ev'n hurtful things to Good ;
 Us'd bad Laws so, they drew not Tears, nor Blood.
 Heav'n was thy Aime, and thy great rare Design
 Was not to Lord it here, but there to shine.
 Earth nothing had, could tempt thee. All that e're
 Thou pray'dst for here, was Peace ; and Glory there.
 For though thy Course in times long progress fell
 On a sad age, when Warr and open'd Hell 50
 Licens'd all Artes and Sects, and made it free
 To thrive by fraud and blood and blasphemy :
 Yet thou thy just Inheritance did'st by
 No sacrilege, nor pillage multiply ;
 No rapine swell'd thy state : no bribes, nor fees
 Our new oppressors best Annuities.
 Such clean, pure hands had'st thou ! And for thy heart
 Man's secret region and his noblest part ;
 Since I was privy to't, and had the Key
 Of that faire Room, where thy bright Spirit lay : 60
 I must affirm, it did as much surpass
 Most I have known, as the clear Sky doth glass.
 Constant and kind, and plain and meek and Mild
 It was, and with no new Conceits defil'd.
 Busie, but sacred thoughts (like Bees) did still Within it stirr, and strive unto that Hill,
 Where redeem'd Spirits evermore alive
 After their Work is done, ascend and Hive.
 No outward tumults reach'd this inward place,
 'Twas holy ground : where peace, and love and grace 70
 Kept house : where the immortal restles life
 In a most dutiful and pious strife
 Like a fix'd watch, mov'd all in order, still ;
 The Will serv'd God, and ev'ry Sense the Will !
 In this safe state death mett thee. Death which is
 But a kind Usher of the good to bliss.

Therefore to Weep because thy Course is run,
 Or droop like Flow'rs, which lately lost the Sun :
 I cannot yield, since faith will not permitt,
 A Tenure got by Conquest to the Pitt. 80
 For the great Victour fought for us, and Hee
 Counts ev'ry dust, that is lay'd up of thee.
 Besides, Death now grows decrepit and hath
 Spent the most part both of its time and wrath.
 That thick, black night which mankind fear'd, is torn
 By Troops of Stars, and the bright day's Forlorn.
 The next glad news (most glad unto the Just !)
 Will be the Trumpet's summons from the dust.
 Then Ile not grieve ; nay more, I'll not allow
 My Soul should think thee absent from me now. 90
 Some bid their Dead good night ! but I will say
Good morrow to dear Charles ! for it is day.

In Zodiacum Marcelli Palingenii.

It is perform'd ! and thy great Name doth run
 Through ev'ry Sign an everlasting Sun.
 Not Planet-like, but fix'd ; and we can see
 Thy Genius stand still in his Apogie.
 For how canst thou an Aux eternal miss,
 Where ev'ry House thine Exaltation is ?
 Here's no Ecclyptic threatens thee with night,
 Although the wiser few take in thy light.
 They are not at that glorious pitch, to be
 In a Conjunction with Divinitie. 10
 Could we partake some oblique Ray of thine,
 Salute thee in a Sextile, or a Trine,
 It were enough ; but thou art flown so high,
 The Telescope is turn'd a Common Eye.
 Had the grave Chaldee liv'd thy Book to see,
 He had known no Astrologie, but thee ;
 Nay more, (for I believ't,) thou shouldst have been
 Tutor to all his Planets, and to him.
 Thus whosoever reads thee, his charm'd sense
 Proves captive to thy Zodiac's influence. 20
 Were it not foul to erre so, I should look
 Here for the Rabbins universal Book :

8 wiser few GC : wiser, few 1678

And say, their fancies did but dream of thee,
 When first they doted on that mystery.
 Each line's a via lactea, where we may
 See thy fair steps, and tread that happy way
 Thy Genius lead thee in. Still I will be Lodg'd in some Sign, some Face and some Degree
 Of thy bright Zodiac, Thus I'll teach my Sense
 To move by that, and thee th' Intelligence.

To Lysimachus, the Author being with him in London.

Saw not, Lysimachus, last day, when wee
 Took the pure Air in its simplicity,
 And our own too : how the trim'd Gallants went Cringing, & past each step some Complement ?
 What strange, phantastic Diagrams they drew
 With Legs and Arms ; the like we never knew
 In Euclid, Archimed : nor all of those Whose learned lines are neither Verse nor Prose ?
 What store of Lace was there ? how did the Gold
 Run in rich Traces, but withall made bold
 To measure the proud things, and so deride
 The Fops with that, which was part of their pride ?
 How did they point at us, and boldly call,
 As if we had been Vassals to them all,
 Their poor Men-mules sent thither by hard fate
 To yoke our selves for their Sedans and State ?
 Of all ambitions, this was not the least,
 Whose drift translated man into a beast.
 What blind discourse the Heroes did afford ?
 This Lady was their Friend, and such a Lord.
 How much of Blood was in it ? one could tell
 He came from Bevis and his Arundel ;
Morglay was yet with him, and he could do
 More feats with it, than his old Grandsire too.

10

20

Wonders my Friend at this ? what is't to thee,
 Who canst produce a nobler Pedigree,
 And in meer truth affirm thy Soul of kin
 To some bright Star, or to a Cherubin ?
 When these in their profuse moods spend the night
 With the same sins, they drive away the light,

30

Thy learned *thrif*t puts her to use ; while she Reveals her firy Volume unto thee ;
And looking on the separated skies
And their clear Lamps with careful thoughts & eyes
Thou break'st through Natures upmost rooms & bars
To Heav'n, and there conversest with the Stars.

Well fare such harmless, happy nights that be
Obscur'd with nothing but their privacie :

And missing but the false world's glories, do

Miss all those vices, which attend them too !

40

Fret not to hear their ill-got, ill-giv'n praise ;

Thy darkest nights outshine their brightest days.

On Sir Thomas Bodley's Library ; the Author
being then in Oxford.

Boast not proud Golgotha : that thou can'st show

The ruines of mankind, and let us know

How fraile a thing is flesh ! though we see there

But empty Skulls, the Rabbins still live here.

They are not dead, but full of Blood again,

I mean the Sense, and ev'ry Line a Vein.

Triumph not o're their Dust ; whoever looks

In here, shall find their Brains all in their Books.

Nor is't old Palestine alone survives,

Athens lives here, more than in Plutarch's lives.

10

The stones which sometimes danc'd unto the strain

Of Orpheus, here do lodge his muse again.

And you the Roman Spirits, learning has Made your lives longer, than your Empire was.

Cesar had perish'd from the World of men,

Had not his Sword been rescu'd by his pen.

Rare Seneca ! how lasting is thy breath ?

Though Nero did, thou could'st not bleed to Death.

How dull the expert Tyrant was, to look

For that in thee, which lived in thy Book ?

20

Afflictions turn our Blood to Ink, and we

Commence when Writing, our Eternity.

Lucilius here I can behold, and see

His Counsels and his Life proceed from thee.

But what care I to whom thy Letters be ?

I change the Name, and thou do'st write to me ;

And in this Age, as sad almost as thine,
 Thy stately Consolations are mine.
 Poor Earth! what though thy viler dust enrouls
 The frail Inclosures of these mighty Souls? 30
 Their graves are all upon Record; not one
 But is as bright, and open as the Sun.
 And though some part of them obscurely fell
 And perish'd in an unknown, private Cell:
 Yet in their books they found a glorious way
 To live unto the Resurrection-day.

Most noble Bodley! we are bound to thee
 For no small part of our Eternity.
 Thy treasure was not spent on Horse and Hound,
 Nor that new Mode, which doth old States confound. 40
 Thy legacies another way did go:
 Nor were they left to those would spend them so.
 Thy safe, discreet Expence on us did flow;
Walsam is in the mid'st of Oxford now.
 Th' hast made us all thine Heirs: whatever we Hereafter write, 'tis thy Posterity.
 This is thy Monument! here thou shalt stand
 Till the times fail in their last grain of Sand.
 And wheresoe're thy silent Reliques keep,
 This Tomb will never let thine honour sleep. 50
 Still we shall think upon thee; all our fame
 Meets here to speak one Letter of thy name.
 Thou can'st not dye! here thou art more than safe
 Where every Book is thy large Epitaph.

*The importunate Fortune, written to Doctor
 Powel of Cantre.*

For shame desist, why should'st thou seek my fall?
 It cannot make thee more Monarchical.
 Leave off; thy Empire is already built;
 To ruine me were to enlarge thy guilt,
 Not thy Prerogative. I am not he Must be the measure to thy victory.
 The Fates hatch more for thee; 'twere a disgrace
 If in thy Annals I should make a Clause.

28 Consolations are] Bodleian copy inserts (MS) all between these two words

The future Ages will disclose such men,
 Shall be the glory, and the end of them. 10
 Nor do I flatter. So long as there be Descents in Nature, or Posterity,
 There must be Fortunes ; whether they be good,
 As swimming in thy Tide and plenteous Flood,
 Or stuck fast in the shallow Ebb, when we
 Miss to deserve thy gorgeous charity.
 Thus, Fortune, the great World thy period is ;
 Nature and you are Parallels in this.

But thou wilt urge me still. Away, be gone ;
 I am resolv'd, I will not be undone. 20
 I scorn thy trash and thee : nay more, I do
 Despise my self, because thy Subject too.
 Name me Heir to thy malice, and I'll be ;
 Thy hate's the best Inheritance for me.
 I care not for your wondrous Hat and Purse :
 Make me a Fortunatus with thy Curse.
 How careful of my self then should I be,
 Were I neglected by the world and thee ?
 Why do'st thou tempt me with thy dirty Ore,
 And with thy Riches make my Soul so poor ? 30
 My Fancy's pris'ner to thy Gold and thee,
 Thy favours rob me of my liberty.
 I'll to my Speculations. Is't best
 To be confin'd to some dark narrow chest
 And Idolize thy Stamps, when I may be
 Lord of all Nature, and not slave to thee ?
 The world's my Palace. I'll contemplate there,
 And make my progress into ev'ry Sphere.
 The Chambers of the Air are mine ; those three
 Well furnish'd Stories my possession be. 40
 I hold them all in Capite, and stand
 Propt by my Fancy there. I scorn your Land,
 It lies so far below me. Here I see
 How all the Sacred Stars do circle me.
 Thou to the Great giv'st rich Food, and I do
 Want no Content ; I feed on Manna too.
 They have their Tapers ; I gaze without fear
 On flying Lamps, and flaming Comets here.
 Their wanton flesh in Silks and Purple Shrouds,
 And Fancy wraps me in a Robe of Clouds. 50

There some delicious beauty they may woo,
And I have Nature for my Mistris too.

But these are mean ; the Archtype I can see,
And humbly touch the hem of Majestie.
The power of my Soul is such, I can
Expire, and so analyse all that's man.
First my dull Clay I give unto the Earth,
Our common Mother, which gives all their birth.
My growing Faculties I send as soon
Whence first I took them, to the humid Moon. 60

All Subtilties and every cunning Art
To witty Mercury I do impart.
Those fond Affections which made me a slave
To handsome Faces, Venus thou shalt have.
And saucy Pride (if there was ought in me,)
Sol, I return it to thy Royalty.
My daring Rashness and Presumptions be
To Mars himself an equal Legacy.
My ill-plac'd Avarice (sure 'tis but small ;) 70
Jove, to thy Flames I do bequeath it all.
And my false Magic, which I did believe,
And mystic Lyes to Saturn I do give.
My dark Imaginations rest you there,
This is your grave and Superstitious Sphære.

Get up my disintangled Soul, thy fire
Is now refin'd & nothing left to tire,
Or clog thy wings. Now my auspicious flight
Hath brought me to the Empyrean light.
I am a sep'rate Essence, and can see 80
The Emanations of the Deitie,
And how they pass the Seraphims, and run
Through ev'ry Throne and Domination.
So rushing through the Guard, the Sacred streams
Flow to the neighbour Stars, and in their beams
(A glorious Cataract !) descend to Earth
And give Impressions unto ev'ry birth.
With Angels now and Spirits I do dwell.
And here it is my Nature to do well,
Thus, though my Body you confined see,
My boundless thoughts have their Ubiquitie. 90

And shall I then forsake the Stars and Signs
 To dote upon thy dark and cursed Mines ?
 Unhappy, sad exchange ! what, must I buy
Guiana with the loss of all the skie ?
Intelligences shall I leave, and be Familiar only with mortalitie ?
 Must I know nought, but thy Exchequer ? shall
 My purse and fancy be Symmetrical ?
 Are there no Objects left but one ? must we
 In gaining that, lose our Varietie ?

100

Fortune, this is the reason I refuse
 Thy Wealth ; it puts my Books all out of use.
 'Tis poverty that makes me wise ; my mind
 Is big with speculation, when I find
 My purse as Randolph's was, and I confess
 There is no Blessing to an Emptiness ! -
 The Species of all things to me resort
 And dwell then in my breast, as in their port.
 Then leave to Court me with thy hated store,
 Thou giv'st me that, to rob my Soul of more.

110

To I. Morgan of White-Hall Esq; upon his sudden
 Journey and succeeding Marriage.

So from our cold, rude World, which all things tires
 To his warm Indies the bright sun retires.
 Where in those provinces of Gold and spice
Perfumes his progress : pleasures fill his Eyes.
 Which so refresh'd in their return convey
 Fire into Rubies, into Chrystalls day ;
 And prove, that Light in kinder Climates can Work more on senseless Stones, than here on man.

But you, like one ordain'd to shine, take in Both Light and Heat : can Love and Wisdom spin
 Into one thred, and with that firmly tye
 The same bright Blessings on posterity ;
 Which so intail'd, like Jewels of the Crown,
 Shall with your Name descend still to your own.

10

When I am dead, and malice or neglect
 The worst they can upon my dust reflect,
 (For Poets yet have left no names, but such
 As men have envied, or despis'd too much ;)

You above both (and what state more excells
 Since a just Fame like Health, nor wants, nor swells?) 20
 To after ages shall remain Entire,
 And shine still spottles, like your planets Fire.
 No single lustre neither ; the access
 Of your fair Love will yours adorn and bless ;
 Till from that bright Conjunction, men may view
 A Constellation circling her and you :
 So two sweet Rose-buds from their Virgin-beds
 First peep and blush, then kiss and couple heads ;
 Till yearly blessings so increase their store
 Those two can number two and twenty more, 30
 And the fair Bank (by heav'ns free bounty Crown'd)
 With choice of Sweets and Beauties doth abound ;
 Till time, which Familys like Flowers far spreads ;
 Gives them for Garlands to the best of heads.
 Then late posterity (if chance, or some
 Weak Eccho, almost quite expir'd and dumb
 Shall tell them, who the Poet was, and how
 He liv'd and lov'd thee too ; which thou do'st know)
 Strait to my grave will Flowers and spices bring
 With Lights and Hymns, and for an Offering 40
 There vow this truth ; That Love (which in old times
 Was censur'd blind, and will contract worse Crimes
 If hearts mend not ;) did for thy sake in me
 Find both his Eyes, and all foretell and see.

F I D A : Or The Country-beauty : to Lysimachus.

Now I have seen her ; And by Cupid
 The young Medusa made me stupid !
 A face, that hath no Lovers slain,
 Wants forces, and is near disdain.
 For every Fop will freely peep
 At Majesty that is asleep.
 But she (fair Tyrant !) hates to be
 Gaz'd on with such impunity.
 Whose prudent Rigor bravely bears
 And scorns the trick of whining tears : 10

Or sighs, those false All-arms of grief,
Which kill not, but afford relief.
Nor is it thy hard fate to be
Alone in this Calamity,
Since I who came but to be gone,
Am plagu'd for meerly looking on.

Mark from her forehead to her foot
What charming Sweets are there to do't.
A Head adorn'd with all those glories
That Witt hath shadow'd in quaint stories :
Or pencill with rich colours drew
In imitation of the true.

20

Her Hair lay'd out in curious Setts
And Twists, doth shew like silken Nets,
Where (since he play'd at Hitt or Miss :)
The God of Love her pris'ner is,
And fluttering with his skittish Wings
Puts all her locks in Curls and Rings.

Like twinkling Stars her Eyes invite
All gazers to so sweet a light,

30

But then two arched Clouds of brown
Stand o're, and guard them with a frown.

Beneath these rayes of her bright Eyes
Beautie's rich Bed of blushes lyes.

Blushes, which lightning-like come on,
Yet stay not to be gaz'd upon ;
But leave the Lilies of her Skin

As fair as ever, and run in :

Like swift Salutes (which dull paint scorn,)
Twixt a white noon, and Crimson Morne.

40

What Corall can her Lips resemble ?
For hers are warm, swell, melt and tremble :
And if you dare contend for Red,
This is alive, the other dead.

Her equal Teeth (above, below :)
All of a Cise, and Smoothness grow.
Where under close restraint and awe
(Which is the Maiden, Tyrant law :)
Like a cag'd, sullen Linnet, dwells
Her Tongue, the Key to potent spells.

50

Her Skin, like heav'n when calm and bright,
Shews a rich azure under white,
With touch more soft than heart supposes,
And Breath as sweet as new blown Roses.

Betwixt this Head-land and the Main,
Which is a rich and flowry Plain :
Lyes her fair Neck, so fine and slender
That (gently) how you please, 'twill bend her.

This leads you to her Heart, which ta'ne
Pants under Sheets of whitest Lawn,
And at the first seems much distrest,
But nobly treated, lyes at rest.

60

Here like two Balls of new fall'n snow,
Her Breasts, Loves native pillows grow ;
And out of each a Rose-bud Peeps
Which Infant beauty sucking, sleeps.

Say now my Stoic, that mak'st soure faces
At all the Beauties and the Graces,
That criest unclean ! though known thy self
To ev'ry coorse, and dirty shelve :
Could'st thou but see a piece like this,
A piece so full of Sweets and bliss :
In shape so rare, in Soul so rich,
Would'st thou not swear she is a witch ?

70

Fida forsaken.

Fool that I was ! to believe blood
While swoll'n with greatness, then most good ;
And the false thing, forgetful man :
To trust more than our true God, Pan,
Such swellings to a dropsie tend,
And meanest things such great ones bend.

Then live deceived ! and Fida by
That life destroy fidelity.
For living wrongs will make some wise,
While death chokes lowest Injuries :
And skreens the faulty, making Blinds
To hide the most unworthy minds.

10

And yet do what thou can'st to hide
 A bad trees fruit will be describ'd.
 For that foul guilt which first took place
 In his dark heart, now damns his face :
 And makes those Eyes, where life should dwell,
 Look like the pits of Death and Hell.

Bloud, whose rich purple shews and seals
 Their faith in Moors, in him reveals 20
 A blackness at the heart, and is
 Turn'd Inke, to write his faithlesness.
 Only his lips with bloud look red,
 As if asham'd of what they sed.

Then, since he wears in a dark skin
 The shadows of his hell within,
 Expose him no more to the light,
 But thine own Epitaph thus write.
Here burst, and dead and unregarded
Lyes Fida's heart ! O well rewarded ! 30

To the Editor of the matchless Orinda.

Long since great witts have left the Stage
 Unto the Drollers of the age,
 And noble numbers with good sense
 Are like good works, grown an offence.
 While much of verse (worse than old story,)
 Speaks but Jack-Pudding, or John-Dory.
 Such trash-admirers made us poor,
 And Pyes turn'd Poets out of door.
 For the nice Spirit of rich verse
 Which scorns absurd and low commerce, 10
 Although a flame from heav'n, if shed
 On Rooks or Daws : warms no such head.
 Or else the Poet, like bad priest,
 Is seldom good, but when opprest :
 And wit, as well as piety
 Doth thrive best in adversity ;
 For since the thunder left our air
 Their Laurels look not half so fair.

However 'tis 'twere worse than rude
 Not to profess our gratitude 20

And debts to thee, who at so low
 An Ebbe do'st make us thus to flow :
 And when we did a Famine fear,
 Hast blest us with a fruitful year.
 So while the world his absence mourns
 The glorious Sun at last returns,
 And with his kind and vital looks
 Warms the cold Earth and frozen brooks :
 Puts drowsie nature into play
 And rids impediments away, 30
 Till Flow'rs and Fruits and spices through
 Her pregnant lap get up and grow.
 But if among those sweet things, we
 A miracle like that could see
 Which nature brought but once to pass :
 A Muse, such as Orinda was,
Phæbus himself won by these charms
 Would give her up into thy arms ;
 And recondemn'd to kiss his Tree,
 Yield the young Goddess unto thee. 40

Upon sudden news of the much lamented death of Judge Trevers.

Learning and Law your Day is done,
 And your work too ; you may be gone !
Trever, that lov'd you, hence is fled :
 And Right, which long lay Sick, is dead.
Trever ! whose rare and envied part
 Was both a wise and winning heart,
 Whose sweet civility could move
Tartars and Goths to noblest love.

Bold Vice and blindness now dare act,
 And (like the gray goat,) pass, though crack't ; 10
 While those sage lips lye dumb and cold,
 Whose words are well-weigh'd and tried gold.
 O how much to descreet desires
 Differs pure Light from foolish fires !
 But nasty Dregs out last the Wine,
 And after Sun-set Glowworms shine.

To Etesia (for Timander,) the first Sight.

What smiling Star in that fair Night,
Which gave you Birth gave me this Sight,
And with a kind Aspect tho keen
Made me the Subject: you the Queen ?
That sparkling Planet is got now
Into your Eyes, and shines below ;
Where nearer force, and more acute
It doth dispencc, without dispute,
For I who yesterday did know
Loves fire no more, than doth cool Snow
With one bright look am since undone ;
Yet must adore and seek my Sun.

10

Before I walk'd free as the wind,
And if but stay'd (like it,) unkind.
I could like daring Eagles gaze
And not be blinded by a face ;
For what I saw, till I saw thee,
Was only not deformity.
Such shapes appear (compar'd with thine,)
In Arras, or a tavern-sign,
And do but mind me to explore
A fairer piece, that is in store.
So some hang Ivy to their Wine,
To signify, there is a Vine.

20

Those princely Flow'rs (by no storms vex'd,)
Which smile one day, and droop the next :
The gallant Tulip and the Rose,
Emblems which some use to disclose
Bodyed Idea's : their weak grace
Is meer imposture to thy face.
For nature in all things, but thee,
Did practise only Sophistry ;
Or else she made them to express
How she could vary in her dress :
But thou wert form'd, that we might see
Perfection, not Variety.

30

Have you observ'd how the Day-star
Sparkles and smiles and shines from far :
Then to the gazer doth convey
A silent, but a piercing Ray ?

40

So wounds my love, but that her Eys
 Are in Effects, the better Skys.
 A brisk bright Agent from them Streams
 Arm'd with no arrows, but their beams,
 And with such stillness smites our hearts,
 No noise betrays him, nor his darts.
 He working on my easie Soul
 Did soon persuade, and then controul ;
 And now he flies (and I conspire)
 Through all my blood with wings of fire,
 And when I would (which will be never)
 With cold despair allay the fever :
 The spiteful thing Etesia names,
 And that new-fuells all my flames.

50

The Character, to Etesia

Go catch the Phoenix, and then bring
 A quill drawn for me from his wing.
 Give me a Maiden-beautie's Bloud,
 A pure, rich Crimson, without mudd :
 In whose sweet Blushes that may live,
 Which a dull verse can never give.
 Now for an untouch'd, spottles white,
 For blackest things on paper write ;
Etesia at thine own Expençe
 Give me the Robes of innocence.

10

Could we but see a Spring to run
 Pure Milk, as sometimes Springs have done,
 And in the Snow-white streams it sheds
Carnations wash their bloudy heads.
 While ev'ry Eddy that came down
 Did (as thou do'st,) both smile and frown.
 Such objects and so fresh would be
 But dull Resemblances of thee.

Thou art the dark worlds Morning-star,
 Seen only, and seen but from far ;
 Where like Astronomers we gaze
 Upon the glories of thy face,
 But no acquaintance more can have,
 Though all our lives we watch and Crave.
 Thou art a world thy self alone,
 Yea three great worlds refin'd to one.

20

Which shews all those, and in thine Eyes
The shining East, and Paradise.

Thy Soul (a Spark of the first Fire,)

Is like the Sun, the worlds desire ;

30

And with a nobler influence

Works upon all, that claim to sense ;

But in Summers hath no fever,

And in frosts is chearful ever.

As Flower's, besides their curious dress

Rich odours have, and Sweetnesses.

Which tacitely infuse desire

And ev'n oblige us to admire :

Such and so full of innocence

Are all the Charms, thou do'st dispence ;

40

And like fair Nature, without Arts

At once they seize, and please our hearts.

O thou art such, that I could be

A lover to Idolatry !

I could, and should from heav'n stray,

But that thy life shews mine the way,

And leave a while the Diety,

To serve his Image here in thee.

To Etesia looking from her Casement at the full Moon.

See you that beauteous Queen, which no age tames ?

Her Train is Azure, set with golden flames.

My brighter fair, fix on the East your Eyes,

And view that bed of Clouds, whence she doth rise.

Above all others in that one short hour

Which most concern'd me, she had greatest pow'r.

This made my Fortunes humorous as wind,

But fix'd Affections to my constant mind.

She fed me with the tears of Starrs, and thence

I suck'd in Sorrows with their Influence.

10

To some in smiles, and store of light she broke :

To me in sad Eclipses still she spoke.

She bent me with the motion of her Sphere,

And made me feel, what first I did but fear.

But when I came to Age, and had o'regrown

Her Rules, and saw my freedom was my own,

6 me C : in 1678

S S

I did reply unto the Laws of Fate,
 And made my Reason, my great Advocate :
 I labour'd to inherit my just right ;
 But then (O hear Etesia !) lest I might Redeem my self, my unkind Starry Mother
 Took my poor Heart, and gave it to another.

20

To Etesia parted from him, and looking back.

O Subtile Love ! thy Peace is War ;
 It wounds and kills without a scar :
 It works unknown to any sense,
 Like the Decrees of Providence,
 And with strange silence shoots me through ;
 The Fire of Love doth fall like Snow.

Hath she no Quiver, but my Heart ?
 Must all her Arrows hit that part ?
 Beauties like Heav'n, their Gifts should deal
 Not to destroy us, but to heal.

10

Strange Art of Love ! that can make sound,
 And yet exasperates the wound ;
 That look she lent to ease my heart,
 Hath pierc't it, and improv'd the smart.

In Etesiam lachrymantem.

*O dulcis luctus, risuque potentior omni !
 Quem decorant lachrymis Sydera tanta suis.
 Quam tacitæ spirant auræ ! vultusque nitentes
 Contristant veneres, collachrymantque suæ !
 Ornat gutta genas, oculisque similissima gemma :
 Et tepido vivas irrigat imbre rosas.
 Dicite Chaldæi ! quæ me fortuna fatigat,
 Cum formosa dies & sine nube perit ?*

To Etesia going beyond Sea.

Go, if you must ! but stay—and know
 And mind before you go, my vow.

To ev'ry thing, but Heav'n and you,
 With all my Heart, I bid Adieu !
 Now to those happy Shades I'll go
 Where first I saw my beauteous Foe.

In Etesiam 8 periiit M: peruit 1678: perit GC

I'll seek each silent path, where we
 Did walk, and where you sate with me
 I'll sit again, and never rest
 Till I can find some flow'r you prest. 10
 That near my dying Heart I'll keep,
 And when it wants Dew, I will weep :
 Sadly I will repeat past Joyes,
 And Words, which you did sometimes voice :
 I'll listen to the Woods, and hear
 The Eccho answer for you there.
 But famish'd with long absence I
 Like Infants left, at last shall cry,
 And Tears (as they do Milk) will sup
 Until you come, and take me up. 20

Etesia absent.

Love, the Worlds Life ! what a sad death
 Thy absence is ? to lose our breath
 At once and dye, is but to live
 Inlarg'd, without the scant reprieve
 Of Pulse and Air : whose dull returns
 And narrow Circles the Soul mourns.
 But to be dead alive, and still
 To wish, but never have our will :
 To be possess'd, and yet to miss ;
 To wed a true but absent bliss : 10
 Are lingring tortures, and their smart
 Dissects and racks and grinds the Heart !
 As Soul and Body in that state
 Which unto us seems separate,
 Cannot be said to live, until Reunion ; which dayes fulfill
 And slow-pac'd seasons : So in vain
 Through hours and minutes (Times long train,)
 I look for thee, and from thy sight,
 As from my Soul, for life and light. 20
 For till thine Eyes shine so on me,
 Mine are fast-clos'd and will not see.

Translations.

Some Odes of the Excellent and Knowing
Severinus, Englished.

Metrum 12. Lib. 3.

Happy is he, that with fix'd Eyes
 The Fountain of all goodness spies !
 Happy is he, that can break through
 Those Bonds, which tie him here below !

The Thracian Poet long ago
 Kind Orpheus, full of tears and wo
 Did for his lov'd Euridice
 In such sad Numbers mourn, that he Made the Trees run in to his mone,
 And Streams stand still to hear him grone. 10
 The Does came fearless in one throng
 With Lyons to his mournful Song,
 And charm'd by the harmonious sound
 The Hare stay'd by the quiet Hound.

But when Love heightned by despair
 And deep reflections on his Fair
 Had swell'd his Heart, and made it rise
 And run in Tears out at his Eyes :
 And those sweet Aires, which did appease
 Wild Beasts, could give their Lord no ease ; 20
 Then vex'd, that so much grief and Love
 Mov'd not at all the gods above,
 With desperate thoughts and bold intent,
 Towards the Shades below he went ;
 For thither his fair Love was fled,
 And he must have her from the dead.
 There in such Lines, as did well suit
 With sad Aires and a Lovers Lute,
 And in the richest Language drest
 That could be thought on, or exprest, 30
 Did he complain, whatever Grief,
 Or Art, or Love (which is the chief,

And all innobles,) could lay out ;
 In well-tun'd woes he dealt about.
 And humbly bowing to the Prince
 Of Ghosts, begg'd some Intelligence
 Of his Euridice, and where
 His beauteous Saint resided there.
 Then to his Lutes instructed grones
 He sigh'd out new melodious mones ;
 And in a melting charming strain
 Begg'd his dear Love to life again.

40

The Music flowing through the shade
 And darkness, did with ease invade
 The silent and attentive Ghosts ;
 And Cerberus, which guards those coasts
 With his lowd barkings, overcome
 By the sweet Notes, was now struck dumb.
 The Furies, us'd to rave and howl
 And prosecute each guilty Soul,
 Had lost their rage, and in a deep
Transport did most profusely weep.
Ixion's wheel stopt, and the curst
Tantalus almost kill'd with thirst,
 Though the Streams now did make no haste,
 But waited for him, none would taste.
 That Vultur, which fed still upon
Tityus his liver, now was gone
 To feed on Air, and would not stay
 Though almost famish'd, with her prey.

50

60

Won with these wonders, their fierce Prince
 At last cry'd out, We yield ! and since
Thy merits claim no less, take hence
Thy Consort for thy Recompence.
But, Orpheus, to this law we bind
Our grant, you must not look behind,
Nor of your fair Love have one Sight,
Till out of our Dominions quite.

Alas ! what laws can Lovers awe ?
Love is it self the greatest Law !
 Or who can such hard bondage brook
 To be in Love, and not to Look ?
 Poor Orpheus almost in the light
 Lost his dear Love for one short sight ;

70

And by those Eyes, which Love did guide,
What he most lov'd unkindly dyed !

This tale of Orpheus and his Love
Was meant for you, who ever move
Upwards, and tend into that light,
Which is not seen by mortal sight.
For if, while you strive to ascend,
You droop, and towards Earth once bend
Your seduc'd Eyes, down you will fall
Ev'n while you look, and forfeit all.

Metrum 2. Lib. 3.

What fix'd Affections, and lov'd Laws
(Which are the hid, magnetic Cause ;)
Wise Nature governs with, and by What fast, inviolable tye
The whole Creation to her ends
For ever provident she bends :
All this I purpose to rehearse
In the sweet Airs of solemn Verse.

Although the Lybian Lyons should
Be bound with chains of purest Gold,
And duely fed, were taught to know
Their keepers voice, and fear his blow :
Yet, if they chance to taste of bloud,
Their rage which slept, stirr'd by that food
In furious roarings will awake,
And fiercely for their freedom make.
No chains, nor bars their fury brooks,
But with inrag'd and bloody looks
They will break through, and dull'd with fear
Their keeper all to pieces tear.

10

The Bird, which on the Woods tall boughs
Sings sweetly, if you Cage or house,
And out of kindest care should think
To give her honey with her drink,
And get her store of pleasant meat,
Ev'n such as she delights to Eat :
Yet, if from her close prison she
The shady-groves doth chance to see,

20

Straitway she loaths her pleasant food
And with sad looks longs for the Wood.
The wood, the wood alone she loves !
And towards it she looks and moves :
And in sweet notes (though distant from,) Sings to her first and happy home !

30

That Plant, which of it self doth grow
Upwards, if forc'd, will downwards bow ;
But give it freedom, and it will Get up, and grow erectly still.

The Sun, which by his prone descent
Seems westward in the Evening bent,
Doth nightly by an unseen way
Haste to the East, and bring up day.

40

Thus all things long for their first State,
And gladly to't return, though late.
Nor is there here to any thing
A Course allow'd, but in a Ring ;
Which, where it first began, must end :
And to that Point directly tend.

Metrum 6 Lib. 4.

Who would unclouded see the Laws
Of the supreme, eternal Cause,
Let him with careful thoughts and eyes
Observe the high and spacious Skyes.
There in one league of Love the Stars
Keep their old peace, and shew our wars.
The Sun, though flaming still and hot,
The cold, pale Moon annoyeth not,
Arcturus with his Sons (though they
See other stars go a far way,
And out of sight,) yet still are found
Near the North-pole, their noted bound.
Bright Hesper (at set times) delights
To usher in the dusky nights :
And in the East again attends
To warn us, when the day ascends,
So alternate Love supplis
Eternal Courses still, and vies
Mutual kindness ; that no Jars
Nor discord can disturb the Stars.

10

20

The same sweet Concord here below
 Makes the fierce Elements to flow
 And Circle without quarrel still,
 Though temper'd diversly ; thus will
 The Hot assist the Cold : the Dry
 Is a friend to Humidity.
 And by the Law of kindness they
 The like relief to them repay.
 The fire, which active is and bright,
 Tends upward, and from thence gives light.
 The Earth allows it all that space
 And makes choice of the lower place ;
 For things of weight hast to the Center
 A fall to them is no adventure.

30

From these kind turns and Circulation
Seasons proceed and Generation.
 This makes the Spring to yield us flow'rs,
 And melts the Clouds to gentle show'rs.
 The Summer thus matures all seeds
 And ripens both the Corn and weeds.
 This brings on Autumn, which recruits
 Our old, spent store with new fresh fruits.
 And the cold Winters blustering Season
 Hath snow and storms for the same reason.
 This temper and wise mixture breed
 And bring forth ev'ry living seed.
 And when their strength and substance spend (For while they live, they drive and tend Still to a change,) it takes them hence
 And shifts their dress ; and to our sense
 Their Course is over, as their birth :
 And hid from us, they turn to Earth.

40

50

But all this while the Prince of life
 Sits without loss, or change, or strife :
 Holding the Rains, by which all move ;
 (And those his wisdom, power, Love
 And Justice are ;) And still what he
 The first life bids, that needs must be,
 And live on for a time ; that done
 He calls it back, meerly to shun
 The mischief, which his creature might
 Run into by a further flight.

60

For if this dear and tender sense
 Of his preventing providence
 Did not restrain and call things back :
 Both heav'n and earth would go to wrack.
 And from their great preserver part,
 As blood let out forsakes the Heart
 And perisheth ; but what returns
 With fresh and Brighter spirits burns.

70

This is the Cause why ev'ry living
Creature affects an endless being.
 A grain of this bright love each thing
 Had giv'n at first by their great King ;
 And still they creep (drawn on by this :)
 And look back towards their first bliss.
 For otherwise, it is most sure,
 Nothing that liveth could endure :
 Unless it's Love turn'd retrograde
 Sought that first life, which all things made.

80

Metrum 3. Lib. 4

If old tradition hath not fail'd,
Ulysses, when from Troy he sail'd,
 Was by a tempest forc'd to land
 Where beauteous Circe did command.
Circe, the daughter of the Sun,
 Which had with Charms and Herbs undone
 Many poor strangers, and could then
 Turn into Beasts, the bravest Men.
 Such Magic in her potions lay
 That whosoever past that way
 And drank, his shape was quickly lost ;
 Some into Swine she turn'd, but most
 To Lyons arm'd with teeth and claws ;
 Others like Wolves, with open Jaws
 Did howl ; But some (more savage) took
 The Tiger's dreadful shape and look.

10

But wise Ulysses by the Aid
 Of Hermes, had to him convey'd
 A Flow'r, whose virtue did suppress
 The force of charms, and their success.

20

While his Mates drank so deep, that they
 Were turn'd to Swine, which fed all day
 On Mast, and humane food had left ;
 Of shape and voice at once bereft.
 Only the Mind (above all charms,)
 Unchang'd, did mourn those monstrous harms.

O worthless herbs, and weaker Arts
 To change their Limbs, but not their Hearts !
 Mans life and vigor keep within,
 Lodg'd in the Center, not the Skin.
 Those piercing charms and poysons, which
 His inward parts taint and bewitch,
 More fatal are, than such, which can
 Outwardly only spoil the man.
 Those change his shape and make it foul ;
 But these deform and kill his soul.

30

Metrum 6. Lib. 3.

All sorts of men, that live on Earth,
 Have one beginning and one birth.
 For all things there is one Father,
 Who lays out all, and all doth gather.
 He the warm Sun with rays adorns,
 And fills with brightness the Moon's horns.
 The azur'd heav'ns with stars he burnish'd
 And the round world with creatures furnish'd.
 But Men (made to inherit all,)
 His own Sons he was pleas'd to call,
 And that they might be so indeed,
 He gave them Souls of divine seed.
 A noble Offspring surely then
 Without distinction, are all men.

10

O why so vainly do some boast
 Their Birth and Blood, and a great Hoste
 Of Ancestors, whose Coats and Crests
 Are some rav'nous Birds or Beasts !
 If Extraction they look for
 And God, the great Progenitor :
 No man, though of the meanest state
 Is base, or can degenerate ;
 Unless to Vice and lewdness bent
 He leaves and taints his true descent

20

The old man of Verona out of Claudian.

*Felix, qui propriis ævum transegit in arvis,
Una domus puerum &c.*

Most happy man ! who in his own sweet fields
Spent all his time, to whom one Cottage yields
In age and youth a lodging : who grown old
Walks with his staff on the same soil and mold
Where he did creep an infant, and can tell
Many fair years spent in one quiet Cell !
No toils of fate made him from home far known,
Nor forreign waters drank, driv'n from his own.
No loss by Sea, no wild lands wastful war
Vex'd him ; not the brib'd Coil of gowns at bar. 10
Exempt from cares, in Cities never seen
The fresh field-air he loves, and rural green.
The years set turns by fruits, not Consuls knows ;
Autumn by apples ; May by blossom'd boughs.
Within one hedg his Sun doth set and rise,
The world's wide day his short Demeanes comprise.
Where he observes some known, conerescent twig
Now grown an Oak, and old, like him, and big.
Verona he doth for the Indies take,
And as the red Sea counts Benacus lake. 20
Yet are his limbs and strength untir'd, and he
A lusty Grandsire three descents doth see.
Travel and sail who will, search sea, or shore ;
This man hath liv'd, and that hath wander'd more.

The Sphere of Archimedes out of Claudian.

*Jupiter in parvo cum cerneret æthera vitro
Risit, & ad superos &c.*

When Jove a heav'n of small glass did behold,
He smil'd, and to the Gods these words he told.
Comes then the power of mans Art to this ?
In a fraile Orbe my work new acted is.
The poles decrees, the fate of things : God's laws
Down by his Art old Archimedes draws.

Spirits inclos'd the sev'ral Stars attend,
 And orderly the living work they bend.
 A feigned Zodiac measures out the year,
 Ev'ry new month a false Moon doth appear. 10
 And now bold industry is proud, it can
 Wheel round its world, and rule the Stars by man.
 Why at Salomoneus thunder do I stand?
Nature is rivall'd by a single hand.

The Phoenix out of Claudian.

*Oceani summo circumfluus æquore lucus
 Trans Indos, Eurumque viret &c,*

A grove there grows round with the Sea confin'd
 Beyond the Indies, and the Eastern wind.
 Which, as the Sun breaks forth in his first beam,
 Salutes his steeds, and hears him whip his team.
 When with his dewy Coach the Eastern Bay
 Crackles, whence blusheth the approaching day;
 And blasted with his burnish'd wheels, the night
 In a pale dress doth vanish from the light.

This the blest Phoenix Empire is, here he Alone exempted from mortality, 10
 Enjoys a land, where no diseases raig;
 And ne'r afflicted, like our world, with pain.
 A Bird most equal to the Gods, which vies
 For length of life and durance, with the skyes;
 And with renewed limbs tires ev'ry age,
 His appetite he never doth assuage
 With common food. Nor doth he use to drink
 When thirsty, on some River's muddy brink.
 A purer, vital heat shot from the Sun
 Doth nourish him, and airy sweets that come 20
 From Tethis lap, he tasteth at his need;
 On such abstracted Diet doth he feed.

A secret Light there streams from both his Eyes
 A fiery hue about his cheeks doth rise.
 His Crest grows up into a glorious Star
 Giv'n t' adorn his head, and shines so far,
 That piercing through the bosom of the night
 It rends the darkness with a gladsome light.
 His thighs like Tyrian scarlet, and his wings
 (More swift than Winds are,) have skie-colour'd rings 30

Flowry and rich : and round about inroll'd
 Their utmost borders glisten all with gold.
 Hee's not conceiv'd, nor springs he from the Earth,
 But is himself the Parent, and the birth.
 None him begets ; his fruitful death reprieves
 Old age, and by his funerals he lives.
 For when the tedious Summer's gone about
 A thousand times : so many Winters out,
 So many Springs : and May doth still restore
 Those leaves, which Autumn had blown off before ; 40
 Then prest with years his vigour doth decline
 Foil'd with the number ; as a stately Pine
 Tir'd out with storms, bends from the top & height
 Of Caucasus, and falls with its own weight :
 Whose part is torn with dayly blasts, with Rain
 Part is consum'd, and part with Age again.
 So now his Eyes grown dusky, fail to see
 Far off, and drops of colder rheums there be Fall'n slow and dreggy from them ; such in sight
 The cloudy Moon is, having spent her light. 50
 And now his wings, which used to contend
 With Tempests, scarce from the low Earth ascend.
 He knows his time is out ! and doth provide
 New principles of life ; herbs he brings dried
 From the hot hills, and with rich spices frames
 A Pile shall burn, and Hatch him with its flames.
 On this the weakling sits ; salutes the Sun
 With pleasant noise, and prays and begs for some
 Of his own fire, that quickly may restore
 The youth and vigour, which he had before. 60
 Whom soon as Phœbus spies, stopping his rayns,
 He makes a stand and thus allayes his pains.
 O thou that buriest old age in thy grave,
 And art by seeming funerals to have
 A new return of life ! whose custom 'tis
 To rise by ruin, and by death to miss
 Ev'n death it self : a new beginning take,
 And that thy wither'd body now forsake !
 Better thy self by this thy change ! This sed,
 He shakes his locks, and from his golden head 70

Shoots one bright beam, which smites with vital fire
 The willing bird ; to burn is his desire,
 That he may live again : he's proud in death,
 And goes in haste to gain a better breath.
 The spicie heap fir'd with cœlestial rays
 Doth burn the aged Phoenix, when strait stays
 The Chariot of th' amazed Moon ; the pole
 Resists the wheeling, swift Orbs, and the whole
 Fabric of Nature at a stand remains,
 Till the old bird a new, young being gains. 80
 All stop and charge the faithful flames, that they Suffer not nature's glory to decay.

By this time, life which in the ashes lurks
 Hath fram'd the Heart, and taught new bloud new works ;
 The whole heap stirs, and ev'ry part assumes
 Due vigour ; th' Embers too are turn'd to plumes.
 The parent in the Issue now revives,
 But young and brisk ; the bounds of both these lives
 With very little space between the same,
 Were parted only by the middle flame. 90

To Nilus straight he goes to consecrate
 His parents ghoste ; his mind is to translate
 His dust to Egypt. Now he hastes away
 Into a distant land, and doth convey
 The ashes in a turf. Birds do attend
 His Journey without number, and defend
 His pious flight like to a guard ; the sky
 Is clouded with the Army, as they fly.
 Nor is there one of all those thousands dares
 Affront his leader : they with solomn cares 100
 Attend the progress of their youthful king ;
 Not the rude hawk, nor th' Eagle that doth bring
 Arms up to Jove, fight now ; lest they displease ;
 The miracle enacts a common peace.
 So doth the Parthian lead from Tigris side
 His barbarous troops, full of a lavish pride
 In pearls and habit, he adorns his head
 With royal tires : his steed with gold is lead.
 His robes, for which the scarlet fish is sought,
 With rare Assyrian needle work are wrought. 110
 And proudly reigning o're his rascal bands,
 He raves and triumphs in his large Commands.

A City of Egypt famous in all lands
 For rites, adores the Sun, his temple stands
 There on a hundred pillars by account
 Dig'd from the quarries of the Theban mount.
 Here, as the Custom did require (they say,)
 His happy parents dust down he doth lay;
 Then to the Image of his Lord he bends
 And to the flames his burden strait commends. 120
 Unto the Altars thus he destines
 His own Remains: the light doth gild the gates;
 Perfumes divine the Censers up do send:
 While th' Indian odour doth it self extend
 To the Pelusian fens, and filleth all
 The men it meets with the sweet storm. A gale
 To which compar'd, Nectar it self is vile:
 Fills the seav'n channels of the misty Nile.

O happy bird! sole heir to thy own dust!
 Death, to whose force all other Creatures must 130
 Submit, saves thee. Thy ashes make thee rise;
 'Tis not thy nature, but thy age that dies.
 Thou hast seen All! and to the times that run
 Thou art as great a witness, as the Sun.
 Thou saw'st the deluge, when the sea outvied
 The land, and drown'd the mountains with the tide.
 What year the stragling Phaeton did fire
 The world, thou know'st. And no plagues can conspire
 Against thy life; alone thou do'st arise
 Above mortality; the Destinies 140
 Spin not thy days out with their fatal Clue;
 They have no Law, to which thy life is due.

Pious thoughts and Ejaculations.

To his Books.

Bright books! the perspectives to our weak sights:
 The clear projections of discerning lights.
 Burning and shining Thoughts; man's posthume day:
 The track of fled souls, and their Milkie-way.
 The dead alive and busie, the still voice
 Of inlarg'd Spirits, kind heav'ns white Decoys.

Who lives with you, lives like those knowing flow'rs,
Which in commerce with light, spend all their hours :
Which shut to Clouds, and shadows nicely shun ;
But with glad haste unveil to kiss the Sun. 10
Beneath you all is dark and a dead night ;
Which whoso lives in, wants both health and sight.

By sucking you, the wise (like Bees) do grow
Healing and rich, though this they do most slow :
Because most choicely, for as great a store
Have we of Books, as Bees of herbs, or more.
And the great task to try, then know the good :
To discern weeds, and Judge of wholesome Food,
Is a rare, scant performance ; for Man dyes
Oft e're 'tis done, while the bee feeds and flies. 20
But you were all choice Flow'rs, all set and drest
By old, sage florists, who well knew the best.
And I amidst you all am turn'd a weed !
Not wanting knowledge, but for want of heed.
Then thank thy self wild fool, that would'st not be Content to know——what was to much for thee !

Looking back.

Fair, shining Mountains of my pilgrimage,
And flow'ry Vales, whose flow'rs were stars :
The days and nights of my first, happy age ;
An age without distast and warrs :
When I by thoughts ascend your Sunny heads,
And mind those sacred, midnight Lights :
By which I walk'd, when curtain'd Rooms and Beds
Confin'd, or seal'd up others sights :
O then how bright
And quick a light 10
Doth brush my heart and scatter night ;
Chasing that shade
Which my sins made,
While I so spring, as if I could not fade !
How brave a prospect is a bright Back-side !
Where flow'rs and palms refresh the Eye :
And days well spent like the glad East abide,
Whose morning-glories cannot dye !

The Shower.

Waters above! eternal Springs!
 The dew, that silvers the Doves wings!
 O welcom, welcom to the sad:
 Give dry dust drink; drink that makes glad!
 Many fair Ev'nings, many Flow'r's
 Sweeten'd with rich and gentle showers
 Have I enjoy'd, and down have run
 Many a fine and shining Sun;
 But never till this happy hour
 Was blest with such an Evening-shower!

10

Discipline.

Fair prince of life, lights living well!
 Who hast the keys of death and hell!
 If the mule man despise thy day,
 Put chains of darkness in his way.
 Teach him how deep, how various are
 The Councils of thy love and care.
 When Acts of grace and a long peace
 Breed but rebellion and displease;
 Then give him his own way and will,
 Where lawless he may run until
 His own choice hurts him, and the sting
 Of his foul sins full sorrows bring.
 If Heav'n and Angels, hopes and mirth
 Please not the mole so much as Earth:
 Give him his Mine to dig, or dwell;
 And one sad Scheme of hideous hell.

10

The Eclipse.

Whither, O whither did'st thou fly
 When I did grieve thine holy Eye?
 When thou did'st mourn to see me lost,
 And all thy Care and Councils crost.
 O do not grieve where e'er thou art!
 Thy grief is an undoing smart.
 Which doth not only pain, but break
 My heart, and makes me blush to speak.
 Thy anger I could kiss, and will:
 But (O!) thy grief, thy grief doth kill.

Affliction.

O come, and welcom ! Come, refine ;
 For Moors if wash'd by thee, will shine.
 Man blossoms at thy touch ; and he
 When thou draw'st blood, is thy Rose-tree.
Crosses make strait his crooked ways,
 And Clouds but cool his dog-star days.
 Diseases too, when by thee blest,
 Are both restoratives and rest.

Flow'rs that in Sun-shines riot still,
 Dye scorch'd and sapless ; though storms kill. 10
 The fall is fair ev'n to desire,
 Where in their sweetness all expire.
 O come, pour on ! what calms can be
 So fair as storms, that appease thee ?

Retirement.

Fresh fields and woods ! the Earth's fair face,
 God's foot-stool, and mans dwelling-place.
 I ask not why the first Believer
 Did love to be a Country liver ?
 Who to secure pious content
 Did pitch by groves and wells his tent ;
 Where he might view the boundless skie,
 And all those glorious lights on high :
 With flying meteors, mists and show'rs,
 Subjected hills, trees, meads and Flow'rs : 10
 And ev'ry minute bless the King
 And wise Creatour of each thing.

I ask not why he did remove
 To happy Mamré's holy grove,
 Leaving the Citie's of the plain
 To Lot and his successful train ?
 All various Lusts in Cities still
 Are found ; they are the Thrones of Ill.
 The dismal Sinks, where blood is spill'd,
Cages with much uncleanness fill'd. 20
 But rural shades are the sweet fense
 Of piety and innocence.

They are the Meek's calm region, where
 Angels descend, and rule the sphere :
 Where heav'n lyes Leiguer, and the Dove
 Duely as Dew, comes from above.
 If Eden be on Earth at all,
 'Tis that, which we the Country call.

The Revival.

Unfold, unfold ! take in his light,
 Who makes thy Cares more short than night.
 The Joys, which with his Day-star rise,
 He deals to all, but drowsy Eyes :
 And what the men of this world miss,
 Some drops and dews of future bliss.

Hark ! how his winds have chang'd their note,
 And with warm whispers call thee out.
 The frosts are past, the storms are gone :
 And backward life at last comes on.
 The lofty groves in express Joyes
 Reply unto the Turtles voice,
 And here in dust and dirt, O here
 The Lilies of his love appear !

10

The Day-spring.

Early, while yet the dark was gay,
 And gilt with stars, more trim than day :
 Heav'ns Lily, and the Earth's chast Rose : } S. Mark
 The green, immortal BRANCH arose ; } c. 1. v. 35.
 And in a solitary place
 Bow'd to his father his bless'd face.

If this calm season pleas'd my Prince,
 Whose fullness no need could evince,
 Why should not I poor, silly sheep
 His hours, as well as practice keep ?
 Not that his hand is tyed to these,
 From whom time holds his transient Lease :
 But mornings, new Creations are,
 When men all night sav'd by his Care,
 Are still reviv'd ; and well he may
 Expect them grateful with the day.

10

So for that first drawght of his hand,
 Which finish'd heav'n and sea and land,
 The Sons of God their thanks did bring, } Job. c. 38.
 And all the Morning-stars did sing. } v. 7.

20

Besides, as his part heretofore
 The firstlings were of all, that bore :
 So now each day from all he saves,
 Their Soul's first thoughts and fruits he craves.
 This makes him daily shed and shower
 His graces at this early hour ;
 Which both his Care and Kindness show,
 Chearing the good : quickning the slow.
 As holy friends mourn at delay,
 And think each minute an hour's stay :
 So his divine and loving Dove
 With longing throws doth heave and move,
 And soare about us, while we sleep :
 Sometimes quite through that lock doth peep,
 And shine ; but always without fail
 Before the slow Sun can unveile,
 In new Compassions breaks like light,
 And Morning-looks, which scatter night.

30

And wilt thou let thy creature be
 When thou hast watch'd, asleep to thee ?
 Why to unwellcome, loath'd surprises
 Do'st leave him, having left his vices ?
 Since these, if suffer'd, may again
 Lead back the living, to the slain.
 O change this Scourge ! or, if as yet
 None less will my transgressions fit :
 Dissolve, dissolve ! death cannot do
 What I would not submit unto.

40

The Recovery.

Fair Vessell of our daily light, whose proud
 And previous glories gild that blushing Cloud :
 Whose lively fires in swift projections glance
 From hill to hill, and by refracted chance
 Burnish some neighbour-rock, or tree, and then
 Fly off in coy and winged flams agen :

If thou this day
 Hold on thy way,

Know, I have got a greater light than thine ;
 A light, whose shade and back-parts make thee shine. 10
 Then get thee down : then get thee down ;
 I have a Sun now of my own.

II.

Those nicer livers, who without thy Rays
 Stirr not abroad, those may thy lustre praise :
 And wanting light (light, which no wants doth know !)
 To thee (weak shiner !) like blind Persians bow ;
 But where that Sun, which tramples on thy head,
 From his own bright, eternal Eye doth shed
 One living Ray,
 There thy dead day 20
 Is needless, and man to a light made free,
 Which shews what thou can'st neither shew, nor see.
 Then get thee down, Then get thee down ;
 I have a Sun now of my own.

The Nativity.

Written in the year 1656.

Peace? and to all the world? sure, one
 And he the prince of peace, hath none.
 He travels to be born, and then
 Is born to travel more agen.
 Poor Galile ! thou can'st not be
 The place for his Nativity.
 His restless mother's call'd away,
 And not deliver'd, till she pay.
 A Tax? 'tis so still ! we can see
 The Church thrive in her misery ; 10
 And like her head at Bethlem, rise
 When she opprest with troubles, lyes.
 Rise? should all fall, we cannot be
 In more extremities than he.
 Great Type of passions ! come what will,
 Thy grief exceeds all copies still.
 Thou cam'st from heav'n to earth, that we Might go from Earth to Heav'n with thee.
 And though thou found'st no welcom here,
 Thou did'st provide us mansions there. 20

A stable was thy Court, and when
 Men turn'd to beasts ; Beasts would be Men.
 They were thy Courtiers, others none ;
 And their poor Manger was thy Throne.
 No swadling silks thy Limbs did fold,
 Though thou could'st turn thy Rays to gold.
 No Rockers waited on thy birth,
 No Cradles stirr'd : nor songs of mirth ;
 But her chast Lap and sacred Brest
 Which lodg'd thee first, did give thee rest.

30

But stay : what light is that doth stream,
 And drop here in a gilded beam ?
 It is thy Star runs page, and brings
 Thy tributary Eastern Kings.
 Lord ! grant some Light to us, that we
 May with them find the way to thee.
 Behold what mists eclipse the day :
 How dark it is ! shed down one Ray
 To guide us out of this sad night,
 And say once more, Let there be Light.

40

The true Christmas.

So stick up Ivie and the Bays,
 And then restore the heathen ways.
Green will remind you of the spring,
 Though this great day denies the thing.
 And mortifies the Earth and all
 But your wild Revels, and loose Hall.
 Could you wear Flow'rs, and Roses strow
 Blushing upon your breasts warm Snow,
 That very dress your lightness will
 Rebuke, and wither at the Ill.
 The brightness of this day we owe
 Not unto Music, Masque nor Showe :
 Nor gallant furniture, nor Plate ;
 But to the Manger's mean Estate.
 His life while here, as well as birth,
 Was but a check to pomp and mirth ;
 And all mans greatness you may see
 Condemn'd by his humility.

10

Then leave your open house and noise,
 To welcom him with holy Joys,
 And the poor Shepherd's watchfulness :
 Whom light and hymns from Heav'n did bless.
 What you abound with, cast abroad
 To those that want, and ease your load.
 Who empties thus, will bring more in ;
 But riot is both loss and Sin.
 Dress finely what comes not in sight,
 And then you keep your Christmas right.

20

The Request.

O thou ! who did'st deny to me
 This world's ador'd felicity,
 And ev'ry big, imperious lust,
 Which fools admire in sinful Dust ;
 With those fine, subtile twists, that tye
 Their bundles of foul gallantry :
 Keep still my weak Eyes from the shine
 Of those gay things, which are not thine,
 And shut my Ears against the noise
 Of wicked, though applauded Joys.
 For thou in any land hast store
 Of shades and Coverts for thy poor,
 Where from the busie dust and heat,
 As well as storms, they may retreat.
 A Rock, or Bush are douny beds,
 When thou art there crowning their heads
 With secret blessings : or a Tire
 Made of the Comforter's live-fire.
 And when thy goodness in the dress
 Of anger, will not seem to bless :
 Yet do'st thou give them that rich Rain,
 Which as it drops, clears all again.

10

20

O what kind Visits daily pass
 'Twixt thy great self and such poor grass,
 With what sweet looks doth thy love shine
 On those low Violets of thine !
 While the tall Tulip is accurst,
 And Crowns Imperial dye with thirst.

O give me still those secret meals,
 Those rare Repasts, which thy love deals !
 Give me that Joy, which none can grieve,
 And which in all griefs doth relieve.
 This is the portion thy Child begs,
 Not that of rust, and rags and dregs.

The World.

Can any tell me what it is ? can you,

That wind your thoughts into a Clue

To guide out others, while your selves stay in,

And hug the Sin ?

I, who so long have in it liv'd,

That if I might,

In truth I would not be repriev'd :

Have neither sight,

Nor sense that knows

These Ebbs and Flows.

10

But since of all, all may be said,

And likelines doth but upbraid,

And mock the Truth, which still is lost

In fine Conceits, like streams in a sharp frost :

The World] 12 upbraid,] upbraid, 1678; upbraid LGC

I will not strive, nor the Rule break
 Which doth give Loosers leave to speak.
 Then false and foul World, and unknown
 Ev'n to thy own :

Here I renounce thee, and resign
 Whatever thou can'st say, is thine. 20

Thou art not Truth ; for he that tries
 Shall find thee all deceit and lyes.
 Thou art not friendship ; for in thee
 'Tis but the bait of policy.
 Which, like a Viper lodg'd in Flow'rs,
 Its venom through that sweetness pours.
 And when not so, then always 'tis
 A fadeing paint ; the short-liv'd bliss
 Of air and Humour : out and in
 Like Colours in a Dolphin's skin. 30
 But must not live beyond one day,
 Or Convenience ; then away.

Thou art not Riches ; for that Trash
 Which one age hoords, the next doth wash
 And so severely sweep away ;
 That few remember, where it lay.
 So rapid streams the wealthy land
 About them, have at their command :
 And shifting channels here restore,
 There break down, what they bank'd before. 40
 Thou art not Honour ; for those gay
Feathers will wear, and drop away ;
 And princes to some upstart line
 Give new ones, that are full as fine.
 Thou art not pleasure ; for thy Rose
 Upon a thorn doth still repose ;
 Which if not cropt, will quickly shed ;
 But soon as cropt, grows dull and dead.

Thou art the sand, which fills one glass,
 And then doth to another pass ; 50
 And could I put thee to a stay,
 Thou art but dust ! then go thy way,
 And leave me clean and bright, though poor ;
 Who stops thee, doth but dawb his floor,

And Swallow-like, when he hath done,
To unknown dwellings must be gone !

Welcom pure thoughts and peaceful hours
Inrich'd with Sunshine and with show'rs ;
Welcom fair hopes and holy Cares,
The not to be repented shares
Of time and business : the sure rode
Unto my last and lov'd Abode !

60

O supreme Bliss !

The Circle, Center and Abyss
Of blessings, never let me miss
Nor leave that Path, which leads to thee :
Who art alone all things to me !
I hear, I see all the long day
The noise and pomp of the broad way ;
I note their Course and proud approaches :
Their silks, perfumes and glittering Coaches.
But in the narrow way to thee

70

I observe only poverty,
And despis'd things : and all along
The ragged, mean and humble throng
Are still on foot, and as they go,
They sigh and say ; Their Lord went so !

Give me my staff then, as it stood
When green and growing in the Wood.
(Those stones, which for the Altar serv'd, Might not be smooth'd, nor finely carv'd :)
With this poor stick I'll pass the Foord
As Jacob did ; and thy dear word,
As thou hast dress'd it : not as Witt
And deprav'd tastes have poyson'd it :
Shall in the passage be my meat,
And none else will thy Servant eat.
Thus, thus and in no other sort
Will I set forth, though laugh'd at for't ;
And leaving the wise World their way,
Go through ; though Judg'd to go astray.

The Bee.

From fruitful beds and flowry borders
 Parcell'd to wastful Ranks and Orders,
 Where state grasps more than plain Truth needs
 And wholesome Herbs are starv'd by Weeds :
 To the wild Woods I will be gone,
 And the course Meals of great Saint John.

When truth and piety are mist
 Both in the Rulers and the Priest ;
 When pity is not cold, but dead,
 And the rich eat the Poor like bread ;
 While factious heads with open Coile
 And force first make, then share the spoile :
 To Horeb then Elias goes,
 And in the Desart grows the Rose.

10

Hail Christal Fountains and fresh shades,
 Where no proud look invades.

No busie worldling hunts away
 The sad Retirer all the day :
 Haile happy harmless solitude,
 Our Sanctuary from the rude
 And scornful world : the calm recess
 Of faith, and hope and holiness !
 Here something still like Eden looks,
Hony in Woods, Julips in Brooks :
 And Flow'rs, whose rich, unrifled Sweets
 With a chast kiss the cool dew greets.
 When the toyls of the Day are done
 And the tir'd world sets with the Sun,
 Here flying winds and flowing Wells
 Are the wise, watchful Hermits Bells ;
 Their buisie murmurs all the night
 To praise or prayer do invite,
 And with an awful sound arrest
 And piously employ his breast.

20

30

When in the East the Dawn doth blush,
 Here cool, fresh Spirits the air brush ;

Herbs (strait) get up, Flow'rs peep and spread :
Trees whisper praise, and bow the head.
Birds from the shades of night releast
 Look round about, then quit the neast,
 And with united gladness sing
 The glory of the morning's King.
 The Hermit hears, and with meek voice
 Offers his own up, and their Joys :
 Then prays, that all the world may be
 Blest with as sweet an unity.

40

If sudden storms the day invade,
 They flock about him to the shade :
 Where wisely they expect the end,
 Giving the tempest time to spend ;
 And hard by shelters on some bough
Hilarion's servant, the sage Crow.

50

O purer years of light, and grace !
 The diff'rence is great, as the space
 'Twixt you and us : who blindly run
 After false-fires, and leave the Sun.
 Is not fair Nature of her self
 Much richer than dull paint, or pelf?
 And are not streams at the Spring-head
 More sweet than in carv'd Stone, or Lead?
 But fancy and some Artist's tools
 Frame a Religion for fools.

60

The truth, which once was plainly taught,
 With thorns and briars now is fraught.
 Some part is with bold Fables spotted,
 Some by strange Comments wildly blotted :
 And discord (old Corruption's Crest,)
 With blood and blame hath stain'd the rest.
 So Snow, which in its first descents
 A whiteness, like pure heav'n presents,
 When touch'd by Man is quickly soil'd
 And after trodden down, and spoil'd.

70

O lead me, where I may be free
 In truth and Spirit to serve thee !
 Where undisturb'd I may converse
 With thy great self, and there rehearse
 Thy gifts with thanks, and from thy store
 Who art all blessings, beg much more !

Give me the Wisdom of the Bee,
 And her unwearied Industry :
 That from the wild Gourds of these days
 I may extract Health and thy praise ;
 Who can'st turn darkness into light,
 And in my weakness shew thy might !

80

Suffer me not in any want
 To seek refreshment from a Plant,
 Thou did'st not set ! since all must be
 Pluck'd up, whose growth is not from thee.
 'Tis not the garden and the Bowrs,
 Nor fense and forms that give to flow'rs
 Their wholsomness : but thy good will,
 Which truth and pureness purchase still.

90

Then since corrupt man hath driv'n hence
 Thy kind and saving Influence,
 And Balm is no more to be had
 In all the Coasts of Gilead :
 Go with me to the shade and cell,
 Where thy best Servants once did dwell.
 There let me know thy Will, and see
 Exil'd Religion own'd by thee.
 For thou can'st turn dark Grots to Halls,
 And make Hills blossome like the vales :
 Decking their untill'd heads with flow'rs
 And fresh delights for all sad hours :
 Till from them, like a laden Bee,
 I may fly home, and hive with thee.

100

To Christian Religion.

Farewel thou true and tried Refection
 Of the still poor and meek Election !
 Farewel Souls Joy, the quickning health
 Of Spirits, and their secret wealth !
 Farewel my Morning-star, the bright
 And dawning looks of the true Light !
 O blessed shiner ! tell me whither
 Thou wilt be gone, when night comes hither ?
 A Seer, that observ'd thee in Thy Course, and watch'd the growth of Sin,

10

Hath giv'n his Judgment and foretold,
 That West-ward hence thy Course will hold :
 And when the day with us is done,
 There fix, and shine a glorious Sun.
 O hated shades and darkness ! when
 You have got here the Sway agen,
 And like unwholsome fogs withstood
 The light, and blasted all that's good :
 Who shall the happy shepherds be
 To watch the next Nativity
 Of Truth and brightness, and make way
 For the returning, rising day ?
 O ! what year will bring back our bliss,
 Or who shall live, when God doth this ?

20

Thou Rock of Ages, and the Rest
 Of all, that for thee are opprest !
 Send down the Spirit of thy truth,
 That Spirit, which the tender Youth
 And first growths of thy Spouse did spread
 Through all the world, from one small head !
 Then, if to blood we must resist

30

Let thy mild Dove, and our high Priest
 Help us, when man proves false, or frowns,
 To bear the Cross, and save our Crowns :
 O ! honour those, that honour thee !
 Make Babes to still the Enemy :
 And teach an Infant of few days
 To perfect by his death, thy praise !
 Let none defile what thou did'st wed,
 Nor tear the garland from her head :
 But chaste and chearful let her dye,
 And pretious in the Bridegrooms Eye !
 So to thy glory, and her praise
 These last shall be her brightest dayes.

40

Revel. Chap. last, vers. 17.

The Spirit and the Bride say, Come.

DAPHNIS.

An Elegiac Eclogue.

The Interlocutors, Damon, Menalcas.

Da. What clouds, Menalcas, do oppress thy brow ?
Flow'rs in a Sunshine never look so low.
Is Nisa still cold Flint ? or have thy Lambs
Met with the Fox by straying from their Dams ?

Men. Ah ! Damon, no ; my Lambs are safe, & she
Is kind, and much more white than they can be.
But what doth life, when most serene, afford
Without a worm, which gnaws her fairest gourd ?
Our days of gladness are but short reliefs,
Giv'n to reserve us for enduring griefs.
So smiling Calms close Tempests breed, ¹⁰ weh break
Like spoilers out, and kill our flocks, when weak.

I heard last May (and May is still high Spring,)
The pleasant Philomel her Vespers sing.
The green wood glitter'd with the golden Sun
And all the West like Silver shin'd ; not one
Black cloud, no rags, nor spots did stain
The Welkins beauty : nothing frown'd like rain ;
But e're night came, that Scene of fine sights turn'd
To fierce dark shows ; the Air with lightnings burn'd ;
The woods sweet Syren rudely thus oppress,
Gave to the Storm her weak and weary Breast.
I saw her next day on her last cold bed ;
And Daphnis so, just so is Daphnis dead !
20

Da. So Violets, so doth the Primrose fall,
At once the Springs pride and its funeral.
Such easy sweets get off still in their prime,
And stay not here, to wear the soil of Time.
While courser Flow'rs (which none would miss, if past ;)
To scorching Summers, and cold Autumns last.
30

Men. Souls need not time, the early forward things
Are always fledg'd, and gladly use their Wings,

17 cloud] cloud appeared LG 27 easy] early LG 29 past ;)] past ; 1678

Or else great parts, when injur'd quit the Crowd,
To shine above still, not behind the Cloud.
And is't not just to leave those to the night,
That madly hate, and persecute the light?
Who doubly dark, all Negroes do exceed,
And inwardly are true black Moores indeed.

Da. The punishment still manifests the Sin,
As outward signs shew the disease within.
While worth oppress mounts to a nobler height,
And Palm-like bravely overtops the weight.

40

So where swift Isca from our lofty hills
With lowd farewels descends, and foming fills
A wider Channel, like some great port-vein,
With large rich streams to feed the humble plain :
I saw an Oak, whose stately height and shade
Projected far, a goodly shelter made,
And from the top with thick diffused Boughs
In distant rounds grew, like a Wood-nymphs house.

50

Here many Garlands won at Roundel-lays
Old shepherds hung up in those happy days,
With knots and girdles, the dear spoils and dress
Of such bright maids, as did true lovers bless.
And many times had old Amphion made
His beauteous Flock acquainted with this shade ;
A Flock, whose fleeces were as smooth and white
As those, the wellkin shews in Moonshine night.
Here, when the careless world did sleep, have I
In dark records and numbers noblie high
The visions of our black, but brightest Bard
From old Amphion's mouth full often heard ;
With all those plagues poor shepherds since have known,
And Riddles more, which future times must own.
While on his pipe young Hylas plaid, and made
Musick as solemn as the song and shade.
But the curs'd owner from the trembling top
To the firm brink, did all those branches lop,
And in one hour what many years had bred,
The pride and beauty of the plain lay dead.
The undone Swains in sad songs mourn'd their loss,
While storms & cold winds did improve the Cross.

39 Da.] Da, 1678

U u

But Nature, which (like vertue) scorns to yield
 Brought new recruits and succours to the Field ;
 For by next Spring the check'd Sap wak'd from sleep
 And upwards still to feel the Sun did creep,
 Till at those wounds, the hated Hewer made,
 There sprang a thicker and a fresher shade.

Men. So thrives afflicted Truth ! and so the light,
 When put out, gains a value from the Night. 80
 How glad are we, when but one twinkling Star
 Peeps betwixt clouds, more black than is our Tar ?
 And Providence was kind, that order'd this
 To the brave Suff'rer should be solid bliss ;
 Nor is it so till this short life be done,
 But goes hence with him, and is still his Sun.

Da. Come Shepherds then, and with your greenest Bays
 Refresh his dust, who lov'd your learned Lays.
 Bring here the florid glories of the Spring,
 And as you strew them pious Anthems sing, 90
 Which to your children and the years to come
 May speak of Daphnis, and be never dumb.
 While prostrate I drop on his quiet Urn
 My Tears, not gifts ; and like the poor, that mourn
 With green, but humble Turfs ; write o're his Hearse
 For false, foul Prose-men this fair Truth in Verse.

" Here Daphnis sleeps ! & while the great watch goes
 " Of loud and restless Time, takes his repose.
 " Fame is but noise, all Learning but a thought :
 " Which one admires, another sets at nought. 100
 " Nature mocks both, and Wit still keeps adoe ;
 " But Death brings knowledge and assurance too.

Men. Cast in your Garlands, strew on all the flow'rs
 Which May with smiles, or April feeds with show'rs.
 Let this days Rites as stedfast as the Sun
 Keep pace with Time, and through all Ages run,
 The publick character and famous Test
 Of our long sorrows and his lasting rest ;
 And when we make procession on the plains,
 Or yearly keep the Holyday of Swains, 110
 Let Daphnis still be the recorded name
 And solemn honour of our feasts and fame.

For though the Isis and the prouder Thames
 Can shew his reliques lodg'd hard by their streams,
 And must for ever to the honour'd name
 Of Noble Murrey chiefly owe that fame :
 Yet, here his Stars first saw him, and when fate
 Beckon'd him hence, it knew no other date.
 Nor will these vocal Woods and Valleys fail,
 Nor Isca's lowder Streams this to bewail,
 But while Swains hope and Seasons change, will glide
 With moving murmurs, because Daphnis di'd.

120

Da. A fatal sadness, such as still foregoes,
 Then runs along with publick plagues and woes,
 Lies heavy on us, and the very light
 Turn'd Mourner too, hath the dull looks of Night.
 Our vales like those of Death, a darkness shew
 More sad than Cypress, or the gloomy Yew,
 And on our hills, where health with height complied,
 Thick drowsie Mists hang round and there reside.
 Not one short parcel of the tedious year
 In its old dress and beauty doth appear ;
 Flowr's hate the Spring, and with a sullen bend
 Thrust down their Heads, which to the Root still tend,
 And though the Sun like a cold Lover, peeps
 A little at them, still the Days-eye sleeps.
 But when the Crab and Lion with acute
 And active Fires their sluggish heat recruit,
 Our grass straight russets, and each scorching day
 Drinks up our Brooks as fast as dew in May.
 Till the sad Heardsman with his Cattel faints,
 And empty Channels ring with loud Complaints.

130

140

Men. Heaven's just displeasure & our unjust ways
 Change Natures course, bring plagues dearth and decays.
 This turns our lands to Dust, the skies to Brass,
 Makes old kind blessings into curses pass.
 And when we learn unknown and forraign Crimes,
 Brings in the vengeance due unto those Climes.
 The dregs and puddle of all ages now
 Like Rivers near their fall, on us do flow.
 Ah happy Daphnis ! who, while yet the streams
 Ran clear & warm (though but with setting beams,)

150

Got through : and saw by that declining light
His toil's and journey's end before the Night.

Da. A night, where darkness lays her chains and Bars,
And feral fires appear instead of Stars.

But he along with the last looks of day

Went hence, and setting (Sun-like) past away.

What future storms our present sins do hatch

Some in the dark discern, and others watch ;

160

Though foresight makes no Hurricane prove mild ;

Fury that's long fermenting, is most wild.

But see, while thus our sorrows we discourse,

Phæbus hath finish't his diurnal course.

The shades prevail, each Bush seems bigger grown :

Darkness (like State,) makes small things swell and frown.

The Hills and Woods with Pipes and Sonnets round

And bleating sheep our Swains drive home, resound.

Men. What voice from yonder Lawn tends hither ? hear

'Tis Thyrsis calls, I hear Lycanthe bark.

170

His Flocks left out so late, and weary grown

Are to the Thickets gone, and there laid down.

Da. Menalcas, haste to look them out, poor sheep

When day is done, go willingly to sleep.

And could bad Man his time spend, as they do,

He might go sleep, or die, as willing too.

Men. Farewel kind Damon ! now the Shepherds Star

With beauteous looks smiles on us, though from far.

All creatures that were favourites of day

Are with the Sun retir'd and gone away.

180

While feral Birds send forth unpleasant notes,

And night (the Nurse of thoughts,) sad thoughts promotes.

But Joy will yet come with the morning-light,

Though sadly now we bid good night ! Da. good night !

CAP. II. ΣΦΑΙΡΟ-ΠΟΙΗΤΙΚΗ': or, Some curious Spheares and Representations of the World. Page 20.

Of this Microcosme or Representation of the World which we now mentioned, the excellent Grotius hath framed this Epigram following.

*In organum motus perpetui quod est penes
Maximum Britanniacum Regem Jacobum.
Perpetui motus indelassata potestas
Absq; quiete quies, absq; labore labor,
Contigerant cælo, tunc cum Natura caducis,
Et solidis unum noluit esse locum.
Et geminas partes Lunæ dispescuit orbe,
In varias damnans inferiora vices.
Sed quod nunc Natura suis è legibus exit
Dans terris semper quod moveatur opus ?*

Mira quidem res est sed non nova (maxime Regum)
Hoc fieri docuit mens tua posse prius.
Mens tua quæ semper tranquilla & torpida nunquam,
Tramite constanti per sua regna meat.
Ut tua mens ergò motûs cælestis Imago :
Machina sic hæc est mentis Imago tuæ.

Translated thus.

The untired strength of never-ceasing motion,
 A restless rest a toyl-less operation,
 Heaven then had given it, when wise Nature did H. V.
 To frail & solid things one place forbid ;
 And parting both, made the Moons Orb their bound,
 Damning to various change this lower ground.
 But now what Nature hath those Laws transgrest,
 Giving to earth a work that ne're will rest ?
 Though 'tis most strange, yet (great King) 'tis not new ;
 This Work was seen and found before in You. 10
 In You, whose minde (though still calm) never sleeps,
 But through your Realms one constant motion keeps :
 As your minde (then) was Heavens type first, so this
 But the taught Anti-type of your mind is.

De AQUATICIS MACHINIS, Of WATER MOTIONS.

(Sub-division of CAP. III. ΑΥΤΟΜΑΤΟ-ΠΟΙΗΤΙΚΗ', Of sundry Machins, and Artificial Motions.) p. 39.

There were Amphitheaters both at Rome and Verona, and elsewhere, which were prodigious piles, both for magnificence of cost, and inventions of Art ; whole groves of great Trees (with green branches) were brought and planted upon the sandy Theater, and therein a thousand Estridges, a thousand wilde Boars, and a thousand Stags put in for the people to hunt. This Forrest being removed, they would on a sudden overflow all with a deep Sea, fraught with Sea monsters, and strange Fishes ; then might you see a Fleet of tall Ships ready rigged and appointed, to represent a Sea-fight : then all the water was let out again, and Gladiators or Fencers fight, where the Gallies stood but even now ; which things are expressed in verse by Juvenal in his third Satyr thus :

——— *Quoties nos descendētis Arenæ
Vidimus in partes, ruptâq; voragine terræ
Emersisse feras & iisdem sæpe latebris
Aurea cum Croceo creverunt Arbuta libro ?
Nec solum nobis Sylvestria cernere monstra
Contigit, Equoreos ego cum certantibus Ursis
Spectavi vitulos & equorum nomine dignum
Sed deforme pecus———*

Translated by H. V.

How oft have we beheld wilde Beasts appear
From broken gulfs of earth, upon some part
Of sand that did not sink ? How often there
And thence did golden boughs ore saffron'd start ?
Nor only saw we monsters of the wood,
But I have seen Sea-Calves whom Bears withstood ;
And such a kinde of Beast as might be named
A horse, but in most foul proportion framed.

CAP. XI. 'HMEPQTIKH' : Or, The Art of Cicuration and Taming wilde Beasts. p. 174.

Many of these examples that I have produced to make good the Title of this Chapter, and the Apostles saying above-mentioned, are briefly sum'd up by Martial in his Book of Shows, the 105th Epigr. which I have here annexed, with the Translation of M. Hen. Vaughan Silurist, whose excellent Poems are publike.

APPENDIX 1.

POEMS OF UNCERTAIN AUTHORSHIP.

(1) The following lines with the signature H. Vaughan Ies. Col. were published in a thin volume of occasional verses, Eucharistica Oxoniensia. In Exoptatissimum & Auspicatissimum Caroli . . . E Scotia Reditum Gratulatoria. Oxoniæ . . . 1641. Mr. Chambers points out in his edition (vol. ii, p. xxviii) that the signature might equally well be that of Henry Vaughan, M.A., Fellow of Jesus College at the time, or of Herbert Vaughan who was a Gentleman-Commoner in 1641. Neither of these, however, seems to be known otherwise as an English poet: 'Hen. Vaugh. Ies. Soc.' has Latin verses in Eucharistica Oxoniensia, and both he and Herbert Vaughan contributed Latin verses to ΠΟΤΕΑΕΙΑ Anglo-Batava . . . Oxoniæ, . . . (1641). For the Silurist's connexion with Jesus College see note to p. 667, l. 9.

*As Kings doe rule like th' Heavens, who dispense
To parts remote and neare their influence,
So doth our CHARLES Move also ; while he posts
From South to North, and back to Southerne coasts.
Like to the Starry Orbe, which in it's round
Move's to those very Poynts ; But while 'tis bound
For North, there is (some guesse) a Trembling fitt
And shivering in the part that's opposite.
What were our feares and Pantings, what dire fame
Hear'd we of Irish Tumults, sword, and flame !
Which now we thinke but Blessings, as being sent
Only as Matter, whereupon 'twas mean't
The Brittish thus united might expresse,
The strength of joyned Powers to suppress,
Or conquer Foes ; This is great Brittaines blisse ;
The Island in it selfe a just World is.
Here no commotion shall we find or feare,
But of the Courts removeall, no sad teare
Or cloudy Brow, but when You leave Vs, then Discord is loyalty professed, when*

Nations doe strive, which shall the happier bee
T'enjoy your bounteous ray's of Majestie.
 Which yet you throw in undivided Dart,
 For Things divine allow no share or part.
 The same Kind vertue doth at once disclose,
 The Beauty of their Thistle, and our Rose.
 Thus You doe mingle Soules and firmly knitt
 What were but joyn'd before ; You Scots-men fitt
 Closely with Vs, and Reuniter prove,
 You fetch'd the Crowne before, and now their Love. 30

H. VAUGHAN. Ies. Col.

(2) These lines are printed on page 39 of Dr. Thomas Powell's Cerbyd Jechydwrïaeth (1657). They have sometimes been ascribed to Henry Vaughan because of the friendship which existed between him and the author of the book, and because the signature may be interpreted to mean 'Olor Vaughan'. But it seems probable that if Vaughan had wished to sign himself in such a way he would not have abbreviated the distinctive word ; rather, he would have given the complete title 'Olor Iscanus'. The lines are printed, from an Eighteenth-Century (?) Welsh MS., in Y Cymmrodor, vol. xi, p. 223, with a few variant readings. They are not ascribed to Vaughan in the manuscript.

VAUGHAN'S LETTERS TO JOHN AUBREY AND ANTHONY WOOD.

(From the Aubrey and Wood MSS. in the Bodleian Library.)

I. MS. Wood F 39, fol. 216. To Aubrey.

Honoured Cousin

Yours of the 10th of June I received att Breckon, where I am still attendinge our Bishops Lady in a tertian feaver, & cannot as yet have the leasure to step home. butt lest my delayinge of tyme heere should bringe the account (you expect,) too late into your hands: I shall now in part give you the best I can, & be more exact in my next.

My brother and I were borne att *Newton in the parish of S^t Brigets in the yeare 1621. I stayed not att Oxford to take any degree, butt was sent to London, beinge then designed by my father for 10 the study of the Law, we^h the sudden eruption of our late civil warres wholie frustrated. my brother continued there for ten or 12 years, and (I thinke) he could be noe lesse than M^r of Arts. he died (vpon an imployment for his majesty,) within 5 or 6 miles of Oxford, in the yeare that the last great plague visited London. He was buried by S^r Robert Murrey (his great friend,) & then Secretary of Estate for the kingdome of Scotland: to whome he gave all his bookes & manuscripts. The several Tractates, which he published in his life-tyme, were these followinge:

Anthroposophia Theo-magica.

20

Magia Adamica.

Lumen dè Lumine: all printed by M^r Humphrey Blunden att the Castle in Corn-hill.

* In Brecknockshire (marginal note by Vaughan).

Aula Lucis, a short discourse printed for William Leak att the Crowne betwixt the two temple-gates in fleet street.

The Historie of the fraternitie of the Rosie Crosse: with his animadversions & Judgement of them. printed for Giles Calvert att the west end of Paules. These are all that came to my cognisance.

- 30 What past into the presse from me, this short Catalogue comprehends;

Silex Scintillans: Sacred poems & private Ejaculations in two bookes:

The Mount of Olives: or solitarie Devotions.

Olor Iscanus: A Collection of some poems & translations: printed for Mr Humphrey Moseley.

Flores Solitudinis: A translation of some choice peeces out of the Latine, With the life of Paulinus Bishop of Nola, collected out of his owne writings, and other primitive Authours.

- 40 Nollius his Systema medicinæ Hermeticum, & his discourse dè generatione done into English. To these you may adde (if you thinke it fitt,)

Thalia Rediviva, a peece now ready for the presse, with the Remaines of my brothers Latine Poems (for many of them are lost,) never published before: butt (I believe) wilbe very well-come, & prove inferiour to none of that kind, that is yet extant.

- Dr Powell of Cantre I can give you an exact account of, as soone as I have Conference with his brother, whoe is my nighbour: you shall have it in my next. The other persons mentioned in yo^r l^re,
50 were Northwales gent & vnknowne to any in these parts. If tyme will permitt, I advise you to Consult (by l^re,) with Dr. Thomas Ellis sometymes of Jesus College, butt livinge now att Dole y gellie in y^e County of Merionith.

- He hath bine many yeares busied in makeinge vp a supplement to Dr Powells Chronicle, & knowes more of him than any man else doth, and (I believe) of all the rest. He is a person of excellent accomplishments, & very solid learninge. My brothers employ^{mt} was in physic & Chymistrie. he was ordayned minister by bishop Mainwaringe & presented to the Rectorie of St^t Brigets by his 60 kinsman S^r George Vaughan.

My profession allso is physic, w^{ch} I have practised now for many years with good successe (I thank god!) & a repute big enough for a person of greater parts than my selfe.

Deare Sr I am highly obliged to you that you would be pleased to remember, & reflect vpon such low & forgotten thinges, as my brother and my selfe: I shalbe ever ready to acknowledge the honour you have done vs, & if you have any Concerne in these parts that I may be serviceable in: I humbly beg, that you would call vpon & Command

Honoured Cousin

In my last (w^{ch} I hope, is come to yo^r hands,) I gave you an account of my brother & my selfe: & what bookes we had written. I have nothinge to add butt this; that he died in the seaven & fortieth year of his age, upon the 27th of februarie, in the yeare 1666. & was buried upon the first of March.

Thomas Powell of Cantre was since the kinge came in made Dr of divinity att Oxford, by a mandamus, as I have heard. He was borne att Cantre within the County of Brechon in the year 1608.
 10 he dyed att London vpon the last day of December in the year 1660 in the two and fiftieth yeare of his age & lyes buried in S. Dunstons church in fleetstreet.

His printed bookes are these.

Elementa Opticæ.

Recveil de Nowelles Lettres de Monsieur de Balzac, translated into English.

Stoa Triumphans: two l^res of y^e noble & learned Marquesse Virgilio malvezzi, to the illustrious Signior John Vincent Imperiale: translated out of Italian into English.

20 Quadriga Salutis: or the 4 general heads of Christian Religion surveyd & explained.

Humane Industrie: Or a short account of most manual Arts: their original, progress & improvement &c

Manuscripts left in my Custodie, & not yet printed.

The Insubrian historie: Conteyninge an exact account of the various fates, Civil commotions, battells & sieges acted vpon the theater of Lumbardie, & the adiacent parts of Italie from the first Irruptions & Conquests of the Goths to their final expulsion by the Emperour Justinian. Written originalie in the 30 Latine by the Learned Puteanus & now done into English.

The Christian-politic Favourite: or A vindication of the politic transactions of Count-duke de S. Lucar: that great minister of state & favourite Counsellour to Philip the 4th of Spaine. written originalie by Virgilio Malvezzi & now (not tra=duced (as one hath done) butt faithfully translated into English.

Fragmenta de rebus Brittannicis:

A short account of the lives, manners & religion of the Brittish Druids and the Bards &c.

S^r this is all the account I can give you of any writers of Jesus College. The name of the place, where my brother lyes 40 buried, I doe not know; butt tis a village upon the Thames side within 5 or 6 miles of Oxford, & without doubt well knowne to the Vniversity. My Cousin Walbeoffe p^rsents you with her real affections & respects, & would be very glad to see you in these parts. S^r John with his Son & Lady are come well home from London. Most honoured Cousin.

Yours of the 17th of May, came not to Brechon, till June was pretty far in ; & then was I a great way from home. Last week calling there in my return, I joyfullie received yours, & shall endeavour withall possible speed to perform yo^r desire. I shall not omitt the most curious search, that can be made into such distant & obscure nativities : w^{ch} none then tooke care to record, & few are now alive that have them in memorie. If in my attendance
 10 vpon (rather than speculations into) Nature, I can meet with any thing that may deserve the notice of that learned & Honourable Societie : I shall humblie present you with it, & leave it wholie to your Censure and disposal.

That the most serious of our profession have not only an vnkindnes for, butt are persecutors of Astrologie : I haue more than once admired : butt I find not this ill humour amongst the Antients, so much as the modern physicians : nor amongst them all neither. I suppose they had not travelled so far, & having once entered upon the practise, they were loath to leave off, and learn to be acquainted with another world. for my owne part (though I could never ascend higher,) I had butt litle affection to the skirts ²⁰ & lower parts of learning ; where every hand is grasping & so litle to be had. butt neither nature, nor fortune favoured my ambition. I am only happy in yo^r Condescensions, whoe cease not to oblige me in the highest maner, that the most deserving and eminent persons could expect. I never was of such a magnitude as could invite you to take notice of me, & therfore I must owe all these favours to the generous measures of yo^r owne free & excellent spirit.

S^r I can make noe Returns proportionable to such matchles affections & merits ; butt this I dare assure you, that if any thing ³⁰ happens wherin I may serve you : then I will (without reserves or exceptions) lett you see, that nothing hath bine heer written, butt what was first sincerely resolved vpon by

Worthy Sr

I received your leter in the declination of a tedious and severe sickness with a very slow recovery; butt as soon as I can gett abroad, I will contribute all I can to give satisfaction to yo^r Inquiries; especialy about the learned Dr John David Rhesus: a person of great & curious learning; butt had the unhappines to sojourn heer in an age that vnderstood him not. for the Stradlings I shall imploy a learned friend I have in Glamorgan-shire, to pick vp what memorials remain of them in those parts.

10 I received a leter in the beginning of my sicknes from my Cousin John Awbrey about these inquiries you make now, & writt by him in yo^r behalf; butt it was my misfortune to continue so very weak and such a forlorn Clinic, that I could not to this day return him an answer. If you intend a second Edition of the Oxford-historie, I must give you a better account of my brothers books & mine; we^h are in the first much mistaken, and many omitted. I shall be very carefull of what you have recommended to my trust: & shall (in any thing els) with much chearfullnes & fidelity pay you the respects & service due to a person of such

VI. MS. Aubrey 13, fol. 340. To Aubrey.

Octob: 9th -94.

Honoured Cousin.

I received yours & should have gladly served you, had it bene in my power. butt all my search & consultations with those few that I could suspect to have any knowledge of Antiquitie, came to nothing; for the antient Bards (though by the testimonie of their Enemies, the Romans;) a very learned societie: yet (like the Druids) they communicated nothing of their knowledge, butt by way of tradition: w^{ch} I suppose to be the reason that we have no account left vs: nor any sort of remains, or other monuments of their learning, or way of living.

10

As to the later Bards, who were no such men, butt had a societie & some rules & orders among themselves: & several sorts of measures & a kind of Lyric poetrie: w^{ch} are all sett down exactly In the learned John David Rhees, or Rhesus his welch, or British grammer: you shall have there (in the later end of his book) a most curious Account of them. This vein of poetrie they called Awen, which in their language signifies as much as Raptus, or a poetic furor; & (in truth) as many of them as I have conversed with are (as I may say) gifted or inspired with it. I was told by a very sober & knowing person (now dead) that in his time, there was a young 20 lad father & motherless, & soe very poor that he was forced to beg; butt att last was taken vp by a rich man, that kept a great stock of sheep vpon the mountains not far from the place where I now dwell. who cloathed him & sent him into the mountains to keep his sheep. There in Summer time following the sheep & looking to their lambs, he fell into a deep sleep; In w^{ch} he dreamt, that he saw a beautifull young man with a garland of green leafs vpon his head, & an hawk vpon his fist: with a quiver full of Arrows att his back, coming towards him (whistling several measures or tunes all the way) & att last lett the hawk fly att him, w^{ch} (he dreamt) 30 gott into his mouth & inward parts, & suddenly awaked in a great fear & consternation: butt possessed with such a vein, or gift of poetrie, that he left the sheep & went about the Countrey, making songs vpon all occasions, and came to be the most famous Bard in all the Countrey in his time.

Dear Cousin I should & would be very ready to serve you in any

NOTES.

POEMS, WITH THE TENTH SATYRE OF IUVENAL ENGLISHED.

PAGE 3. To my Ingenuous Friend, R. W. This is no doubt the 'R. W.' who fell at Rowton Heath. Compare page 49 (title). The most probable conjecture as to his identity seems to be that of Professor Firth, who points out that the name Roger Wood occurs among the list of Catholics who fell in the King's service at Chester. For other conjectures see Chambers's edition, vol. ii, pp. 337-8.

l. 13. the Maze. I think it likely that Vaughan wrote 'Mace', as the rhyme suggests, in the sense of a mace-bearer (O.E.D. Mace 2 c. 'a Mace was sent to bring Cromwell into the Court'), or of the occasion when the Serjeant-at-Arms is sent with the mace as a warrant (O.E.D. 2 b.).

ll. 33-5. The first edition of Randolph's works to contain everything mentioned here was that of 1640; The Jealous Lovers, however, is often missing. In the following notes I refer to the edition of 1643: Poems, With the Muses Looking-Glasse, and Amyntas. . . . Whereunto is added, The Jealous Lovers.

PAGE 4, ll. 57-8. So they that did &c. A reminiscence of Habington, Castara, p. 8, 'To Castara'. (Here and elsewhere I refer to 'The third Edition. Corrected and augmented . . . 1640'.)

So they whose wisdom did discusse
Of these as fictions: shall in us
Finde, they were more then fabulous.

PAGE 5, l. 1. Compare Castara, 'To Cupid' (ed. cit. p. 22):

Nimble boy in thy warme flight,

PAGE 11, l. 44. Tower-wharfe to Cymbelyne, and Lud. From east to west of the City. Statues of the 'early kings' were placed on Ludgate in 1260. When Ludgate was rebuilt in 1586, the statues were renewed. (See Stow's Survey of London, ed. C. H. Kingsford, 1908, vol. i, pp. 38, 39.)

PAGES 12 and 13, ll. 15-28. Dr. Beeching compares Donne's A Valer-diction: forbidding mourning (ed. Grierson, p. 50):

Dull sublunary lovers love
(Whose soule is sense) cannot admit
Absence, because it doth remove
Those things which elemented it.
But we by a love, so much refin'd,
That our selves know not what it is,
Inter-assured of the mind,
Care lesse, eyes, lips, and hands to misse.

Habington's reminiscences of the same passage may have helped Vaughan to remember it :

Yet are we so by Love refin'd,
From impure dross we are all mind.
Death could not more have conquer'd sence
(To the World. The Perfection of Love, p. 61.)

Tis no dull Sublunary flame
Burnes in her heart and mine.

(The harmony of Love, p. 133.)

PAGE 14, l. 42. Compare Traherne, 'The Person' (Poems of Felicity, ed. Bell, p. 94) :

Nor paint, nor cloath, nor crown, nor add a Ray,
But glorify by taking all away.

PAGES 15 and 16, ll. 29-36. Compare Randolph (ed. cit. p. 76), On the Death of a Nightingale (see p. 4, 1 above) :

That soul is fled, and to Elision gone ;
Thou a poor desert left ; go then and run,
Beg there to stand a grove, and if she please
To sing again beneath thy shadowy Trees ;
The souls of happy Lovers crown'd with blisses
Shall flock about thee, and keep time with kisses.

Compare also The Jealous Lovers, Act IV, Sc. viii (ed. cit. p. 71) :

We will be married in Elysium,
And arm in arm walk through the blessed groves,
And change a thousand kisses ;

PAGE 29, l. 452. And why reprov'd. Compare Juvenal, 291 'Cur tamen,' inquit, 'Corripias?'

ll. 454-9. Appropriated from Felltham, Resolves, 'Of Natures recompencing wrongs', p. 123. (Here and elsewhere I refer to the Fifth Edition, 1634.)

Lucretia's fate warns us to wish no face
Like hers ; Virginia would beneath her grace [read 'bequeath']
To Lute-backt Rutilæ, in exchange : for till, [read 'still']
The fairest Children doe their Parents fill
With greatest care ; so seldome modesty
Is found to dwell with Beauty.—

PAGE 30, l. 485. Is of any race. I think 'Is' the form of 'Yes' used again by Vaughan below, p. 446, 46 : it contradicts the statement in the preceding sentence. Compare Juvenal, 318-19 :

Sed tuus Endymion dilectae fiet adulter
Matronae ; mox quum dederit Servilia nummos, &c.

l. 489. Ring (King 1646). Compare Juvenal, 320-1 'exueta omnem Corporis ornatum'.

ll. 514-17. Compare Juvenal, 340-2 :

Si scelus admittas, dabitur mora parvula, dum res
Nota urbi et populo contingit principis aurem.
Dedecus ille domus sciet ultimus ;

Thomas Farnaby's note on Juvenal, 338 'Non nisi legitime', &c. (published in an Amsterdam edition of 1633), is as follows : 'Idque vivo marito Claudio Imp. Iamque Ostiam tantum profecto sacrificii causa, &c.' Vaughan seems to confound 'Ostia' and 'hostia'.

OLOR ISCANUS.

ll. 20-8. Me nullam in tantâ strage fuisse &c. This passage has often been interpreted as meaning that Vaughan took no part in the Civil War. But see p. 54, 85-6, and p. 50, 50-60 and note. I think he is here merely disclaiming connexion with the Tysiphonae of l. 14.

PAGE 34. O quis &c. Virgil, Georgics ii. 489:

O qui me gelidis convallibus Haemi
Sistat, &c.

PAGE 37, l. 1. I call'd. Here and elsewhere, since the original texts print 'I' or 'O' outside the line, the second word acquires an initial capital by position. This I have discarded, save where the capital may have its ordinary emphasizing value, as on p. 626: 'O Subtile Love'.

l. 12. For 'Beard' read 'Board'?

(Signature) I. Rowlandson Oxoniensis. Probably either John or James Rowlandson, both of Queen's College between 1630 and 1640.

PAGE 38, l. 33. Eugenius Philalethes Oxoniensis. See Vaughan's letter to Aubrey, p. 667 below, and compare Wood, Athenae Oxonienses.

PAGE 39, ll. 5-8. Compare Castara, 'His Muse speakes to him' (ed. cit. p. 104):

And though Imperiall Tiber boast alone
Ovids Corinna, and to Arn is knowne
But Petrarch's Laura; while our famous Thames
Doth murmur Sydneyes Stella to her streames.

PAGE 40, ll. 51-6. Mr. Gordon Goodwin compares William Browne, Britannia's Pastorals, Book i, Song 2 (1616, p. 28):

May neuer Euet, nor the Toade,
Within thy Bankes make their abode!
Taking thy iourney from the Sea,
Maist thou ne'er happen in thy way
On Niter or on Brimstone Myne,
To spoyle thy taste!

ll. 65-6. Mr. Chambers compares A Dialogue betweene Sr Henry Wotton and Mr Donne (attributed to Donne, but see Grierson's edition, pp. 430 and 432):

Nor roast in fiery eyes, which alwayes are Canicular.

PAGE 41, l. 2. a second Fiats care. Mr. Chambers compares Donne, The Storme (ed. Grierson, p. 177, 70-2):

Since all formes, uniforme deformity
Doth cover, so that wee, except God say
Another Fiat, shall have no more day.

ll. 11-13. Compare Castara, 'To a Tombe' (ed. cit. p. 100):

Tyrant o're tyrants, thou who onely dost
Clip the lascivious beauty without lust;
What horror at thy sight shootes through each sence;
How powerfull is thy silent eloquence,

Compare also p. 45, 31 below—'Vocall silence'.

l. 21. Ayre-monging band. Compare Felltham, Resolves, 'Of Fame' (ed. cit. p. 49): 'Checke thy selfe, thou Ayremonger:'

PAGE 44, ll. 41-2. Compare Randolph, In anguem, qui Lycorin dormientem amplexus est. Englished thus Παραφραστικῶς (ed. cit. p. 11):

Hence he slides
Up to her locks, and through her tresses glides,
Her yellow tresses; dazel'd to behold
A glistring grove, an intire wood of Gold.

and Edward Herbert, A Vision. A lady combing her hair, l. 1 (ed. Churton Collins, p. 37):

Within an open curled sea of gold.

PAGE 46, l. 13. her foule, polluted walls. The walls of Brecon were pulled down by the inhabitants in order to avoid its occupation during the war. See Grose, Antiquities, vol. iv, Brecknockshire.

PAGE 48. Monsieur Gombault. Endymion, a prose romance by Jean Ogier de Gombauld (1570?-1666), appeared in 1624. An English translation was published in 1639: Endimion. An Excellent Fancy first composed in French by Mounsieur Gombault. And now Elegantly Interpreted, by Richard Hurst Gentleman. The dedication of this volume begins with the same four words as Vaughan's dedication of Olor Iscanus, p. 35 above: 'It is a position'.

ll. 17-18. Compare Castara, 'To the Honourable my much honoured friend, R. B. Esquire' (ed. cit. p. 11):

But should she scorne my suite, I'll tread that path
Which none but some sad Fairy beaten hath.

PAGE 49. (Title) on the death of Mr. R. W. Compare title on p. 3 above, and note.

PAGE 50, ll. 50-60. O that day &c. Vaughan may have been in the battle or, as Mr. Chambers suggests, among the garrison in Beeston Castle. Compare note on p. 52, 19-20.

PAGE 51, ll. 93-4. Compare Robert Randolph, Dedictory poem in Thomas Randolph's Poems &c. (ed. cit. sig. A 3)

And like Sun-dials to a day that's gone,
Though poor in use can tell there was a sun.

ll. 99-100. Nomen & arma &c. Virgil, Aeneid vi. 507-8.

PAGE 52, l. 10. for, before. Compare O.E.D. art. for.

ll. 19-20. that day, when wee Left craggie Biston. Mr. Chambers points out that after the surrender of Beeston Castle in November 1645 the garrison was allowed to march across the Dee into Denbigh. Compare J. R. Phillips, The Civil War in Wales and the Marches, vol. i, p. 343.

PAGE 52, l. 40. And Bias us'd before me. The reference may be to 'want of change' and to the saying attributed to Bias of Priene by Cicero, Paradoxa, i. 8 'Omnia mecum porto mea'.

PAGE 53, l. 52. Speeds old Britans. See The History of Great Britaine Under the Conquests of the Romans, Saxons, Danes and Normans. . . by John Speed . . . London . . . 1611, illustrations on p. 180.

PAGE 54. Upon Mr. Fletchers Playes, published, 1647. Vaughan's poem was not published in the folio editions.

PAGE 55, l. 33. the Eares. The appearance of the close-cropped Roundheads seems to be glanced at. Compare Cleveland, Poems, 1653, p. 68, 'The Hue and Cry after Sir John Presbyter':

With hair in Characters, and Lugs in text; (Characters=shorthand).

l. 38. Field's, or Swansteed's overthrow. Mr. Chambers identifies Swansteed with Eliard Swanston.

Title. In the volume of Cartwright's Comedies, Tragi-Comedies, With other Poems . . . 1651, the heading of Vaughan's poem is 'Upon the Poems and Plaies of the ever Memorable Mr. WILL: CARTVVRIGHT'. It is signed HENRY VAUGHAN. Silurist.

PAGE 58. (Title) Mr. R. Hall. For conjectures as to the identity of Mr. R. Hall see Chambers, vol. ii, p. 339.

PAGE 59, ll. 75-6. Salve æternum &c. Virgil, Aeneid xi. 97-8.

PAGE 60. Title of poem. See Vaughan's letter to Aubrey, p. 670 below, and the note on Powell's translation. For T. Powell see note on p. 36 above.

l. 10. Lye Leiguer here. Compare note on p. 440, 25 below.

PAGE 61. (First title) Master T. Lewes. 'In 1635, a Thomas Lewis was Incumbent of Llanfigan, a village near Llansaintfread. He was expelled by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners at the same time that Thomas Vaughan was expelled from the latter place;' [Miss Southall, Songs of Siluria, p. 126].

ll. 1-4, 15 sqq. Based on Horace, Odes i. 9. 1 'Vides ut alta stet nive candidum', &c., and (13, 14)— quid sit futurum cras, fuge quaerere et quem Fors . . .

(Second title) Mrs. K. Philips. Neither these verses nor those on pp. 621-2 below are found in the editions of Orinda's poems published in 1664 and after. See note to p. 597 below.

PAGE 62, ll. 15-16. Compare I. T. A. M., dedicatory poem in Randolph's Poems, &c. (ed. cit. sig. A 4^v):

Blest Spirit, when I first did see
The Genius of thy Poetrie, and Randolph, An Elegie on the death of . . . Sir Rowland Cotton . . . (ed. cit. p. 72):

That by his vertues might created be
A new strange miracle, wealth in Poetrie.

PAGE 63, l. 23. gently spend. Compare note on p. 509, 11 below.

PAGE 64, ll. 27-30. This made thy fire &c. Compare Randolph, The Jealous Lovers, Act II, Sc. ii (ed. cit. p. 19):

And must her lust break into open flames,
To lend the world a light to view her shames?

ll. 27-34. This made thy fire . . . Restraint. For a discussion of this passage see additional note at p. 707 below.

PAGE 66. (Heading) De Ponto, Lib. 3°. Ex Ponto iii. 7.

PAGE 68, l. 47. with many fancyed Springs And Groves. A characteristic interpolation; Ovid, Ex Pont. iii. 7. 35 'Est tamen utilius, studium cessasse meorum'.

PAGE 74, ll. 89-92. Mr. Chambers compares Donne, Elegie, iv. 3-4 (ed. Grierson, p. 84):

And as a thiefe at barre, is question'd there
By all the men, that have been rob'd that yeare,

PAGE 76, ll. 135-8. Where ever since . . . Eyes! Vaughan's (?) addition.

PAGE 84. Metra 6 and 7 should be Metra 7 and 8.

Metrum 6, ll. 1-6. Appropriated from Felltham, Resolves, 'Of Fame' (ed. cit. p. 50):

He that thirsts for Glories prize;
Thinking that, the top of all:
Let him view th' expanded skies,
And the Earth's contracted Ball.
Hee'll be ashamed then, that the name he wanne,
Fils not the short walke, of one healthfull man.

PAGES 84 and 85. Metrum 7, ll. 1-15. Appropriated from Felltham, Resolves, 'Of Charity' (ed. cit. p. 269):

That the World in constant force,
Varies his concordant course:
That seeds jarring, hot and cold,
Doe the Breed perpetuall hold:
That the Sunne in's golden Car,
Does the Rosie Day still rere.
That the Moone swayes all those lights,
Hesper ushers to darke nights.
That alternate Tydes be found,
Seas high-prided waves to bound,
Lest his fluid waters Mace,
Creeke broad Earths invallied face.
All the Frame of things that be,
Love (which rules Heaven, Land, and Sea)
Chaines, keepes, orders, as you see.

PAGE 85, l. 16. This. Possibly for 'Thus' (q.v. O.E.D.); but compare ll. 22 and 26.

(Title) Casimirus. Another translation of Casimir had appeared in 1646: The Odes of Casimire Translated by G. H. [Hils].

PAGE 86. Ode 8. Ode 7 in the edition of Casimir's Odes of 1647.

PAGE 89. (The Praise of a Religious life), ll. 1-4. Practically Vaughan's addition.

PAGE 93. (First title) Mathæo Herbert. Compare p. 32, 6 and note.

'Omnia perversas possunt corrumpere mentes' (varia lectio 'poterunt').

PAGE 131, l. 1. that are blown up with the spirit. Compare Guevara (ed. cit. p. 342): 'quos supina sapientia inflat'.

ll. 16-18. and every pious Soule . . . Lord. Vaughan's addition.

ll. 34-5. But let us return . . . Country. Vaughan's addition.

PAGE 133, ll. 15-18. Compare Guevara: 'Non alienos talis heredes, non fiscum, aut bonorum translationes formidat'; and The Mount of Olives, p. 167, 1-3.

PAGE 135, ll. 26-7. that claps his Revenues upon his back. Compare Marlowe, Edward II, 1. iv. 408 (ed. Brooke, p. 332): 'He weares a lords reuenewe on his back'; and 2 Henry VI, 1. iii. 83. Guevara ad loc.: 'cum divitiarum damno'.

THE MOUNT OF OLIVES.

PAGE 138. (Heading) S^r. Charles Egerton. Dr. Grosart (vol. ii, p. xxxiii) quotes a monument in Hanbury Church, Staffordshire, 'Caroli Egertoni Equitis Aurati', who died 1662.

ll. 11-12. Cælo dignus &c. Marcus Aurelius Nemesianus, Eclogues i. 50 ('concilio').

PAGE 141, ll. 13-15. Choose the better part &c. Compare Jerome, Vita S. Pauli Primi Eremitæ (ed. Migne, vol. ii, p. 27): 'multo magis cligeret', &c.; and p. 183, 36-9 below.

PAGE 143, ll. 1-4. Compare Chrysostom, Homiliae in Epist. ad Hebr. xiv and xxvii (ed. Migne, vol. xii, pp. 335-6 and 407-8); in Isaiam (vol. vi, pp. 62-3).

PAGE 147, ll. 23-8. George Herbert, The Temple, 'The Church-Porch'.

PAGE 156, ll. 14-15. Compare De Imitatione Christi, Lib. IV, cap. xi 'O quam mundae debent esse manus illae', &c. [Miss Guiney.]

PAGE 163. (Note) Cyprian de cænâ &c. The work is attributed to Cyprian. See Opera Omnia (Oxford, 1682), sig. Fffff, p. 41.

PAGE 169. (First note) A Proverb in Italy. Miss Guiney refers to Select Italian Proverbs; The most significant, very usefull for Travellers, and such as desire that Language. . . By Gio. Torriano . . . 1649 (p. 67).

l. 15. Cremationem habet. Gregory, Moralia, Lib. IX, cap. xlvi (ed. Migne, col. 912).

ll. 29-31. like holy Macarius &c. See Macarius, Apophthegmata (ed. Migne, col. 258): 'Iter agens aliquando per eremum, inveni calvariam mortui,' &c.

PAGE 171. (First note) a little book called Speculum Visionis. The author of Speculum naturalis cœlestis & prophetica visionis was Josephus Grünbeck.

ll. 14-15. That to all dominions &c. Grosart compares Raleigh, The History of the World (Preface): 'Others, That the divine providence (which Cratippus objected to Pompey) hath set downe the date and period of every Estate, before their first foundation and erection'.

Second note. Potest fatum morum &c. Compare Marcellus, De Doctorum Indagine (ed. Lindsay, p. 846, 30).

Third note, ll. 1-4. Non est, falleris &c. Anthol. Lat. (ed. Buecheler and Riese), l. i. p. 333, No. 444.

ll. 5-8. Qui vultus &c. Seneca, Agamemnon, 607-10.

PAGE 172, ll. 5-9. Anacreon &c. Compare Stobaeus, Florilegium, iii (ed. Meineke, p. 185).

l. 22-page 173, l. 4. But if you will visit . . . desolation. Roughly translated from Petrarch, De Otio Religiosorum, Lib. ii (Opera Omnia, Basileae, 1554, p. 355) 'sed subsiste, obsecro . . . in nihilum abiere'.

(Note) Ingeniosa gula est &c. Petronius, Saturae, ed. Buecheler, 119, 33-8.

PAGE 173. (First note) mors sola fatetur &c. Juvenal, Satires x. 172-3. Quoted by Petrarch in De Contemptu Mundi, Dial. ii (ed. cit. p. 384).

ll. 7-22. and (O blessed Jesus!) &c. Partly a reminiscence of Petrarch, De Otio Religiosorum, Lib. ii (ed. cit. pp. 355-6) ' & ô bonæ IESV . . . dabit iocos'.

(Second note) in vitâ Hilar. See Jerome, Vita Hilarionis (ed. Migne, vol. ii, col. 52).

PAGE 174, ll. 4-11. Natural histories &c. Miss Guiney notes that this is probably a reminiscence (it is not a direct translation) of Drexelius, Aeternitatis Prodromus (Opera Omnia, 1647, vol. i, p. 34) 'Sed & volucris' &c.

l. 14. have their rootes &c. Compare George Herbert, The Temple, 'Vertue':

Thy root is ever in its grave,
And thou must die.

l. 23. Nam mihi &c. Compare Vaughan's translation on p. 383, 33-8 below, where the lines are attributed to Paulinus. Petrarch (De Otio Religiosorum, ed. cit. p. 354) quotes these four lines, attributing them to Prosper. Vaughan's remark on l. 22 is applicable to Prosper, but not to Paulinus.

PAGE 175, ll. 1-3. Mis mawrddh &c. These lines (attributed to Aneurin) are printed in The Myvyrian Archaiology (second ed., 1870, p. 21), where they form ll. 1, 7, and 8 of the third stanza of the Englyns of the months, as follows:

Mis MAWRTH, mawr ryfyg adar

Pob peth a ddaw trwy'r ddaer

Ond y Marw, mawr ei Garchar !

PAGE 176, ll. 16-24. A great Philosopher &c. Miss Guiney compares Henricus Cornelius Agrippa, De Occulta Philosophia, Lib. I, cap. lviii. Three books (of the four) were translated in 1651 by J. F. In the translation the passage referred to is on p. 129: 'And I have often seen a Dor-mouse dissected, and continue immovable, as if she were dead, untill she was boyled, and then presently in boyling the water the dissected members did shew life'.

(Note) Omne quod est &c. Marcellus Palingenius, Zodiacus Vita, ix. 180-1, xi. 658-60, viii. 249-51.

PAGE 178, ll. 4-6. Sunt qui &c. Compare Juvenal, Satires xiii. 86:

Sunt in fortunæ qui casibus omnia ponant

Et nullo credant, &c.

l. 16. Ex hoc momento &c. A favourite phrase of Drexelius, e.g. Æternitatis Prodomus (1628, page facing first emblem) 'pendet ab hoc momento ÆTERNITAS'.

ll. 19-33. I remember &c. Miss Guiney compares Drexelius, De Damnatorum Rogo (Opera Omnia, vol. i, p. 146), 'Memini legere, nec sine admiratione,' &c.

ll. 34-41. Compare Drexelius, De Æternitate Considerationes (ed. cit. vol. i, p. 11), 'Sit mons,' &c.

PAGE 181. (First note) Est pœna præsens &c. Seneca, Phædra, 162-4.

ll. 22-37. Vidi ego, etc. The passage consists of several extracts from Prologus sancti Hieronymi . . . in libros Vitaspatrum (wrongly attributed to Jerome).

PAGE 183. (First note) Sinnes are not felt &c. Compare Stobæus, Florilegium iv. 7:

Οὐδεὶς ξύνοιδεν ἐξαμαρτάνων πόσον ἀμαρτάνει τὸ μέγεθος, ὅσπερον δ' ὀρᾷ.

Quoted by Thomas Gataker in Cinnus, sive Adversaria Miscellanea, 1651, Lib. ii (Opera Critica 1698, col. 278), with a Latin version:

Nemo satis, dum peccat, quid faciat, videt:

Scelere at peracto, atrocitatem intelligit.

(Analysis at head of chapter A culpa peracta rectus animadvertitur.)

ll. 19-31, 33-9. Let me now . . . punishments. Compare Jerome, Vita S. Pauli Primi Eremitæ (ed. Migne, vol. ii, col. 28); and p. 141, 13-15 above.

(First note) Cælo tegitur &c. Lucan, Pharsalia vii. 819.

(Second note) Jam ruet &c. Quoted by Petrarch, De Contemptu Mundi, Dial. iii (ed. cit. p. 413), from his own Africa, ii. 431 and 464 ('Mox ruet' in Petrarch, and 'libris' for 'tumulis').

(Fourth note) O quantum &c. Compare Seneca, Thyestes, 449-51:

O quantum bonum est

Obstare nulli, capere securas dapes

Humi iacentem! scelera non intrant casas.

PAGE 184, l. 2. Hilarion's Crow. Jerome's story seems to be told of his S. Paul. See Vita S. Pauli Primi Eremitæ (ed. Migne, vol. ii, col. 25). Compare p. 653, 52 below.

l. 41. the life of Antonius. About Antonius in the life of Hilarion (ed. Migne, vol. ii, col. 45).

(Second note) Qui jacet &c. Alanus de Insulis, Liber Parabolarum, cap. ii (ed. Migne, col. 584).

PAGE 185, ll. 38-9. a deaths-head crown'd with roses. Compare p. 491, 6 below.

PAGE 186. (First note) Omnem crede diem &c. Horace, Epist. i. 4. 13. Quoted by Petrarch, De Contemptu Mundi, Dial. iii (ed. cit. p. 409).

ll. 7-8. Soles occidere &c. Catullus, Odes v. 4.

ll. 21-38. Herbert, The Temple, 'Life'. It is noticeable that Vaughan singles out three poems which seem to have had no influence on his own work.

PAGE 187, ll. 1-41. As often &c. Translated (sometimes roughly) from Petrarch, De Contemptu Mundi, Dial. iii (ed. cit. pp. 414-15) 'Quotiens igitur . . . nepotibus umbra'.

(Note) Immortalia ne speres &c. Horace, Odes iv. 7. 12 sqq. Not in Petrarch.

ll. 20-1. Virgil, Aeneid iii. 515.

PAGE 188, ll. 26-9. We can go die &c. Herbert, The Temple, 'Death'.

PAGE 192, l. 21. De Similitud. Both this and the following are works attributed to Anselm.

l. 33. where destruction passeth for propagation. Vaughan refers to the Act for the Propagation of the Gospel in Wales (1649) under which his brother Thomas and his friend Thomas Powell were ejected from their livings. See John Walker, Sufferings of the Clergy (1714); compare p. 346, 8 below, and p. 166, 13-15 above.

PAGE 218. O doe not goe &c. This poem with the title 'Begging' was also included in the second part of Silex Scintillans. The alterations are indicated by the foot-notes to p. 500 below.

PAGE 220. (Heading) Of Temperance and Patience. Editions of the work from which Vaughan translated (Ioannis Eusebii Nierembergii Ex Societate Iesu, De Arte Voluntatis, Libri Sex) were published in 1631, 1639, and 1649. I have used the edition of 1639. Beginning on p. 105 (Lib. Sec. Appendix I, 'Tolerantia, & temperantia rerum') Vaughan translates from 'Breuis est' to p. 161 (end of Appendix III), corresponding to p. 267, 2 below. He then goes back to p. 93 (Epistasis to Lib. I).

PAGE 225, l. 12. that troublesome Tympany. Vaughan's addition.

PAGE 226, l. 11. as the heart with Dittany. Compare Nieremberg (ed. cit. p. 113): 'quo velut dictamo expellimus aciem'. 'heart' = 'hart' (see O.E.D. art. Dittany).

PAGE 227, l. 30. his relatives. Nieremberg (ed. cit. p. 115): 'quod nostra refert'. Compare p. 390, 37 below: 'the sacred Relatives of God'; also p. 295, 4.

PAGE 233. (Note) Volater. Compare Raphael Volaterranus, Commentarii (Basileae, 1559, p. 357). The last sentence of the note is Vaughan's. Most of the material for the preceding note (p. 231) is also in Volaterranus (p. 140).

PAGE 243, ll. 7-8. for God . . . Divell. Vaughan's addition.

PAGE 253, l. 41-254, l. 2. The brest that conceives &c. Compare Nieremberg (ed. cit. p. 145): 'inque ipso peccaturi pectore dum concipitur malignitas, iam grauida est, imò puerpera suæ pœnæ'; 'he is delivered' apparently refers to the 'peccaturus'.

PAGE 254, ll. 4-12. Conscience &c. Compare Nieremberg (ed. cit. p. 145): 'Quin ipsius culpæ ipsa est maxima, & prima pœna: nullum non capitale scelus cuique apud se est, etiam post indulgentiam omnium'.

PAGE 255, ll. 32-4. or if she doth . . . hurt him. Vaughan's addition.

l. 42-page 256, l. 18. In the affaires &c. Compare Nieremberg (ed. cit. p. 147): 'namque tristitia, quam fors ardua immisit, potest in se eleuari; quam verò dimisit culpa, non dimissa, non debet, etiamsi possit'.

PAGE 256, ll. 37-40. he that dryes . . . precaution. Vaughan's addition, replacing five lines of original (ed. cit. p. 147). From this point Vaughan omits longer passages of his original.

Heribertvs Rosweydvvs begins: 'Vti Româ hanc Vitam ab amico Socio concinnatam accepi, ita tecum communico'. In 1622 Rosweydvvs and Ducæus brought out an edition (with notes and a reprint of the Vita) of the Works of Paulinus. Vaughan uses the works and the notes, and since he translated the Epistola presumably had both publications (i. e. those of 1621 and 1622).

PAGE 338, ll. 15-20. Desine tandem &c. From Ioh: Baptistæ Ferrarii Senensis, S. l. Flora, seu De Florum Cultura Lib. IV. (Ed. nova, 1646, Lib. I, cap. i, p. 3.)

SILEX SCINTILLANS.

PAGE 388, l. 8. (with a Predecessor of theirs) term Parricides. Grosart compares Greene, Groats-Worth of witte (1592, &c.): 'Ah Gentlemen, that liue to read my broken and confused lines, looke not I should (as I was wont) delight you with vaine fantasies; and as yee would deale with so many parricides, cast them into the fire'.

ll. 26-30. Os dignum &c. Prudentius, Contra Symmachum, i. 636-40 ('tentet').

PAGE 390, ll. 3-13. That he would read &c. From Felltham, Resolves, Second Century I. 'Of Idle Bookes,' ed. cit. pp. 323-4. The differences suggest that Vaughan was quoting from memory.

l. 37. Relatives. See note on p. 227, 30 above.

PAGE 391, l. 26. a most flourishing and admired wit of his time. The reference is probably to Andrew Melville or Melvin. Compare Walton, Life of Mr. George Herbert, ed. Bullen, p. 274. Mr. Chambers suggested Donne, though noting the difficulty of Herbert's age.

l. 27. Sed non passibus æquis. Virgil, Aeneid ii. 724 'sequiturque patrem non passibus æquis'.

PAGE 392, l. 8. Hierotheus. See Vita S. Dionysii Areopagiticae (P. Halloix), ed. Migne, p. 839 &c.: 'Haec etiam praeclarus ille noster sacrorum moderator (Hierotheus) in hymnis amatoriis divine exposuit'.

PAGE 397, ll. 1-16. A Ward &c. Compare Thomas Vaughan, Lumen de Lumine: Or A new Magicall Light discovered, and Communicated to the World By Eugenius Philalethes. . . . London, . . . 1651, p. 1-2: 'It was about the Dawning or Day-breake, when tyr'd with a tedious solitude, and those pensive Thoughts which attend it, after much Losse and more Labour, I suddainly fell a sleep. Here then the Day was no sooner borne, but strangled; I was reduc'd to a night of a more deep tincture than that which I had formerly spent. My fansie placed me in a Region of inexpressible Obscuritie, and as I thought more than Naturall; but without any Terrors. . . I moved every way for Discoveries, but was still intertain'd with Darknesse and silence, and I thought my self translated to the Land of Desolation.'

ll. 3-4. and all the way &c. Compare Lumen de Lumine, p. 6: 'Her walk was green, . . . and purld all the Way with Daysies and Primrose'.

PAGE 398, ll. 33-48. Here, I repos'd &c. Compare Lumen de Lumine, p. 2: 'Being thus troubled to no purpose, and wearied with long Indeavours, I resolved to rest my self, and seeing I could find nothing, I expected if any thing could find me. I had not long continued in this humor, but I could heare the whispers of a soft wind, that travell'd towards me, and suddainly it was in the Leaves of the Trees, so that I concluded my self to be in some Wood, or Wildernesse. With this gentle Breath came a most heavenly, odorous Ayre, much like that of sweet Briars, but not so rank, and full.'

l. 44. Checquer'd with snowie fleeces. Compare Lumen de Lumine, p. 4: 'The Ground both neer and far of, presented a pleasing kind of Checquer'.

PAGE 399, ll. 65-80. It was a banke &c. Compare Lumen de Lumine, p. 15: 'Now verily was I much troubled, and somewhat disordered, but composing my self as well as I could, I came to a Cop of Myrtles, where resting my self on a Flowrie Bank, I began to consider those Things which I had seen'.

l. 70. A rushing wind. Compare note on p. 398 above.

l. 75. if any leafe. Compare note on p. 398 above.

PAGE 401, ll. 9-14. Untill at last &c. Compare Felltham, Resolves, 'Of Death' (ed. cit. p. 149): 'That grosse object which is left to the spectators eyes, is now onely a composure but of the two baser Elements, Water, and Earth: that now it is these two onely, that seeme to make the body, while the two purer, Fire and Ayre, are wing'd away, as being more fit for the compact of an elementall and ascentive Soule'.

l. 25. For no thing &c. Compare Donne, The broken heart (ed. Grierson, p. 49, l. 25), 'Yet nothing can to nothing fall'.

ll. 31-4. For a preserving spirit &c. Compare Sir Thomas Browne, Religio Medici (ed. Herford, p. 36): 'Now, besides these particular and divided Spirits, there may be (for ought I know) an universal and common Spirit to the whole World. It was the opinion of Plato, and it is yet of the Hermetical Philosophers.'

PAGE 404, ll. 5-8. Under a Juniper &c. Compare George Herbert, The Temple, 'Decay':

One might have sought and found thee presently
At some fair oak, or bush, or cave, or well.

PAGE 414. The Pursuite. Compare The Temple, 'The Pulley'.

(Mount of Olives) l. 9. Cotswold, and Coopers. See Annalia Dubrensis. Vpon the yeerely celebration of Mr Robert Dovers Olimpick Games vpon Cotswold-Hills . . . London, . . . 1636. But Vaughan was perhaps thinking only of one poem in that volume, Randolph (ed. cit. p. 103) An Eglogue on the noble Assemblies revived on Cotswold Hills by M. Robert Dover. Coopers Hill was published in 1642.

PAGE 416, (second poem) l. 1. Thou that know'st for whom I mourne. Compare p. 420, 28 (With him I weep); p. 426, 28; p. 479, 61; p. 512, 12, &c.; and Thomas Vaughan, Anthroposophia Theomagica (1650), p. 65: 'this Piece was compos'd in Haste, and in my Dayes of Mourning, on the sad Occurrence of a Brother's Death'.

PAGE 418, ll. 51-2. And sweeter aires &c. Compare The Temple, 'Sion':

All Solomons sea of brasse and world of stone
Is not so deare to thee as one good grone.

and Gratefulness, st. vi.

PAGE 419. The Retreat. Vaughan may have read John Earle's Character of a Child (Micro-cosmographie, 1628): 'A Child is a Man in a small Letter, yet the best Copie of Adam before hee tasted of Eue, or the Apple; and hee is happy whose small practice in the World can only write his Character. Hee is natures fresh picture newly drawne in Oyle, which time and much handling dimmes and defaces. . . . His father hath writ him as his owne little story, wherein he reads those dayes of his life that he cannot remember; and sighes to see what innocence he ha's out-liu'd. The elder he growes, he is a stayre lower from God; and like his first father, much worse in his breeches. He is the Christians example, and the old man's relapse: The one imitates his purenesse, and the other falls into his simplicitie . . .

PAGE 419, l. 20. Bright shootes of everlastingnesse. Compare Felltham, Resolves, 'Of the Soule' (ed. cit. p. 197): 'The Conscience, the Character of a God stamp't in it, and the apprehension of Eternity, doe all prove it a shoot of everlastingnesse'.

PAGE 424, ll. 21-4. So shall that storme &c. Compare The Temple, 'The Storm':

Poets have wrong'd poore storms: such dayes are best;
They purge the aire without, within the breast.

(The Morning-watch) l. 1. O Joyes! Infinite sweetnes! Compare The Temple, 'The Holy Scriptures,' I:

Oh Book! infinite sweetnesse!

ll. 18, 19. Prayer is The world in tune. Compare The Temple, 'Prayer':

A kind of tune, which all things heare and fear;

PAGE 429, l. 1. Sure, there's a tye of Bodyes! Compare Felltham, Resolves, 'That Sufferance causeth Love' (ed. cit. p. 253): 'Nothing surer tyes a friend . . . Sure, there is a Sympathy of soules'.

l. 9. Absents within the Line &c. Compare p. 497, 9 and p. 483, 20. Vaughan apparently means 'Those who are absent from one another, and yet not dead, feel sympathy'.

PAGE 431, ll. 15-18. Most blessed Vine &c. Compare The Temple, 'The Agonie':

Love is that liquor sweet and most divine,
Which my God feels as bloud; but I, as wine.

PAGE 432, ll. 11-16. Compare The Temple, 'Employment' (second poem with that title):

Oh that I were an Orenge-tree,
That busie plant!
Then should I ever laden be,
And never want
Some fruit for him that dressed me.

PAGE 433, ll. 9-12. Compare The Temple, 'Discipline':

Throw away thy rod,
Throw away thy wrath
O my God,
Take the gentle path.

PAGE 434, l. 1. Compare The Temple, 'The Reprisall':

I have consider'd it, and finde
There is no dealing with thy mighty passion:

ll. 11-28. These lines were printed in the 1650 edition of Recreation for Ingenious Head-peecees. Or, A Pleasant Grove for their Wits to walke in [Wit's Recreations] and in the subsequent editions of 1654, 1663, and 1667. They form a conclusion to the volume: 'Having now fed thy youthfull frencies, with these Juvenilian Fancies; let me invite thee (with my selfe) to sing Altiora peto. And then to meet with this thy noble resolution; I would commend to thy sharpest view and serious consideration; The Sweet Cælestiall sacred Poems by M^r. Henry Vaughan, intituled Silex Scintillans.

There plumes from Angels wings, he'l lend thee,
Which every day to heaven will send thee.
(Heare him thus invite thee home.)'

PAGE 434, ll. 23-4. All strewd with flowres &c. Compare The Temple, 'Affliction' (first poem with that title):

My dayes were straw'd with flow'rs and happinesse;
There was no moneth but May.

and p. 505, 18 below.

(The Match) l. 1. Dear friend! Presumably Vaughan refers to George Herbert.

PAGE 435, ll. 7-12. Two Lifes &c. Compare The Temple, 'Love unknown':

A Lord I had,
And have, of whom some grounds which may improve,
I hold for two lives, and both lives in me.

PAGE 436. Rules and Lessons. Compare (for the form) The Temple, 'The Church-porch'.

ll. 13-16. Walk with thy fellow-creatures &c. Compare Thomas Vaughan, Anima Magica Abscondita (1650), p. 52: 'In the Summer translate thy self to the Fields, where all are green with the Breath of God, and fresh with the Powers of Heaven. Learn to refer all Naturals to their Spirituall, per viam Secretioris Analogiæ; for this is the way the Magicians went, and found out Miracles.'

PAGE 437, l. 45. a Judas Jew. Compare The Temple, 'Self-condemnation':

For he hath sold for money his deare Lord,
And is a Judas-Jew.

PAGE 439, l. 118. Ther's one Sun more &c. Compare The Temple, 'Sunday':

The Sundaies of mans life
Thredded together on times string. &c.

l. 134. In that dead age. Compare Feltham, Resolves, 'Of Death' (ed. cit. p. 149): 'when thou shalt see the body put on Deaths sad and ashy countenance, in the dead age of night'.

PAGE 440. Corruption. Compare p. 352, 35-9 above, The Temple, 'Miserie' ad fin., and Thomas Vaughan, Magia Adamica: Or The Antiquitie of Magic, And the Descent thereof from Adam downwards, proved (1650, p. 17): 'He was excluded from a glorious Paradyse, and confin'd to a base world, whose sickly infected Elements conspiring with his own Nature, did assist and hasten that Death, which already began to reign in his Body. Heaven did mourn over him, The Earth, and all her Generations about him. He look'd upon himself as a Felon, and a Murtherer, being guilty of that Curse and Corruption, which succeeded in the world because of his fall, . . .'

l. 9. Compare op. cit. p. 18: 'He was a meer stranger in this World'.

PAGE 440, l. 19. Compare op. cit. p. 18 : 'He heard indeed sometimes of a Tree of Life in Eden'.

l. 25. Angels lay Leiger here. Compare The Temple, 'The H. Scriptures', I : 'thou art heav'n's Lidger here,' and p. 60, 10 above.

PAGE 441, (H. Scriptures) ll. 3-4. The Doves spotless neast &c. Compare The Temple, 'Whitsunday' :

Listen sweet Dove unto my song,
And spread thy golden wings in me ;
Hatching my tender heart so long,
Till it get wing, and flie away with thee.

and p. 446, 47 below.

PAGE 442, l. 7. Compare The Temple, 'Man's Medley' :

Heark how the birds do sing,
And woods do ring.

ll. 11-12. Man is their high-priest &c. Compare The Temple, 'Providence' :

Man is the worlds high Priest : he doth present
The sacrifice for all ;

PAGE 443, ll. 17-18. Thy birth now here &c. See p. 379, 32-3 above.

PAGE 445, ll. 31-7. Some sleeping Exhalation &c. Compare The Temple, 'The Answer' :

As a young exhalation, newly waking,
Scorns his first bed of dirt, and means the sky ;
But cooling by the way, grows pursie and slow,
And settling to a cloud, doth live and die
In that dark state of tears :

and The Showre, p. 412 above.

PAGE 446, l. 46. O, is! See O.E.D. art. is and yes, and note on p. 30, 484 above.

PAGE 447, (Idle Verse) l. 16. Sick with a scarf, or glove. Compare The Temple, 'Love' (first poem with that title) :

Who sings thy praise? onely a skarf or glove
Doth warm our hands, and make them write of love.

(Son-dayes) l. 1-end. Compare The Temple, 'Prayer' (for the form and some of the images), and (for other images) The Temple, 'Sunday'.

PAGE 449, l. 41. All that have signature. Compare p. 583, 11-13 below.

ll. 75-6. Profanenes on my tongue &c. Compare The Temple, 'Aaron' :

Profaneness in my head,
Defects and darknesse in my breast,

PAGE 453, ll. 5-6. for Marble sweats &c. Compare The Temple, 'The Church floore' :

But all is cleansed when the marble weeps,

l. 17. Wee are thy Infants, and suck thee. Compare The Temple, 'Longing' :

Mothers are kinde, because thou art,
And dost dispose
To them a part :
Their infants, them ; and they suck thee
More free.

PAGE 456. Easter-day. Compare The Temple, 'The Dawning,' for the form.

PAGE 460, ll. 29-40. Vicissitude plaies all the game &c. Compare Felltham, Resolves, 'That all things are restrained' (ed. cit. pp. 131-2): 'Every string has his use, and his tunc, and his turne. When the Assyrians fell, the Persians rose. When the Persians fell, the Grecians rose. The losse of one Man, is the gaine of another. 'Tis vicissitude that maintains the World. As in infinite circles about one Center, there is the same Method, though not the same measure: So, in the smallest creature that is, there is an Epitome of a Monarchy.'

ll. 37-40. Tuning his brest &c. Compare The Temple, 'The Temper' (first poem with that title):

Yet take thy way; for sure thy way is best:
Stretch or contract me thy poore debter:
This is but tuning of my breast,
To make the musick better.

PAGE 461, ll. 25-40. All things here &c. Compare The Temple, 'Man,' stanzas 5, 6, 7.

ll. 37-9. but man Though he knows these &c. Compare The Temple, 'Miserie':

But Man doth know
The spring, whence all things flow:

And yet, as though he knew it not,
His knowledge winks, and lets his humours reigne;

l. 45. Yet hugs he &c. Compare The Temple, 'Miserie':

He doth not like this vertue, no;
Give him his dirt to wallow in all night:

l. 49. Life's but a blast, he knows it. Compare The Temple, 'Miserie':

Man is but grasse,
He knows it, fill the glasse.

ll. 51-2. grows ne'r a flower &c. Compare The Temple, 'The Collar':

Is the yeare onely lost to me?
Have I no bayes to crown it?
No flowers, no garlands gay?

PAGE 462, l. 53. O foolish man &c. Compare The Temple, 'Miserie':

Oh foolish man! where are thine eyes?
How hast thou lost them in a croud of cares?

ll. 58-60. for flints will give no fire &c. Compare note on the title of Silex Scintillans, p. 387 above.

l. 22. My love-twist &c. Compare The Temple, 'The Pearl':

But thy silk-twist let down from heav'n to me,
Did both conduct and teach me,

PAGE 464, (Love, and Discipline) ll. 17-18. 'twixt joyes, and tears &c. Compare The Temple, 'Hope':

With that I gave a viall full of tears:
But he a few green eares:

PAGE 468, ll. 11-12. who made poor sand &c. Compare The Temple, 'Providence':

Thou hast made poore sand
Check the proud sea, ev'n when it swells and gathers.

PAGE 470, l. 1. livers. The emendation, necessary on metrical grounds, is justified by Vaughan's frequent use of the word 'liver'. Compare e. g. p. 642 (Retirement), 4.

PAGE 473, ll. 35-6. who of that Cel &c. Compare The Temple, 'The Glimpse':

O make me not their sport,
Who by thy coming may be made a court!

ll. 65-7. "The Age &c. Compare The Temple, 'Giddinesse':
Now he will fight it out, and to the warres;
Now eat his bread in peace,
And snudge in quiet:

PAGE 474, l. 96. To look him out &c. Compare The Temple, 'The Glasse':

When thou shalt look us out of pain,

PAGE 475, ll. 13-35. the Prince of Salem &c. Compare The Temple, 'Peace,' stanza 4 sqq.:

There was a Prince of old
At Salem dwelt, &c.

PAGE 477, l. 5. Where Bees &c. Compare The Temple, 'The Starre':
To flie home like a laden bee
Unto that hive of beams.

PAGE 478, ll. 3-4. Where I sometimes &c. Compare The Temple, 'Peace':

Then went I to a garden, and did spy
A gallant flower, &c.

PAGE 480, ll. 13-16. O it is thy only Art &c. Compare The Temple, 'Nature':

O tame my heart;
It is thy highest art
To captivate strong holds to thee.

PAGE 481, l. 23. 'the' probably means 'thee'. Compare p. 90, 33: 'the Sun o're night decaest'.

PAGE 483, l. 20. Within the line. Compare note on p. 429, 9.

PAGE 484, ll. 39-40. Or else &c. Compare The Temple, 'Grace':

O come! for thou dost know the way.
Or if to me thou wilt not move,
Remove me, where I need not say,
Drop from above.

PAGE 488, ll. 45-8. think on thy dream &c. Compare The Temple, 'The Size':

Call to minde thy dream,
An earthly globe,
On whose meridian was engraven,
These seas are tears, and heaven the haven.

Adamica ('To the Reader'): 'Look up then to Heaven, and when thou seest the Cœlestiall fires move in their swift and glorious Circles, think also there are here below some cold Natures, which they over-look, and about which they move incessantly to heat, and concoct them'. Magia Adamica, p. 68: 'To speak plainly, Heaven it self was originally extracted from Inferiors, yet not so intirely, but some portion of the Heavenly Natures remained still below, and are the very same in Essence and Substance with the separated starrs and skies'. Compare also The Favour, p. 492, 7-10 below, and Thomas Vaughan's master, Cornelius Agrippa, De Occulta Philosophia, Lib. 1, cap. lxxvii 'Quomodo animus humanus potest coniungi cum cœlestium animis & intelligentiis, atq; simul illis mirabiles quasdam virtutes rebus inferioribus imprimere'.

PAGE 489, ll. 3-4. And winde and curle &c. Compare The Temple, 'The Starre':

That so among the rest I may
Glitter, and curle, and winde as they :

PAGE 490, l. 1. Deare friend sit down. Compare The Temple, 'Love unknown':

Deare Friend, sit down,

l. 11. By flowers &c. Compare The Temple, 'Sion':

The wood was all embellished
With flowers and carvings ; mysticall and rare :

PAGE 491, l. 6. a Deaths-head crown'd with Roses. Compare p. 185, 39-40 above.

l. 8. by a winde or wave. Compare The Temple, 'The Glimpse':

Wert thou a winde or wave,

l. 30. shaking fastens thee. Compare The Temple, 'Affliction' (the fifth poem with that title):

We are the trees, whom shaking fastens more,

PAGE 492, (The Favour) ll. 7-10. Some kinde herbs &c. See note on The Starre, p. 489 above.

PAGES 493-4. Trinity-Sunday. Compare The Temple, 'Trinitie-Sunday':

PAGE 497, l. 9. Line. Compare p. 429, 9, and p. 483, 20.

PAGE 498, l. 50. Begetting Virgins. Compare p. 407, 70: 'Faire, virgin-flowers', and p. 92, 1: 'Isca parens florum'.

PAGE 500. Begging. This poem first appeared in Flores Solitudinis (1654). See p. 218 above.

PAGE 501, l. 13. which all at once. 'which' may be kept if this stanza is regarded as carrying on the construction of the preceding one.

PAGE 502, ll. 35-6. I let get me up &c. Compare The Temple, 'Easter':

I got me flowers to straw thy way ;
I got me boughs off many a tree :

PAGE 505, l. 18. no moneth but May. Compare note on p. 434, 21-4.

HERMETICAL PHYSICK.

PAGE 547. (Title-page) Hermetical Physick . . . Nollius. The work which Vaughan translates is not, as stated by Dr. Grosart, Naturae Sanctuarium: quod est Physica Hermetica, but Systema Medicinæ Hermeticae Generale, In quo

Ab Henrico Nollio Philo-chymiatro. [Figure] Prostat. In nobilis Francoforti Paltheniana. Anno MDCXIII. [12mo.]

I have used the copy in the Library of the Royal Society of Medicine. Vaughan begins to translate at page 60, where (after Prodromus Medicus, pp. 7-60) Systema Medicinæ Hermeticae generale begins.

PAGE 548, l. 10. Veritatem tempus manu-ducit. Compare Menander, Monosticha 11 ἀγχι δὲ πρὸς φῶς τὴν ἀλήθειαν χρόνος (Otto, Die Sprichwörter der Römer, p. 343), and Seneca, De Ira ii. 22. 3 'Dandum semper est tempus: veritatem dies aperit'.

PAGE 550, ll. 10-14. Now all . . . leader. Vaughan's addition.

ll. 27-9. for they . . . deliver them. Vaughan's addition.

PAGE 558, ll. 1-2. The dose &c. Out of original setting; p. 115 in Nollius.

PAGES 558, 560, and 561. The notes, as usual, are Vaughan's additions.

PAGE 567, ll. 22-9. I mean . . . Law. Shorter in original.

ll. 29-page 568, l. 1. For thus . . . possesseth. Vaughan's addition.

PAGE 568, l. 2-9. The Lord . . . Deuteron. 28. Shorter in original.

PAGE 569, l. 8. ἀπνευστί. In Nollius the word is written ἀπν εὐς ἦ. The first contraction, apparently, was mistaken for a.

PAGE 572, l. 4. Bergkrankheiten. The mistake in the original seems to be due to a misreading (which is probably Vaughan's) of the German 't'; see Nollius, p. 91, and compare the mistake on p. 588, 19 below, where 'Arzt' is read as 'Arkt'.

PAGE 576, ll. 25-6. Eucherius &c. Compare Nollius, p. 97 'Eucharius Rosenbader ex Weissenburg, Noricorum oppido, ac Ioannes ab Ettenstet chirurgi'.

PAGE 583, ll. 11-13. That is to say &c. Vaughan's addition.

PAGE 584, l. 29. a Pythagorical Metempsychosis. Vaughan's addition.

ll. 31-32. as an old womans Recipe. Vaughan's addition.

PAGE 585, ll. 5-6. by those fatal Tormentors &c. Vaughan's addition.

ll. 17-19. and the success . . . impostors. Compare Nollius, p. 108 'aut salus nocentibus adscribatur'.

l. 20. Medicasters. Compare Nollius, p. 108 'medicorum'.

l. 25. who suffer most by them. Vaughan's addition.

ll. 31-2. that is to say . . . diseases. Vaughan's addition.

PAGE 586, l. 22. but for a bad one &c. Vaughan's addition.

PAGE 587, ll. 5-6. in imitation . . . Sonne. Vaughan's addition.

PAGE 588, ll. 13-14. not omitting his own observations. Vaughan's addition.

l. 19. 'Arzt' written 'Arkt'. See note on p. 572, 4 above.

PAGE 589, ll. 12-15. and he was not ashamed . . . heaven. Compare Nollius, p. 113 'eosq; instruere non erubuerit'.

PAGE 590, l. 39-page 591, l. 3. Let him &c. Compare Nollius, p. 113 'Deum sibi reconciliato poenitentia vera, ac deinceps Deum adorato, vt auxilietur'.

PAGE 592, ll. 26-end. Shorter in original. After this Nollius goes on with 'Sectio viii. Quid sit vniuersalis medicina' &c. (pp. 118-26) and Epilogus (pp. 126-7). Blank page, then (in Royal Society of Medicine copy) De Generatione Rerum naturalium Liber ex vero naturæ lumine in gratiam sincerioris philosophiæ studiosorum conformatus ab Henrico Nollio. Christus Iesus Dominus noster: . . . Francoforti, . . . Anno M. DC. XV. [pp. 1[31]-52 including Epistola Nuncupatoria and Præfatio.] See Vaughan's letter to Aubrey below, p. 668, 40-1.

PAGE 594. (Heading) Earl of Worcester. See D.N.B. art. Somerset, Henry. Grosart notes that he was a distant kinsman of Vaughan's. Frances Somerset, granddaughter of Henry, Earl of Worcester, married William Vaughan of Tretower, the poet's great-great-grandfather.

PAGE 595. (Signature) J. W. Compare the signatures on pages 596 and 602. The most probable conjecture as to J. W.'s identity seems to be that of Professor Firth, who suggests John Williams, son of Sir Henry Williams of Brecon. He matriculated from Brasenose College in 1642. See Chambers, vol. ii, p. 344.

PAGE 597. This poem is included in the editions of Orinda's poems of 1644, 1667, 1678, and 1710. Only the more important variants are given in the foot-notes.

PAGE 598, l. 19. Tho. Powel, D.D. See note on p. 36 above.

PAGE 600. (Signature) N. W. Jes. Coll. Oxon. Professor Firth suggests that N. W. might be either Nathaniel Williams of Swansea, who matriculated in 1672, or Nicholas Wadham of Carmarthen, who matriculated in 1669. See Chambers, vol. ii, p. 344.

PAGE 602. (Signature) I. W. A.M. Oxon. See note on p. 595 above.

PAGE 605. (Title of poem) The King Disguis'd. Compare The Kings Disguise. [MS. note in B.M. copy 'Jan: 21 1646 London by Jo: Cleveland Poet' (Thomason Tract).]

l. 2. into his Coffin. The idea is paralleled in the 1677 edition of Cleveland's The King's Disguise:

And why so coffin'd in this vile Disguise,
That who but sees blasphemous thee with his eys?

In 1647 and 1653 the passage runs:

And why a Tenant to this vile disguise,
Which who but sees . . .

PAGE 608. (Title) To Mr. M. L. &c. Probably Matthew Locke, as Grosart suggested. D.N.B. quotes Roger North (Memoires of Musick, p. 95) to the effect that Locke 'set most of the Psalms to musick in parts for the use of some vertuous ladies in the city'. But the setting appears not to have been published.

PAGE 609. (Title) C. W. Esquire. For notes on the life of Charles Walbeoffe see Chambers, vol. ii, pp. 345-7, where the inscription on his tombstone in Llanhamlach Church is given: 'Here lieth the body of Charles Walbeoffe, Esqre., who departed this life the 13th day of September, 1653, and was married to Mary, one of the daughters of Sir Thomas Aubrey of Llantrydid, in the county of Glamorgan, Knt., by whom he had issue two sonnes, of whom only Charles surviveth'. Compare Vaughan's letter to Aubrey, p. 669, 75, below for a reference to another member of the family: 'My Cousin Walbeoffe.'

PAGE 611, l. 86. and the bright day's Forlorn. A modernized text obscures rather than elucidates the meaning. For 'Forlorn' meaning 'vanguard' see O.E.D.

PAGES 614-17. The importunate Fortune. With this poem compare Randolph's On the Inestimable Content he injoyes in the Muses; to those of his Friends that dehort him from Poetry (ed. cit. p. 1).

PAGE 617, l. 105. My purse as Randolph's was. See Randolph, A parley with his empty Purse (ed. cit. p. 112).

(Title) I. Morgan of White-Hall Esq. Mr. Chambers (vol. ii, p. 348) notes that a John Morgan of Wenallt (or Whitehill) was a kinsman of Vaughan's, being a grandson of Charles Vaughan of Tretower. See Harl. MS. 2,289, fol. 39.

PAGE 621. (Title) the matchless Orinda. Compare note on p. 61 above.

PAGE 623. (Title) To Etesia. Compare p. 81, Metrum 3, 7-8:

Thus, when the warm Etesian wind
The Earth's seald bosome doth unbind,

PAGE 626, (In Etesiam) l. 8. perit. I think it probable that Vaughan wrote 'periit', which explains the misprint better than the more metrically correct 'perit'.

PAGE 629, ll. 35-48. And humbly &c. Compare Boethius, Lib. iii, Met. 12:

Et dulci ueniam prece
Vmbrarum dominos rogat.
Captus carmine ianitor.

PAGE 635, ll. 13-24. by fruits, not Consuls &c. Vaughan is indebted to Randolph's translation of the same poem: De Sene Veronensi: Ex Claudiano (ed. cit. p. 29):

From fruits, not Consuls, computation brings,
By Apples Autumnes knows, by flowers the springs.
Thus he the day by his own orb doth prize;
In the same field his Sun doth set and rise.
That knew an oak a twig, and walking thither
Beholds a wood and he grown up together,
Neighbouring Veron he may for India take,
And think the Red-sea is Benacus lake.
Yet is his strength untam'd, and firm his knees;
Him the third age a lusty Grandsire sees.
Go seek who s' will the far Iberian shore,
This man hath liv'd, though that hath travel'd more.

PAGES 635-6, ll. 1-14. When Jove &c. Vaughan is indebted to Randolph's translation of the same poem: In Archimedis Sphæram, ex Claudiano (ed. cit. p. 26):

Jove saw the Heavens fram'd in a little glasse,
And laughing, to the gods these words did passe:
Comes then the power of mortall cares so far?
In brittle Orbes my labours acted are.
The statutes of the Poles, the faith of things,
The laws of gods this Syracusian brings
Hither by art: Spirits inclos'd attend
Their severall sphears, and with set motions bend
The living work: Each yeer the faigned Sun,
Each month returns the counterfeited Moon,
And viewing now her world, bold Industry
Grows proud, to know the heavens her subjects be.
Believe Salmonius hath false thunders thrown,
For a poor hand is Natures rivall grown,

PAGE 645, (The Nativity) l. 9. A Tax? 'tis so still! Vaughan probably refers to the 'Decimation' tax levied on the Royalists in 1655.

PAGE 648. (Title) Servilii Fatum. Vaughan is probably writing, with intentional obscurity, of a contemporary. But he may also refer to Pliny, Nat. Hist. vii. 53 (54), § 182, where among examples of people who 'nullis evidentibus causis obiere' mention is made of 'C. Servilius Pansa, cum staret in foro ad tabernam hora diei secunda in P. fratrem innixus',—although among 'felicia exempla'.

PAGES 656-60, Daphnis. This poem is on the death of Thomas Vaughan, some of whose poems follow in 1678. See title-page, p. 593 above, and note on p. 38, 33 above.

PAGE 656, ll. 3-4. or have thy Lambs &c. This may be a reminiscence of Milton, Comus, 497-8. On account of their uncertainty I have not mentioned other possible reminiscences of Milton's early poems in Vaughan's works. For possible references to Milton, see an article by Miss L. I. Guiney, Quarterly Review, April 1914, 'Milton and Vaughan'.

PAGE 657, ll. 36-8. That madly hate &c. These lines refer to Dr. Henry More's criticisms of Thomas Vaughan's works. Henry Vaughan was not the first to make the pun on l. 38. Compare his brother's pamphlet—answering The Second Lash of Alazonomastix—The Second Wash: Or the Moore Scour'd once more . . . 1651.

ll. 55 and 62. Amphion. Perhaps Matthew Herbert, as Mr. Chambers suggests. Compare Ad Posteror, p. 32, 6, and the first poem on p. 93 above. To those who wish to interpret the details of the allegory it may be of interest that on July 19, 1655, 'Mat. Herbert begs discharge of sequestration of Langattock Rectory, co. Brecon, . . . sequestered for delinquency of the present Earl [of Worcester]'. Calendar of Proceedings, Committee for Compounding, &c., p. 1713. It may have a bearing on ll. 67-78 below.

l. 61. The visions of our black, but brightest Bard. In the above-mentioned article (Quarterly Review, April 1914, p. 356) Miss Guiney suggests that the 'black Bard' is Myrddin Emrys (Merlin Ambrosius), and mentions Thomas Heywood's work, The Life of Merlin, Sirnamed Ambrosius. His Prophetesies, and Predictions Interpreted; and their truth made good by our English Annalls . . . from Brute to the Reigne of our Royall Sovereigne King Charles (London, 1641, 4^o). Compare (title) The Mad-merry Merlin, or the Black Almannack (1653).

PAGE 661. Dr. Thomas Powell's Humane Industry. In this volume there are many other fragmentary translations besides those given here; but they are not specially assigned to Vaughan. One is by Thomas May; the rest may be by Powell himself. For Powell see note on p. 36 above.

PAGE 664, l. 18. Hares by Lions. This may be a misprint for 'Lions by Hares', though it is possible that Vaughan misunderstood his text, if he had no more than is given on p. 663.

THE LETTERS.

The proper names in the letters might often have been printed in italics to correspond with the larger hand in which they are written, and in accordance with contemporary usage. But as they are not always marked off in a sufficiently distinct way from the ordinary context, roman type has been used throughout. 'Dr', 'Mr', 'weh', and similar forms are, in the MSS., usually accompanied by a dot under or after the raised letters. The lists of works on pages 667, 668, and 670 are inset in narrow columns.

PAGE 667, l. 8 sqq. The biographical matter given here was used as a basis for the lives of Henry and Thomas Vaughan in Historia et Antiquitates Universitatis Oxoniensis (1674) and in Athenæ Oxonienses. Henry Vaughan's life was one of those added to Athenæ Oxonienses in 1720.

l. 9. I stayed not att Oxford. Henry Vaughan's name appears neither in the University Matriculation Register nor in the Jesus College Battel-books for 1638 and 1640 (that for 1639 is missing). But he was regarded by Aubrey and Wood as a member of Jesus College.

PAGE 668, ll. 40-1. & his discourse de generatione. See note on p. 592 above.

l. 47. Dr Powell of Cantre. See p. 670 below and note on p. 36 above.

ll. 51-2. Dr. Thomas Ellis. See D.N.B. art. Ellis, Thomas.

PAGE 669, ll. 79-86. Aubrey notes 'I p^d 3^d for y^s'.

PAGE 670, l. 15. Recueil &c. I have not found any trace of this book.

l. 24. & not yet printed. Apparently never printed.

ll. 34-5. not traduced (as one hath done). Presumably the version published in 1647.

PAGE 672, ll. 17-21. yo^r learned friend Dr Plott &c. Compare Aubrey's letter to Wood of March 19, 1680/1 (Bodleian MS. Ballard xiv, fol. 80): 'When you see Dr. Plott, mind him to send me halfe a dozen printed Queres, w^{ch} I would send to my Cosen Hen: Vaughan in Breck[nock?]^sshire, whom I have engaged to follow his method. he has great & steady practise there, & may unâ fidelia duas dealbare parietes. He is very fitt for ††.'

PAGE 674, l. 5. Dr John David Rhesus. Compare p. 675 below, and Aubrey's life, Bodleian MS. Aubrey 8, fol. 11: 'he wrote a Compendium of Aristotles Metaphysiques in the British Language, mentioned in his Eple [to S^r . . . Stradling] before his Welsh Gra^mer. 'Twas in Jesus coll. library Oxd. & my cos. Henry Vaughan [Olor Iscans] had it in his custody. Dr. Rhees ^{averres} ^{says} there, that the British language is as copious in expressing congruous Termes of Art, as the Greeke; or any language whatsoever. I have [sent?] to H. Vaughan, for it.' Compare also Wood's life (ed. Bliss, vol. ii, p. 62): 'He hath written other excellent things, but are lost, as I have been assured by OLOR ISCANUS'. See also D.N.B. art. Rhys, Ioan Dafydd.

ADDITIONAL NOTE

PAGE 64, ll. 27-34. This made thy fire &c. This passage contains difficulties which I cannot completely solve. It is clear that 'a forlorn Restraint' (l. 34) refers to Davenant's imprisonment in 1650 at Cowes, where he brought Gondibert to its premature conclusion.

Two explanations of ll. 27-33 have been suggested:

(i) Mr. Chambers's, that the 'aged Sire' with an inferior 'fancy' was Shakespeare. Compare Spence, Anecdotes, 1820, p. 82: 'That notion of Sir William D'Avenant being more than a poetical child only of Shakspeare was common in town, and Sir William himself seemed fond of having it taken for truth.—[Mr. Pope.]' Compare the next anecdote. The story is first explicitly told by Vaughan's cousin Aubrey (Brief Lives, ed. Clark, vol. i, p. 204), but see the lines of 1655 quoted in D.N.B. art. D'Avenant.

(ii) Mr. Percy Simpson's, that the 'aged Sire' who wore 'bayes' was Ben Jonson, succeeded as Poet Laureate by Davenant in 1638. James Howell addresses Jonson as 'Father Ben' (Familiar Letters, ed. Jacobs, p. 267, 'To my Father, Mr. Ben. Jonson'). Thomas Randolph, whom Vaughan quotes at this point, was another 'son'.

With either explanation, two difficulties remain:

(i) l. 30. his fancy darker than his sight. thy sight? 'his' might be caught from l. 32, 'his bayes'.

(ii) l. 31. the bars and length of dayes. bars, perhaps difficulties in the poet's career. 'length of dayes' seems more applicable to Jonson than to Shakespeare.

It should be added that Vaughan's poem seems to repeat thoughts in the congratulatory poems by Cowley and Waller accompanying Gondibert. But these appear to throw no light on Vaughan's meaning.

Here, take againe thy Sack-cloth! and thank heav'n	52
*Here the great well-spring of wash'd Soules, with beams	305
* His deepe, dark heart (bent to supplant)	105
Hither thou com'st: the busie wind all night	496
*how could that paper sent,	344
How is man parcell'd out? how ev'ry hour	460
How kind is heav'n to man! If here	443
*How oft have we beheld wilde Beasts appear	663

How rich, O Lord! how fresh thy visits are!	441
How shril are silent tears? when sin got head	453
I am Confirm'd, and so much wing is given	49
I 'ave read thy Souls fair night-peece, and have seen	48
†I call'd it once my sloth : In such an age	37
I cannot reach it; and my striving eye	520
I did but see thee! and how vain it is	55
I, do not go! thou know'st, I'll dye!	500
I have consider'd it; and find	434
I have it now:	514
I knew it would be thus! and my Just fears	58
I knew thee not, nor durst attendance strive	54
*I saw beneath Tarentum's stately towers	184
I saw Eternity the other night	466
I see the Temple in thy Pillar rear'd,	527
I see the use: and know my bloud	423
I walkt the other day (to spend my hour,)	478
I whose first year flourish'd with youthfull verse	76
I wonder, James , through the whole Historie	44
†I write not here, as if thy last in store	37
I wrote it down. But one that saw	528
Iesus, my life! how shall I truly love thee?	493
If Amoret , that glorious Eye,	7
If any have an ear	516
If I were dead, and in my place,	8
If old tradition hath not fail'd,	633
If sever'd Friends by Sympathy can joyn,	603
If this worlds friends might see but once	510
If weeping Eyes could wash away	89
If with an open, bounteous hand	81
In all the parts of Earth, from farthest West,	18
*In March birds couple, a new birth	175
In those blest fields of Everlasting aire	72
Isca parens florum, placido qui spumeus ore	92
It is perform'd! and thy great Name doth run	611
*It lives when kill'd, and brancheth when 'tis lopt.	248
It would lesse vex distressed man	86
Joy of my life! while left me here,	422
King of Comforts! King of life!	454
King of Mercy, King of Love,	480
*Knaves tongues, and calumnies no more doth price	105
Learning and Law your Day is done,	622
Leave, Amoret , melt not away so fast	13
*Let me not weep to see thy ravish'd house	341
Let not thy youth and false delights	86
*Life, Marcellina , leaving thy faire frame,	355
*Like some faire Oke, that when her boughes	248
*Long life, oppress'd with many woes,	301
Long since great witts have left the Stage	621
Lord, bind me up, and let me lye	472
Lord Iesus! with what sweetness and delights,	481
Lord, since thou didst in this vile Clay	448
Lord! what a busie, restless thing	414
Lord, when thou didst on Sinai pitch	465

O my chief good!	430
O Quæ frondosa per amœna Cubilia sylva	93
O Subtile Love! thy Peace is War;	626
O tell me whence that joy doth spring	539
O the new worlds new, quickning Sun!	541
O thou great builder of this starrie frame,	78
O thou that lovest a pure, and whitend soul!	492
O thou! the first fruits of the dead,	427
O thou! who did'st deny to me	647
O thy bright looks! thy glance of love	492
* O what pure things, most pure, must those hands be	156
O when my God, my glory brings	526
* Obdurate still, and tongue-tyed you accuse	344
